U. S. BUROCRATS EXHAUST OFFICE ROOM IN CAPITAL

Garages Remodeled to Provide Space.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 23.—[Special.]—The administration again is making a desperate search to house its rapidly expanding burocracy. With office buildings, apartment houses, and large private homes jammed with government employés, the space hunters are remodeling garages, storage buildings, and salesrooms to serve as quarters.

The crowded conditions exist despite a quarter billion dollar building program which was started during the Hoover administration but which really got going after President Roosevelt took office in 1933. Two or three times a year since then vast new marble structures have been completed only to be crowded to capacity immediately.

Officers Comb Capital.

Large scale commercial space in Washington's larger private buildings virtually was exhausted two years ago and a special force of government men, termed space control officials, has been combing the capital since then for accommodations that can be made over into quarters for new agencies.

Renting space in Washington already had reached the saturation point when the last congress created a multiplicity of new agencies and expanded the activities and voted larger stafs to most of the old ones.

The rent bill in Washington alone has climbed to $3,000,000 for the last twelve months, compared with $2,800,000 in the preceding year and $2,694,792 the year before that. Privately owned office space rented by the government has reached a new peak—3,245,775 square feet, against 3,215,000 square feet last year and 2,943,000 square feet the year previous.

In 1933 the government paid a rental bill of only $826,000 for 1,191,735 square feet of private office space in Washington.

Pay Roll Exceeds Program.

The building program has failed to keep pace with the growth of the government pay roll. The Apex building and the new bureau of engraving structure were completed recently, but immediately were taken over by agencies that had been waiting in line.

The federal trade commission moved out of a private office building into the Apex structure, but the social security staf, which has offices spread all over town and in Baltimore, promptly moved into the private building vacated by the commission.

An overflow from the general accounting office will move in when bureau of engraving and printing office employés leave old quarters for their new building.

There still are several agencies without office space. Among these are the newly created national aeronautics board and the wages and hours agency. They must have space, and a large amount of it, but the frantic space control officials don't know where to find it.

New Figures Lacking.

The rapid increase in federal pay rolls is not yet reflected in official personnel figures, which are two months behind. The last figures were for May, before the present rush of expansion. They showed that the government had a pay roll of $124,951,733 in that month for a staf of 840,742 workers, not including military, legislative, and official personnel. Of that number, 114,544 were housed in Washington.

Officials recently have taken to leasing remodeled garages when they can be made over successfully. One old automobile storage and sales room just outside the business district has been done over into attractive new quarters, providing 48,000 square feet of space for the Federal Housing administration.

Defense Program Adds Problem.

The new national defense program is adding to the problem. The war department is overcrowded and wants to spread out before new accommodations are completed. The navy department is trying to solve its own housing troubles by building two additional wings.

Against the 3,245,775 square feet of private quarters leased by the government for its Washington family, Uncle Sam manages to provide approximately 14,501,533 square feet of space in his own government buildings.

CUBS WIN 2 FROM GIANTS; NEDAYR CAPTURES CLASSIC

The Cubs defeated the New York Giants, 7 to 4 and 3 to 1, in a doubleheader before 43,233 in Wrigley field yesterday. Dizzy Dean allowed only five hits in the second game.

Nedayr, owned by Willis Sharpe Kilmer, won the $35,000 added Classic stakes at Arlington Park. Bull Lea was second and Cravat third.

Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., posted a 64 to take the eighteen hole lead in the Chicago open golf tournament at Olympia Fields.

A record field of forty-seven yachts left Chicago yesterday in the 31st race to Mackinac Island, Michigan. [Details and pictures in sport section.]

FOUNDRY STRIKE SETTLED; UNION TAKES PAY CUT

C.I.O. Meets Most of Company Demands.

A C. I. O. strike at the Chicago Hardware Foundry company in North Chicago, which began June 6, was settled yesterday by negotiations. The basis of agreement was virtually that offered to the strikers by the company at the start of the walkout. The settlement was announced by Harry E. Scheck, a conciliator for the federal department of labor.

Harry E. Scheck.

It was agreed that the company would return all strikers to work without prejudice. For one week beginning tomorrow the men will accept a 5 per cent cut from the old wage scale. For six months beginning Aug. 1 they are to work for 10 per cent less than the old scale. After that a new scale, presumably, will be negotiated, with the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers as the bargaining agent for the 460 employés. The union is affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Company Wins Demands.

The men struck when the company announced a 10 per cent slash. The men demanded the old scale, vacation with pay and a written contract. The company, claiming the reduction was necessary to keep the plant in operation, refused the demands except that for the contract. Its only concession was the 5 per cent instead of 10 per cent cut for a week.

The strikers, who picketed the plant and kept it closed until they were routed in a tear gas attack by deputy sherifs last Tuesday, lost an estimated $75,000 in wages during their period of idleness. Lake county spent $8,000 restoring order.

Under yesterday's agreement the union is to withdraw all charges it has placed against the company with the national labor relations board. The company is to request that prosecution of twenty union men indicted for conspiracy and intimidation during the strike disorders be dropped. It is also to ask Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady of Waukegan to vacate sentences for contempt pronounced on ten strike pickets.

The Judge's Comment.

Judge Dady was informed unofficially of the settlement last night.

"The contempt matter is serious," he said. "I cannot say now what attitude I shall take if new recommendations are made to me."

Pickets who have been maintaining a desultory watch several blocks from the plant since their rout were withdrawn late yesterday. Deputy sherifs guarding the plant's loyal workmen also were called off.

Edwin B. Sherwin, president of the company, said that although the workmen who got back on the job last week had agreed to accept the 10 per cent cut, they would get an additional 5 per cent for last week and the coming week.

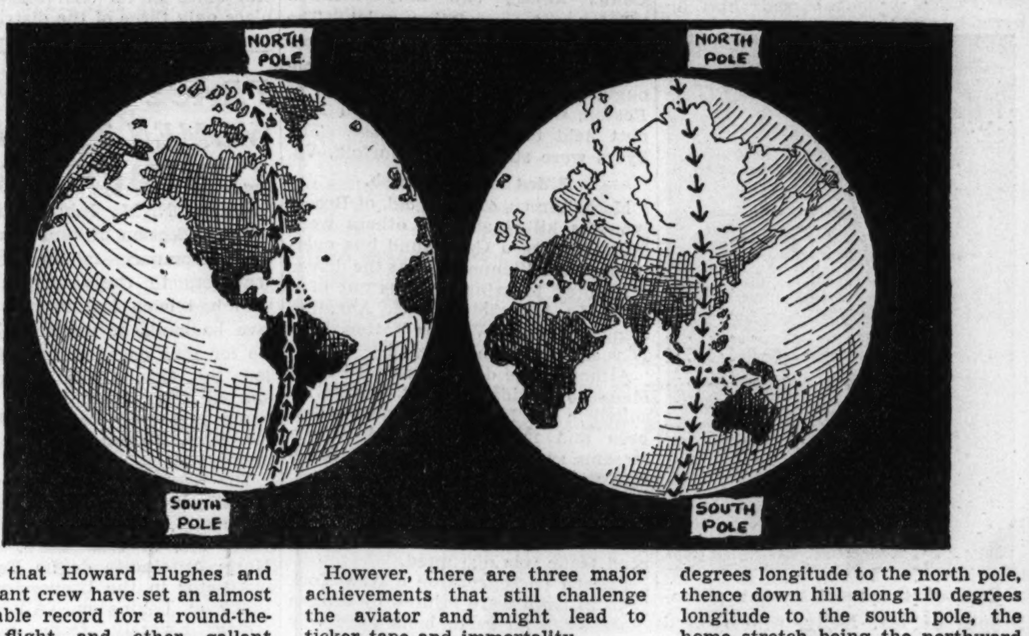
MORE WORLDS TO CONQUER



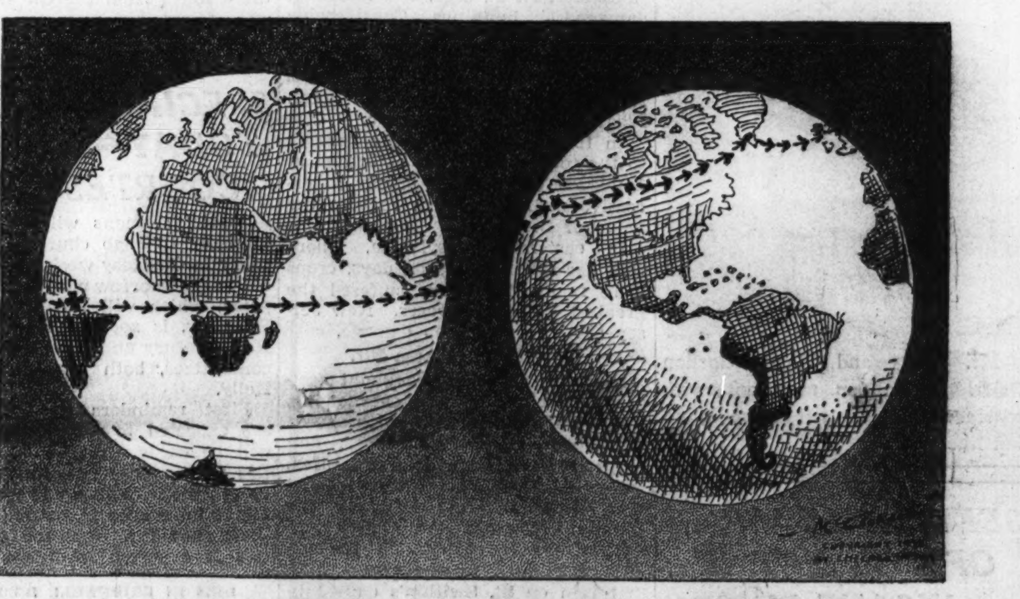
Now that Howard Hughes and his valiant crew have set an almost unbeatable record for a round-the-world flight and other gallant flyers have criscrossed most of the earth's surface, there is little left for future air pioneers. There are few remaining spots so remote that the natives look up, open-mouthed with wonder, when a plane speeds over their jungles, steppes, deserts, or tundra.

However, there are three major achievements that still challenge the aviator and might lead to ticker tape and immortality.

Pictured above is the number one challenge, a north and south round-the-world flight, crossing both poles—a distance of 24,000 miles, which fact alone would make it unique in round-the-world flights.

Starting from New York, the plane would fly up hill along 70 degrees longitude to the north pole, thence down hill along 110 degrees longitude to the south pole, the home stretch being the northward hop along the giant peaks of the Andes, ranged along the 70th degree.

A splendid view of the Andes would be an enjoyable by-product of the flight if the flyers were lovers of mountain scenery. Otherwise not.



The second major challenge to future airmen is that shown to the left above. This is a round-the-world flight, also of 24,000 miles plus, at the equator. Amelia Earhart nearly succeeded, her route across the South Atlantic, Africa, Asia, and the Dutch Indies being approximately along the swellest part of the earth.

The pilot who attempts this feat will have to be fond of the sea, for he will get it in long and persistent doses. Such a flight could start at Para in South America, cross to French Equatorial Africa, hop through the Belgian Congo to Victoria Nyanza or Nairobi, where they have excellent picture postcards. Thence a long, damp hop to Batavia; a longer, damper one the next day—the route originally visited by the explorer, Dampier—8,000 watery miles to Quito in Ecuador. Then a final hop over lovely jungles bright with tropical birds of rare plumage, orchids, and beautifully marked, poisonous snakes to the finish mark in Para. After shaving and changing shirts, the tired aviator will decide he never wants to see another drop of water the rest of his life.

This flight, like the first, will not have the slightest scientific value. Its chief merit is that the aviator will have gone places.

The third and last challenge is shown at the right above. This is a nonstop flight around the world with fueling done by planes stationed along the route.

By following the Arctic circle the flyer can circumnavigate the globe with the least amount of mileage. Also the flyer's attention need not be distracted by the scenery, which is rare to a striking degree. Fueling planes can be stationed at Wrangel Island, Yakovtsy-Kootsy, Angmagsalik, Reykjavik, Haparanda, and three other places too hard to spell and impossible to pronounce without a handkerchief.

If all goes well this flight, being so short, could be done in an average week-end and the rest of the time could be employed profitably in wondering why in the world it had ever been made.

TOWN IS MAROONED BY TEXAS FLOOD WATERS; INHABITANTS IN TREES

San Saba, Tex., July 23.—(AP)—Swift San Saba river flood waters rose ten feet in two hours tonight at Menard, near here, rushing four feet deep down the main business street and marooning residents in trees and on rooftops. An area 100 miles long and 50 miles wide is flooded or partially flooded.

The latest upsurge of the San Saba climaxed a five day assault on the town which had seen its business district threatened four times since Tuesday.

PRIVATE IN REAR RANK SNEEZES HONORS AWAY

A sneeze was the only difference between Company F and Company G during the competitive inspection at Fort Sheridan. As a result, Company G was awarded the yellow streamer yesterday as the best drilled rifle company in the Citizens Military Training camp.

Had a small private in the rear rank been able to repress a sneeze at a critical moment, Company F might have won the award, officers said. The company's score was 441.5 compared with 442.1 for the winner.

Capt. Lewis C. Osterman, of Milwaukee, commands Company G. Capt. Donald H. Hallock of Platteville, Wis., commanding Company F, said: "We lost this time only by sneeze but next week we'll be up there."

Texas Hillbilly Booster Leads for Governor

Dallas, Tex., July 23.—(AP)—A flour jobber with a fondness for hillbilly band music, who six weeks ago decided to run for governor because he said he was afraid he would lose customers if he did not, took a commanding lead tonight in an amazing Democratic primary. He is W. Lee O'Daniel, 46 years old, a newcomer in Texas politics. He was so new that he neglected to pay his $1.75 poll tax and therefore could not vote in the primary.

O'Daniel, 268,933; Thompson, 109,449; McCraw, 73,355; Tom Hunter, 55,007. The other eight candidates polled negligible votes.

Must Poll Clear Majority.

Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the interstate oil compact commission, second in the race, may be the man to compete with O'Daniel in a runoff primary next month should O'Daniel fail to poll a clear majority of all the votes cast. On the basis of returns now tabulated, O'Daniel, however, has 10,136 more votes than all of his eleven opponents. McCraw, running third, is attorney general; Tom Hunter, fourth in the contest, is a Wichita Falls oil operator.

In the congressional race Maury Maverick, a militant Roosevelt leader, was in a close race for renomination in the San Antonio district. Returns from 234 precincts of 269 gave Paul J. Kilday, an attorney, backed by the San Antonio city administration, 17,077 votes and Maverick, 16,506.

O'Daniel's platform was the ten commandments. His motto was the golden rule. His slogan was more smokestacks and business men; less Johnson grass and fewer politicians. Between tunes from his hillbilly band he advocated $30 a month pension for all Texans over 65 regardless of their financial condition. He stood for the industrialization of Texas, and he assailed all of his opponents—eleven of them—in one lump as "professional politicians."

Radio Announcer and Poet.

Owner of a flour distributing company, O'Daniel also is a radio announcer, a song writer and a poet. He entered the governor's race because 58,000 persons who had been listening to his radio programs [in which he advertised flour] urged it and he felt the state was sick of "professional politicians."

Commenting on the primary, O'Daniel said: "We just applied some principles of advertising and flour sell-

FARLEY, AGAINST HIS WILL, GOES FOR HIKE ON ALASKAN RAILWAY

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, July 23.—(AP)—Postmaster General Farley and his party trudged into Anchorage singing lustily—and with feeling—"I've Been Working on the Railroad." The rubber tired, flange wheeled gas car carrying Farley had two flat tires yesterday. There were no spares, so the trip was continued on the flats. Then a wheel came off, derailing the car. Farley and his companions hiked the last mile and a half into town.

Arsenal Found in Hideout of 3 Ex-Convicts

Three young ex-convicts, said by police to have looted stores of $100,000 in merchandise and cash since the first of the year, were under arrest yesterday. They were captured after months of patient detective work. All three had been turned loose by parole authorities and had continued their criminal careers. Seized with the prisoners was their arsenal of six guns and ammunition.

The gang's latest robbery was less than two weeks ago in Joliet. There the robbers slugged a police guard and made off with $3,769 cash and $6,000 in checks carried by a Goldblatt store messenger. In that case, police say, the gang was aided by a Joliet accomplice, a finger man in gang language. He rented an apartment in which the robbers hid after the robbery and he pointed out the victim who carried the cash. A former Joliet man accused of being the accomplice was under arrest last night in Kansas City.

One Is Dead Thief's Brother.

The three prisoners the police accuse are Lawrence Russo, 23 years old, 706 South California avenue; Frank Gentile, 24, of 838 Cabrini street, and Tony Catalano, 21, of 702 Taylor street.

It was Russo's brother, Ambrose, whose nude body was dumped in front of the Mother Cabrini hospital on March 21. Ambrose was dead when nurses reached him. He had cut his throat on glass as he fled after smashing the window of the Kerman store at 160 North Michigan avenue to steal $2,400 worth of furs. His companions took him to the hospital steps after trying desperately to doctor his wound.

The planning in the Joliet robbery was typical of the gang's operations. The gunmen carefully inspected the places they meant to rob. They robbed only places on wide streets, with convenient means of escape. They painstakingly rehersed their robberies, according to their own confessions and information gathered by the police.

Man's Vest Recovered.

Although much of their loot was men's suits and women's dresses, only one article, a man's vest, had been recovered last night from the merchandise they took. And police feared they would find little more because—

The robbers took their hauls to houses or apartments and passed the word about among prospective buyers. Customers came by the hundreds to buy the bargains. But in the neighborhoods where the sales were held, the buyers only shook their heads when questioned by the police last night.

The gang's arsenal was found in the West Side Social and Athletic club at 830 Arthington street, which police say the gang used as a hideout.

Grimmest of the weapons was a sawed off pistol grip 12 gauge shot-

STRICKEN WITH PNEUMONIA IN BERGEN, NORWAY

Chicago Civic Leader for Many Years.

Dennis F. Kelly, veteran State street merchant and for many years one of Chicago's civic leaders, died yesterday at Bergen, Norway. He was 69 years old. Death occurred at 3:30 p. m. [9:30 a. m. Chicago time].

Mr. Kelly, who retired as president of the Fair department store on April 26, left Chicago June 29 for a four months' trip to Europe. Information received by his daughter, Mrs. Charles Vogel of Milwaukee, indicated that he suffered a chill last Sunday. He was then in Edinburgh, Scotland, but the illness was not regarded as serious and he went on to Newcastle and then to Norway.

Double Pneumonia Develops.

Double pneumonia, which developed after he arrived in Bergen, caused his death. With him was his wife, the former Irene Sullivan, who had left Chicago with him. They had planned to finish their visit to Scandinavian countries and return to the British Isles before coming home early in September.

According to Mrs. Vogel, her mother plans to have the body of Mr. Kelly sent to Southampton, England, and placed aboard the French liner Normandie. The Normandie will leave Southampton Wednesday, and reach New York Aug. 3. If unexpected regulations conflict with those plans, the body will be placed aboard the next steamer sailing for home. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made, but the funeral will be held in Chicago. The time and place will be determined later.

On the tour of England, Ireland, and Scandinavian countries the Kellys were accompanied by Mrs. Myrtie N. Whipple, 426 Hamilton street, Evanston, a friend of Mrs. Kelly.

A Foremost Citizen Gone.

Business, civic, and church leaders were shocked by news of Mr. Kelly's death. All expressed regret and the feeling that Chicago had lost a foremost citizen. Among the many who commented were Mayor Kelly, Cardinal Mundelein, former Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton, and Col. A. A. Sprague.

Mr. Kelly had been identified with State street merchandising for more than fifty years.

He was born Aug. 23, 1868, at what is now 121 North State street. His father was a brickmaker who later operated a store. As a boy he attended St. Mary's parochial school on Wabash avenue. His formal education, however, was meager.

When 11 years old he walked into Mandel Brothers store and asked what the salary of the manager was. Informed it was $10,000, he said he would like to have a job and work up to that place. He was given a place as cash boy at $2 a week.

Attains Early Ambition.

Later one of the Mandels made him an office boy. When he was 17 he was placed in charge of all boys and at 20 he was store superintendent. His progress in the organization was uninterrupted. In 1901 he attained his earliest ambition. He was made manager and continued in the post until 1923, when he became vice president and general manager of the Fair.

He became president of that store in 1925. In announcing his retirement last spring he outlined his business philosophy.

"There is no fun like work," he said. "I borrowed that from Gordon Selfridge of London [a foremost English merchant]. I shall continue as a director and keep an office."

He gave up none of his outside activities. He said, indeed, that he would now have more time to give to them.

"I wouldn't want to become a joiner, looking for jobs," he said modestly, "but when the occasion for service to my city arises, I am here to give that service. I was born here, I have lived here all my life. It is my city. No man who has been really busy should ever give up entirely."

Backer of Subway.

Mr. Kelly had been for years one of the city's most willing helpers in civic projects. Mayor Kelly, who is on vacation in Wisconsin, related many of the kindnesses Dennis Kelly had done for individuals and for the city.

"Chicago has lost one of its finest citizens and I have lost one of my greatest friends," the mayor said. "D. F. Kelly was a Christian gentleman in the true meaning of that expression. He was a man of forgiving heart and great practicality."

Mr. Kelly was one of the original petitioners for a subway in 1928 and was chairman of the bondholders' committee of the elevated lines in recent negotiations looking toward a unified local transportation system.

He was an incorporator and trustee of A Century of Progress exposition. In 1932 and 1933 he was chairman of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, whose advice was valuable in restoring the city's financial standing. Previously he had been active in persuading bankers to purchase city tax anticipation warrants.

Head of Catholic Charities.

He had been president of the Catholic Charities since its organization in 1918. He was made a knight of St. Gregory in 1920 and a knight of Malta by Pope Pius in 1931. One of his last civic activities was an effort to obtain a suitable head for the Cook County hospital. It had been his intention to devote more time to this on his return from Europe.

Director in Many Enterprises.

Mr. Kelly was a director in several corporations, including the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, Wilson & Co., Kresge Department Stores, Inc., and the Consumers company. He was a director of the Grant hospital and a trustee of Henrotin hospital. He was a supporter of the Art institute, the Field museum, and the Chicago Historical society.

At one time Mr. Kelly was president of the Chicago District Golf association. He was a member of the Chicago club, the Chicago Athletic association, and the Exmoor, Old Elm, and Knollwood golf clubs, and the Everglades Country club of Palm Beach, Fla.

Surviving Mr. Kelly besides his widow and his daughter are two grandchildren, Mary and Philip Vogel.

Mundelein Adds Praise.

Cardinal Mundelein, a personal friend of Mr. Kelly, praised him not only as a first citizen of Chicago, but as a man "charitable toward his fellow men."

"It is with deepest sorrow I learn of Mr. Kelly's death," he said. "He was one of the most public spirited citizens of Chicago. He was always ready to give his time, his services, and his money toward every good cause which would benefit his city and its people.

"The fact that from its foundation nearly 20 years ago to the hour of his death, Mr. Kelly was president of the Catholic Charities of Chicago, is the best evidence of his deep Catholic faith, of his charity toward his fellow men, and his willingness to serve the best interests of his church and of his city. I mourn in his passing the loss of a dear friend, and an ever willing helper."

Attributes Death to Exhaustion.

Mr. Sexton, like Mr. Kelly a Knight of St. Gregory, recalled many incidents of Mr. Kelly's life. He remembered particularly when Mr. Kelly was ill and went to Arizona some time ago.

"I never expected to see him alive again, but he came back," said Mr. Sexton. "That was typical of him. He conquered his physical frailty with constant service to mankind. He would not stop even in the face of warning signs. Mr. Kelly died from exhaustion."

Col. Sprague, who worked on many civic matters with Mr. Kelly, said that Mr. Kelly gave his full energy and ability to bringing about a proper consolidation of the traction interests.

"In civic, religious and business affairs, he gave unsparingly of his strength," said Col. Sprague. "His death is a great loss to Chicago. Only last week I had a cablegram from him. It had to do with improving the administration of the Cook County hospital. Even away from Chicago, he could never forget its problems."

A radiogram, telling of Mr. Kelly's death, was sent to James Simpson, aboard the Queen Mary, en route to England. Mr. Simpson, now head of the Commonwealth Edison company, was for many years, as head of Marshall Field & Co., a State street colleague of Mr. Kelly.

Posses Hunt Small Boy Lost in High, Wild Grass

Crookston, Minn., July 23.—[U. P.]—A posse of 125 today searched in sections of Hayland 10 miles southeast of here for Alden Lee La Rochelle, 2½ years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse La Rochelle. Sherif's deputies, Boy Scouts, and volunteers joined in the hunt for the lad who strayed from the farm home of his parents yesterday.

26,000 SOLDIERS TO TAKE PART IN ARMY MANEUVERS

Atlanta, Ga., July 23.—[Special.]—The southland will soon echo to the sound and movement of warfare. This time, however, it will be only make believe, but none the less earnest.

The warfare will be in the form of war games designed to test the skill and ability of the country's southeastern regular and national guard forces. More than 26,000 officers and men will participate under the direction of Maj. Gen. George Van Horn Moseley, commander of the third army.

All the troops will concentrate Aug. 2 in the De Soto National forest, north of Biloxi. Official maneuvers will start the following day.

The Browns will start an advance with the capture of New Orleans as their objective. They will meet the Blues in the De Soto area.

SEEKS RELEASE OF CONVICT IN INSANE PRISON

A petition seeking the release of Frank Schlieben from the state prison for the criminal insane at Menard was filed yesterday in the Superior court. Nearly ten years ago Schlieben, now 29 years old, was convicted of fatally shooting his sweetheart, Stephanie Cielec, 16 years old, in a quarrel over 15 cents. He was sentenced to 1 to 14 years in Joliet penitentiary for manslaughter.

His prison term ended in January of this year, the petition states, but after a sanity hearing in the Randolph county court before Judge E. H. Wegener he was sent to Menard. The petition was filed by his father, Stanley Schlieben, 1509 Superior street. Judge Oscar Nelson said he will hear arguments July 27.

DEATH TOLL 6 AS 7 DAY RAIN DELUGES EAST

Homes Are Swept Away; Crops Ruined.

(An article by Wayne Thomis—"Why Did Five Navy Bombers Crash?"—appears in today's Graphic section.)

New York, July 23.—[Special.]—Torrential rains which have swept the eastern seaboard for nearly a week continued unabated today, causing the death of at least six persons and resulting in millions of dollars of damage to property and crops.

Blinding rain caused a naval bombing plane to crash near Woodbridge, Conn., killing two navy aviation officers and an aviation cadet. The three, Lieut. W. J. Drumtra of Gloucester, Mass., and Lieut. J. F. McDonough, and Cadet J. R. Patch, both of Boston, were flying from Floyd Bennett field to Squantum, Mass. The flyers were stationed at Norfolk, Va.

Killed in Bus Crash.

Morse Sircus, 41 years old, of Brooklyn was killed and six others were injured when a Greyhound bus overturned near Vienna, N. J., as the driver attempted to bring the bus out of a skid. In Plainfield, N. J., Angelina Bengevenga and Warren Totten, both 17 years old, were drowned.

Although the deluge extended from Maine to Florida, heaviest damage resulted in the New York metropolitan area and in New England, where streams swelled to flood levels. More rain was forecast for tomorrow.

Homes were demolished, bridges and highways were washed out, streets were flooded, and railway and road trafic was disrupted.

Fifteen passengers on a New York Central train were injured by broken glass when an earth bank gave way at Yonkers, N. Y., and struck two cars of the train.

Villages Are Isolated.

Downpours in the Catskills isolated a number of villages and swept huge boulders along as if they were pebbles.

High winds and rain struck the Rochester, N. Y., area, and lightning damaged six buildings. Considerable damage also was reported at Niagara Falls. Water stalled nearly 200 cars between Yonkers and White Plains, N. Y., and approximately 100 between Pleasantville and Hawthorne, N. J.

In the Connecticut valley damage to the tobacco crop was estimated at 1 million dollars, due chiefly to excessive moisture, which reduces the value of the crop.

In eastern Pennsylvania, where rain has fallen for seven days, crops were reported to have suffered the greatest damage in years. New Jersey also reported crop damage.

Massachusetts Area Hit.

Rivers and lakes throughout eastern Massachusetts were overflowing, highways were pitted with holes, telephone lines were broken, and crops were ruined over a wide area.

General rains also were reported over Virginia, West Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, and Alabama.

Some persons attributed the abnormal rainfall to the superstition that rain on St. Swithin's day—July 15—presages forty days of rain. The weather bureau, however, scoffed at this belief, saying that the rains resulted from a high pressure area off the Atlantic coast.

CITY'S NEW CENTRAL RELIEF BUREAU TO BE MANNED BY EXPERTS

The most efficient relief workers in the city will be selected to staf the new central intake office at 10 East 11th street, relief officials said yesterday. A. E. Rose has been appointed to direct the experiment in applying business efficiency to examination of relief applicants. Rose resigned on Friday as executive secretary of the Illinois council of public assistance and unemployment to take the city position.

A. E. Rose.

Selection of Rose's staf from the ranks of the relief administration's 19 district offices probably will begin this week. Social workers will be used in so far as they can qualify as experts on relief eligibility. The central office in its trial stage will replace only three of the district offices.

TRACE 3 LOST WOMEN THROUGH COMPACT MIRROR

Grants, N. M., July 23.—[Special.]—The reflection of sunbeams from a small compact mirror today led searchers to three women tourists who had been lost in the trackless lava badlands of western New Mexico for four days. A hunt for them, led by Gov. Clyde Tingley, was started after their empty car was found yesterway near the Perpetual Ice caves, 130 miles southwest of Albuquerque.

The rescued are Miss Irene Piedalue, 45 years old, of Winchester, Ky.; her sister, Miss Laura Piedalue, 47 years old, of New York, and Miss Marie Antoinette de La Forrest, an instructor in the University of Kentucky at Lexington. All were suffering severely from exhaustion, thirst, and hunger. They were taken to Albuquerque in the governor's car.

Irene Piedalue said they had left their car to visit the lonely caves and had become lost in the broken lava. The needle-like rock points cut their shoes to pieces. They were only three miles from the car when they were found, but were too exhausted to do more than flash their mirror signals at intervals.

SPECIAL SERMONS TODAY USHER IN COURTESY WEEK

Special sermons will be preached in many Chicago churches today to usher in Courtesy week, which begins officially tomorrow morning. The program, which will last through next Saturday, is sponsored by Chicago's New Century and Keep Chicago Safe committees, both headed by Mayor Kelly.

First reminders that Chicagoans are expected to drop rude manners will be cards attached to milk bottles tomorrow morning urging all to be courteous. Police and all city employés have been instructed to be on their good behavior—and every one else is expected to follow suit.

DIES IN BRIDEWELL HOSPITAL.

Charles Hedman, 64 years old, 1138 North Clark street, a laborer, died yesterday in the Bridewell hospital. He was arrested Wednesday by police who found him in a dazed condition at Clark and Chestnut streets.

SUPREME COURT MAY DECIDE ON FANSTEEL CASE

Labor Board and C. I. O. to Seek Review.

It appeared certain last night that the United States Supreme court will have an opportunity to rule on the legality of the sitdown strike as a labor weapon.

This certainty was embodied in the disapproval expressed by counsel for the National Labor Relations board and the Committee for Industrial Organization as the result of a decision Friday by the United States Court of Appeals in Chicago.

The court's two to one decision set aside an order of the NLRB holding that the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation of North Chicago was guilty of unfair labor practices, and directing it to reëmploy ninety-two men who were discharged after a sitdown strike.

Twice Caused Rioting.

The strike twice caused outbursts of violence before the strikers finally were driven from the Fansteel plant on Feb. 26, 1937, by deputy sherifs armed with tear gas.

In Washington last night, Lee Pressman, general counsel for the C. I. O., was particularly bitter.

"The court's reasoning supplies an all too easy method for companies to use in evading the national labor statute," he declared. "As the La Follette committee has brought out, these companies can maintain their spies and thugs to incite violence among the workers or actually commit it while posing as workers. The corporation could then use this as an excuse for not reinstating the men."

Charles Fahy, general counsel for the NLRB, pointed out that Judges Will M. Sparks and Walter C. Lindley, in their majority opinion, had accepted the board's finding that the Fansteel company employed a labor spy and fostered a company union to oppose the C. I. O.'s Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers. It was the C. I. O. union that launched the sit strike.

Agrees with Treanor.

Fahy declared he agrees emphatically with Judge Walter E. Treanor, recent appointee of President Roosevelt, who wrote the dissenting opinion in the Fansteel case. Treanor held the court had no jurisdiction over the unlawful sit strike because its perpetrators already had been punished by the state. [Thirty-seven of them served contempt sentences.]

Both Fahy and Pressman recommended that the NLRB appeal the court's finding and it was indicated last night that this will be done in time for the Supreme court to rule on the issue this fall. The board's method of appeal will be to ask the high court for a writ of certiorari and a review of the case.

DRIVE ON SALES TAX CHEATERS MOVES TO LARGER LOOP OFFICES

The bureau of the state department of finance, which has been carrying on a drive against sales tax cheaters, moved into new and larger offices at 105 West Madison street yesterday. Formerly, the bureau occupied offices in the Criminal courts building.

Simultaneously, Robert M. Stowers, head of the Chicago office of the finance department, reported that since the drive began on June 25 six major cases of tax evasion have been prepared for prosecution. The total tax and penalties involved amount to nearly $250,000, he said.

An estimate of how much money has been collected as a result of the campaign cannot yet be made, he said. The investigation bureau is headed by former Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Bugan and Investigator Gus Bartels.

2 Cops on Safety Patrol—Hic!—Suspended in Crash

Detroit, Mich., July 23.—(AP)—While two Detroit patrolmen assigned to the accident prevention bureau were touring the city today to prevent trafic accidents their automobile collided with another. The officers were suspended by Lieut. Adelbert O. Brown, who said they had been drinking and were unfit for duty.

YOUNG ILLINOIS REPUBLICANS ARE SPLIT ON CHIEF

Downs Makes Attack on Edward F. Moore.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ill., July 23.—[Special.]—Young Republicans of Illinois, meeting in state convention here today, split wide open over the election of a president.

Thomas J. Downs.

The rift was brought to the surface during the first session late today when Thomas J. Downs of Chicago, junior national committeeman, charged that Edward F. Moore, chairman of the Cook county central committee, was trying to control the convention.

Downs made a bitter attack upon Moore, concluding with the assertion that Moore's was "an unreformed, beer peddling, racketeering, gangster leadership." Moore is a beer distributor.

Seeks to Be Illinois Leader.

The young Chicago leader also charged that Moore sought to gain control of the Young Republicans in order to enhance his own chances of being elected national committeeman at the 1940 convention.

"And if Arthur J. Bidwill [of River Forest] is elected to the state senate in November, Moore wants to run him for governor in 1940," Downs added.

Downs is backing Richard Nowinson of Chicago for president of the Young Republicans at tomorrow's balloting. Bidwell is here in the interests of a dark horse candidate whose name is being carefully concealed. A Chicagoan will be elected this year in accordance with an agreement that the presidency alternate between Chicago and downstate. Harold E. Walsh of Bloomington is retiring head of the organization.

Two Hours of Speeches.

The blast Downs leveled at Moore came at the end of the first session of the convention after the delegates had listened to about two hours of speeches. Introduced by Walsh for what appeared to be merely a bow, Downs advanced to the front of the platform and leaned toward the microphone.

"When I arrived here last night I heard a lot of rumblings and undertones," he began. "I think what has been said should be repeated in the open. I'm not a candidate for any office here, but I find my name has been used in vain. The Cook county central committee never had taken any interest in the Young Republicans until a few months ago. And I want this convention to know that there is no fight within the Young Republicans. The fight is between the Young Republicans and the Democratic chairman of the Republican county committee.

Blasts Moore's Ambitions.

"The reason Ed Moore is opposed to the Young Republicans is because they have done something—they have built up their organization. He tried in two separate meetings to disband us after he had sent a committee to the Cook County Young Republican chairman [Nowinson] asking him to resign.

"'Why should I resign?' the chairman asked.

"'Because Ed Moore doesn't like you,' he was told.

"Nowinson wouldn't resign and that's why Ed Moore set out to take this convention," Downs snapped. "He has been reëlected chairman of the executive committee of the county chairmen's association. He is saying he made A. K. Stiles chairman of the state central committee. He feels he is the boss of Illinois, but I don't think he is.

Points to Hook-up.

"During the last two or three days, Moore, through Bidwill, has been telephoning and talking to downstate county chairman, trying to railroad this convention. And the name of Tom Downs has been used. The charge is that I am a stooge for George F. Harding, our present national committeeman. I know George Harding [Downs is a member of the law firm which represents Harding], but I never ran on a Harding ticket like Art Bidwill did two years ago.

"I am not trying to control this convention. Ed Moore is."

Shortly after the session adjourned delegates from the country townships of Cook county met and condemned Downs for his spech and expressed confidence in County Chairman Moore.

State Senator Simon E. Lantz of Congerville, nominee for congress-at-large, was given a big hand for the principal speech of the afternoon, an attack upon the way President Roosevelt has handled the farm problem.

State Representative Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville, nominee for the United States senate, will be the keynoter at the session tomorrow.

Bars No Barrier

(Story in adjoining column.)

Hope Dare, who is said to have received visits from her sweetheart, a New York attorney, while he was supposedly a prisoner in The Tombs.

Richard (Dixie) Davis, held on policy racket charges, who, it is reported, did not let iron bars interfere with romance.

RACKET LAWYER LEAVES JAIL TO SEE SWEETHEART

Dixie Davis Expected to Aid Prosecutor.

New York, July 23.—[Special.]—J. Richard ["Dixie"] Davis, attorney, a prisoner in the Tombs pending his trial on policy racket charges with Tammany Leader James J. Hines, has been making almost daily visits to his Broadway sweetheart, Hope Dare, it was reported today.

Since District Attorney Dewey must have known of Davis' reported visits to his sweetheart, it was considered a possible indication that the prisoner may have agreed to plead guilty and testify against Hines when they come to trial.

Hopes to Get Dixie to Talk.

It was recalled that Miss Dare, after her arrest with Dixie in Philadelphia, told Dewey: "If you can leave me alone with Dixie I can get him to talk; he's madly in love with me." There is a belief that Dewey followed the suggestion and that is why he has not objected to the privilege granted Davis.

Dewey and his assistants declined to comment on the reported visits of Davis to the apartment of the one time actress.

Ostensibly the disbarred lawyer's permission to leave the prison has been granted to enable him to visit his physician for treatment of a stomach ailment.

Davis is said to have visited Miss Dare's apartment almost daily and either remained the entire afternoon or, if he went out, likely would return. He had leave from the Tombs from 1 p. m. to 6:50 and most of these hours were spent at the apartment.

No Effort to Hide Movements.

Usually Davis is said to have made no effort to hide his movements, and some persons in the neighborhood who recognized him thought nothing of his presence there. They assumed, according to merchants nearby, that he was out on bail and able to move about freely.

Davis denied that he had visited Miss Dare, but neighbors insisted they identified him as her visitor.

Dewey will appear before Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora Monday and ask a special venire of 300 from which a jury to try Hines and Davis may be selected.

G. O. P. TO START CARD CAMPAIGN FOR REP. LYONS

Republican organizations throughout Illinois will begin distribution this week of 1,000,000 pledge cards which they hope to have signed and delivered to Richard J. Lyons, senatorial nominee, when the fall campaign begins in earnest. The form of the card was approved at a meeting here last Thursday of the executive committee of the county chairmen's association.

The card is headed with the slogans of the state candidates—"Jobs for Unemployed. Relief for Needy. Keep Out of War."

The pledge is addressed to Mr. Lyons and reads:

"Because I want to see the things you are fighting for put into effect, I intend to vote for you and for your associates on the Republican ticket on election day, Nov. 8."

The Cook county central committee will undertake the job of obtaining half of the 1,000,000 pledges in Chicago and the country towns of the county.

FACES ALKY TAX CHARGE.

Dominick Romano, arrested Thursday on a truck loaded with 170 gallons of untaxed alcohol, was held to the grand jury yesterday on a charge of violating the internal revenue law. He lives at 1536 North 14th street, Melrose Park.

Leading in Texas

ing," referring to his mountain music campaign.

O'Daniel, plump and smiling, with his three children, good looking Mollie, 16 years old, Pat, 19, and Mike, 18, and his advertising orchestra, known as the "Hillbilly Boys," stumped the state in a bus equipped with sound amplifiers and a platform atop.

Wife and Children Aid.

Mollie, a high school girl, and Pat and Mike, members of his band, and Mrs. O'Daniel, who was in charge of his Fort Worth headquarters, had a great deal to do with his campaign.

Congressman W. D. Macfarlane, favored by President Roosevelt, was in a close race with Ed Gossett, west Texas attorney he narrowly defeated two years ago. Macfarlane had 4,691 to Gossett's 4,368. Grady Gentry, Smith county judge, was running far ahead of incumbent Representative Morgan Sanders. Gentry polled 1,653 to Sanders' 867.

The veteran Hatton W. Sumners, chairman of the house judiciary committee, foe of the Roosevelt court reorganization, held a comfortable lead over Leslie Jackson, Dallas attorney, 2,761 to 959. Other incumbents holding comfortable margins include Representative Wright Patman of soldiers' bonus fame, and Representative Martin Dies.

LANGER CHARGES RELIEF WORKERS ARE INTIMIDATED

Senate Committee Called to Investigate.

Washington, D. C., July 23.—(AP)—Chairman Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.] telegraphed members of his senate campaign investigating committee to hurry to Washington today after he had received a complaint from Gov. William Langer of North Dakota that relief workers in his state had been intimidated politically.

Franking Privilege Abused.

Sheppard told reporters the committee would consider the charges made by Langer, a complaint by Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.] that a federal official had been discharged in Georgia, "probably" for supporting him, and the statement of Harry Hopkins, the WPA administrator, that 90 per cent of relief workers favored the Roosevelt administration.

In response to a questionnaire sent out by the senate committee, Langer wrote that he had received reports of WPA workers "being intimidated" and also that there had been "wrongful use of the senate franking privilege."

[The franking privilege allows the free mailing of matter that pertains to official business.]

Langer Defeated by Nye.

Gov. Langer was defeated for the Republican senatorial nomination in his state recently by Senator Gerald P. Nye.

Langer's complaint was the second received from North Dakota. Senator Nye asked the committee previously to investigate what he said were excessive absentee ballots in the primary election of June 28.

Senator George, who has opposed some Roosevelt measures and now is running for renomination, has complained that Erle Cooke was dismissed as Georgia director for the National Emergency council "probably for the sole reason that he proposes to vote for me." Lowell Mellett, national NEC director, commented that Erle had resigned from the nonsalaried Georgia post voluntarily to become an executive in a Georgia bank.

2 ROBBERS POSE AS CUSTOMERS AND SEIZE $1,000

Two men entered the Edison Warehouse Outlet, Inc., an electrical store at 766 Jackson boulevard, last night and said they wished to return an unsatisfactory radio. When Harry Claver, the cashier, prepared to return their money the men drew pistols and forced him to hand over $700 in cash and checks. Then they robbed three salesmen and two customers of $300 in cash and jewelry and ordered them to undress. When the six men had removed their coats and trousers the bandits locked them in a rear room and escaped. Soon afterward, John Berry, a customer, heard their cries for help and released them. Last night police were examining the returned radio for fingerprints.

SALZBURG MUSIC FESTIVAL OPENS UNDER NAZI RULE

SALZBURG, Germany, July 23.—(AP)—The curtain rose tonight on the first Nazi presentation of the celebrated Salzburg music festival with Wilhelm Fuertwangler conducting Wagner's "Meistersinger."

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, German propaganda minister, earlier had canceled the formal ceremony of opening the festival, giving rise to false rumors that Fuertwangler had withdrawn suddenly.

Goebbels, Dr. Arthur Seyss-Inquart, governor of German Austria, and other Nazi notables attended the opening performance. Asked for the reason for cancelation of the opening ceremony at which Goebbels was to have spoken, an official said it was dropped only to assure a prompt curtain raising on the evening's opera.

IRAQ OIL LINE IS TARGET OF ARAB TERRORIST BANDS

Puncture Pipes 120 Times and Cause Huge Loss.

BY HARRY LEVIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JERUSALEM, July 2.—[By Mail.]—"The Mosul-Haifa oil pipe line of the Iraq Petroleum company again was punctured by Arab terrorists in the Jordan valley and the escaping oil ignited." In the news from the Holy Land this item appears with monotonous repetition for the 120th time since the outbreak of Arab disturbances in April, 1936.

What are the effects of these acts of sabotage?

The thick sluggish liquid is pumped through the pipe line at the rate of 900 tons an hour. Before the signal of the puncture is given and the pumping stopped, a half hour's flow is wasted, or 450 tons. At the arbitrary value of 800 Palestine mils [$4] a ton for pipe line oil fixed by the Iraq Petroleum company, that means a preliminary loss for each puncture of $1,800. But it takes twelve hours on an average to repair the damage. A flow of 10,800 tons, valued at $43,200, is thus held up.

Government Also Loses.

There is another party that loses by these acts in addition to the I. P. C. That is the Iraq government, which is paid 4 gold shillings [$1.50] per ton as royalty. The total loss to it thus amounts to $17,000.

Still a third party concerned with each act of sabotage is the Palestine government, which protects the portion of the line passing through its territory. Special police patrols along the line have proved insufficient to cope with the saboteurs, and the government now has counterambush squads that lie in wait for the terrorists near spots likely to be the scene of sabotage.

Terrorist Tells of Fires.

A solution to the mystery of how the oil caught fire was given by a terrorist who confessed that he had been a member of a gang that repeatedly punctured and ignited the pipe line at the notorious spot of el-Kaukab.

Originally, he explained, finding that the crude oil could not be ignited with ordinary matches, the terrorists satisfied themselves with puncturing the pipe with rifle shots and letting the oil flow out.

After some experiments they found that the oil could be ignited by means of several small blue flame stoves. These they dug into the earth, only the flames remaining above ground, at some distance from the target. It did not take long for the escaping jet of oil to strike the flames.

Technique Improved.

But this method had the drawback of costing about $8, the value of the four stoves, each time a fire was started. And so a cheaper method has been evolved. Now the fire is applied first. Burning sacks are placed over the pipe, and the shots are fired through the burning mass.

To repair the pipe a huge canvas bag and twenty smaller bags filled with earth are dragged over the source of the flame by a steel cable.

About an hour later the bags are removed and a piece of metal is welded over the hole. In a few minutes the pumping is resumed.

King Opened Line.

King Ghazi I. of Iraq on Jan. 14, 1935, turned a lever in a building at Kirkuk, chief town of the Mosul oil fields, that sent the oil flowing 1,150 miles to the Mediterranean. About 4,000,000 tons pass through it annually.

Construction of the pipe line cost $50,000,000, and was the outcome of seven years of united effort by British, French, and Dutch capital, with the coöperation of American oil interests.

The line runs from one of the most remarkable fields in the world across desert, river, and mountain to two seaports—Tripoli, in Lebanon, more than 500 miles, and Haifa, in Palestine, more than 600 miles from the source. It passes through five countries—Iraq, Syria, Lebanon Republic, Palestine, and Transjordan. Four historic rivers are crossed—Tigris, Euphrates, Orontes, and Jordan. It skirts the mountains of Lebanon and traverses the Holy Land from side to side.

Menaced by Arabs

Heavy black lines mark the route of the Mosul-Haifa oil pipelines from their source at Kirkuk, in the center of the Mosul oil fields in Iraq, to the Mediterranean Sea. Arab terrorists have punctured the lines 120 times since they were constructed in 1936, causing heavy losses to the owners and to the Iraq and Palestine governments.

LOYAL TROOPS RETAKE TOWN IN EAST SPAIN

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], July 23.—(AP)—Spanish government counterattacks today further slowed down the insurgent drive toward Valencia. Simultaneously new activitiy burst out on two other major fronts, in Estremadura in the southwest and Catalonia in the northeast.

Government forces recaptured the village of Terezuela, just west of Viver. This was a setback for Gen. Francisco Franco's push along the Teruel-Sagunto highway toward Valencia.

An insurgent report to Saragossa announced, however, that the advanced right wing of the rebel army, fanned out along the road from Teruel, had crossed into Valencia province nearly forty miles northwest of the provincial capital.

On the Estremadura, or southwestern front, dormant for months, insurgent cavalrymen were said to have dashed across a sparsely populated plain in an advance of twenty miles.

The government's armies in northwestern Catalonia, near the French frontier, attacked insurgent positions around Sort and Tremp.

LOYALISTS O. K. ALIENS' OUSTER FROM CIVIL WAR

BARCELONA, July 23.—[U. P.]—The Spanish loyalist government announced tonight it has approved the plan of the international nonintervention committee to remove foreign "volunteers" from both loyalist and rebel armies.

It was learned that the plan was accepted with few reservations after a four hour cabinet meeting attended by Pablo de Azcarate, loyalist ambassador to Great Britain.

"The government dedicated the entire meeting to a discussion of the London committee's plan," a communique said, "approving a reply which will be sent immediately to the United Kingdom government."

BRITISH PROPOSE PEACE PLAN IN CZECH-NAZI ROW

London Envoy Intervenes in Lagging Negotiations.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czecnoslovakia, July 23.—Energetic British action to obtain a settlement of the Sudeten German [Nazi] problem in Czechoslovakia before it leads to war is under way here. Basil Cochrane Newton, British minister, called upon Premier Milan Hodza today for the second time in twenty-four hours.

The official press bureau said the visits simply were for the purpose of obtaining information on the progress of the new minority laws which the Czech government proposes to enact in an effort to satisfy the Sudeten German demand for self-rule. It was learned, however, that Newton sounded out the Czechoslovak government concerning a new British idea for settlement of the problem.

Linked to German Activity.

Newton's visits are linked by diplomatic circles here with the recent visit to London by Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, personal envoy of Reichsfuehrer Hitler, and with rumors of a favorable British reception of German suggestions for a pact of the big powers regarding Czechoslovakia.

The official statement issued here gave a guarded indication of the subjects discussed by Newton and Hodza. Acting apparently on information from German sources, the British foreign office had become alarmed at the slow progress of the Czech government in satisfying its discontented minorities. The British also feared an explosion if the Sudeten Germans were presented with a statute drafted by the Czech government as a free gift which they could take or refuse, but which would be enacted in any case.

The inevitable result of such a course, it is learned from Sudeten leaders, would be renewed violent agitation and complete disappearance of the small chances still remaining that the Sudeten Germans might some time become reconciled to continued existence in Czechoslovakia.

Nazis Will Pass on Laws.

As a result of Newton's visit Premier Hodza, in the official statement today, for the first time promised that the Sudeten German delegation which has been negotiating with the government will have ample chance to read over the proposed minority laws and present observations on them before they go before parliament.

Another significant pronouncement from official quarters was that even if the Sudeten German party should assert that the government offer was completely unsatisfactory, contact between the two sides still would be maintained.

The British intervention has produced an entire change of tone in official announcements and has altered the course of negotiations on the minorities problem.

Within the past week the barely concealed intention of the government was to give the Sudeten German delegation a glimpse of the new laws and then shove them through parliament regardless of German protests. Now a conciliatory tone has been adopted.

HOPES FOR PEACE RISE ON REASSURANCE OF GERMAN INTENTIONS

LONDON, July 23.—(AP)—Prospects for an early resumption of Anglo-German political negotiations were said here today to have been heightened by reassurances of Germany's peaceful intentions. Germany indicated a more conciliatory attitude toward the Czechoslovak minorities problem.

France called home Andre François-Poncel, its ambassador to Berlin, in the sudden spurt of diplomatic activity over Czechoslovakia. This gave rise to reports that Germany was seeking a four-power meeting among Germany, Italy, Britain, and France to work out a solution.

Official quarters in London denied, however, that "any new suggestion was under discussion" in the conversation Prime Minister Chamberlain had yesterday with Dr. Herbert von Dirksen, German ambassador. French quarters also disclaimed knowledge of such a proposal and quickly voiced objections to any conference on Czechoslovakia which excluded the Czechoslovak government and soviet Russia. France has mutual assistance pacts with both Czechoslovakia and the soviet union.

BRITISH DEFENSE FORCE REPULSES MOCK SEA ATTACK

LONDON, July 23.—(AP)—Defenders of the east coasts of England and Scotland have repulsed an invading "enemy" fleet, an official admiralty announcement said today.

The maneuvers, with the fleet, air force and army participating, were the largest of their kind in the history of England.

The official statement said defensive "red" warplanes maintained contact with advancing "blue" warships throughout Friday afternoon and, at 6:30 p. m. Friday, "the superior red battle fleet was in position to insure the destruction of the blue force."

"You Think Your Brakes Will Always Work . . . BUT CAN YOU BE SURE?"

"No 'Question-Mark' Brakes For Me," says J. C. Kimball, Detroit, Mich.

GOOD hydraulics are the finest brakes built! You may drive a lifetime without a hint of trouble. But braking fluid, in any type of hydraulics, can leak away through accident or neglect.

Would such an emergency leave you with no foot brakes? Not if you drive a Hudson! All automobile braking has been steadily improved . . . still, Hudson today gives you the only brakes without a question mark. Double-Safe Brakes!

First—self-energizing Bendix 4-wheel hydraulics! No finer brakes are built. Second—a separate mechanical reserve braking system that takes hold automatically from the same foot pedal if ever needed!

Brakes that leave absolutely no question about safe stopping! You find them only in cars built by Hudson. And with them, a third braking application from the easy handling parking brake.

Are there other safety "question marks" in your mind? See how Hudson answers them all! With sturdy bodies all of steel. With clear, safe vision to both sides, through the widest windshields in any popular cars. With safety plate glass all around. With extra power to whisk you out of "tight spots." With an exclusive type of massive forged radial arms for safer steering and sturdier front end construction.

Drive a Hudson today. Hudson Terraplane, Hudson Six, Hudson Eight, or the new lowest priced car, Hudson 112. See how the safety pacemaker also sets the pace in roominess, performance, economy—in everything that means better value.

$694 and up for Hudson 112 (3-passenger coupe), delivered in Detroit, fully equipped; including Federal taxes. Price does not include state and local taxes, if any. For delivered price in your locality, see your Hudson dealer. Attractively low time payment terms, with new Hudson-C. I. T. Plan.

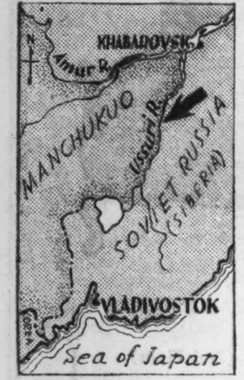
RUSSIANS BATTLE JAPANESE IN NEW BORDER INCIDENT

Clash Over an Island in the Far East.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, July 24 (Sunday).—(U. P.)—Domei (Japanese news agency) reported today from Hsinking that ten Manchukuans were missing after they had been attacked by three soviet patrol boats on the Ussuri river. The Manchukuans were proceeding down the river in a small boat, the dispatch said, when they were attacked.

MOSCOW, July 23.—(AP)—Soviet Russia, through its newspapers, today pictured Japan as so entangled in trying to conquer China that its "diplomatic forces had to be called in to rescue the militarists" from trying to touch off a conflict with Russia.



Arrow locates approximately the scene of new soviet-Japanese clash.

Despite another Siberian-Manchukuan frontier incident, in which Japanese-Manchukuan soldiers were reported to have failed in an attempt to occupy an island in the Ussuri river, soviet circles viewed the possibility of Russo-Japanese war as a diminishing threat.

Dispatches from the Siberian city of Khabarovsk said the new incident occurred north of Changkufeng, where Japan had accused Red soldiers of occupying a bit of Manchukuan territory on July 11.

Two Invaders Wounded.

The dispatches said two launches landed a detachment of Japanese-Manchukuan troops on the soviet island of Faingov two days ago, only to be driven off shortly afterward.

Two of the invading soldiers were reported wounded and a machine gun, five rifles, and a quantity of ammunition seized by members of a Russian cutter patrol.

The clash came the day after a Japanese protest against occupation of the Changkufeng district. The protest was rejected by Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov with the statement that the area lies within Siberia.

The government newspaper Izvestia charged Japanese militarists with manufacturing both incidents, but echoed the general Russian belief that the possibility of war had declined.

Calls Incident Clumsy.

"The Japanese militarists have their mouths full of China," Izvestia said.

The organ termed the incidents brutal and clumsy, adding that "the Japanese militarists were mistaken this time."

"Their false reports are not trusted in the world," the paper said. "The Japanese hopes were shattered against the firmness of the soviet union, which in this case, as in other cases, is dealing with facts, official agreements, and documents.

"The diplomatic forces had to be called in to rescue the militarists, who had fooled themselves."

As to the latest incident on the Ussuri river, Izvestia said: "The organizers of provocations in Tokio should remember that any part of the U. S. S. R. is inaccessible to them.

"Is it not time the Japanese militarists ceased playing with fire? They might get burned," the paper said.

Swiss Fear Italy Will Pierce Alps

New roads and a four mile aerial electric railway being constructed from Breuil, Italy, to the summit of Theodul pass in the Alps mountains have made Switzerland uneasy. The Swiss view this air ferry as a means of hoisting Italian troops rapidly to the summit from which they could ski down on the Swiss side to seize the Gornergrat railway in the unfortified Zermatt valley.

SWISS SEE PERIL IN ITALIAN 'AIR RAILWAY' IN ALPS

Fear It Will Open Path for Invasion.

GENEVA July 23.—The Swiss have begun to fear that their mountaineering and tourist mecca around the Matterhorn in the Alps mountains is becoming important from a military standpoint.

Italians now have reached the top of the Theodul pass into Switzerland with the cable of an electric air ferry which they are building up from the village of Breuil, four miles down the mountainside in Italy.

Through a telescope in Gornergrat, upper terminus of the cog railway from Zermatt, on the Swiss side of the frontier, the Italians can be seen plainly, four miles across the Gorner glacier, working in the deep snow. Theodul pass, at 11,000 feet altitude, is the lowest pass between Italy and Switzerland in the chain between the Matterhorn, the highest Swiss peak, and Monte Rosa, the highest Italian peak.

Could Cut Off Forts.

The Swiss suspect the Theodul line is meant to facilitate the surprise seizure of the Gornergrat railway. This line, with the connecting one from Zermatt ot Visp on the main Simplon line, provides the only railway from the Italian frontier into western Switzerland except through the heavily fortified Simplon tunnel.

Seizure of the unfortified Zermatt valley would allow the Italians to cut off the Simplon forts and pour down into the Rhone valley—the classic road of invasion between France and Italy. The only forts they would then face would be those at Saint Maurice near the upper end of Lake Geneva.

French Fear This War Plan.

The one war plan that the French staf is understood to fear is a combined Italian-German attack through Switzerland with the two armies joining at Lausanne and Geneva.

The new Italian cable way, which is expected to be carrying passengers in a few months, could bring up thousands of soldiers from Breuil in a few hours and they could ski down quickly to the Swiss railway.

The Swiss also reported with concern that all along the Valais canton frontier Italy has built or is building strategic roads up to all the passes into Switzerland, though no roads down exist or will be built on the Swiss side.

Czech Army Airplanes Collide; 2 Flyers Killed

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 23.—[U. P.]—Three army airplanes collided over Slovakia today. Two pilots were killed and the third escaped by parachute. Another army plane crashed in flames in Bohemia and the pilot was killed.

STRATEGIC CITY IN PATH OF JAPS REPORTED AFIRE

Kiukiang Waterfront Said to Be Burning.

(Turn to today's Graphic section for an illustrated article about the Japanese people, written by Kimpei Sheba, Tokio correspondent of The Tribune. Pictures of the Chinese-Japanese war of 1894-'95 also appear in the Graphic.)

SHANGHAI, July 23.—(AP)—Japanese flyers reported tonight that the waterfront of Kiukiang, barrier to the up-the-Yangtze offensive against Hankow, Chinese capital, was in flames.

Foreign naval advices from the area said, however, that the situation was unchanged from that of recent days—calmness in a city which for weeks had been within earshot of dueling Chinese shore batteries and Japanese naval guns.

Japs Take Mouth of Lake.

Earlier a Japanese communique, announcing domination of the mouth of Poyang lake and fresh landing expeditions at several points, had indicated that the long awaited assault on Kiukiang was under way. Kiukiang is 135 miles from Hankow.

Three weeks of terrific bombardments by warships and aircraft preceded today's crossing of the lake mouth on the southern side of the Yangtze.

The Japanese landings precipitated fierce combat, with Japanese aircraft machine gunning Chinese troops trying to hold back the landing parties.

Many of the defenders fell back to Kiukiang, where they took up positions in hastily dug street trenches and ruined buildings to await an attack by 8,000 Japanese massed about fifteen miles to the east of Hukow.

Jap Flyers Bomb Canton.

CANTON, July 23.—(AP)—Eighteen Japanese bombing planes raided Canton today, damaging a new power station in the Saichuen district, which adjoins the international settlements on Shameen Island.

Although the bombs dropped a good two miles from the settlement, doors and windows were rattled violently by the concussions. The bombs were believed to have been unusually large.

The raiders directed their main attacks at the Saichuen cement works and the loop line between the Canton-Hankow and the Canton-Kowloon railways.

The raid occurred two hours after Sir Geoffrey Northcote, governor of Hongkong, left after a two day visit.

Many Killed in Changsha.

Chinese reported that 300 persons were killed or wounded in a Japanese air raid on Changsha, in which the raiders machinegunned civilians in the streets. Changsha, on the Canton-Hankow railway, is one of the cities listed by the Japanese recently as likely to be bombed.

The Chinese also said that more than 100 persons were killed during a Japanese warship bombardment of Namoa Island, off Swatow, on the South China coast. Eighteen warships were reported to have ringed the island and subjected it to heavy shelling as a part of the strategy to keep the south China coast terrorized.

AMERICAN EMBASSY IN CHINA PREPARES TO MOVE ONCE MORE

Washington, D. C., July 23.—(AP)—It will be moving day again soon for the American embassy in Hankow, China.

Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson has permission from Secretary of State Hull to move himself and staf 1,000 miles up the Yangtze river to Chungking, about to become the new capital of China. The Japanese are advancing on Hankow.

The embassy's move will be its second within less than a year. Last November it shifted from Nanking to Hankow, shortly before the Japanese occupied the Chinese capital. At Chungking the American embassy will be 1,300 miles up the river from the coast at Shanghai, in the midst of a region seldom visited and little known by Americans.

EXPLOSIONS ROCK SHANGHAI; FIRES RAGE IN SUBURB

SHANGHAI, July 23.—[U. P.]—Huge fires broke out today in Pootung, across the river from Shanghai, after a series of explosions which shook the international settlement on this side of the river. Japanese reports said Chinese owned oil tanks caught fire from an unexplained cause. Chinese reports said Japanese oil tanks caught fire because of sabotage, and that the flames spread to nearby munition dumps.

PICKS BERRIES—89TH BIRTHDAY.

BRITISH TO TRAIN HUGE FORCE OF RESERVE PILOTS

Will Boost Plane Output to 25,000 Yearly.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 23.—Plans for a huge civilian air reserve with government subsidized training were announced tonight by Sir Kingsley Wood, secretary of state for air and president of the air council. Simultaneously it was revealed that Britain hopes to speed up airplane production within two years to 25,000 planes yearly. At present production is estimated at 3,000 a year.

The full 25,000 probably will not be utilized when production is achieved, but by producing abcut half that many in peace time the British believe they can double production immediately when required.

The first planes are coming from "shadow factories" and six more such plants are under construction.

Men and Women May Fly.

The proposed air reserve, to be known as the "civil air guard," will be open to any man or woman between 18 to 50 years of age. Flying instructions will be provided at a cost of 60 cents to $2.50 an hour, instead of the present charge of from $7.50 to $10.

Members are not to be listed in any actual government force, but they will sign an agreement to volunteer in any national emergency.

Amateur flying clubs throughout the country will be subsidized in return for training the civil guard at low cost.

Londonderry to Head Reserve.

The marquess of Londonderry, former air secretary, will be the chief of the new reserve. He will have four assistants. Two will represent the flying clubs, one will be a woman, and one will represent Scotland.

To qualify the clubs must agree to take not less than twelve civil guards for training. The total cost of learning is estimated at $11. The clubs must agree not to charge the guards more than $2.50 an hour.

In return the clubs will get $250 an hour up to a maximum of ten hours a year for the flying done by the members after they get their licenses. The license subsidy will be only $150 if members are trained to handle only light planes.

BROTHER SLAYS PAROLEE; TELLS OF DEATH THREAT

Thomas F. O'Rourke, 25 years old, a paroled convict, was shot to death early today by his brother, Leo, 20, of 1659 South Ashland avenue, in a prairie at 61st street and Ashland avenue.

The two had been drinking. On the way home, according to Leo, Thomas drew a knife and said, "I'm going to kill the old man." He referred to his father, John O'Rourke, 54, of 1650 West 61st street. The father had put Thomas out of his home two weeks ago as a trouble maker. Since then Thomas had been living with Leo at the Ashland avenue address.

Fearful that Thomas would carry out his threat, Leo fired twice. One bullet strck Thomas in the chest. Leo was arrested by Sergt. Jerome McGrath of the Chicago Lawn station. He explained possession of the revolver by saying he had discovered it during the day in his brother's coat, and had taken it away quietly to prevent his brother from getting into trouble with it. Thomas was originally sentenced to Pontiac reformatory for robbery.

GARAGE OWNER SLUGGED; BLAME LABOR TROUBLE

Arnold Hollan, 20 years old, 4642 North St. Louis avenue, part owner of the Holly-Way garage, 5656 Broadway, was slugged by two hoodlums in the garage last night. He was given first aid at the Edgewater hospital.

Hollan told police that the sluggers entered the garage, posing as prospective customers. Then without warning, he said, one beat him with the butt of a revolver and the other struck him with a blackjack.

Both he and Bernard Matheson, 35, his partner and brother-in-law, charged the attack was motivated by union trouble. Matheson said that they formerly were members of local 727, the Chicago Garage Owners' association. They dropped out a few months ago. Since then, he said, their garage has been picketed three times. The pickets were called off only after they had paid so-called fines to the association, he asserted. Recently they wished to hire a new man, but, he charged, the union refused to let them do so.

The Corrigan Hop

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Dixie Dunbar and Johnny Downs of the movies demonstrate the "California or Ireland, East or West?" step from the new dance originated after Douglas Corrigan's "mistake" flight over the Atlantic.

New York, July 23.—[Special.]—A young woman walked into the Rockefeller plaza offices of the American Airlines today and asked the manager, William Burt, to help her mail a letter to "Douglas Gorce Corrigan."

Before the office manager could frame a question about the intrepid ocean flyer who will join this air line when he gets back from Ireland, the young lady was joined by a man.

"I'm Mrs. Harry Gorce Corrigan," she explained, "and he," indicating the man, "is my husband and Doug's brother."

Between them they explained they had been spending their vacation in Nova Scotia and wanted to expedite mailing of a letter to Ireland to the man who flew the Atlantic "by mistake." Because of their absence they had just learned of the flight.

Harry Corrigan, whose middle name [pronounced Gross] is the same as his brother Douglas', is employed as an engineer at the Glenn L. Martin airplane plant in Baltimore—largely because of Douglas. Douglas helped pay his brother's way through the University of California.

2 U. S. Physicians Among 14 Killed in Plane Crash

WARSAW, July 23.—[U. P.]—The Lot Air company said today that two American physicians were killed yesterday in the crash of a Lot company airliner near Stulpica, Rumania. One of the Americans was described as Lemuel Caro, New Rochelle, N. Y., a well known amateur flyer, and the other passengers and four members of the crew were killed.

REDS OF U. S. GET MOSCOW TIP ON SPEECH MAKING

List of 'Do's' and 'Don'ts' Is Compiled.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, July 23.—William "Zack" Foster, president; Earl Browder, general secretary, and other members of the American branch of the communist party have received detailed instructions from the IKKI [executive committee of the communist Internationale] on how to make speeches which will not lay them open to charge of being Trotzkyists.

The "model speech," as outlined by Zacharias Manuilski, one of the six secretaries of the communist Internationale, should begin with a discussion of the economic crisis in the United States, which, he says, is preparing the way for a new world war. Then, after elaborating upon the war in Spain and China, Red orators are told to arouse enthusiasm of their audiences over Moscow's proposal to destroy Fascist dictatorships and to wind up by talking about world revolution.

Cites Source of Material.

The safest source of material for Red orators, Manuilski says, is the Moscow Pravda. Any orator, he says should be able to obtain facts sufficient for a lengthy speech from a fortnight's issue of this paper. If the Pravda is not obtainable, then the official communist newspapers abroad should be used.

Manuilski especially instructs American and other orators to be careful about predicting another world depression as a result of the present crisis in America. It is quite possible there will not be another depression, and Dictator Stalin also warns against hasty prophecies, he writes.

In discussing America, speakers should obtain some striking statistics and figures about the steel industry, unemployment and fall in value of securities, Manuilski says.

Warns Against Pessimism.

Manuilski warns communist orators abroad not to permit pessimism to enter their addresses. They must develop their hearers' hopes that the world revolution is just around the corner and end with a crescendo of praise for the soviet government, eulogizing the soviet elections as the most democratic in the world, hailing Stalin as the "light of the world" and "the fourth wise man" who has been sent to help humanity. The other three are Marx, Engels, and Lenin.

KELLY AND AIDS IN CAPITAL THIS WEEK ON SUBWAY

Will Attend Hearing to Answer Protests.

Objections have been filed by unknown Chicagoans to the proposed federal grant to help finance three loop subways, it became known yesterday.

Harold L. Ickes, head of the Public Works administration, announced that a hearing will be held next Thursday in Washington to thresh out the protests. He did not say who is making them. But he did promise that both sides will be given opportunity to present their arguments.

Mayor Kelly and a group of advisers plan to appear to answer any objections to the proposed grant of $14,328,000 to help in the subways' construction. He said last night that he is not disturbed by the report that objectors also will be there.

Delayed at Kelly's Request.

"Administrator Ickes first set the hearing for Wednesday," he said, "but delayed it until Thursday when I told him I had to speak on the radio Tuesday night. I do not know of any objections of consequence, and I am sure the objectors do not represent one-tenth of 1 per cent of the public sentiment."

He will be accompanied by William H. Sexton, special traction attorney for the city; Philip Harrington, traction engineer, and possibly by Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt. All are familiar with the plans for the underground tubes.

Ickes' announcement indicated that a favorable view is being taken of the city's application. It explained that "the proposed system would provide fast local transportation for the Chicago loop and is designed to relieve trafic congestion on existing transportation facilities."

City's Money Pledged.

The loop subways would cost in excess of 31 million dollars. The city is prepared to put up its part of the cost, $17,512,000. It has 3 millions available in its traction fund and Mayor Kelly has assurances from four loop banks that they will lend the remainder as it is needed. As security they are to take 1938 and 1939 corporate tax warants bearing 2½ per cent interest.

Originally the city asked for a 22½ million dollar grant and a 27½ million dollar loan to build the subways.

The proposed subways would extend under State street, Jackson boulevard, and Washington street and would connect with existing facilities outside the loop. Plans have been drawn and the city will be ready to start digging in October if the federal money is made available soon.

2 FOUND GUILTY IN $9,000 POOL GAME SWINDLE

George Murphy of Boston, Mass., and John Maloney of Detroit, Mich., were found guilty of operating a confidence game by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Robert Jerome Dunne yesterday. Their victim, who lost $9,000, was Robert Denton, 6655 Lafayette avenue, a railroad electrician.

Denton testified that he met the two defendants and a third man, known as Earl Morrell, in a poolroom on the north side last April. After winning a few games, Denton was induced to play Murphy for $9,000. Morrell was to hold the stakes. Denton admitted that he lost the game, but asserted that Morrell disappeared before the game had been finished. Morrell is being sought.

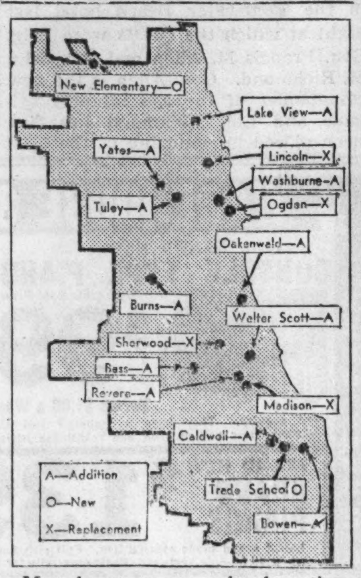
Woman in City to Hunt Jewelry Taken from Bag

Mrs. Louise B. Walker, an interior decorator of Oklahoma City, Okla., asked the police yesterday to aid her in recovering jewelry valued at $4,500. "I was in Chicago last Monday," she said, "and stopped at a hotel near the loop. When I got home I discovered the jewelry missing from my traveling bag. So I came back to start a search." Railroad and hotel authorities are assisting Mrs. Walker in her search.

Millions for Schools



Map locates new schools, others which are to be replaced, and schools for which additions will be built with aid of $3,150,000 PWA grant to Chicago board of education. Total cost of building program will be $7,000,000.

GRANT CHICAGO $3,150,000 FOR NEW SCHOOL PROJECT

17 Buildings, Additions Planned.

The Public Works administration yesterday allocated a $3,150,000 grant to the board of education to aid in financing a 7 million dollar building program. The program includes seventeen new schools and additions. Word of the grant was received by James B. McCahey, president of the board. The school board's share of $3,850,000 will be paid from its building fund, McCahey said.

After a conference with John C. Christensen, school architect, McCahey said that the first project, an addition to the Lake View High school to cost $600,000, may be started in September.

Includes Big Trade School.

The 7 million dollar program includes the $3,150,000 south side trade school, additions to three high schools and seven elementary schools, and the Washburne trade school and five new elementary school buildings. Four of the new elementary buildings will replace old buildings which will be razed.

The trade school, to be located at 87th street and Chappell avenue, will have 40 class rooms and 57 shops. It will accommodate 4,000 pupils.

The addition to Lake View High school, North Ashland avenue and Irving Park road, includes 10 classrooms, 2 laboratories, a girls' gymnasium and a lunchroom. The other additions are at Tuley High school, 1313 North Claremont avenue, 22 classrooms and 6 laboratories, to cost $330,000, and at Bowen, 2710 East 89th street, two gymnasiums, and alterations to 12 rooms in the present building, to cost $380,000.

Some More Additions.

Other additions in the program are at Burns school, 2524 South Central Park avenue, 8 rooms, $180,000; Caldwell, 86th street and Cregier avenue, 4 classrooms, gymnasium, library, $145,000; Bass, 6554 South May street, assembly and gymnasium, $125,000; Revere, 7145 Ellis avenue, assembly and gymnasium, $125,000; Yates, 2919 Cortland street, assembly and gymnasium, $55,000; Oakenwald, 4071 Lake Park avenue, 5 classrooms, assembly, library, $210,000; Walter Scott, 6435 Blackstone avenue, 3 classrooms, $50,000, and Washburne trade school, 1225 Sedgwick street, 24 rooms, $500,000.

New buildings planned are a school at Hiawatha and Minnehaha avenues, four rooms, $75,000 and replacements at Ogden school, 9 West Chestnut street, fourteen classrooms, $180,000; Madison, 7433 Dorchester avenue, fifteen classrooms, $250,000; Sherwood, 245 West 57th street, twenty-two classrooms, $310,000, and Lincoln, 2324 Geneva terrace, twenty-six classrooms, $335,000.

Raid Alleged Handbooks in Loop; Ten Arrested

Five alleged handbooks were raided by police yesterday. Ten men were taken into custody. The places raided were at 108 North Dearborn street, 140 North State street, 237 South Wells street, 116 East 35th street, and 2004 Madison street.

FUR SALON Fourth Floor

Seven Good Reasons why you should Buy NOW and SAVE

1 Authentic and Guaranteed Savings ... *The Hub unconditionally guarantees that any coat you purchase in the August Sale will be definitely lower in price than the same coat purchased later on in the season. We can do this because during the months of December through February Russeks anticipated soaring prices in the fur market. They invested over $1,000,000 in the finest fur skins obtainable which cannot be replaced in today's market at anything near the price Russeks paid for them.

2 1,200 Coats to Choose From ... For our August Fur Sale, we assembled the largest and most important collection we have ever had ... the most important collection, we believe, anywhere.

3 Every Important Style Trend ... For months we worked on presenting vital, young, and important styles. Every important Paris and New York designer has contributed to this August Sale.

4 First Choice of Prime Skins ... as the season advances, the finest quality pelts become scarce. By buying your coat now, you choose the best, at no additional cost to you.

5 Unhurried Workmanship ... It is obvious that fur craftsmen would be least busy at this time of the year. This means unhurried and skilled workmanship at considerable savings.

6 Growth ... Although our Russeks Fur Department is only a few years old at The Hub, the manner in which it has been received indicates clearly that Chicago women appreciate the opportunity of securing New York's outstanding Fur Coats right here in Chicago.

7 The Hub's Famous Lay-Away Plan ... A convenient arrangement in which a small deposit reserves your selection in Free Storage until Fall. You can buy one of three ways: CASH! CHARGE! or BUDGET! Whichever way you buy the price is always the same.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

A NEW ANGLE

By CALEB

A PSYCHOLOGIST who spends much of his time working directly with people in clinical studies was bemoaning the prevalence of mental blind spots.

"You know," he said, "each one of us has a blind spot in his eye. Hold an object in front of it and it's simply impossible to see it. There's no way to get around the blind spot but to change the angle of vision.

"Well, much the same thing exists mentally. Pretty nearly all of us have at least one blind spot—most of us have a lot of them. There's only one way to cure them, and that's to change the angle of vision. With the eye that's an easy thing to do. With the mind it's much harder.

"After we interview and study individuals, we're able to chart their blind spots pretty well. But that's less than half the job. The really tough part is making our subject realize that he has a blind spot and decide to do something about it.

"Those psychological blind spots may be the things that are holding him back in business, preventing him from making a satisfactory income, or giving him trouble in his personal affairs. We can point all this out to him but that doesn't mean he will change. Somehow or other we've got to switch his angle of mental vision, and sometimes that's a long and tedious job."

We pride ourselves that we are rational human beings. Reason, we are wont to say, distinguishes us from the lower animals. And yet these blind spots tend to throw that vaunted reason out of balance. Judgment, discretion and achievement all are threatened by them.

It is even true that collectively we have blind spots. Certain groups join together for what they conceive to be their own best interests—blind to the fact that their interests are inextricably bound up with those of every other group.

Perhaps by donning psychological spectacles we shall be able to discover and chart these blind spots, but as our friend pointed out, that is not a cure. The only known cure is a change in the angle of vision—a new viewpoint, better information and more complete understanding.

PLEDGES FINISH FIGHT ON BOSSES OF GAMBLING RING

Lake County Prosecutor to Try Lesser Fry, Too.

Attorney Charles E. Jack, special prosecutor in the Lake county gambling inquiry, pledged himself yesterday to rid the county of gaming resorts. He said his aim is to uncover the higher-ups in the racket. The lesser fry arrested in a series of sensational raids two weeks ago will be prosecuted quickly, Jack asserted.

The prosecutor also announced that any raids he orders in the future will be directed by Claude Warner. Warner, a former private detective, was the volunteer leader of a citizens' group which broke into 243 gambling spots in the county two weeks ago. Friday night Warner charged that an attempt was made to frame him as reprisal for these activities.

Players Subject to Fines.

Jack pointed out yesterday that any person playing a slot machine is subject to a fine of $10 to $100. The keeper of any gambling device can be fined not less than $100 for his first offense. The second offense may bring a fine of not less than $500 or not less than six months in the county jail. The third offense calls for a similar fine or a sentence of not less than two years in the penitentiary.

More than a hundred slot machines and about that number of pin ball machines were seized in Warner's raids. Thirty-four persons were arrested.

Appointed by Judge Dady.

"But you can't kill a tree just by picking off its leaves," Jack said. "It's the higher-ups I want. I intend to banish gambling devices from this county for all time. I will ask the Lake county board of supervisors for $7,500 for the investigation."

It is commonly reported that Leo Mongoven, Chicago hoodlum, is the boss of the slot machine racket in northern Lake county. Jack, who is president of the Lake County Bar association, was appointed special prosecutor last week by Judge Ralph J. Dady. The citizens' group responsible for the raids was not satisfied with State's Attorney Charles E. Mason as prosecutor in the case.

Warner, the raid leader, is 32 years old and lives at 21 Edison court, Waukegan. He asserted Friday night that persons angered by the shutdown of gaming resorts trumped up grand larceny charges against him at Galena, in Joe Daviess county. This was an effort to spirit him out of Lake county, Warner said.

Warner was kept in the Waukegan jail for five hours Thursday night until Jo Daviess county authorities informed Lake county authorities that the larceny warants were not valid. They had been issued for an offense allegedly committed six years ago, and prosecution was barred by the statute of limitations. Warner denied the charges.

Warner Hunts Complainants.

Warner visited Galena Thursday and learned that complainants in the warants were Ambrose Beaudin and James W. Stevens. Ambrose Beaudin, according to Warner, is a brother of Mitchell Beaudin, one of those arrested in the gambling raids.

Warner was Ambrose's boss in 1932 in a vice and liquor trafic investigation in Jo Daviess county. The name of James W. Stevens is believed to be a fictitious one. Warner was searching yesterday for Ambrose Beaudin and the mysterious Stevens.

"I am not interested in Warner's personal affairs," Special Prosecutor Jack said, "unless it is shown that the incidents down in Galena were part of a conspiracy to obstruct justice in the gambling inquiry."

A PIECE OF GARLIC TROUBLES HER, BUT IT'S NOT IN THROAT

New Orleans, La., July 23.—(AP)—Georgia Ann Armstrong rushed into Charity hospital in a state of excitement. "A piece of garlic," she mumbled. "Open your mouth wider," the doctor instructed as he started an inspection of her throat. But Georgia Ann turned her right ear toward the doctor. "The garlic's in my ear," she explained. It was dislodged. She had put it there to relieve an aching tooth.

Kane County Supervisor, Ill, Hangs Self in Home

Charles F. Koch, member of the Kane county board of supervisors for the last 25 years, hanged himself in his home at 152 Perry street, Elgin, yesterday. Ill health was given as the motive at an inquest. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 51 Center street, Elgin.

RACINE MAYOR ASKS POLICE HEAD BE SUSPENDED

Racine, Wis., July 23.—[Special.]—Mayor Roy Spencer tonight demanded the immediate suspension of Chief of Police Grover C. Lutter following five raids at five alleged gambling places last night. Ninety persons were arrested and $15,000 in gaming equipment was confiscated.

Grover C. Lutter.

The demand came when the mayor filed with Steve Thomas, chairman of the fire and police board, charges reported to be that of neglect of duty, permitting gambling to be carried on openly, concealing of slot machines in his office in the police station, using squad cars for purposes other than police work, use of intoxicating liquors while on duty, and failure to maintain proper discipline on the police force.

300 at Dinner for New Guard Unit Commanders

More than 300 attended a dinner in the Edgewater Beach hotel last night at which the guests were Brig. Gen. Francis M. Allen and Col. John M. Richmond. Gen. Allen is the new commander of the 53d infantry brigade and Col. Richmond has just been placed in command of the 131st infantry, both 33d division units. Both were officers in the old "Dandy First," veterans of which, together with members of the Santiago society and Chipilly post of the American Legion, made up most of the assemblage.

RATE DISCOURSE CONFUSES TVA QUIZ COMMITTEE

Lilienthal's Explanation Fails to Explain.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., July 23.—[Special.]—The congressional investigation into the Tennessee Valley authority today recessed until Monday with members of the committee still confused about the methods used by the TVA to determine its rates for electricity.

Director David Lilienthal completed an exhaustive historical review of what caused the delay in allocating the costs of Wilson, Wheeler, and Norris dams among power, navigation, and flood control, a basic element in finding the cost of kilowatts sold by the TVA.

Taking up rates promulgated in 1933, which Dr. Arthur Morgan has charged were guesswork and the basis of a false yardstick to measure fair prices by private utilities, Director Lilienthal read a letter he wrote Jan. 18, 1938. This letter, to Senator Charles L. McNary [R., Ore.], explained the basis on which TVA electricity rates were based five years ago.

Confused, Says Frazier.

Senator Lynn J. Frazier [R., N. D.] interjected himself into today's questioning.

"We're all confused," said Senator Frazier in tones of wearied exasperation. "The public is confused. You have not explained rate making by the TVA. It takes much more than a historical review of troubles on the board to explain the 1933 rates, and as yet we have no answer whether the rates were justified.

"A letter written in 1938 is not a sufficient explanation of rates set up in 1933."

The committee recessed when the noon whistle blew, leaving rate making the yardstick, and the precise method of allocating costs still up in the air. Mr. Lilienthal will take up the subject again Monday.

Puzzled Over Records.

Earlier in the hearing Representative Charles A. Wolverton [R., N. J.] propounded a question, saying he was puzzled because of the scant rate records in 1933.

"It seems to me a matter of such importance as fixing rates for long term contracts should be in a report to the board," he said. "It seems strange it was not presented in written form for action by the board."

"It would have been better," replied Lilienthal, "but there were great pressures and difficulties at that stage—we were organizing the staf and planning the work."

"Dr. Arthur Morgan testified that the first he knew of the 1933 rates was in a story he read in the newspapers," said Senator Frazier. "He said he had no information as to what basis the rates were on, and he signed the minutes of the board."

Denies Secret Conclave.

"It is distinctly not so that they were arrived at in secret conclave," answered Lilienthal.

In explanation of the basis on which the TVA rates were fixed, Mr. Lilienthal read his letter to Senator McNary.

"On wholesale rates," Lilienthal read from the letter, "you will recall that the TVA sells power only at wholesale to agencies designated in the statute—municipalities, rural associations, and corporations. It also sells to a few industries.

"These wholesale rates were determined in September, 1933, when the authority took custody of Wilson dam. In fixing wholesale rates, the following elements of cost were included:

"Operating expenses—the cost of operating Wilson dam under the army's custody was taken as a proper figure to use for future estimates.

Interest at 3½ Per Cent.

"Interest was included at 3½ per cent, this being the rate of interest provided for in the bonds which the TVA was authorized to issue. This per cent was conservative, and probably too high, inasmuch as the government's actual cost of money is less than 3½ per cent.

"Taxes were included as follows: 5 per cent of estimated gross revenues for the output of the plant. To this was added 7½ per cent of gross revenues, making a total of 12½ per cent of gross revenues as a tax charge in the wholesale cost of power.

"Depreciation was computed on the basis of the best available engineering data as to the life of property and was intended to provide a sufficient sum to retire and replace depreciable property at the end of its estimated useful life.

"The capital base, or what might be called the rate base, was determined in the following manner: An estimate was made by men of practical experience and based upon the best available data as to what a prudent business man would pay for the Wilson dam property as a going concern for the production of electricity.

Kilowatt Costs Estimated.

"This was reached on the basis of estimates of the cost per kilowatt of installed capacity and was checked against a figure of capitalized revenues derived from the operations.

"The results obtained by using this 'business man's price' were checked against an appraisal of the property at Wilson dam.

"This appraisal figure then was allocated on a tentative basis. First, the appraised value of the navigation locks was charged entirely to navigation; the power house and plant were charged entirely to power; the portion of the structure remaining, substantially the spillway section lying between the navigation locks and the power house, was divided 50 per cent to power and 50 per cent to other purposes. This 50 per cent figure was arbitrary.

"Subsequently a detailed appraisal by a staf of five consulting valuation engineers re-appraised Wilson dam. Their appraisal, reached independently, has been presented in a detailed report to the congress, which the President has approved. They reached a figure which is almost the same as the original tentative appraisal figure.

"After Norris dam was completed computations were made to see how the rate base worked out with the addition of Norris dam to Wilson."

MILWAUKEE WINS CUT IN SEWAGE DISPOSAL AWARD

Action May Help Chicago Reduce Judgment.

Milwaukee yesterday settled a $4,977,000 judgment for $818,000, ending a long court fight over patents on sewage disposal. This gave hope to officials of the Chicago Sanitary district which is faced with a bill for about $7,500,000 in a similar case.

Activated Sludge, Inc., of Chicago, holds patents on a process of purifying sewage. A year ago the company was awarded $4,977,000 against the city of Milwaukee, its sewage commission, and ten contractors who built an extension to the city's sewage disposal plant.

Yesterday the United States Circuit Court of Appeals here entered orders which carry out an agreement reached by attorneys for both sides. In the company's case against the Milwaukee sewage commission, the court ordered Federal Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger of Milwaukee to enter a new decree for $818,000. Two companion cases, against the city of Milwaukee and the contractors, were dismissed.

The appeals court also ordered that $303,769 which had been deposited with the court clerk be returned to the sewage commission. This money, received from the sale of fertilizer produced at the Jones Island sewage treatment plant, was being held by the court to help pay the final award to the company.

Attorneys went directly from the Chicago court to Milwaukee yesterday to have Judge Geiger sign the orders—a formality.

Award Largest in State.

When the $4,977,000 judgment was entered against Milwaukee—the largest award in the history of Wisconsin courts—the case was appealed on grounds of error. Rather than have the case drag on for an indefinite period, attorneys agreed upon a settlement which the city is able to pay.

Judges Will M. Sparks and Walter E. Treanor of the appeals court here quickly ratified the agreement.

Patent infringement suits against Milwaukee, Chicago, and 150 other cities were started in 1924. The Chicago case is now back in the Federal District court, where an accounting is to be reached as to the exact amount of damages to be paid. The amount, however, has been estimated at $7,500,000. The United States Supreme court refused to review a decision of the Appeals court in favor of the company.

How Process Works.

Briefly, the process patented by the company consists of purifying sewage by rapid oxidation. The sewage is kept in movement so that air in the water makes it possible for certain bacteria to convert putrid matter into wholesome compounds.

Milwaukee began use of the process in 1915. The Chicago Sanitary district has used the method since 1922 and the $120,000,000 sewage disposal program ordered by the United States Supreme court could not be carried out without the process. The patents expired in 1935.

GOES TO PRISON FOR OLD HOLDUP AFTER U. S. TERM

Louis Stanek, alias Rudolph Cerney, who led an escape of six prisoners from the county jail in 1929, was in the Joliet penitentiary yesterday beginning a one year to life sentence for a robbery committed nearly ten years ago.

Stanek escaped while awaiting trial for a $324 pay roll robbery in September, 1929. While police searched for him, he robbed a postal station in Oak Park. When arrested several weeks later and tried on the pay roll robbery charge he received the one year to life sentence. Before starting the term, however, he was turned over to federal authorities and sent to Leavenworth penitentiary for the postoffice holdup.

Upon Stanek's release from the federal prison last March, Chief Deputy Balif Edward Scholler met him to take him back to Illinois. Various legal attempts to avoid serving the term were fruitless and Stanek was brought back to Chicago Friday night.

SEIZE ROBBERY GANG; TOTAL LOOT SET AT $100,000

Small Arsenal Is Found in Bandits' Hideout.

gun, of a model intended for sale to law enforcement officials only. This weapon is a repeater, capable of discharging six charges of large size leaden slugs. There was a single shot .410 gauge shotgun, too. There also were three pistols, a .45 caliber automatic, a .38 caliber revolver such as the police use, and a .32 caliber Spanish model of the kind sold by some mail order houses.

Police were particularly interested in a toy revolver of standard size with a mother of pearl handle. It bore the name of Gene Autry, the movie cowboy, and is said to be modeled after his favorite weapon. These harmless guns, the police said, are sold for half a dollar in many stores and have a dangerous appearance in the hands of a robber.

The club's caretaker, William Sieg, 58 years old, was arrested, although the police said they had no evidence against him.

Loop Store's Truck Stolen.

Credit for the capture of the accused men was given to Lieut. James Kerr of the police cartage detail and Lieut. Maurice Schwartz and Sergt. John Weiss of the state police.

Although the police have been on the bandits' trail for months, Kerr was not called in until two months ago, when a large truck was stolen from a Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. garage. Kerr guessed that it was to be used in robberies. Soon he linked the truck with the gang. The loop store's name had been painted out.

The gang would drive the truck up to stores. The bandits then would hold up the employés and carry out stocks of clothes. Because of their elaborate plans, the robbers always escaped with their loot before the police arrived. But from the victims the police gradually pieced together descriptions of the robbers.

Loot Worth Thousands.

When the Bridgeport Clothing store at 3312 South Halsted was moving six weeks ago the gunmen took possession, stole $5,000 worth of clothes, and hauled the loot away while the employés lay terrified on the floor. Lillian Star has identified two of the prisoners as the men who took $2,500 worth of dresses from her shop at 3527 West 16th street.

Mrs. Mae Fritz identified two of them as bandits who forced her to stand by while they piled up dresses in her shop at 3610 West 26th street. But as they were taking the last of the dresses from the racks, they scraped a coat hanger against a burglar alarm and fled without their loot.

Five Cars for Holdups.

When they were seeking only cash, they left their truck behind and rode in one of the five automobiles they had stolen.

They took one car from Dr. Peter Hatzis of 3358 Lake street for an ambulance unit. In it they kept Dr. Hatzis' medical kit for first aid in case they were wounded, and supplemented it with extra supplies of bandages.

Although the Goldblatt robbery in Joliet had been carefully planned, it proved the gang's undoing. Several persons saw the robbers attack the policeman, George Lamping. With descriptions and information gathered from other robberies, it was easy for the police to get identifications of the men they suspected. Eventually all were arrested in their homes.

Search for the Finger Man.

Police said the case would be more or less cleaned up with the arrest of the man who pointed out the Goldblatt messenger in Joliet. While they were searching for him, they learned of the arrest in Kansas City of a man who appeared to fit the finger man's description. He was seized in a saloon disturbance Friday night.

The Kansas City prisoner identified himself as Oscar Duddrear, 40 years old. Kansas City police said Duddrear denied participating in the Joliet robbery. He refused to waive extradition. He is an ex-convict.

Russo was sent to the Pontiac reformatory Feb. 9, 1930, on a one to ten year sentence from Kane county for robbery. He was paroled March 20, 1933. On Jan. 15, 1934, he was sent to Joliet for attempted robbery after he had been wounded while attempting to hold up John Arczas with a shotgun in Arczas' drug store at 5044 Archer avenue. Russo was discharged from Joliet on completion of his sentence last Oct. 16.

Gentile and Catalano were sent to the Michigan state penitentiary at Jackson for three to ten years in 1933 for a robbery in Grand Rapids. They were paroled Nov. 25, 1935, and later were released from parole.

Gentile and Russo were charged last night with robbery, larceny of an automobile and attempted robbery.

Soon afterward, Gentile was visited by Andrew W. Euzzino, assistant attorney general of Illinois.

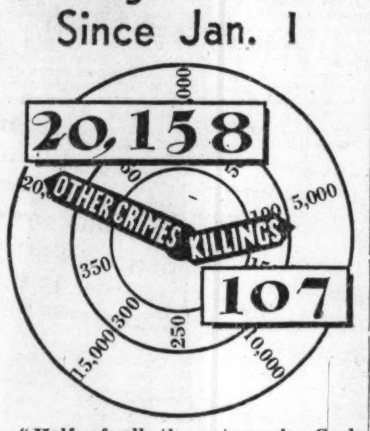
THE CRIME CLOCK
Chicago's Record Since Jan. 1



"Half of all the crimes in Cook county are committed by repeaters."—The Chicago Crime commission.

CHICAGO SLAYER IN TRIANGLE CASE ORDERED FREED

Samuel Willeford, who in April, 1937, shot and killed his wife's sweetheart, was ordered freed yesterday from the state penitentiary at Joliet. He was serving a manslaughter sentence of 1 to 14 years. He was one of eighty-three convicts given paroles by the state pardon board at a special session.

Willeford's parole was in keeping with the recommendation of the jury that convicted him that he be given clemency. The evidence showed that Willeford tried to break up a romance between his wife, Floris, and Charles Truchan, 21 years old. Willeford was then 37. They refused, he testified at his trial, and he drew a gun, and in the scramble Truchan was shot. Willeford, a mild mannered man, said he had tried to prevent his home and family from being broken up. Willeford has three children.

The eighty-two other men paroled committed a variety of crimes. Their cases were originally among 391 that had been considered for parole, but had been held up because of their failure to meet requirements regarding homes, sponsorship, and employment.

Many of the eighty-two were paroled from Pontiac reformatory. Among them are John Ragan, member of a gang of young automobile thieves sentenced by Judge John Lupe in February, 1936. When lawyers for Ragan and his co-defendants pleaded "they were just babies," Judge Lupe remarked: "Remember, it's this kind of babies who end up killing people."

TWO AND WOMAN AID SEIZED AS CHECK FORGERS

Two men and a woman were being held by the Shakespeare avenue police last night in connection with a clever attempt to pass forged checks. They are Evangeline Mayette, 23 years old; Thomas Higgins, alias Gilbert, 30, and Joseph Miller, alias Levine, 28. They were arrested by Sergt. James Lynch.

In their room Lynch found blank checks and a list of several persons' bank balances. The name of E. J. Lovett, 5851 Kenmore avenue, had been forged on a check for $200 that had not been cashed. Lovett after seeing the forgery said it was so good he would have had to admit it was his signature. In all cases the correct checking balances of Lovett and the others had been obtained.

This was done, Lynch said, by rifling their mail boxes after the first of the month and opening bank statements.

FOLLOW 5 THREE MONTHS; HELD AS COUNTERFEITERS

Five men who have been followed by authorities 24 hours a day were seized yesterday on counterfeiting charges. Capt. Thomas Callaghan, head of the secret service in Chicago, said at their arraignment that they are members of a gang that has passed $100,000 in counterfeit bills in the midwest in five years.

Capt. Callaghan examines counterfeits.

Callaghan's men seized $6,000 in counterfeit $10 silver certificates with the men. He said police had police had aided his agents in keeping watch on the suspects for three months. Alex Rossi, who died July 15 after a battle with police, was said by Callaghan to have been one of those under suspicion. He was an ex-convict.

The prisoners, held to the federal grand jury, are Alfred Florest and Louis Archibique of 3844 Sheffield avenue; Florest's brother, Samuel, and a half brother, John Costello, of 4339 Hazel avenue, and Michael Catalona of 4611 Broadway.

Ragan's Dog Sleeps Well; His Master Fears Insomnia

Atlanta, Ga., July 23.—(AP)—A burglar snipped a screen at Thomas Ragan's house, climbed in the window under which Ragan's dog slept, stole $170 from Ragan's trunk, stepped back over the sleeping dog out the window. Ragan found out about it in the morning. He isn't feeling so chummy with the dog today.

HAIL DAMAGES CORN CROP.

Morrison, Ill., July 23.—[Special.]—Severe hail riddled 700 acres of corn here yesterday afternoon causing damage estimated at $15,000 by Frank Shuman, farm advisor. The storm also damaged apples, grapes, and other crops.

MYSTERY TRUNK ENTERS QUIZ ON HEIRESS' DEATH

Officials Trace Reason for Delayed Voyage.

TORONTO, Ont., July 23.—[Special.]—A mysterious trunk which Ontario inheritance tax officials are trying to trace in Montreal and in Belfast, Ireland, today became a factor in the investigation into the death and financial affairs of Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, malted milk heiress.

The tax authorities have asked the help of Belfast police and of officials of the Canadian Pacific Steamship line in the hunt for the lost piece of luggage. The trunk supposedly was shipped to England from Canada about July 15.

Just how the trunk fits into the strange case the Canadian investigators refused to say. It was recalled here that Thomas Henry Bull, youngest son of W. Perkins Bull, Toronto attorney and financier, left Montreal on July 15, bound for England aboard the steamer Duchess of Bedford, a Canadian Pacific vessel.

Heiress Dies in Bull Home.

Thomas, however, did not continue the voyage to Europe. He left the steamer by pilot boat at Father Point and returned on July 16 to Toronto in response to a radio message from Toronto asking him to appear at the inquest into Mrs. Sidley's death. The elder Bull also is to be a witness at the inquest.

For years he was the friend and adviser to Mrs. Sidley. She died in the Bull home here on last July 6. She had been a guest there for a year prior to her death.

Her will, which was filed for probate in Racine, Wis., a few days ago, disposed of an estate estimated at from $3,000,000 to $6,000,000. Her only son, William Horlick Sidley, and W. Perkins Bull each are given $250,000 directly, plus a one-third interest in the residual estate. Most of the remaining third goes to various charities and to St. John's Military academy.

Quiz Thomas Bull.

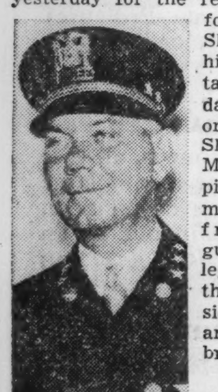
A second Bull son, W. Perkins Bull Jr., who now is in England, is to receive the income from a $250,000 trust set up under the terms of Mrs. Sidley's will.

For two hours last night Douglas Peck, king's counselor, and Kirby Hannan of the treasury department, subjected Thomas Bull to questioning at Queens' Park here. Sitting with them was W. B. Common, K. C., senior solicitor to the attorney general and as such the province's police representative.

After young Bull's departure they let it be known they had examined him about matters pertaining to his interrupted sailing. They also disclosed that they now are attempting to trace certain telephone calls made between the ship and shore after the vessel passed Father Point.

AWAIT RECOVERY OF EX-CHIEF FOR SHOOTING CLEWS

Calumet City police were waiting yesterday for the recovery of their former chief, Jack Shupryt, to get his story of an attack on him Friday night by two or three gunmen. Shupryt is in St. Margaret's hospital in Hammond, suffering from a slight gunshot wound, a leg broken above the knee, concussion of the brain, and numerous bruises.



Jack Shupryt.

Shupryt, now employed by the state, was attacked outside a tavern at Michigan City road and Burnham road, in Calumet City, shortly before midnight. When found in a semi-conscious condition he said his assailants told him they were going to "take him for a ride" and that he resisted. The reason for the attack was clouded as hospital attachés would not permit him to be questioned yesterday.

Shupryt was head of the Calumet City police for ten years prior to 1935.

$7,500 Punch

Two robbers armed with a revolver and a sawed off shotgun were thwarted in an attempted holdup yesterday by one swift blow from an intended victim. The punch saved $7,500 in cash and bonds. It cost only a sprained thumb.

Arthur Jurs, a collector for the Geissler Realty company, 2749 West 63d street, and Stanley Kuhns, manager of a currency exchange at the same address, were returning from a south side bank. In Jurs' pocket was $1,500 he had just withdrawn and Kuhns was carrying a package containing $6,000 in negotiable bonds.

Two men leaped from an automobile. One, carrying the revolver, snatched the bonds from Kuhns. The other pointed the shotgun at Jurs and muttered, "Stick 'em up or I'll blow your head off!"

Instead, Jurs lashed out and struck the robber on the jaw. The other robber then dropped the bonds, dragged his companion into the car, and sped away. Jurs lives at 3522 South Wells street.

SWEDEN'S CROWN PRINCE AND PARTY SAIL FOR HOME

(An illustrated sketch of Sweden's history will be found in today's Graphic Section.)

New York, July 23.—(AP)—Smiling farewell to 1,000 admirers, Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden sailed for his homeland today on the Swedish-American liner Gripsholm, ending a twenty-six day visit to the United States.

With him went the Crown Princess Louise and his third son, Prince Bertil, a speed loving young man made happy by the gift of an automobile from Henry Ford.

In a farewell radio address the heir to Gustav V. praised the "community of interest and ideals" which he said was "the surest token of an everlasting friendship between the Swedish and the American people." The crown prince came here to attend the tercentenary celebration of the landing of Swedish settlers in Delaware.

ADMITS JEWELRY THEFT.

Thomas Allen, 6151 South Carpenter street, admitted to the Englewood police yesterday that he had stolen jewelry worth $300 from Mrs. Alice Blundell, 5942 South Green street.

SMOKE HIDES SUN AS FOREST FIRES BURN WIDE AREA

Seattle, Wash., July 23.—(AP)—Forest fires, spreading with almost explosive force across sun baked northwest timberland, blackened great areas of the earth and sky and endangered more communities today.

A deepening smoke pall covered the entire Pacific northwest. Over Puget sound it was so dense in some places that ships were forced to use their foghorns as they moved about.

Wind drove British Columbia's 100,000 acre Vancouver Island fire toward the town of Bevan, a tiny mining settlement, and into one of the island's finest commercial timber stands. Trains stood by ready to evacuate the inhabitants.

In northern Idaho and western Montana, where loss has been confined to a few hundred acres, threatened lightning storms held the promise of new outbreaks in forests that have sizzled under a long heat wave.

The 40,000 acre Ryderwood-Mount Abernethy fire, northeast of Longview, Wash., spread before winds, but the 1,000 fighters believed they could hold their newly built lines.

A report of a fast spreading new fire on logged over areas in Cowlitz county, Wash., sent all available WPA workers from Kalama to the front. T. S. Goodyear, Washington forest supervisor, said fighting was made difficult by its inaccessibility.

Lee Muck, chief forester for the service, said the Indians had at least $30,000,000 at stake in the danger area and that their interests might easily be reduced to ashes.

SWEDISH PRINCE AND PRESIDENT EXCHANGE GREETINGS AT SEA

ABOARD CRUISER HOUSTON, en route to Galapagos islands, July 23.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today exchanged wireless felicitations with Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden while the Houston approached the equator on its move to a new fishing area near the Galapagos islands for the chief executive.

Gustaf Adolf, homeward bound aboard a ship in the Atlantic after concluding a visit to the United States, sent a message of thanks to the President, and Mr. Roosevelt answered it immediately.

Numerous messages also were exchanged between the President and Washington government officials during the day.

Holiday routine for all hands aboard the Houston and the accompanying destroyer McDougal was declared at 1 p. m., ship's time, when the cruiser was only a few miles north of the equator.

Girl with Needle Jabbed Into Heart Is Recovering

Hickory, N. C., July 23.—[U. P.]—Olema Cody, 10 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Cody, was given a good chance to recover today after surgeons had removed a needle from her heart in a delicate operation in a hospital here.

BOND JUMPING THING OF PAST IN COOK COUNTY

None Defaults in a Year; Only 17 Since 1932.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Not one bond forfeiture has occurred in the Criminal court since April 7, 1937. This contrast with the scandalous situation of a dozen years ago was revealed yesterday in a statistical report released by Chief Justice Cornelius J. Harrington and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney.

Another improvement is revealed by the report of Judge Harrington, who will relinquish the stewardship of the court on Labor day to his successor, Judge Michael L. McKinley. It is the speedy trial of criminal cases. Ninety per cent of these cases are now being tried within thirty days of indictment and only 136 are pending.

Old Type Bondsman Extinct.

Professional bondsmen, who in former years would schedule anything from a street car to the blue sky, are a thing of the past in the Criminal court, said Assistant State's Attorney Melvin Rembie in charge of bonds.

In the six year period since 1932 only seventeen defendants have escaped punishment by the bond forfeiture route, according to Rembie. Although 132 defendants attempted to escape by forfeiting bonds, all were arrested except the seventeen now at large.

The improvement in the bond situation started in 1930 when former State's Attorney John Swanson in coöperation with the Chicago crime commission, then an aggressive crime fighting unit, started a drive to collect on forfeited bonds under newly passed laws.

Courtney Keeps Up Fight.

State's Attorney Courtney has carried on the fight since 1932. His bond department has the coöperation of the Criminal court judges.

The vivid contrast between the past and the present is illustrated by the year to year table following [comparable figures for 1931 and 1932 are not available because of a change in the bookkeeping method]:

1928	500	$1,708,350	83
1929	326	874,420	61
1930	370	638,640	22
1933	54	16,500	5
1934	45	21,000	5
1935	18	1,500	5
1936	9	17,500	5
1937	6	10,000	2

So far this year the bond department has accepted 357 bonds without a forfeiture.

Property involved in forfeited bonds since Courtney took office has reverted to the county under sherif's deeds and cannot be sold or mortgaged by the owners until settlement on the bond has been made with the county board and the property released.

Bail Jumping Goes Out of Style

D'ORSAY PALMER BROKE, ANSWER IN ALIMONY BATTLE

Can't Pay Lawyers, He Tells Court.

Sarasota, Fla., July 23.—[Special.]—Potter D'Orsay Palmer, scion of the Chicago Palmers, is broke and has no means of paying alimony and counsel fees to Pauline Warren Palmer, his wife of a year who is suing him for divorce, according to objections filed in Circuit court here today.

Palmer generally has been supposed to have an income of several thousand dollars per month, so the statement of his attorneys that he was without means to provide for his estranged wife came as a surprise.

D'Orsay, who is 32 years old, 6 feet 3 inches tall, the son of Honore Palmer, has been married three times. He has made liberal financial settlements upon two former wives.

His first wife, Eleanor Goldsmith, 16 years old, a golden haired school girl, was divorced ten years ago. It is said he has completed a series of substantial annual payments to her under the divorce settlement.

But the young man still is paying alimony to No. 2, Maria De Hoz, Argentine beauty, whom he wooed and won in Paris and who divorced him the day before he married Pauline Warren, daughter of an old New England family.

While the bill of complaint containing Mrs. Palmer's allegations has been kept from public by mutual agreement of opposing counsel, lawyers' statements in the objections filed today indicate that among other things she charged abandonment.

The surprise clause which indicated that D'Orsay is not independently wealthy stated: "It does not appear that the defendant is earning anything or that he has any capacity to earn to support the plaintif."

Young Palmer has held at least nominal official positions in various Palmer enterprises here.

The court will hear arguments on the objections next week.

FIVE QUIZZED AS ROBBERS AFTER WEST SIDE CHASE

Five men were questioned yesterday by Capt. Frank Malone of the Lawndale police in connection with recent west side robberies. They were seized by a police squad early in the day after a chase through side streets and alleys.

Those held are Leo Myslewiec, 4044 South Rockwell street; Rudolph Frenchok, 1650 West 21st place; Edward Czasnyki, 1645 West 21st street; Peter Novak, 1659 West 21st street; and Leo Weisner, 1650 West 21st street.

Shortly after they were arrested, they were identified by Stanley Van Waterschoot, 2330 North Spaulding avenue, and Mrs. Mary Annaert, 3111 West 15th street, as the men who had robbed them a short time before of $40 at 15th street and Kedzie avenue.

CAR HITS GUARD RAIL; PLUNGES 30 FEET; 2 HURT

A speeding automobile plunged through a wooden guard rail last night and fell thirty feet into the yards of the North Western railroad near Union avenue and Erie street. Its two occupants were injured seriously, one probably fatally.

The men, Joseph Tesmer, 31 years old, 1312 North La Salle street, and Frank Pelka, 35, 934 North Hoyne avenue, had been driving north in Union avenue at high speed, according to the Racine avenue police. Tesmer, who was at the wheel, did not see that Union avenue ends at Erie.

Crashes Through Rail.

The car bounded over the sidewalk and through the guard rail, soaring fifty feet into space before dropping, according to witnesses. Police chopped open the doors to free the occupants. Physicians said Tesmer probably will die.

Miss Inez Hayes, 35 years old, 4121 North Mozart street, was critically injured late last night and seven other persons were also hurt in an automobile accident at Irving Park road and Mozart street. She was standing on a safety island when she was struck by a car driven by Daisy De Loss, 30, of 1050 Buena avenue, a musician. De Loss' car then crashed head on into another one.

Swerves to Avoid Pedestrian.

The seven others hurt were De Loss, Otis Wasson, 21, also of 1050 Buena avenue; Henry Har, 24, of 2010 Cleveland avenue, all in one car, and Steve Kummerle, 46, of 3436 North Damen avenue; his wife, Ida; Floyd Mrozinski, 28, of La Porte, Ind., and Mrozinski's brother, Raymond, all in the second car. De Loss said the accident occurred when he swerved to avoid a pedestrian. Miss Hayes is in the Martha Washington hospital.

Hubert G. Curry, 31 years old, 619 Campbell street, Joliet, was killed last night near Peotone, in Will county, when the car in which he was riding sidewiped another machine, plunged from the road, and struck a dairy truck parked nearby. Lois Pearce, 21 years old, of 408 North Raynor avenue, Joliet, who was driving the car, was only slightly injured. The car which was sidewiped was driven by Curtis Deason, 19 years old, of Mattoon. He was unhurt.

Casmir Borysik, 21 years old, 866 North Paulina street, died last night in St. Mary's hospital of injuries incurred on June 12 when his car crashed into a brick wall in an alley near Paulina street and Chicago avenue.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday, 454 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 351 were killed in Chicago, where 10,371 were injured in the same period.

INSPECT 14,707 HEATING PLANTS UNDER NEW LAW

Engineers for the city department of smoke inspection and abatement inspected 14,707 fuel burning plants during the first six months of this year. They are enforcing an amendment to the smoke ordinance, effective Jan. 1, which requires an annual inspection of the heating and power plants in approximately 30,000 buildings.

In the past operating permits for the plants have been issued at the time of installation. No further inspection ever was made until the department received a complaint of a smoke nuisance.

Under the terms of the new ordinance the inspectors are empowered to revoke the operating certificate whenever owners fail to make recommended changes or corrections.

Frank A. Chambers, head of the department, said all the owners to whom changes were recommended complied willingly. Compliance with the ordinance not only insures smokeless operation, but also reduces fuel consumption, he said.

TRIES TO DROWN; RESCUED.

John Nekvasil, 74 years old, unemployed and homeless, tried to drown himself yesterday in the Chicago river at the Wells street bridge. Lester Adams, 1525 North La Salle street, a passerby, plunged in and saved Nekvasil, who was taken to the County hospital.

SYPHILIS and GONORRHEA treated in strict privacy under surroundings that do not call attention to these ailments . . . . .

Those who suffer from syphilis and gonorrhea need not divulge the fact to their friends, business associates or employers, if they do not wish to do so.

Competent medical care for these diseases is available here at a United Medical Service, where many different kinds of ailments are diagnosed and treated. No one but the attending physician knows the nature of any ailment under treatment. As a result, fear of discovery, subsequent embarrassment or loss of position is practically eliminated. In addition to these advantages you have the assurance that your condition will be in capable and experienced hands.

A United Medical Service is operated by Dr. Joseph G. Berkowitz and medical associates. It was Dr. Berkowitz who originated and put into operation the first low cost medical effort to control the spread of venereal disease. Among the physicians who comprise the staff of a United Medical Service are men who were associated with him in that original effort. Their years of training and experience in this highly specialized field of medicine are available to you at fees which are perhaps the lowest ever offered to the public.

These low fees were established to make it possible for patients to continue treatment long enough to effect a cure. It is our contribution to the fight that is now being waged by city, state and national health agencies against these diseases. Early diagnosis and proper treatment are of the utmost importance if one wishes to escape the dreadful consequences of an undiscovered and untreated venereal disease. For notwithstanding present activities there are still almost 7,000,000 persons in this country who have syphilis—over 500,000 new cases sought medical care last year and 60,000 babies are born with it every year.

Make sure! Be examined, and if you find you are infected, start treatment immediately—before irreparable damage is done. Syphilis can be cured!

CIVILIAN LEADERS MAP CAMPAIGN TO REVIVE BUSINESS

Plan Drive to Stimulate Public Confidence.

Creation of a new Chicago organization to stimulate business and promote social progress was announced yesterday by John T. Pirie Sr. It is the Citizens' Committee on Public Information. Pirie is the first chairman.

John T. Pirie Sr.

The committee, Pirie said, will consist of 100 men and women representative of Chicago enterprise.

"It will seek to assure Chicago's leadership in the nation-wide movement toward better times," he said. "This will be done through marshaling every possible source of private and public energy and action.

Coördinate all Factions.

"The committee hopes to promote better business, labor, industry and government in the belief that heightened coöperation will provide the basis for sustained local economic recovery."

The first public effort of the organization, he said, will be a series of weekly round table radio discussions of problems and plans affecting the welfare of the community. The first of these will be broadcast over WENR Tuesday evening from 9:30 to 10 o'clock.

Speakers will include Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railway; Joseph D. Keenan, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor, and Mayor Edward J. Kelly. The subject will be "Jobs for Thousands" and the speakers will deal with the possibilities of reëmployment in private industry and in connection with projected public improvements.

Committee Is Nonpartisan.

"The committee," said Chairman Pirie, "is nonpartisan. Its purpose is to enlist a wider public interest in current affairs in Chicago. It will welcome the constructive counsel of every citizen."

The radio broadcasts, he said, will be given each Tuesday if present plans are carried out. The tentative schedule calls for discussion of transportation, relief, schools, taxation, and other subjects.

Mayor Kelly gave the new organization his approval in a statement emphasizing the importance of community confidence in economic revival.

"I am satisfied," said the mayor, "from numerous talks with business, industrial, labor, and political leaders that the city needs only a springboard of confidence to achieve substantial gains in pay rolls and purchasing power.

"Defeatism and doubt have monopolized public thinking, smothering what tendency there has been to look at the bright side. There is a definite opportunity for such a body as this to rally the spirit of enterprise that is so important to economic and social progress.

"To read the signposts, to translate the barometers of business and government activity into simple terms, will be worthy of the best efforts of the Citizens' Committee on Public Information."

Those who already have accepted membership on the committee include the following:

NOT A FABLE, BUT IT HAS A MORAL.

Revised estimates of the 1939 federal budget indicate that the deficit will be 3 billions more than the anticipation in the budget message of last January. Expenditures have gone up 2 billions more than the amount provided and revenue has dropped 919 millions below what was expected.

The new depression was coming, but the budget makers didn't see it. The story now is that the planned society would have been all right if somebody hadn't deliberately tripped it. Capitalism, so the planners say, saw that the government had actually brought about a recovery and then refused to accept or tolerate it. Therefore, to prevent a return to thriving industries, full time reëmployment, reduction of government expenditures, the closing up of Mr. Hopkins' department of alms, and the reduction of public works to a small time business, along with the restoration of stock values, the resumption of dividends, and all the other nice things that go along with humming industry and confident trade, the capitalists, who are supposed to thrive on good business, went on a sitdown strike.

For reasons which would be understandable if they prevailed in Bedlam the capitalists and industrialists stopped recovery in its tracks. They are supposed to have closed their plants, turned their employés out on the street, locked their desks, refused to make goods, just to prove to the planners that they couldn't get the American people out of the hole they're in. Therefore everything that was so rosy in January, when the original budget estimates were made, has been changed. The deficit will be much greater than was anticipated, the revenue will be much lower.

If such a story were presented to the people of the United States outside of politics, if it were something they had to consider in the light of their ordinary dealings with men and human affairs in which their common sense and experience were employed they would probably come to some pretty sensible conclusions.

Suppose the chief actor were a man they had been watching for some six years in charge of an enterprise in which they were deeply interested, depending on him and it to make good in order that they could pay up some bills and buy things they had been needing some time. The gentleman starts off with a great deal of confidence in himself, and what he tells the people makes them believe that he is the man for the job. He has a great many plans and he persuades himself they will work. He promises to get the enterprise on its feet again and they can trust him because he knows just how to do it.

A number of the practices he adopts are new, but he says the times demand decided changes in methods, some of which will be unnecessary in a year or two, after he has put the business back on its feet. He is given authority to do anything he wants to and if he needs money he's to have it. Time goes by, and although things do not change for the better he needs more money. He gets it. He needs more authority and he gets that. When doubts arise he quiets them by his persuasive explanations that he is quite right. He is on the right road and, although he is meeting some unreasonable opposition from selfish people, he can, if supported, carry the thing through to its successful outcome, but he will need more money.

Each year of operation produces more debt and gets no increased return. The expenses of the enterprise go up and he must borrow more money. Among the people dependent upon him in his efforts, those who have been able to, keep going and make any money themselves are required to give him an increasing amount of what they can save, and the people who are wholly dependent on him have to be given larger and larger sums to keep going. Nevertheless he says he is right, and after four years of this people are still persuaded they can trust him to put that enterprise on its feet.

In the sixth year he is again before his trusting people, saying that he is right but that selfish men have thrown more obstacles in his way. He has lost still more money, he is again borrowing, nobody's any better off, most of them are in worse shape, but still he is right. All he needs is more money.

The debts now plastered all over the enterprise do not bother him if only the people will give him larger sums. True, he expects that by the end of the year there will be a 40 billion dollar debt and his operating expenses will be at least 2 billion dollars more than he thought at the beginning of the year. Nevertheless, as he paints them, prospects are all bright. He has the only plan which will put this enterprise on its feet, but he must insist that there be no further criticism of what he is doing and that people who are asking embarrassing questions and saying discouraging things must be fired out. He will deal only with the people who in the sixth year of this experiment trust him implicitly and have no counter suggestions to annoy him.

If that record and that story were given to the people in their ordinary conduct of business they would pull their hats down on their heads, put their hands in their pockets to hold on to what was left of their resources, if they had any, and they would walk out, having had enough of explanations telling them why everything which had been so confidently promised them year after year had not been realized. In their ordinary affairs they couldn't possibly be so imposed upon for half the length of time they have been duped in politics.

They might find among their number some who had done very well indeed and wanted to continue the management, but that discovery would only make the majority madder and they would think it was a reflection on their good sense for any one to assume they could be so wheedled into throwing good money after bad, and they would find somebody else to run the enterprise whose explanations might not be so constantly persuasive but whose performance would be a little closer to his promises.

WIRE TAPPING.

New York's constitutional convention has finally adopted what is regarded as a compromise on the question of search and seizure.

In the present New York constitution there is no provision, paralleling the fourth amendment to the federal constitution, assuring privacy against unwarranted search and seizure. The subject was covered wholly by statute. In the draft of the new constitution there is to be a provision substantially identical with the federal guarantee.

The libertarians in the convention won a second concession when they obtained approval of a section which specifically extends the zone of privacy to include communication by telephone and telegraph. Just as private papers may be sought and seized only after a judge has issued a warrant upon probable cause, so wires may be tapped only after a warrant has been issued. The judge must be satisfied that the police have real reason to believe they are on the trail of a criminal and the warrant issued must specify the wire which is to be tapped.

The libertarians were less successful in their effort to exclude from trials evidence obtained by illegal search and seizure. Under the existing rule in New York evidence obtained without warrant is nevertheless admissible in court. That rule is not repealed in the draft of the new constitution. Accordingly, if the new constitution is adopted, the police will be forbidden to tap a wire without a warrant, but if they do violate this provision, anything they learn may be put to use in criminal trials.

The inconsistency may be more apparent than real. It would largely disappear if, for example, a statute were to be enacted providing a heavy fine or imprisonment or discharge from the police force as a penalty for unwarranted wire tapping. It is also possible that the New York courts might reinterpret the rules of evidence in the light of the search and seizure clause in the new constitution and effectively prevent the use of illegally obtained evidence in trials. The likelihood that they would do so would increase in direct proportion to the abuse of wire tapping by the police. In this connection it is significant that the federal courts which countenanced wire tapping evidence only a few years ago are now moving in the opposite direction.

The subject is an extremely difficult one. The tapping of wires is a potent weapon against crime and criminals; all who are concerned with law enforcement are agreed that this is so. Beyond question, also, the public should be protected against blackmailers, snoopers, and busybodies. A political judge might issue a warrant for improper purposes, but the requirement that a magistrate must pass on the request offers at least a partial protection which has worked fairly well in the past.

On the question of search and seizure the men who drafted the new constitution have done about as well as could have been expected. They have extended the guarantees of privacy without handcuffing the police.

THE FIRST AIRPLANE.

The original Wright airplane is on display in London's museum of science. The Wrights refused to give it to the Smithsonian institution in Washington because of the serious injustice which was done them by the Smithsonian authorities in describing the Langley plane as "the first machine capable of flight carrying a man." As that distinction belonged to the Wrights, they sent their plane to London where their achievement was given the fullest recognition.

Now an association is being formed in this country, so it is reported in the Washington Post, to induce Orville Wright to bring his plane back to America and place it in a museum here. This can be done readily, if Mr. Wright assents, because the plane was sent to South Kensington as a loan, not as a gift. The Post assumes that if Mr. Wright is won over the plane will go to the Smithsonian.

Certainly the first airship should be returned to America, but it should not be sent to the Smithsonian. That institution may have offered its apologies, but the fact remains that it did seek to dim the glory which the Wrights had earned. Mr. Wright is certainly under no conceivable debt to an institution which had wronged him and his brother and now tardily confesses its mistake.

Nor should the plane go to any other institution in Washington. The first airplane is a perfect symbol of the value of free enterprise; Washington is the enemy of free enterprise. The last session of congress saw the enactment of a law to regulate the air lines. Washington has driven the railroads to bankruptcy and now it is beginning to apply the same technique not only to the flying services but to the whole range of industry and invention. Washington is dedicated to destruction and reaction; nothing which so thoroughly typifies progress and constructive genius as does the Wright plane should be exiled to such an unsympathetic atmosphere.

The proper setting for the first airplane is the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park. Chicago is the hub of the nation's flying services. The busiest airport in the world lies only a few miles from Jackson park. Chicago has always paid high honor to inventive genius. The plane, if exhibited here, would be seen by many more people than would visit it in Washington because Chicago is close to the center of the nation's population.

The Wrights came from Dayton, in the middle west. Their plane should be returned to the middle west.

RESTORER OF RHEIMS

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—The solemn inauguration of the cathedral at Reims on July 10 after nineteen years of infinitely patient and difficult work calls attention to its architect, M. Deneux, a hitherto not very well known man, little known because he always had chosen to labor in his beloved church ever since the age of 16 and even is referred to as the "hermit of Reims."

The cathedral is completely repaired, except for its façade. That has been left deliberately as a reminder of the world war experience it went through. Some French still say and write today, "to remind us of barbaric fury of the Germans," though time has laid much of the bitterness of the controversy between the French who alleged the destruction was deliberate and the Germans who alleged its towers were used as lookouts or that French batteries were planted near it.

In the repair work cement was blown into torn pillars and shattered stone figures under several pounds' pressure. There has been some criticism of this "American method" of mending a venerable weather worn stone edifice. But the modern way has its defenders, too; particularly the replacement of the oak rafters and chestnut roof with concrete. "The cathedral can't ever burn again, having no more wood in it," they remark.

Some of the statues which were smashed to bits and could not be patched up have been resculptured in pitch pine and covered with hammered lead. One well known French writer remarks: "What of it? Pitch pine is an American tree and wasn't it largely American money that hoisted the stones that had been knocked off to their former positions?"

But there is also firm defense of the job done on the cathedral, and tribute to its supervising architect. Deneux's long association with the cathedral in its architectural office made him the ideal man for the work. The immensity of it may be guessed from the fact that there are alone 2,300 statues. The great difficulty in reconstructing it was that there was no complete description of it as it had been. There is an entire library of books dealing with the structure, going back to the 13th century, but no adequate comprehensive work containing all the details.

The dilemma was solved by the appointment of Deneux as chief architect. He began to work in the architect's office of the cathedral at the age of 16 as an office and errand boy. Beginning with the most humble tasks, he worked himself up to his present position. During his early employment he helped with the work of restoring the basilica. Time, the revolution, and the bad taste of architects had destroyed some of the art of the middle ages.

Not content with his job in the office, he spent all his spare time studying the details of his beloved church and drawing them. He sketched the gargoyles and the rows of stone flowers. He painted those statues way up aloft which are too far away to be seen except in profile, but many of which are of as high quality and interest as anything down below.

When in 1919 the question arose of restoring the cathedral, there was Deneux with his tremendous personal information about it. A national subscription was started and presently Deneux was at work with the reconstruction. At first it was a matter of digging in the ruins and finding a piece here, a fragment there, and knowing where they belonged; an angel's hand, a saint's sandaled foot, a bishop's miter. For the past nineteen years Deneux has been living exclusively among the ruins of the cathedral. His work required as much study, concentration, research as the deciphering of hieroglyphics.

Deneux had made one important discovery that stood him in good stead. Many of the stones that went into medieval cathedrals have on the back side curious marks. Chiseled into the stone are figures, such as a flower, a letter, a chalice, a hammer, a scythe, or something like that. The great architect, Viollet le Duc, concluded that these mysterious marks merely indicated the vanity of the workman who thus placed his stamp on the block.

Deneux discarded this idea. He concluded that the marks were indications as to where the stone belonged, where it was to fit in. This discovery helped him greatly in reconstruction from the mass of débris that the war left behind, around, and within the walls of the old church.

He found that a wheel referred to a [circular] rose window, a chalice to an altar, a key to the church treasury room, a bishop's crook to the part of the cathedral nearest the archbishop's residence, a cross to a mullion, and so forth.

He found that, while the damage had been great, the worst harm, the irreparable disfigurings or complete shattering of irreplaceable stone Christs, virgins, saints, and popes, was comparatively small. Of the 2,300 statues only 65 were completely lost.

Worshiper of medieval architecture, Deneux nevertheless was happy to have at hand modern building advantages, particularly the process of blowing liquid cement into a fissure or a gash. His biggest job of this kind was in repairing a huge pillar which had been hit by a .305 shell, badly nicked and knocked out of line, but which still supported a large part of the apsis. Placing a corset around the damaged parts of the pillar, he blew in nineteen tons of cement.

Another feature of his work was the recovery of the lead that had melted when the woodwork of the roof burned. This lead had dripped all around the church. He recovered not only all of that but some old lead from the 1481 fire that had been overlooked. He salvaged a total of 8,800,000 pounds of lead and used it in covering the roof of the reconstructed church.

As for the statues made of American pitch pine and covered with hammered lead, these are the figures on the spire.

Editorial of the Day

THERE IS STILL HOPE.
[Beloit (Wis.) Daily News.]

A perennial worry to men are the reports of discussions during the annual conventions of clothing designers. Two years ago, or three, these glorified tailors were talking about putting the American male into a loose fitting pajama suit which would provide comfort [and laughs] during the hot months. Last year there was talk about the use of pastel colors in men's garb, heliotropes and mauves and pinks for daytime wear, electric blues for evening.

Just now the International Clothing Designers' convention is in full swing in Baltimore and the scissors-legged gentlemen have cooked up a new one. They are going to do away with trousers which drag at the heel. Hereafter, they ordain, trousers will be narrower at the bottom and fuller at the knee. There are to be three buttons on single breasted suits.

This is cheering news. Perhaps we are returning to the good old days when peg top pants and tight fitting coats were topped by handlebar mustaches. Perhaps if we insist we may secure the return of button shoes.

Anyway, the designers are taking a step in the right direction. We would rather endure the evils we know than flee in panic from the sight of raiment which robs us of our dignity.

HIS STINGER.

It happened at the zoo one fine bank holiday. From the almost solid mass of people on one side of the elephant walk there darted a very small boy who paused, bun in hand, right in the track of the big elephant.

Just as the animal extended his trunk to take the bun there came a harassed voice from the crowd: "Mind, Willie . . . mind 'e don't sting yer!"—Exchange.

THE HEAT IS ON.

SUNSTROKE is an ancient malady and an accurate description may be found in the fourth chapter of Second Kings. Those who work in the open and thus are exposed to the direct rays of Old Sol are most susceptible. Early Roman writers, however, confused "heat apoplexy" with the unconsciousness which may come from a ruptured blood vessel within the brain resulting in hemorrhage and hence pressure. We know now that the two are quite different, as intense heat may bring on swelling of the brain as well as of the lungs.

There are several types of heat injuries. Sunstroke is frequent when both the temperature and the humidity [moisture] are high. The patient usually will complain of intense headache, and if such a symptom appears it should not be ignored. Time out should be taken to cool off. If a mouth thermometer shows the body to be normal, a brief rest is all that is required, but if the level is 100 degrees or higher, the individual may thank his lucky stars that he has nipped a bad accident in the bud. If the head pain is disregarded, unconsciousness may follow, accompanied by a fever of 105 degrees or higher. As a rule, the skin is hot and dry and the pulse at the wrist full and strong.

Every such case is an emergency and nothing should be allowed to interfere with getting the victim at once into the most favorable situation. The immediate need is to reduce the temperature. If a hospital is not available the patient should be stripped and bucket after bucket of cold water poured over him. If a bathtub is handy, so much the better, and a substantial quantity of ice may be placed in the water. The head and neck regions—particularly the upper portion of the spine—may be packed in ice.

When the physician arrives—and he should be called without delay—he may choose to fall back on an old and largely discarded procedure, namely, bleeding. This is one of the best means we have of reducing swelling of the brain and congestion of the lungs. Now and then convulsions will ensue, and if so an anesthetic may be of great benefit.

Heat exhaustion is quite a different matter, and may be experienced whenever the atmosphere is hot and dry. It is more common in industrial plants, although milder seizures may arise while sitting on one's own porch or lying on a couch at home. This is the reason that during a hot "spell"—when sleep seems to be impossible—it is well to sprinkle the sheets at intervals, so that subsequent evaporation may abstract heat from the system.

With an attack of heat exhaustion, the afflicted person will be observed to be in collapse. The skin feels moist and cool, and, in contrast to sunstroke, the pulse is weak. Listlessness and indifference are pronounced. The important thing is to give salty fluid by mouth. Even though this is vomited at first, it may be retained if a short interval is allowed to elapse. If liquid cannot be absorbed by the digestive tract the physician may feel obliged to administer some solution beneath the skin or directly into a vein.

Heat cramps differ radically, as they are generally brought on by excessive perspiration, which causes a heavy loss of minerals. The reliance of workers upon salt and glucose tablets has led to a marked reduction in the number of cases of heat exhaustion as well as heat cramps.

What can be done to prevent hot weather accidents? We can aid the tissues to lose caloric via the lungs [the evaporation of water], through perspiration, and through conduction—contact of air with the skin. To promote evaporation from the surface, plunge the head, face, and hands into cool water every thirty minutes or so. Holding the hands and forearms beneath running water is also helpful. Those who engage in outdoor activities have learned that a wet cloth placed on the head and held in position with a broad brimmed hat is of value only if the headgear is porous, so that air can pick up the moisture and thus bring cooling.

Most of us can stand high temperatures for a brief period of time. The danger comes from continued exposure with no opportunity to cool off.

CURE HIGHLY PROBABLE.

Mrs. K. C. writes: Can a person with tuberculosis ever be cured completely? My 15 year old daughter has a small cavity in her lung. She has been in a hospital for five weeks and has improved considerably.

REPLY.

Cure is highly probable. After a case has been "arrested" for from six to eight years, it is said to be cured. Unless the lesion is large, she should become an arrested case within a year or two.

ONLY FOR THE STRONG.

K. L. writes: Are Turkish baths harmful to a woman of 46? Should they be taken only on a physician's advice?

REPLY.

Turkish baths are recommended only for those in robust health. Patients with heart weakness should not indulge. A physician's counsel is best.

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name and address are disregarded. CITIZENSHIP STATUS.

Chicago, July 14.—[Friend of the People.]—I should like to know definitly whether or not I am a citizen of the United States. I was born in Europe and came to the United States with my father and mother when I was 2 years old. In 1917 my father became a citizen of the United States. I was 8 years old at that time. When I was 16 years old I married a young man who was not a citizen. I divorced him after three years of married life. A few years later he died.

1. Am I a citizen of the United States?

2. I am now a widow and have a son aged 10 years and a daughter aged 8 years, both born in this country. Are they citizens? E. L.

1. From the information given above it would appear that you became a citizen of the United States in 1917, provided your father took out final certificate of naturalization at that time and you were then residing in the United States after an admission for permanent stay. It would appear that your marriage took place in 1925. Under the law then in effect you did not lose your citizenship by virtue of this marriage only.

2. In so far as your two children are concerned, both having been born in this country, they would be citizens of the United States.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,

RAT EXTERMINATION.

Chicago, July 14.—[Friend of the People.]—Could something be done about the following? Next door to my home was a garage which was infested with rats. Now this neighbor has put in a cement floor and the rats have left his premises and have come over to my home. They have burrowed under my front and rear porches. I have been told the city has men who put some sort of poison that will exterminate them. C. S.

We regret to inform you that the WPA rat extermination project, sponsored by the board of health, was ordered discontinued on Feb. 8 by the Works Progress administration officials in Washington. However, we have mailed a pamphlet to the writer which explains how the average person can exterminate rats.

DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN,
President, Board of Health.

ORAL AGREEMENTS.

Cicero, Ill., June 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Six years ago a grocery bill was contracted amounting to $33.

2. Up to the present time $21 has been paid, leaving a balance of $12. I am at present working part time and unable to continue to pay. The creditor threatens to see my employer.

3. Can this be done?

4. They have no signature or [5] wage assignment. F. A.

1 The limitation period on oral agreements is five years.

2 Each part payment would start the statute running again. Hence it seems probable that the debt has not been barred.

3 Yes, in the sense that after taking judgment against you, they could reach your wages by garnishment.

4 This merely means that the limitation period would be five years instead of ten.

5 Lack of the wage assignment merely means that they would have to proceed by garnishment. The garnishment exemption to the head of a family is $20 per week.

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

TAX BILLS AND BABY BONDS.

Chicago, July 20.—When the treasury department sends us tax bills in one mail and in the next we get communications urging us to buy baby bonds as a sound method of saving for our old age, we become suspicious. And that suspicion deepens as we think of the pump priming spending campaigns, the growing deficits year after year and the colossal failure of that government to practice what it preaches.

What is back of those baby bonds, or any government bonds for that matter, but the credit of the nation? And how much better than real estate bonds in 1929 is the credit of a government eventually going to be which seems to feel none of the necessity for saving and economizing that it would invoke in the individual? L. M. A.

BLACK PANTHER SUITS HIM.

Chicago, July 20.—Animals are used universally as symbols of courage, vigor, and other fighting qualities. For example, we have the Yale bulldog, the Princeton tiger, the Pitt panther, the Northwestern wildcat, not to mention the British lion and Russian bear.

It is a happy circumstance, then, that some one, recognizing the new vigor and vitality so evident in the Democratic, or New Deal, party, felt that party should be symbolized by an animal less docile than the donkey.

To your distinguished cartoonist, Mr. Orr, belongs the credit for the recognition of these new qualities in the Democratic party, and to him go the honors for so aptly selecting that absolutely fearless animal, the black panther, to be the new symbol for the New Deal.

By the way, does the elephant still symbolize the G. O. P.? The elephant, the largest land animal, is afraid of the mouse, the smallest. C. M. O'T.

DOGS AND RABIES.

Park Ridge, July 20.—I have read in THE TRIBUNE the article by Bob Becker evidently intended to stir up a brand new rabies scare. Just who is this Mr. Becker? Is he an authority on the diseases of the dog, or is he just another alarmist?

I have been breeding dogs for 38 years years. In that time I have owned a few thousand dogs. Yet I have never seen a case of rabies, and have never found a breeder who has seen one, despite the fact that I offered $10 to the veterinarian if he would let me know when he had a case.

I imagine an article on relativity written by Mr. Becker would be just as interesting reading as an article on dogs.

FRANK WARREN.

MAKING A KALEIDOSCOPE.

Gary, Ind., July 18.—This is all you need to make a beautiful and interesting toy for a sick child or even a grown-up invalid: Put together with adhesive tape 3 strips of mirror 2 inches wide and 8 inches long to form a triangular tube, mirror side in. Apply to one end of the tube frosted glass or parchment paper.

Drop into the kaleidoscope minute flowers from weeds, ferny leaves of parsley or carrot tops, pine needles, grapevine tendrils, and blooming sprigs of grass. Even a few paper clips, rubber bands, and bent hairpins form designs of endless variation. M. V.

RELIEFERS AND CHARITY WORKERS.

Chicago, July 20.—I am fed up with the attitude of the officials in the relief offices. They are just as much reliefers as those on the outside. Their checks come out of the same relief fund as the checks for the people who stand in line. It makes no difference whether they get $500 per month or $50; one is just as much a reliefer as the other and everybody knows it.

Further, those in the offices have no experience in the line on which they are trying to set themselves up as experts in the problems of a family of perhaps five or six children. The social service school is apt to do them more harm than good. They are just charity jobholders who even in good times could not hold a job with a private concern.

What has got under the common man's skin most is that the people's money has been turned over to those incompetents. In some cases they are not even residents of this state. H. J. P.

THE RIGHT TO VOTE.

Chicago, July 20.—I notice letters frequently that propose to take away the franchise [the right to vote] from people on the relief rolls. This attitude should be condemned by all fair-minded people for two reasons: [1] most of the unemployed, although really wanting work, cannot find jobs and [2] legislation of this sort would have severe repercussions upon our democratic system of government.

If the people have decided to aid their less fortunate fellows in carrying on through these times of distress, there is no reason to use this as a club to reduce the latter to political impotency. The enaction of this type of legislation would create a semi-servile group that would have no means of expressing its desires. L. R.

ATTENTION: STREET BUREAU.

Chicago, July 21.—We ask your aid in our endeavor to keep our neighborhood beautiful. There are two eyesores in our area that we have been trying to remedy for two years. There is a broken sidewalk at Champlain and 50th street [southeast corner] and a destruction of a lawn at No. 649. The corner is in a deplorable condition. Several accidents have occurred there. We have applied to the bureau of streets, but in vain.

IRA C. DAVIS.

NOT A PEACEFUL NIGHT'S SLEEP.

Chicago, July 20.—I write to protest against the noisy, rumbly Clark street cars, especially from Devon north. We have lived in this vicinity over two months now and we haven't had one night's peaceful sleep yet.

Certainly all this noise is unnecessary when these cars can be replaced with the silent running cars as on Madison street.

MARY RICHTER.

AND THE BLAME THING FLEW.

Chicago, July 19.—I inclose a paraphrase inspired [?] by an article in this morning's TRIBUNE.

Ford took spools and an old tin can Put them together
And the Darn thing ran.
Corrigan found parts in a dump he knew
Wired them together
And the blame thing flew.

AN ADMIRER OF BOTH.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN.—German dairies and milk producing farms must deliver their milk, butter, and cream to community milk collecting centers, keeping only enough to cover their own needs. This was disclosed by the official periodical of Nazi lawyers, the N. S. Rechtsspiegel.

The magazine published the following warning: "Those milk producing establishments which do not deliver a satisfactory amount of milk make themselves liable to punishment because that would be proof that either the establishment is selling butter or milk illegally or else it is wasting its product, both of which cases are punishable by law.

"A number of farmers do not fulfill their duty in delivering milk, stating they are consuming the entire amount at home. Generally no proof can be found that it has been sold illegally, though in many cases it is obvious that such sales have taken place.

"It is necessary, however, in view of Germany's foreign exchange situation, that milk produced in Germany be consumed in a regulated manner. Thus the duty of delivering the milk products to the collecting centers must be the rule."

Farmers were assured that they will be allotted a sufficient amount of milk to cover their needs. However, they were told that the milk allotted to them can be used only within the limits of their own establishment and must not be wasted or sold elsewhere.

"The interests of the milk producers and the Nazi spirit will lead them to deliver even greater quantities of milk than they are required to deliver," the article concluded hopefully. "We also want to become independent of foreign countries in milk products."

HAVE HARD TIME FINDING CHARITY IN GARRETT WILL

It Still Has Officers, but Fades from View.

When Mrs. Ada Sawyer Garrett, for many years a recluse, died on June 18 she willed $50,000 of her 2¼ million dollar estate to the Home for Self Supporting Women for a new building.

When the will was probated a week ago, the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, a trustee of the estate, looked around for the home and couldn't find it, either by its original name or the Indiana house, its later designation.

But They Find It.

Yesterday, however, it appeared that the proper recipient of the $50,000 had been found when Mrs. William S. Monroe, prominent in Chicago charitable work, explained what had become of the home.

Mrs. Monroe explained that the home during its long life occupied a building on Indiana street, now Grand avenue. It has since been remodeled for use as the Chicago Journal of Commerce plant.

The Home for Self Supporting Women became the Indiana house before the change in the street name, but later ceased to function, she said. Its activities were merged with the School of Domestic Arts and Science, 350 Belden avenue, in which Mrs. Monroe is interested also.

She said that the corporate charter of the Indiana house has been retained. She is the president. Gerhardt S. Jersild, an attorney at 135 South La Salle street, is the secretary.

Bequest Still in Doubt.

Trust company officials said that, with supporting proof, they would turn the money over to the Indiana house directors. There was still the question, however, of whether the latter were willing to revive the institution and build the new home mentioned in the will.

At her home, White Gates farm, near Wayne, Mrs. Monroe said that the Indiana house organization had not yet held a meeting on what is to be done with the Garrett bequest. It came about unexpectedly, she pointed out.

HOLDS COMPANY LIABLE FOR COST OF JOB HUNTING

Washington, D. C., July 23.—(AP)—The national labor relations board, in a precedent setting ruling, held today that a company discharging workers for union activities was liable for expenses they incurred in hunting new work.

The ruling was made in an order against the Crossett Lumber company, Crossett, Ark. The order directed the company to reinstate with back pay thirty-four workers who, the board said, were discharged for union activity—some as long ago as April, 1935.

Two Sue Harold Lloyd for $75,000 Over New Film

New York, July 23.—[U. P.]—Harold Lloyd, film comedian, was sued for $75,000 today for breach of contract. The suit was filed in federal court by William Jordan Rapp and Lowell Brentano of New York. It named the Harold Lloyd Moving Picture corporation as co-defendant. Court attachés said papers were incomplete, but that the suit was based on services rendered in the production of Lloyd's newest picture, "Professor Beware."

INSULL BURIED WITH SIMPLE RITES IN BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 23.—Samuel Insull was buried today in Putney Vale cemetery on the outskirts of London, the city in which he was born. The Rev. John M. Bird, curate of St. Mary's church in Putney, read the burial service of the Church of England in a little whitewashed chapel.

The oak casket was lowered into the grave under a Hawthorne tree, not far from the plot in which Insull's father and mother were buried.

Insull, who was 78 years old, died of a heart attack last Saturday in a subway station in Paris. The Rev. Mr. Bird made no reference in the burial service to Insull's rise in Chicago to leadership of a utilities empire worth billions and of its collapse.

Seventeen mourners in addition to the widow attended the rites. Among them were Harry Gordon Selfridge, former Chicagoan and now owner of a London department store, and his son, and two women who were fellow passengers with Insull aboard the Ascania when it grounded recently in the St. Lawrence river. They said they attended the funeral "out of admiration for the aged financier, who had stood for hours in a rescuing tender so a woman could have a seat."

RED ROSES FROM ROOSEVELT LAID ON QUEEN'S BIER

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 23.—(AP)—Red roses from President Roosevelt were placed on the catafalque of Queen Marie of Rumania today as a line of mourners continued through Cotroceni palace for a glimpse of the body before burial tomorrow. A card attached to the flowers, which were arranged in the form of a crown, bore the President's name.

Maria, dowager queen of Jugo-Slavia, arrived today. She was weeping and was comforted by King Carol of Rumania.

The duke and duchess of Kent of England, arriving later, were welcomed by Carol and other members of the royal family.

George H. Cox, 88, Veteran Bloomington Miller, Dies

Bloomington, Ill., July 23.—[Special.]—George H. Cox, 88 years old, for many years a business man here, died of heart disease late yesterday. He engaged in the flour milling business for forty years and later was in the investment business.

COL. BOURNIQUE, DANCING MASTER 50 YEARS, DEAD

Taught Chicago Society Ballroom Grace.

Col. Alvar L. Bournique, Chicago's dancing master for the last half century, died yesterday at Leland, Mich., after an illness of three months, according to word received here.

A graceful, courtly little man whose nimbleness belied his 72 years, Col. Bournique had taught ballroom decorum to society's children since 1880. Before him, in the academy started by his father in 1867, early Chicago had learned to dance.

With his passing the name of Bournique, always associated with dignity and tradition, leaves the Chicago dance floor, for he had no sons to carry on. He retired on March 18, leaving the academy in the hands of Lester Mayhew Jr.

Father Taught Pioneers.

Col. Bournique was born in 1866, a year before his father, Augustus Eugene, and his mother, both renowned for their dancing ability, opened an academy at 24th and Michigan avenue. Many Chicago pioneers, including Marshall Field and Gen. Phil Sheridan, attended.

From then on Bournique meant correctness in the ballroom. Old Mr. Bournique died in 1926. Eight years before he had turned over active teaching duties to his son Alvar, who had served with the 1st Illinois cavalry in the Spanish-American war and as colonel, adjutant, and chief of staf of the Illinois reserve forces during the world war.

Adhering rigidly to the traditions of his father, Col. Bournique and his wife, the former Mary Wayne McMunn, who survives him, saw to it that his teaching withstood the onslaughts of the Charleston, the flea hop, the bunny hug—even the big apple. Instead, he concentrated on the waltz and the Virginia reel, the latter for courteous grace, and the fox trot. He taught gravity, and poise, and graciousness.

Masquerade Balls Famous.

Despite the preciseness of his academy, which moved to 23d street and Indiana avenue and thence to 1134 North Dearborn street, its present location, the masquerade ball which closed each of his fifty-eight seasons, ended in a tissue paper snowball fight. For this the Bourniques always retired.

Besides his widow, Col. Bournique is survived by two daughters, Mrs. M. D. Bullard of Ann Arbor, Mich., and Mrs. W. C. Munnecke of Chicago; a brother, Eugene A., and a sister, Miss Elizabeth M. Bournique, both of Chicago.

Funeral services will be held privately at 11:30 a. m. tomorrow at the North Shore cemetery.

Bodies of 2 Drowned in Lake Are Recovered

The bodies of Henry Wardzala, 20 years old, of 2537 Chicago avenue, and Henry Wanat, 21, of 2709 Thomas street, were recovered from the lake off Belmont harbor yesterday by a coast guard crew. The two drowned on July 16 when a canvas hunting boat capsized. Ted Wojcik, 21, of 2533 Chicago avenue, who was with them, saved himself by clinging to the boat.

Wife of Rev. Frank Kurtz, Herself a Missionary, Dies

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elizabeth F. Kurtz, 71 years old, wife of the Rev. Frank Kurtz, died last night. For forty-three years she and her husband were missionaries under the American Baptist foreign mission society. Leaving here shortly after they were married in September, 1893, they went to India.

F. A. LORENZ JR., STEEL COMPANY EXECUTIVE, DIES

Funeral Tomorrow for Head of Founders.

Frederick Ayres Lorenz Jr., a steel executive, died yesterday after a long illness in Passavant Memorial hospital. He was 52 years old. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon in the chapel at 77th street and Jeffery boulevard.

Mr. Lorenz was vice president of the American Steel Foundries, and for four years had been president of the Steel Founders Society of America. He was a director and a member of the advisory committee of the steel division of the American Foundrymen's association. Three months ago he was awarded the Seaman gold medal for outstanding contributions to steel foundry operating methods and a life membership in the association.

Rise in Industry Is Rapid.

After he was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1905, Mr. Lorenz received his master's degree in engineering from the University of Illinois. He served as inspection engineer and later superintendent of the East Chicago rolling mill of Republic Iron and Steel company, joining the American Steel Foundries in 1911 as a wheel engineer.

He rose rapidly in the latter organization, being made manager of the Indiana Harbor Works, general manager of the industrial division, and then vice president of the company.

Active in Ordnance Body.

Mr. Lorenz was a past director of the Chicago post, Army Ordnance association, and the American Management association. He was a member of Kenwood Masonic lodge, Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, and the University of Illinois Alumni association. His clubs were the South Shore Country and Tavern.

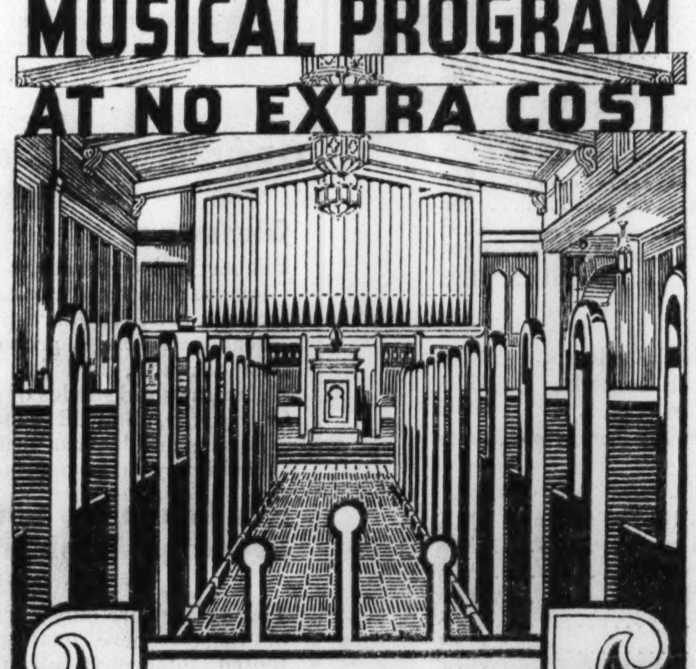
Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Ilo Miller Lorenz; a son, Frederick Ayres III., a daughter, Ilo Miller, and his mother, Mrs. Frederick A. Lorenz. The family home is at 7000 South Shore drive.

GEORGE FOSTER, LUMBERMAN, 72, DIES AT WAUSAU

Wausau, Wis., July 23.—[Special.]—George E. Foster, 72 years old, a lumberman, died at St. Mary's hospital this morning after an illness of two weeks. He was the father-in-law of Ben Alexander of Chicago and Wausau, president and general manager of the Masonite corporation, with headquarters in Chicago.

Foster became wealthy in lumbering operations in central and northern Wisconsin and at one time had sawmills and logging operations at Antigo and Mellen, Wis. He also operated near Merrill and Wausau. He was a member of the Union League of Chicago. He was born in Grand Rapids, Mich., and was married in Oshkosh, Wis., in 1900 to Mary E. Lockhart, who survives. Funeral services will be held at his home Monday afternoon.

First IN CHICAGO to include MUSICAL PROGRAM AT NO EXTRA COST



FOR over six years, LAIN & SON have included the Imperial Quartet, Organist and organ with every service requesting music, at no extra cost. This additional service is made possible because no other concern conducts as many Chapel services each month as Lain & Son.

Chicago's Preference for Lain & Son standards of quality and economy has given them twenty-five times more calls than the average concern. Complete funerals as low as $110—including quartet.

4 CLIMBERS NEAR TOP OF WALL 6,300 FEET HIGH IN ALPS

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, July 23.—The most difficult thing left in the Alps—the Eigerwand—is near being mastered. The Eigerwand, in the Jungfrau range, is the highest rock wall in the Alps. It rises almost straight for 6,300 feet.

Only 500 feet from the top of that terrifying wall four young men were clinging, huddled tonight in storm clouds at an altitude of 12,700 feet. If they slip now they will drop more than a mile. If they survive the night they will have an excellent chance of climbing the wall. The Eigerwand has killed nine other daredevils in the last few summers since scaling it became the goal of Alpine climbers.

Two Austrians, named Harrer and Kastarek, started up on Thursday. On Friday another team, Verg and Heckmaier of Munich, who had clung to the Eigerwand for three nights in vain last summer and got down unharmed, hastened up after them. The Munich team overtook the Austrians. The four joined forces today and succeeded in climbing 1,300 feet up the hitherto unscaled wall.

U. S. TO SURVEY PROFIT SHARING PLANS IN FORCE

Opens Headquarters in Chicago for Job.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Headquarters of a federal survey of all types of profit sharing plans in the United States has been set up in Chicago, it became known yesterday. The office, established three weeks ago, is now ready for the project, work on which will continue for six months.

Donald Despain of Chicago, a veteran of wide experience in the industrial relations field, is in charge. He was appointed director of the survey by a subcommittee of the United States senate committee on finance. The subcommittee consists of Senator Clyde L. Herring [D., Ia.], chairman; Senator Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.], and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.].

Appointment Is Quiet.

Despain was appointed approximately a month ago without any of the publicity that ordinarily accompanies such events. He preferred, he said, to start to work quietly, outline his plans, and organize his staf before attention was called to his task. First he obtained offices in the United States courthouse. He now has installed six assistants, including statisticians, analysts, and field men, and is mailing 2,500 copies of his first letter of inquiry to trade, manufacturing, and employers' associations throughout the country.

The survey plan is recognized generally as a Vandenberg idea, as the Michigan senator presented and had passed the resolution directing that the study be made and setting aside $30,000 for expenses. Because of this sponsorship it is believed the profit sharing subject may be of importance in the next congress and possibly in the next presidential campaign.

What Resolution Provides.

The Vandenberg resolution directed the subcommittee:

"To make a complete study and report to the senate upon all existing profit-sharing systems between employers and employés now operative in the United States with a special view [a] to the preparation of an authentic record of experience which may be consulted by employers who are interested in voluntarily establishing profit-sharing plans; [b] to the consideration of what advisable contribution may be made to the encouragement of profit sharing by the federal government, including the grant of compensatory tax exemptions and tax rewards when profit sharing is voluntarily established; [c] to the consideration of any other recommendations which may prove desirable in the pursuit of these objectives."

Heed Way to Peace.

In advocating the survey, Senator Vandenberg suggested that some method of insuring workers a share of profits in the same way they are now divided among stockholders might do much toward establishing industrial peace. The government, he said, might encourage the plan by exempting from taxation the dividends paid to workers.

Despain's first form letter was not the customary questionnaire, but a request for coöperation in an unprejudiced, fact finding survey. Public hearings, in which both employers and employés will take part, will be held in Washington early next year.

ARMY OF BUYERS DUE IN CITY FOR APPAREL SHOWS

Ten thousand buyers and merchants from all sections of the United States are expected in Chicago this week and next for the fall markets of women's apparel.

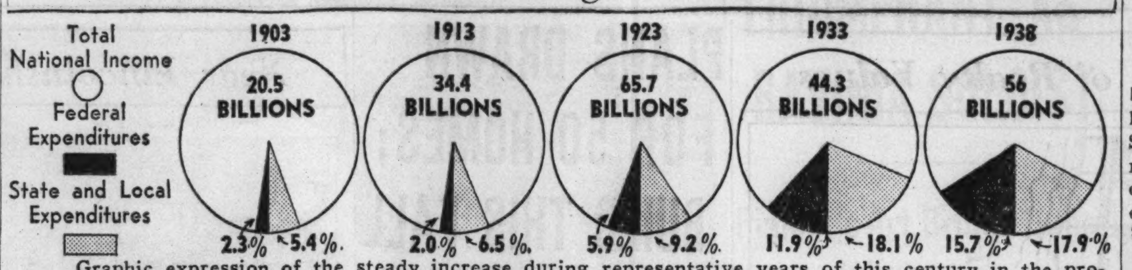
Abraham Heller, director of the Style Creators of Chicago, said yesterday that in 1937 Chicago manufacturers and distributors sold $29,866,948 worth of dresses, suits, and coats, an increase of $1,861,315 over 1936. The outlook for 1938, he said, is again excellent.

Several large fashion showings will be held during the markets. That of the Style Creators, showing only the work of Chicago designers, probably will be the largest. It will be given four times, Tuesday and Thursday nights this week and next, in the College Inn of the Hotel Sherman.

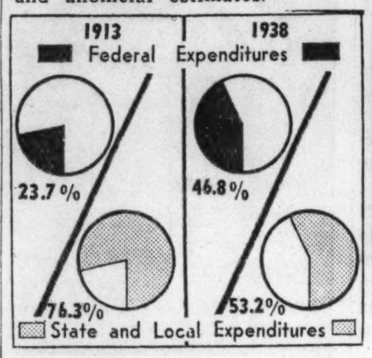
Widow Scans Lake 2 Days; Recovers Husband's Body

Ivan Murray, 34 years old, 146 Wisconsin avenue, Waukegan, drowned Thursday night while swimming with his wife and relatives off the beach in Waukegan. The widow, Gavena, and relatives kept a constant vigil at the beach, searching for his body. It came to the surface last evening. Mrs. Murray saw it. Relatives swam out and recovered it.

Government Takes Ever Larger Share of U. S. Income



Graphic expression of the steady increase during representative years of this century in the proportion of national income which is taken for gross expenditures of all governments in the U. S. The figures and those in the chart below appeared in the Congressional Record and are based upon official and unofficial estimates.



The rapid increase in federal government expenditures is shown by this comparison of federal with state and local spending for a pre-war year and for 1938.

L. J. DRAKE WINS TOP HONORS AT GUERNSEY SHOW

500 Breeders Exhibit at Plano.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

L. J. Drake of Chicago was awarded the premier Guernsey breeder exhibitor's honor yesterday at the third annual parish show sponsored by the Northern Illinois Guernsey Breeders' association. Approximately 500 farmers and dairy cattle breeders from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin, and Michigan attended the outdoor competition held on Drake's Rock Creek farm, one mile north of Plano, Kendall county.

The premier exhibitor's score was 103, defeating Dr. N. S. Heaney, owner of Woody Nook farm of Glen Ellyn, by only one point. Drake won with the pick of his herd of about 140 Guernseys.

Dr. Heaney tied Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, owners of St. James farm near Naperville, for premier breeder honors, each scoring 77 points. The McCormicks had taken both premier exhibitor and breeder honors at the first two parish shows.

Princess Barbar Champion Female.

St. James Princess Barbar from the St. James herd was declared senior and grand champion female of the show. Drake's Rock Creek Forester's Lady won the junior champion female prize. She also was first in the hefer calf class.

Calves from the Wood Nook farm herd, competing in a class of eight bulls, won the first four awards. In the 2 year old bull class Corium Olivers Rupert of Woody Nook farm won first. The same farm exhibited the blue ribbon junior yearling bull.

St. James Champion from the McCormick herd was judged to be the best yearling bull. Langwater Pretor, a Rock Creek farm bull, was first in the aged sire class.

Woody Nook Pert from Dr. Heaney's herd was first in the junior yearling hefer class. He also won firsts in the senior yearling hefer class and the 4 year old cow class.

Rock Creek Takes Two Firsts.

St. James farm exhibited the best 3 year old cow.

In the junior dairy judging contest the team from the Lake Zurich Future Farmers' club won first place, scoring 372 out of a possible 450 points. The team was made up of Mitchell Kane, Warren Nebmer, and Edward Lucas. Second place went to the Naperville club team—Fred Boehl, Vernon Blum, and Frank Winkler—with a score of 360.

Lucas made the highest individual score, totaling 140 out of 150 points. Phillip Swift of the La Salle 4-H club team was second with 130.

Russell Huston, manager of the Franchester farm of South Euclid, O., judged the cattle. The show was supervised by Lewis M. Meyer, manager of the Rock Creek farm, with the coöperation of R. L. Holden, representative of the American Guernsey Cattle club, Petersboro, Vt.

Two Girls, 10 and 12, Work an Old Racket; Get $10

Two girls, one about 10 years old, the other 12, called yesterday at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Benson, 4702 Barry avenue. "Won't you please buy an oilcloth wrapper?" they asked, exhibiting samples. Mrs. Benson invited them into the house. To encourage their sales career, she bought one wrapper from each. Then one of the girls offered to show her how to fit the wrapper on a coffee pot. After they left a few minutes later, Mrs. Benson discovered they had taken $10 from her purse lying on the table.

A BIBLE IN EVERY SCHOOLROOM IS NEW GIDEON AIM

The Gideons, an organization that became famous by placing Bibles in hotel rooms, is attempting to put the Scriptures in every public school room of the nation. William L. Hardin, Atlanta business man who was reëlected international president at the closing session of the Gideon convention here yesterday, outlined the new objective.

"We are not going to try to force the Bible into schoolrooms any more than we forced them into hotels," said Mr. Hardin. "We will simply make the Bible available to schoolrooms where it is wanted. It seems to the Gideons that schoolrooms of the future will feel incomplete without the word of God."

Harry A. West of Portland, Ore., vice president, and Andrew Wyzenbeek of Chicago, treasurer, also were reëlected yesterday. S. M. Sunden of Harrington Park, N. J., was elected international chaplain, and Samuel A. Fulton of Milwaukee and Charles A. Eisenmayer of Los Angeles were added to the directorate. All women's auxiliary officers were reëlected.

BURY RETIRED CARPENTER TODAY.

Fairland, Ill., July 23.—[Special.]—Funeral services will be held in Arthur tomorrow for C. G. Bradford, 75 years old, a retired carpenter who died Friday. The widow and nine children survive.

Real Estate Values Increase Faster in Outlying Sections than in Loop District

BIGGEST GAINS MADE BEYOND OBSOLETE AREAS

Survey Covers the Period from 1900 to Date.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Real estate values in Chicago during the last forty years have been increasing faster in the outlying sections than in the downtown area. A study of prominent corners on four main thoroughfares leading from the loop north, northwest, west, and south to the city limits, from 1900 to date, disclosed this fact.

These figures, obtained from the county records, are the approximate values of land only [improvements were not considered] as estimated by the board of assessors. They are not necessarily the prices owners would ask or could get for their land. In the present inactive real estate market the only way to make a study of comparative values over a period of years is to use the "full value" of properties as estimated by the assessors.

Only the corner lots were used in making comparisons, even though in many cases the corner lot is only one of several lots under one large building.

Use Different Factors.

Taxes on these estimated "full values" are based on "assessed valuations" which are secured by using the factor of 37 per cent. That is, 37 per cent of the "full value" is the "assessed value." This factor has varied considerably since 1818. From that date to 1909 the factor was 20 per cent. From 1909 to 1919 it was 33⅓ per cent. From 1919 to 1926 the factor was 50 per cent. During 1927 it was 100 per cent—that is, the "full value" and the "assessed value" were the same. From 1928 to date it has been 37 per cent.

Chicago's great central business and shopping center, although still probably the world's most compact area of its kind, has been surpassed during the last four decades in spectacular skyrocketing of realty values on all of the four streets covered.

A Gigantic "If."

For example, if the northwest corner of State and Madison streets today had increased in value since 1900 at the same ratio as the northeast corner of Milwaukee and Bryn Mawr avenues, it would be worth today approximately $96,600,000 instead of $1,282,000.

If this same loop corner had advanced in value at the same rate as the northwest corner of Madison and Austin, seven and a half miles west, it would be valued at $56,350,000. Making a similar comparison with the rise in values to the south, the State and Madison corner would have a value of $20,930,000 if it had registered the same ratio of gain shown by the southeast corner at State and 103d, twelve miles south.

Loop Corner Gains Moderately.

Instead of following these spectacular examples of what real estate can do, the northwest corner of State and Madison increased in value during these forty years from $805,000 in 1900 to $1,282,000 in 1937. This is a comparatively modest gain—only about a 60 per cent increase.

On the other hand, these outlying corners used as comparisons made the following gains: The Milwaukee-Bryn Mawr property was valued at $50 in 1900. In 1937 it had increased in value to $6,000, which is 120 times the first figure. The Madison-Austin corner advanced from $400 to $28,000, becoming seventy times more valuable today that in 1900.

The State-103d corner increased in value from $190 in 1900 to $5,000 in 1937, a gain of 2,600 per cent.

Loop Values Once Soared.

Of course, this is not exactly a fair comparison, for the downtown district, if one looks back of 1900, was the scene of sensational realty advances. Values soared to heights which startled the rest of the realty world by both the speed of advance and altitude.

Development of Chicago along the main thoroughfares radiating from the loop has consistently followed extension of transportation facilities. Values, however, have shown the biggest advance in areas beyond the belt of depreciated or obsolete land surrounding the downtown district on three sides and through which these thoroughfares must go.

Getting beyond this great belt of decreasing values one finds the most expensive real estate outside the loop.

Value of Madison Corners.

For example, going west on Madison the three corners with the highest values are the intersections of Kedzie, Pulaski, and Cicero, four, five, and six miles west of State and Madison.

To the north one finds the high point in section line corners on North Clark street at Belmont avenue, four miles from downtown.

South from the loop a study of values on State street shows a stretch of more than five miles, through the colored district, where property has steadily depreciated at section line corners. Beginning at Harrison street [considerably north of the actual Negro area] and looking at Roosevelt road, 16th street, Cermak road, 31st street, and Pershing road, one finds values are lower than they were forty years ago. The highest is reached six miles out, at 55th street.

Predict Higher Levels.

Wtih a few scattered exceptions a value tour of the four thoroughfares mentioned—State, Madison, Milwaukee, and Clark—discloses steadily advancing real estate prices at section line corners.

The nearby table of value at ten year intervals shows in practically all instances that the record high was reached in 1930. Real estate men, however, believe that Chicago realty again is headed for a still higher level during the next few years.

*Southwest corner. Southeast corner. ‡Unsubdivided.

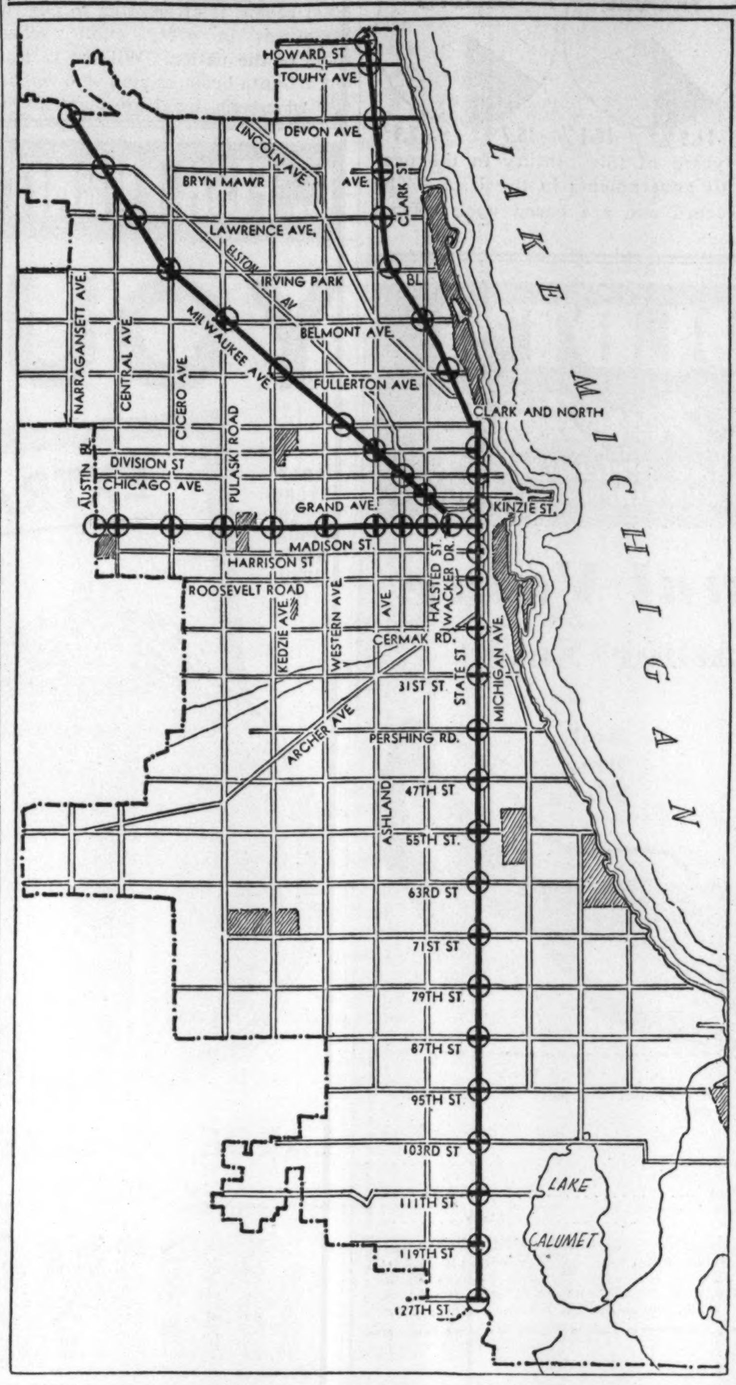
The above figures are the estimated full values in round sums placed by the board of assessors on corners along four thoroughfares radiating from the downtown district. They are at half mile intervals up to a two mile distance from the loop and from there on are at mile intervals. For convenience the same relative corners are used on each street. For example, the northeast corner of intersections along North State and North Clark streets are designated except where there are cemeteries or tax exempt land. The northwest corners of Madison and intersections are used. Along Milwaukee avenue the northeast corners and along South State street the southeast corners are used. In several instances a blank space indicates that the property was then unsubdivided or the records are missing.

All values in the above tables are for land only; the values of buildings, when the properties are improved, are not included. Only the corner lots are given. For example, the northwest corner of State and Madison means only the corner lot, 66.6 x 115.95, and not the entire eight parcels of land under the Boston store. In many other values shown, only part of the land under a building has been taken—merely to establish a unit of value.

Four Highways of Realty Values



This map shows the four thoroughfares radiating from the loop to the city limits and the corner intersections named in the adjacent story of real estate values.

MT. PROSPECT ADOPTS A NEW BUILDING CODE

The village board of Mount Prospect has adopted a new building code. Several months ago President I. E. Besander and the village board of trustees decided it was necessary to bring the code up to date if the town wanted to get its share of new building and to maintain the standard of homes already set. A committee consisting of Trustees S. W. Harrington, chairman, Charles Hennix, and Elmer Wille was appointed to draw up an ordinance. Architect Paul F. Olsen was retained as consulting expert. The new ordinance has been signed by the president.

At the Realty Boards

The West Side Real Estate board will hold an informal luncheon tomorrow noon at the Graemere hotel. Real estate matters will be discussed.

The Allied Real Estate Brokers, Inc., will hold a golf tournament and dinner at the Briargate Country club next Tuesday. It will celebrate the tenth anniversary of the organization of the association. Hugo W. Mortenson and Louis C. Burgener are in charge of the outing.

Active members of the Chicago Real Estate board will vote on amendments to the by-laws at a special meeting next Wednesday at 2:30 p. m.

Use Blueprints to Rent Third of GardenFlats

Sixty-four of the 196 suites in the million dollar Granville Garden apartments, being built at the northwest corner of Hoyne and Granville avenues, already have been rented. Draper & Kramer, rental agents, are using blueprints to close their deals.

Dovenmuehle, Inc., mortgage bankers for the project, yesterday said that within the coming week two model apartments, to be completely decorated and furnished, will be open to the public. One will be a four room unit in the modern Swedish style and the other will be a five room suite furnished in the 18th century English mode.

"Based on leases made we find that the bulk of tenants in the finished buildings will be men and women engaged principally in the professions, or as junior executives in business enterprises," said Ferd Kramer, vice president of Draper & Kramer. "The group contains many doctors, lawyers, teachers, and departmental managers of business firms. Some are retired business men.

"The Greenway Construction company, which has carried on its work at record speed despite the heaviest spring and summer rains in years, now has 134 apartments completely plastered and has definitly stated that the plastering of the remaining sixty-two will be finished within two weeks," said George Dovenmuehle.

Restaurant Firm Leases Space at 1137 East 63d

Alexander's Restaurants, Inc., leased the 38x60 space at 1137-39 East 63d street for a term of years from the Grey estate. Richard W. Gates of McKey & Poague was broker. The lessee is installing a new porcelain store front and modernizing the interior.

Abbott School of Dancing Rents New Loop Quarters

Miss Merriel Abbott has leased space in the 30 East Adams building and will move the Abbott School of Dancing there in the fall. Ralph C. Wilkins of Aldis & Co. was broker.

PLANS DRAWN FOR 50 HOMES; BUILD THIS FALL

Tackett's 1938 Program Has 82 Units.

Plans are now being drawn for fifty residences to be built this fall and winter by W. C. Tackett, Inc., for the spring demand. They will be erected in Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, and La Grange. Construction already is under way on nineteen of the homes, most of them in Scarsdale, Arlington Heights, for fall occupancy.

The Tackett building program for 1938 totals eighty-two new residences. In addition to the nineteen under construction and the contemplated fifty. Tackett said yesterday that his firm has contracted for thirteen additional residences to be built to order in various suburbs.

In Scarsdale, his Arlington Heights development, houses are to be built for Dr. E. B. Clearwater, W. C. Taylor, William Baer, and Clarence Squier. In Edgebrook homes will be erected for Albert Seaman, Herman Ashbaucher, and Marvin C. Boulting.

A home is planned for Dr. Eugene G. Klein in Evanston; one for S. H. Zinns in Elmhurst, for Dr. Albert Mickow in Sauganash, G. Edward Sandmeyer in Beverly Hills, Paul C. Kreuch in Wilmette, and Kurt Sommer, La Grange Park.

Recent sales reported by Tackett are homes at 724 North Seventh avenue, La Grange, to J. Frank Magorian, and at 709 North Seventh, to E. L. Estes.

PLAN 150 MORE HOMES SHORTLY AT ISLAND LAKE

One hundred homes have been built since the opening of Island lake, near Wauconda, by the National Mortgage and Investment company a year ago. Yesterday it was announced that this summer's building program calls for 150 more.

The demand for home sites has been so great, it was said, that the company is rushing the construction of roads through a new heavily wooded and unopened section, the last remaining division of Island lake subdivision. Four miles of the shore has been improved for bathing, and five sand beaches provided. The Island lake development has been approved for Federal Housing administration loans.

CLEARING FIRM PAYS $225,000 FOR ITS PLANT

The Clearing Machine coporation yesterday purchased the plant at 6449 West 65th street, in the Clearing industrial district, which it had been occupying under lease. The price was $225,000, according to H. Perry Phelps, vice president and general manager of the district.

The company, which makes power presses for the metal stamping trades, began business in 1933. Since then it has expanded its plant three times. The building purchased has 65,000 square feet of floor space. R. W. Glasner is president.

Buys Chicago Avenue Building; Will Remodel

Elizabeth J. Hurlburt sold the store and apartment building at 6 East Chicago avenue, lot 23 by 100 feet, to A. J. Refakes, attorney, 134 North La Salle street, who will remodel the property, according to W. J. Boyd, broker for the buyer. E. A. Greenlee of Baird & Warner represented the seller. The property had been in the seller's family since the Chicago fire.

In the foreground is the residence of Francis M. Hynes and adjoining is the home of Norman P. Edgars, on Aberdeen drive, between Isley lane and Andrews drive, in the Arcadia Woodlands section of Lincolnshire estates. These are recent additions to a building program which calls for twenty more units. The Hynes house, designed by Elmer Carlson, cost a reported $11,500 for building and lot. The Edgars home cost $8,000. Charles Archer was the architect. Both have six rooms. Each occupies a lot 100 by 150. One of the proposed twenty new homes is now open for inspection, according to S. N. Homan, president of Lincolnshire Estates, Inc.

Home Building Throughout Nation Increases in June

Home building throughout the country during June was greater than in May and also than in June of last year. According to the United States department of labor, however, the value of residential building in cities reporting was 11 per cent less during the first six months of 1938 than in the same period last year.

The value of new home building for which permits were issued was 12 per cent higher in June than in May. The increase in non-residential construction was 45 per cent. Additions, alterations, and repairs showed a gain of 4 per cent in value.

The ten leaders in the list of 124 big cities reporting, all showed less building during the first half of 1938 as compared with the same period last year, with the exception of three. New York City, Washington, and Houston had more construction than last year.

Following are the ten cities where building was most active during the first part of this year and comparative figures for the first six months of 1937:

New York City	$182,253,000	$142,846,000
Los Angeles	33,197,000	38,721,000
Washington	29,794,000	27,174,000
Detroit	20,135,000	31,697,000
Houston	13,788,000	11,695,000
Chicago	12,551,000	20,614,000
San Francisco	10,354,000	11,011,000
Philadelphia	8,771,000	19,630,000
Baltimore	6,904,000	8,515,000
Boston	5,777,000	13,910,000

"During the first six months of 1938 permits were issued in the cities reporting to the bureau for buildings valued at $782,697,000," the report said. "This is a decrease of 11 per cent as compared with the corresponding period of 1937. The value of new residential buildings also declined 11 per cent. There was a decrease of 7 per cent in the value of non-residential buildings and of 11 per cent in the value of additions, alterations, and repairs."

There were 18,173 residential units provided in the new buildings for which permits were issued during June. This is a gain of 8 per cent over May.

KATHERINE CARR, NARCISSA THORNE BECOME BRIDES

Quiet Ceremonies Held in Chapel and Home.

BY JUDITH CASS.

Among the weddings of interest yesterday were one in Chicago and another in Lake Forest. The brides at these ceremonies were Miss Katherine Carr, elder daughter of George Russell Carr, and Miss Narcissa Thorne, youngest of the Robert J. Thornes' five daughters.

Miss Carr and Robert Henze, son of Prof. and Mrs. Martin Henze of Innsbruck, Austria, were married in a pink and blue setting in the chapel of St. Chrysostom's church, the Rev. Walter Schroeder officiating. The wedding was in direct contrast to the ceremony at St. Chrysostom's in April in which the bride's sister, Martha, was married to Peter G. Moon. The Moon-Carr wedding was a big one, and yesterday's was small, with only the family present. Afterwards Mr. Carr gave a dinner at the Saddle and Cycle.

Sister Bride's Only Attendant.

Mrs. Moon was her sister's only attendant, and Mr. Moon was the best man. The bride wore an exquisite gown of white lace and tulle, and carried stephanotis.

A tiara of stephanotis and edelweiss that was sent from Switzerland by the bridegroom's parents held in place a long tulle veil. Mrs. Moon wore pale blue thin silk crêpe and carried pink roses. Her hat of transparent blue straw was trimmed with two shades of pink tulle. Pink roses and delphiniums decorated the chapel.

Mr. Henze and his bride are going immediately to Pasadena, Cal., to visit her grandmother, Mrs. Jacob Mortensen. Later they will go mountain climbing in the Dolomites. They plan to visit Prof. and Mrs. Henze in Innsbruck before going to London to make their home.

Peet-Thorne Wedding Quiet.

Only relatives were present at the marriage of Miss Thorne to Charles L. Peet of St. Paul at 5 o'clock at the Thornes' Lake Forest home. Even so, there was rather a large group at hand, just as there was at the Henze-Carr wedding, for both brides are widely related. Following the service, which was read by the Rev. Truman Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Thorne gave a large reception.

Miss Thorne wore ice blue satin, covered with ice blue organza, a shade that is particularly becoming to her blondness. The dress was trimmed with old rosepoint lace worn also by two of her sisters, Mrs. Hermon D. Smith and Mrs. G. Corson Ellis. The bride wore also the old rosepoint lace veil worn by them and by the daughters of the George Thornes and carried an old hanky that had been carried by her mother and grandmother. Her flowers were bouvardia and lilies of the valley.

Attendants in Yellow.

Mrs. Alexander B. Spence, who was matron of honor for her sister, and Miss Gertrude Janeway of Los Angeles, the maid of honor, wore yellow frocks in a paler shade than the two bridesmaids, Miss Margot Reid and Miss Sylvia Peter. They all carried yellow daisies and cornflowers. Yellow and white gladiolas decorated the house.

Alfred Lindley of St. Paul was Mr. Peet's best man. Ushers were the bridegroom's brother-in-law, Robert Burns, also of St. Paul; Otto Madlener and Robert Pabst. Mr. Peet and his bride are sailing this week for Europe, taking a car with them. They will travel abroad for a year.

Popcorn Peddler Seized in Evanston Third Time

His insistence on selling popcorn in a restricted zone at Sheridan road and Ridge avenue, Evanston, landed George Tompas in the hands of the police again yesterday. Tompas, who lives at 703 Reba place in the suburb, said he will fight for the right to peddle popcorn to support his family of four. He now faces three court appearances.

GITTA GRADOVA TRIUMPHANT AS RAVINIA SOLOIST

Pianist's Art Brings Huge Audience to Feet.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

In the whole of the pianists' repertoire there is scarcely a single piece more effective than Rachmaninoff's second concerto.

Gitta Gradova, soloist at Ravinia park last evening with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, stormed her way competently through the work's more turbulent passages and soared fetchingly aloft on the magnificently aspiring theme that dominates the last movement. In appreciation, an audience which filled every seat and all the desirable standing room let loose a perfect tempest of hand clapping, stamping, and shouting.

Sweeps Everything Before Her.

The concerto's sultry melodies, huge rhythmic excitement, and general sonorousness were no more important in the final result that the sweep and vigor of Miss Gradova's performance. She carried everything before her in the more headlong sequences of the music, but was too much of a musician to neglect the opportunities for delicate nuance which the more lyrical episodes offer. The close of the slow movement turned out to be especially expressive.

In the face of such a wonderfully effective performance nobody would have the temerity to call attention to the fact that Miss Gradova's tone lacked in a few spots in the first and second movements the roundness and luster that the sturdiness of the orchestral background required. On the conductor's stand, Eugene Goossens shared the musical urge of the soloist and coöperated well in the task of turning in a thoroughly exciting performance. His violas and violins soared as effectively as Miss Gradova's piano when the climatic theme of the concerto was reached.

The purely orchestral items of the evening consisted of Elgar's "Cockaigne" overture, Debussy's "La Mer"; a piece by Mr. Goossens himself called "By the Tarn" and a Welsh rhapsody of Edward German.

Lauds Goossens' Composition.

"By the Tarn" is a thoughtful, runelike little work whose melody moves slowly and at odd intervals through a small compass and whose free and weaving harmonies suggest the dark reflections of which every good tarn is capable. This is no Edgar Allan Poe tarn, but quite an innocent and inexperienced one.

This was the third concert of the Ravinia festival's fourth week. Mr. Goossens conducts again this afternoon, after which Eugene Ormandy arrives to take charge of the final two weeks of the cycle.

U. S. AND BRITISH FLAGS WILL FLY AS CARNEGIE HEIRESS WEDS LAWYER

DORNOCH, Scotland, July 23.—[U. P.]—The stars and stripes and the union jack will float together over Skibo castle on Wednesday when the 18 year old American born heiress, Louise Carnegie Miller, becomes the bride of James Frederick Gordon Thomson, 41 year old Edinburgh lawyer.

The two flags will symbolize the association of the late Andrew Carnegie, part of whose millions the bride will inherit, with the old world from which he emigrated and the new world in which he rose from bobbin boy to steel master.

Carnegie purchased Skibo forty years ago for about $500,000 and spent another half million dollars reconstructing it. The castle's history dates to the 15th century. It is one of the largest and most beautiful in Scotland.

Dornoch cathedral, where the wedding will be solemnized, was built in 1222-'45.

1,020 FIND PEACE IN SHADED QUIET OF ALGONQUIN

City's Tired Poor Forget Penalties of Need.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

Yesterday, a little more than a month after the opening of the summer season at Camp Algonquin, 1,020 poor children and their mothers had shared its gracious country atmosphere.

TRIBUNE readers, whose generosity helped to make these vacations possible, would feel repaid for their kindness if they were subscribers to the little newspaper published by the campers themselves. It tells, more than our words, their gratitude.

Forget Penalties of Need.

"Algonquin," wrote one young mother, "gave us our first knowledge of peace. Its shaded pathways helped us forget, somehow, the penalties of need."

A girl who lives in a tenement on the west side wrote wistfully:

"I like the evening best, when I lie in bed and see the river running past, and the trees far beyond."

And another, a realist: "I like the camp for its swimming, its food, its pretty trees and flowers. And because one can read books in the library."

There were happy reports in the little typewritten journal of stunt nights, nights when thin little boys turned cowboy and bewildered their elders with rope spinning feats; nights when the new Straus hall echoed with women's laughter as workworn mothers forgot they were poor and humbled.

Wants Tribune Readers to Know.

"We want your readers to know these things," said Mrs. Astrid Save, superintendent of the camp. "Because how else would they know how much good they do?"

Two contributions received yesterday will finance a healthful vacation for two needy children, with a little to spare. They are:

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. H.	$ 10.00
C. Watson	10.00
	$ 20.00
Previously acknowledged	707.86
	$727.86

It costs but $9.10 to send a child to the camp for two weeks, and $25.20 to send a mother and her two children. All gifts, regardless of their size, will be welcomed and gratefully acknowledged in these columns.

William Cooper Fowle Weds Antoinette Treadway

Williamstown, Mass., July 23.—[Special.]—Miss Antoinette Treadway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lauris G. Treadway of Lynde Lane, was married to William Cooper Fowle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fuller Fowle of Winnetka, Ill., at Thompson Memorial chapel this afternoon. The Rev. Roy B. Chamberlain, chaplain at Dartmouth college, officiated.

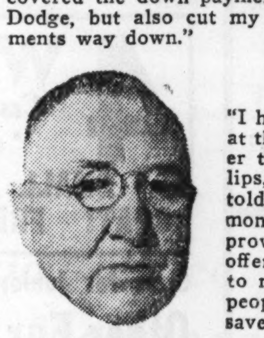
Read What These CHICAGO PEOPLE SAY

"I GOT A WONDERFUL DEAL"
"I heard a lot about saving money in a 'buyer's market,' but I didn't realize how true it was until I heard the wonderful deal my Dodge dealer offered me on my old car," says W. A. Kalck, 3734 North Clifton Ave. "I tell you it opened my eyes. To give you an idea what a peach of a trade-in allowance I got, it not only covered the down payment on my new Dodge, but also cut my monthly payments way down."



"I'D ADVISE ANYONE TO BUY NOW"
"I had no intention of buying a new car at this time, until I met my Dodge dealer the other day," says Harry G. Phillips, 719 Hinman Avenue, Evanston. "He told me that if I wanted to save real money, I should buy right now. He sure proved it to me, too, because the deal he offered me then and there was enough to make me say 'yes'! I'll bet lots of people don't realize how much they can save by buying their new Dodge now."

"DIDN'T HAVE TO PAY A CENT IN CASH"
"Buying a new car without going to the bank is a good trick if you can do it," says Leo G. Tondreau, 3037 N. Kilbourn Avenue. "Well, I did it, and I can thank my Dodge dealer for making it possible. He gave me such a swell deal on my old car that I'm now enjoying the comforts of a big new Dodge without having laid a penny of cash on the line."

IF YOUR CAR IS OF AVERAGE VALUE YOU'LL BE AMAZED HOW EASILY YOU CAN OWN A NEW DODGE! USE THIS COUPON. SEE YOUR DODGE DEALER!

Do you know that right now is the best time in years to get top value for your old car? Economists tell us that right now we are in the midst of a great "buyer's market." Hundreds of motorists the country over are taking full advantage of this condition to trade in their old car on a big new Dodge without having to invest a cent in cash! Another reason they are buying now, they say, is that their present cars are bringing them more on a trade-in now than they will later on.

30 DAYS FROM NOW MAY BE TOO LATE!

This "buyer's market" can't last forever! That's why, if you are considering buying a new car, now is the time to see your Dodge dealer. Besides, he needs used cars for the busy summer season, so he is giving full trade-in allowances to make it easy for you to enjoy new Dodge comfort and economy all summer long!

Smart Buyers Are Saving Money 2 Ways!

Many buyers report that their Dodge dealer's full trade-in allowance took care of the down payment and several additional payments besides. In addition they say they are saving money two ways due to the amazing economy of their big new Dodge. Owners everywhere report 18 to 24 miles per gallon of gas—up to 20% savings on oil!

WHY WAIT? ENJOY A NEW DODGE NOW!

Here, then, is your opportunity to start enjoying the style and comfort of a big new Dodge—at savings you may never get again. Make this convincing test tomorrow:

Drive in to your Dodge dealer and let him quote you his full trade-in allowance on your present car. If your car is of average value, you'll be amazed how easily you can own a new Dodge. Don't wait a day longer. Drive in tomorrow! You can buy on budget terms to suit your needs! And remember, Dodge is priced just a few dollars more than the lowest-priced cars!

CLOSE ALL-STAR PLAYER VOTE AT MIDNIGHT!

Poll on Coaches Opens Today.

BY ARCH WARD.

The greatest popularity contest sport has known ends at midnight tonight. That hour marks the end of the national poll conducted by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and 150 associated newspapers to determine a starting lineup for the College All-Americans against the Washington Redskins in Chicago's fifth annual All-Star football game in Soldiers' field Aug. 31.

The vote this morning totals 3,580,996. Final standings will not be available until Wednesday. When all returns have been counted the figure is almost certain to exceed 5,000,000.

Governors have rested from their executive duties to cast ballots for their candidates. In one case—Mississippi—the entire state legislature forwarded votes to this department for sectional headliners. Heads of great industries in Detroit, Cincinnati, Toledo, and Chicago have wired their ballots or made personal calls in behalf of their favorites. The votes have come from New England, California, Washington, Louisiana, Texas, Florida, Maryland, and intermediate points. Every section of the country has responded.

No Monopoly on Talent.

The amazing interest in the All-Star game is attributable to the popularity of intercollegiate football. It has been demonstrated convincingly in the last decade that no section of the nation has a monopoly on gridiron talent. For that reason all parts of the country are anxious and determined to have representation in the game that presents the finest players in the land.

Sports editors who were skeptical of the success of the venture in the beginning are stunned at results. Many have found their personnel inadequate to handle the rush of votes. Maurice Shevlin, sports editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, spoke for a majority of the newspaper executives when he remarked last night as the player poll neared the finish line, "This thing has got me dizzy."

The player poll ends tonight, but the nation's voting spree is only half finished. The same newspapers and radio stations which have conducted the balloting for athletes will today open a poll that will decide a staf of coaches to handle the squad.

Every fan in the nation is invited to send in his preference for coaches. You are permitted to name three in the order you wish. First place will count three points, second two, and third one. The total number of points at the conclusion of the poll two weeks from today will decide the staf. The coach with the greatest number will be in charge and the next four in the order of finish will be his assistants. Any coach who was actively engaged last season is eligible except the four head coaches of previous squads. They are Noble Kizer of Purdue, who handled the 1934 team; Frank Thomas of Alabama, who was head coach in 1935; Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, the 1936 leader, and Charles Dorais of Detroit, who led the All-Stars to a 6 to 0 victory over the Green Bay Packers last summer.

Dorais Polls Heaviest Vote.

Dorais last year collected 1,241,658 first place votes. This was the Cravat Runs Third Ahead of Stagehand

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Nedayr, running in the colors of a famous stable, made a traditionally great race out of the Classic stakes yesterday at Arlington Park. Going unheralded into this $35,000 event, Willis Sharpe Kilmer's courageous brown colt matched his speed against the finest 3 year olds in training and he came through with a mighty stretch run that brought the 30,000 spectators to their feet in mingled jubilation and dismay.

He beat Warren Wright's Bull Lea to the finish line by a length. Three lengths farther back came Townsend B. Martin's Cravat, and in fourth place galloped the highly regarded Stagehand, Maxwell Howard's star performer which had been made the 7 to 5 favorite.

Patience Is Rewarded.

For months, Trainer W. A. Crawford had been nursing Nedayr along, hoping that he would recover from a sick spell that hit him in the spring. He went into yesterday's race with little more than a few good workouts in the east to recommend him to the betters and as a result he rewarded his followers handsomely. His mutuel tickets were worth $31.60 to win, $12 to place, and $7.40 to show.

The track, drenched during a heavy storm Friday, dried rapidly through an afternoon of sunshine, and by the time the horses went to the post for the Classic it was what is technically known as slow. Nedayr, known to have ability as a mudder, ran the mile and a quarter in 2:06 1-5.

Most of the betting conjecture revolved around the question of whether the Howard entry of Stagehand and The Chief should become the favorite because of its demonstrated speed or whether Hal Price Headley's Menow should be accorded that honor because of his mud running ability. Meanwhile, not only Nedayr, but also Bull Lea was overlooked.

Pays $9.80 to Place.

Bull Lea, whose main claim to consideration was based on two victories over Menow at Keeneland in the spring, went to the post at such generous odds that he paid $9.80 to place and $6 to show. Cravat, which had performed creditably in the Preakness and in the Belmont Stakes, paid $4.40 to show.

The Classic, a $30,000 added event, grossed $35,025 with eight starters. Of this, $27,500 went to the winner. Second place was worth $4,000, third $2,000 and fourth $1,000. Following the race, Thomas E. Wilson, vice president of the Post and Paddock club, presented the trophy to Trainer Crawford, who represented Owner Kilmer. The trophy, a replica of the Coronation cup won by Mrs. John Hertz's Reigh Count in England in 1929, became the permanent possession of Mr. Kilmer.

Given a Brilliant Ride.

Jocky Wayne Wright, who arrived by plane from his home in Rexburg, Idaho, only a short time before the race, was given credit for a brilliant ride in bringing Nedayr home in front. He rated the colt cleverly in the early stages, made his move at just the right time and was in full command at the finish.

With a minimum of prancing and sidestepping, the field of eight fastidious thoroughbreds moved into position in the starting gate. Up went the barrier and away they sped, with Jocky Nick Wall whipping Menow into the lead along the rail. Irving Anderson brought Bull Lea right out with him and the two raced head and head past the stands with The Chief in close attendance.

Around the clubhouse turn they galloped, with the three leaders maintaining their same positions, Fairflax running fourth and Nedayr fifth. Jocky Wright, seeing that his mount was outrun in the early stages, steadied him and made no effort to catch the pacesetters. Blind Eagle was running sixth at this stage, Cravat seventh and Stagehand last.

Nedayr Begins Drive.

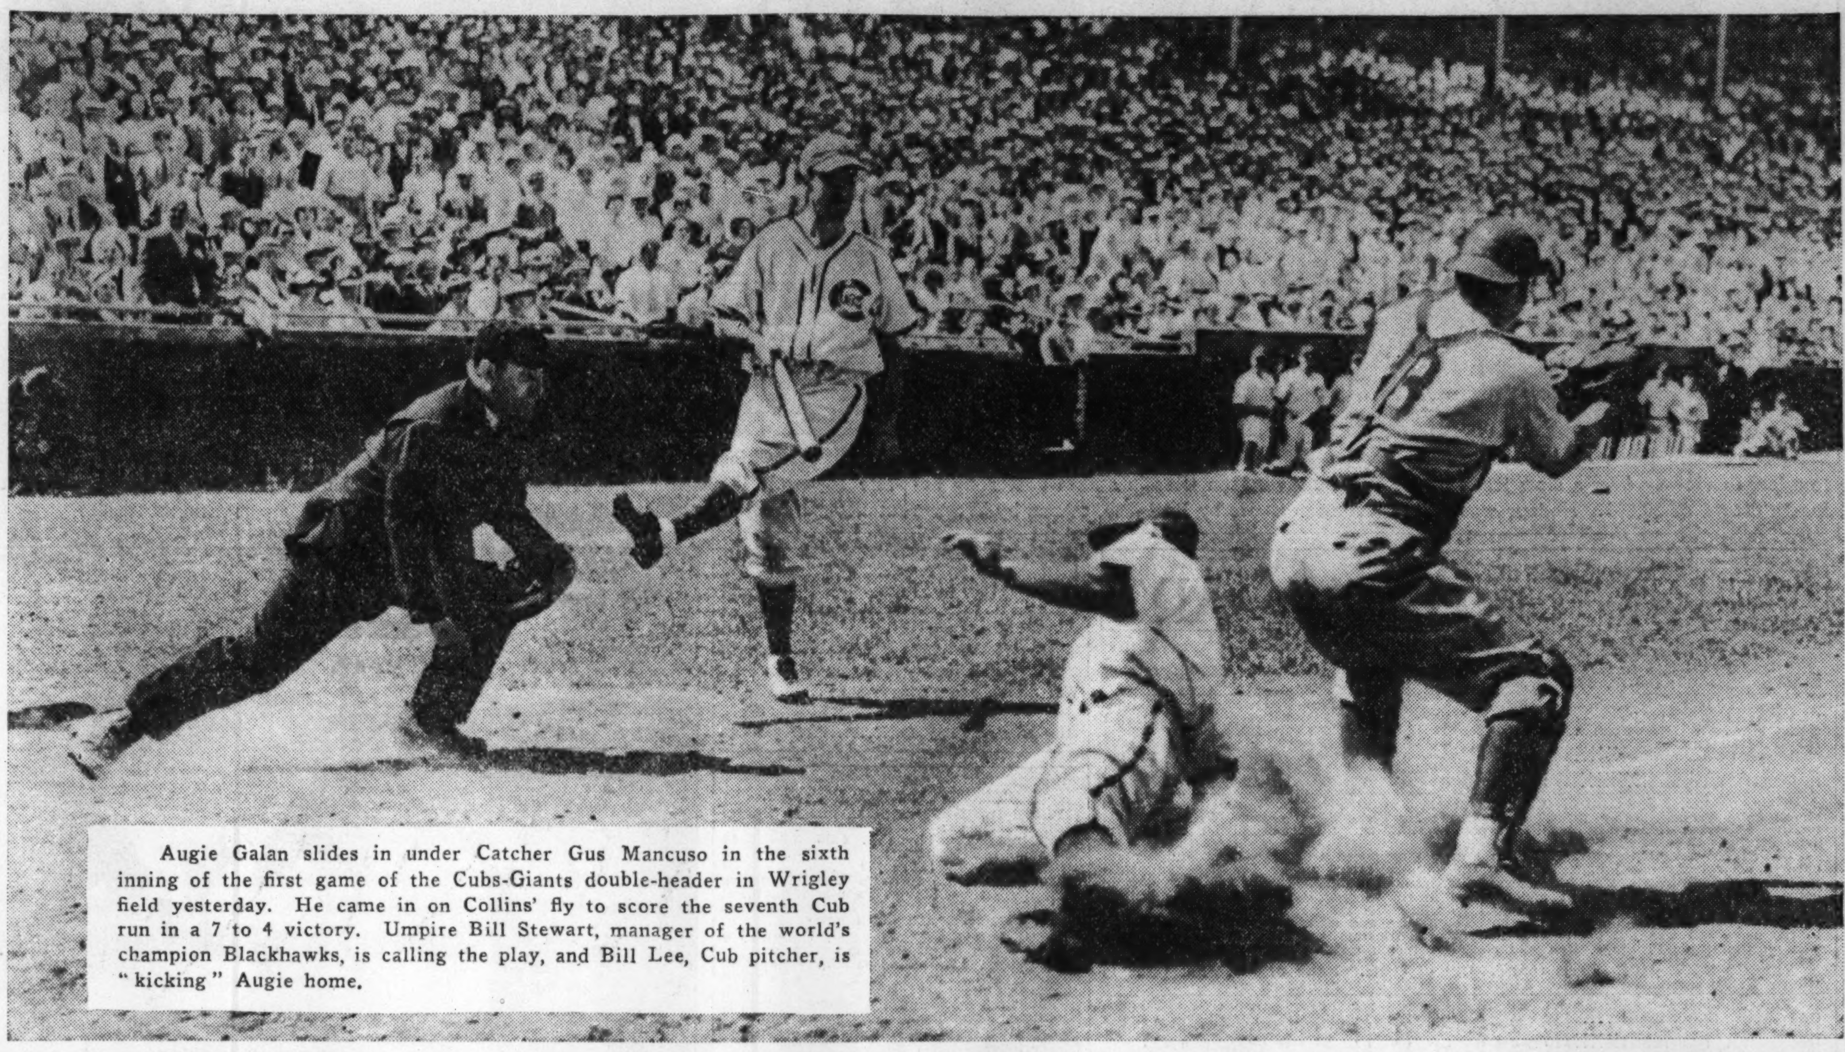
Down the back stretch they swept, the gay colors of the riders making a brilliant fast moving picture in bright sunshine against the back ground of green and gold fields. And still Menow was hanging stubbornly to the lead while Bull Lea fought him stride for stride. But now Jocky Wright was beginning to maneuver Nedayr toward the front. He passed the rapidly quitting Fairflax, but at the three-quarters the pacesetting Menow was still more than seven lengths away.

On the lower bend Irving Anderson's red sleeved arm rose and fell as he whipped Bull Lea past the faltering Menow to take the lead. And then came Nedayr. Moving with a tremendous rush, he passed The Chief. As they hit the turn into the stretch he made up ground at every stride. He caught Menow at the head of the stretch, but Bull Lea still was two lengths away.

Wright's whip rose and fell. Nedayr responded. Bull Lea was game, but that difficult track, sticky after the storm, was beginning to tell on his stamina. A sixteenth from home Nedayr caught him. Jocky Wright continued to drive hard and Nedayr drew clear. On he went to cross the finish a full length in the lead.

Meanwhile, Cravat and Stagehand had moved up while the front runners were quitting, but they were unable to get to the leaders.

ONE THAT COUNTED AND ONE THAT DIDN'T



Augie Galan slides in under Catcher Gus Mancuso in the sixth inning of the first game of the Cubs-Giants double-header in Wrigley field yesterday. He came in on Collins' fly to score the seventh Cub run in a 7 to 4 victory. Umpire Bill Stewart, manager of the world's champion Blackhawks, is calling the play, and Bill Lee, Cub pitcher, is "kicking" Augie home.

Rip Collins, Cub first baseman, is tagged out by Third Baseman Mel Ott of the Giants in the fourth inning when trapped trying to advance from second on Lee's bunt. The umpire is Dolly Stark.

SNEAD FIRES 64 FOR 4 SHOT LEAD IN CHICAGO OPEN

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

A placid young man who was reared in the hills of Virginia became slightly irritated yesterday afternoon. His name is Samuel Jackson Snead. One week ago yesterday he took quite a licking from a little man named Paul Runyan in the finals of the national professional show.

Yesterday Master Snead made a cat o' nine tails out of every club he swung in dealing the No. 1 course at Olympia Fields in the first official round of the Chicago open tournament one of the major floggings of the season. His chastisement consisted of ten pars and eight birdies, all of them lashing the course for a 64, eight under par. His punishment of Olympia's No. 1 lot was one of the most merciless in major competition. It smashed to bits the course record of 67 established by Walter Hagen in the western open of 1927. It also duplicated the 64 with which Ralph Guldahl won the western open title in 1936.

"Should Have Been 60."

Snead, the 25 year old who was hidden in those Virginia hills until he first broke forth on the horizon of tournament play a year ago last winter, was highly irked about his 64.

"Gee, it should have been a cinch 60," he said.

And possibly the young man who came so fast he ran second in his first national open and likewise in his second P. G. A., might have been right. It was obvious to the trained eyes among those of the 6,000 spectators who came out to Olympia Fields that he certainly could have had at least a 61, after seeing him miss putts of less than eight feet on the first three holes.

The only man in the field to pursue Snead even closely was Ky Laffoon, the Northmoor pro who for the last five years has been one of the keenest of medal play sharpshooters. Ky tossed out a 68, which seemed

What happened to the bantam-raised family of Bob Whites—the incident of the dogs that killed nearly 150 turkeys—notes about the newest flowers in the fields—these are subjects of Bob Becker's article about activities at the Tribune's Du Page county farm. Five Yachts Lead in Race to Mackinac

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Coast Guard Cutter Escanaba, July 23.—Four single masted yachts and one yawl rigged yacht tonight were leading the fleet of forty-seven boats that left Belmont harbor, Chicago, this afternoon in the thirty-first race to Mackinac Island.

They are the Gloriant, the Warrior, the Princess, and the Tar Baby in the racing division, and the Rubaiyat, last year's winner, in the cruising division.

The fleet's progress has been none too rapid. A northeast wind of ten mile strength that sent the yachts on their way this afternoon had diminished tonight to a virtual calm, and the leading boats were only twenty-eight miles from the starting point.

Some of the yawls, including the Bagheera and the Manitou, were charting a course that paralleled the Wisconsin shore.

HENRY SCHULTE, NEBRASKA TRACK COACH, RETIRES

Lincoln, Neb., July 23.—(AP)—Henry F. Schulte, veteran track coach at the University of Nebraska and member of the coaching staf for the American team in the 1928 Olympics, retired today because of poor health. He will be succeeded by Ed Weir, freshman football coach. Schulte was head football coach for several years at Nebraska, but most of his career was devoted to track.

Gabby Hartnett (left), new Cubs' manager, and Dizzy Dean come out of the dugout to take excellent care of battery duties in the second game. Dean held the Giants to five hits.

Young Feller Admits Fast Ball Is Gone

Boston, Mass., July 23.—(AP)—Bob Feller admitted today his fast ball, which made him the boy wonder of baseball, is gone.

The Cleveland pitcher, knocked out of the box here the fifth time in four weeks, added he doesn't know what's the matter.

"Somewhere between last season and this I've lost my fast ball," the troubled 19 year old Iowan said.

"I mean I still throw a good fast one, occasionally, but I can't pump it in, pitch after pitch, like I did last year. Worse than that, I can't snap off that fast curve any more without making it practically a wild pitch."

Wildness a Problem.

Feller's biggest problem has been his wildness, most of his exits following a parade of batters around the bases on passes. He said he hasn't altered his delivery to any great degree, but he expressed some concern when he told of a click in his arm that has stayed with him since his elbow was injured last season.

"When I first started to pitch in the American league, batters invariably pulled away from the plate as they swung at my fast one. Now they're stepping into it," he said.

Upset by Infield's Advice.

"It think they used to regard me simply as a freak kid and weren't going to take any chances of having their heads knocked off. Now they seem to regard me as just another pitcher."

Bob admitted he has been upset when infielders come in and talk to him during one of his wild streaks.

"They always tell me to get it over the plate. What do they think I'm trying to do—throw it up in the press box?"

DEAN HURLS FIVE HIT VICTORY; LEE WINS FIRST

Six Run Blast Routs Gumbert.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The champion New York Giants were made to pay yesterday for some of the indignities they've heaped on the Cubs in the past and a 43,233 crowd chuckled as the title holders were crumpled in a double-header. In the first game the Chicagoans, fortified by a six run second inning, wrecked their old foes, 7 to 4. Then they did it again, 3 to 1, in a struggle featuring another comeback by the illustrious Dizzy Dean and some fist throwing by Bill Jurges and peppery Dick Bartell.

Dean, always the superb showman, overlooked nothing in the effort to furnish amusement as well as achieve results. His performance, which he accomplished on five hits and no distress for his carefully groomed $185,000 arm, was started and finished with pleasing ease. He walked only one and the gift resulted in the only run registered in his sixth start and his fifth victory as a Cub. He made only eighty-eight pitches.

'Twas a Fine Brawl.

As baseball fights go, the Jurges-Bartell imbroglio was above the average. The two were involved in a play at second base in the fourth inning when the Cubs scored their winning runs off Hal Schumacher. Jurges thought Bartell was unnecessarily rude in tagging him. Bartell thought it was just the opposite. So they mauled each other on the ground and then, after getting on their feet, took to free-for-all slugging. Eventually every member of both teams arrived and the fun stopped. The belligerents were thrown out of the game.

The incident which decided the first game and put Bill Lee as well as the other Cubs on easy street occurred in the second inning. The Cubs, assembling twice as much power as they showed in all the other innings, unloaded six hits and a pass on two enemy pitchers. Harry Gumbert stayed until four of the hits and the pass had been accounted for with none out. Then Dick Coffman, the noted rescuer, was summoned and he yielded the two more hits. One of these was damaging. It was a triple with which Lee drove in two runs, later scoring himself.

Lee Gets Smashed.

Without that early six run splurge Lee might not have achieved his twelfth victory of the season. The Giants pummeled him for thirteen hits, treatment the General hadn't received since he started his winning ways with a 1 to 0 decision over the champs back in mid-May. Lee, having been reached for seven hits in the first four innings, had to summon all his skill to keep out of trouble.

FIRST GAME

Lee's start in the first game wasn't exactly auspicious. The Giants spiked him with a couple of doubles, but only one run scored. Bartell led off with one to right and Kampouris attempted to sacrifice, but his bunt resulted in the retirement of Bartell at third. Leslie flied to Galan, then Ott doubled to right, scoring Kampouris.

The second inning storm that blew Gumbert into the discard began with O'Dea singling to center and going to third on Galan's single to right. A grounder by Reynolds took a hop over Leslie for a double, O'Dea scoring the tying run. Gumbert courted more trouble by walking Demaree, filling the bases. Collins slashed a single into right, sending Galan and Reynolds home. This was where Gumbert surrendered.

Lee Belts One.

Coffman got his share of misery pitching to Lee, who hoisted a fly to right center. Ripple, while on the run, got his glove around the ball, but it dropped out of his grip for a triple, Demaree and Collins scoring. Jurges rolled out and, on Herman's fly to Ripple, Lee scored the sixth run.

The Giants got nothing on two hits in the second but they produced

CLASSIC DAY IS A GAY DAY FOR ITS OLD FRIENDS

Society Rallies Around a Favorite Race.

"I never miss the Classic" is what one heard on all sides yesterday at Arlington Park, where the ranks of regular racegoers were swelled by those who make at least one trip a season to the beautiful track northwest of the city. Some of these annual visitors came from far away; the most widely known ones were to be found at the Post and Paddock or Jockey clubs. Mr. and Mrs. America, touring the country on a summer holiday, joined the throngs in the grandstands. All had an equally good time, for the sun was bright and warm and a brisk west wind kept the temperature from rising too high.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Rube Goldberg, Jesse Jones, Grantland Rice, former Gov. James M. Cox of Dayton, O.; Sam Stone, who is president of the Pendennis club in Louisville, and Mrs. Howell B. Howard of Dayton, who represented her father-in-law, Col. Maxwell Howard, owner of Stagehand and The Chief, were some of the better known visitors.

Mrs. Howard was a guest at luncheon of Laurance H. Armour, president of the Post and Paddock club, and Mrs. Armour. After luncheon the Armours and their guests and Albert D. Lasker and his guests, including Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Goldberg, overflowed into the John D. Hertzes' and neighboring boxes.

A Gay and Busy Section.

That section of the Post and Paddock club boxes was particularly gay, with people calling to pay their respects to Mrs. Howard, who is the former Loretta Hines of Chicago. She looked pretty as a picture in a black and white print gown and a tiny black straw toque. Her hostess wore a flattering wide brimmed hat of natural straw with a crown of white daisies and a beige print frock.

"Who is that attractive woman?" several asked of this reporter, indicating another of the Armours' guests. She was Mrs. Harold Talbot of New York, noted for her chic. Yesterday Mrs. Talbot wore a brown and cream print dress, a brown felt beret spiked with a long feather, and a choker and bracelet of gleaming pearls. The ensemble effectively set off her deep tan.

Hats are not so crazy now, or so it seemed yesterday, noticing the number of more conventional and becoming ones that appeared. Few could have been too preoccupied with racing forms not to notice Mrs. T. Philip Swift's fetching blue bonnet, a simple one of jersey trimmed with a row of large blue cornflowers at one side. Her sister, Mrs. Dexter Cummings, wore a white pique one and Mrs. William McCormick Blair wore a plain brimmed one of navy sheer straw with a red print gown.

Watch from Shelter of Boxes.

They and the Austin Niblacks, Robert F. Carr, I. Newton Perry, the William H. Mitchells, the Charles F. Glores, the Walter Brewsters, the Charles S. Deweys, the Silas Strawns, Robert Hall McCormick, Miss Anna Fitzhugh, Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever, and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris watched the races from the shelter of the boxes.

Another of Chicago's best dressed women, Mrs. Howard Linn, paused to compare racing notes with Mrs. Robert R. McCormick and one saw at once that Mrs. Linn's shoes, as well as her braided straw hat, were highlights of her costume. The shoes were new high soled ones of white and green—the white part being the extra thick soles.

Another visitor was Mrs. Horatio B. Hackett, who now lives in New York. She was with Mrs. Charles W. McNear and her daughter, Mrs. Warren Towle Jr., who is here from Georgia for the summer, and the Howard Ellises and Mrs. Louis Bush. They watched from the terrace of the Post and Paddock, where another large luncheon party was made up of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Collins Jr., her sister and brother-in-law, the Solomon B. Smiths; the Morris Wauds, Dr. and Mrs. Sydney Waud, Miss Betty Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Press Hodkins.

Luncheon on Terrace.

Also having luncheon on the terrace were Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Watts, Mrs. Oliver S. Picher, Mrs. Oswald Lockett, her sister, Miss Frances Madden, and some of Stanton Picher's friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Rompen of Miami, Fla., were among Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. McCulloch's guests. Subdebutante Lenore Cudahy was with her father, Edward I. Cudahy, and her uncle, Gerald Cudahy. Also with them were Mr. Stone and Baylor Hickman, also of Louisville. Admiral and Mrs. Hayne Ellis, and Gen. and Mrs. Hugh Drum were with the Roy D. Keehns. The Stanley Zarings drove down from Oconomowoc, Wis. especially to watch the Classic.

GRIMM RETURNS; PREPARES TO BE AN ANNOUNCER

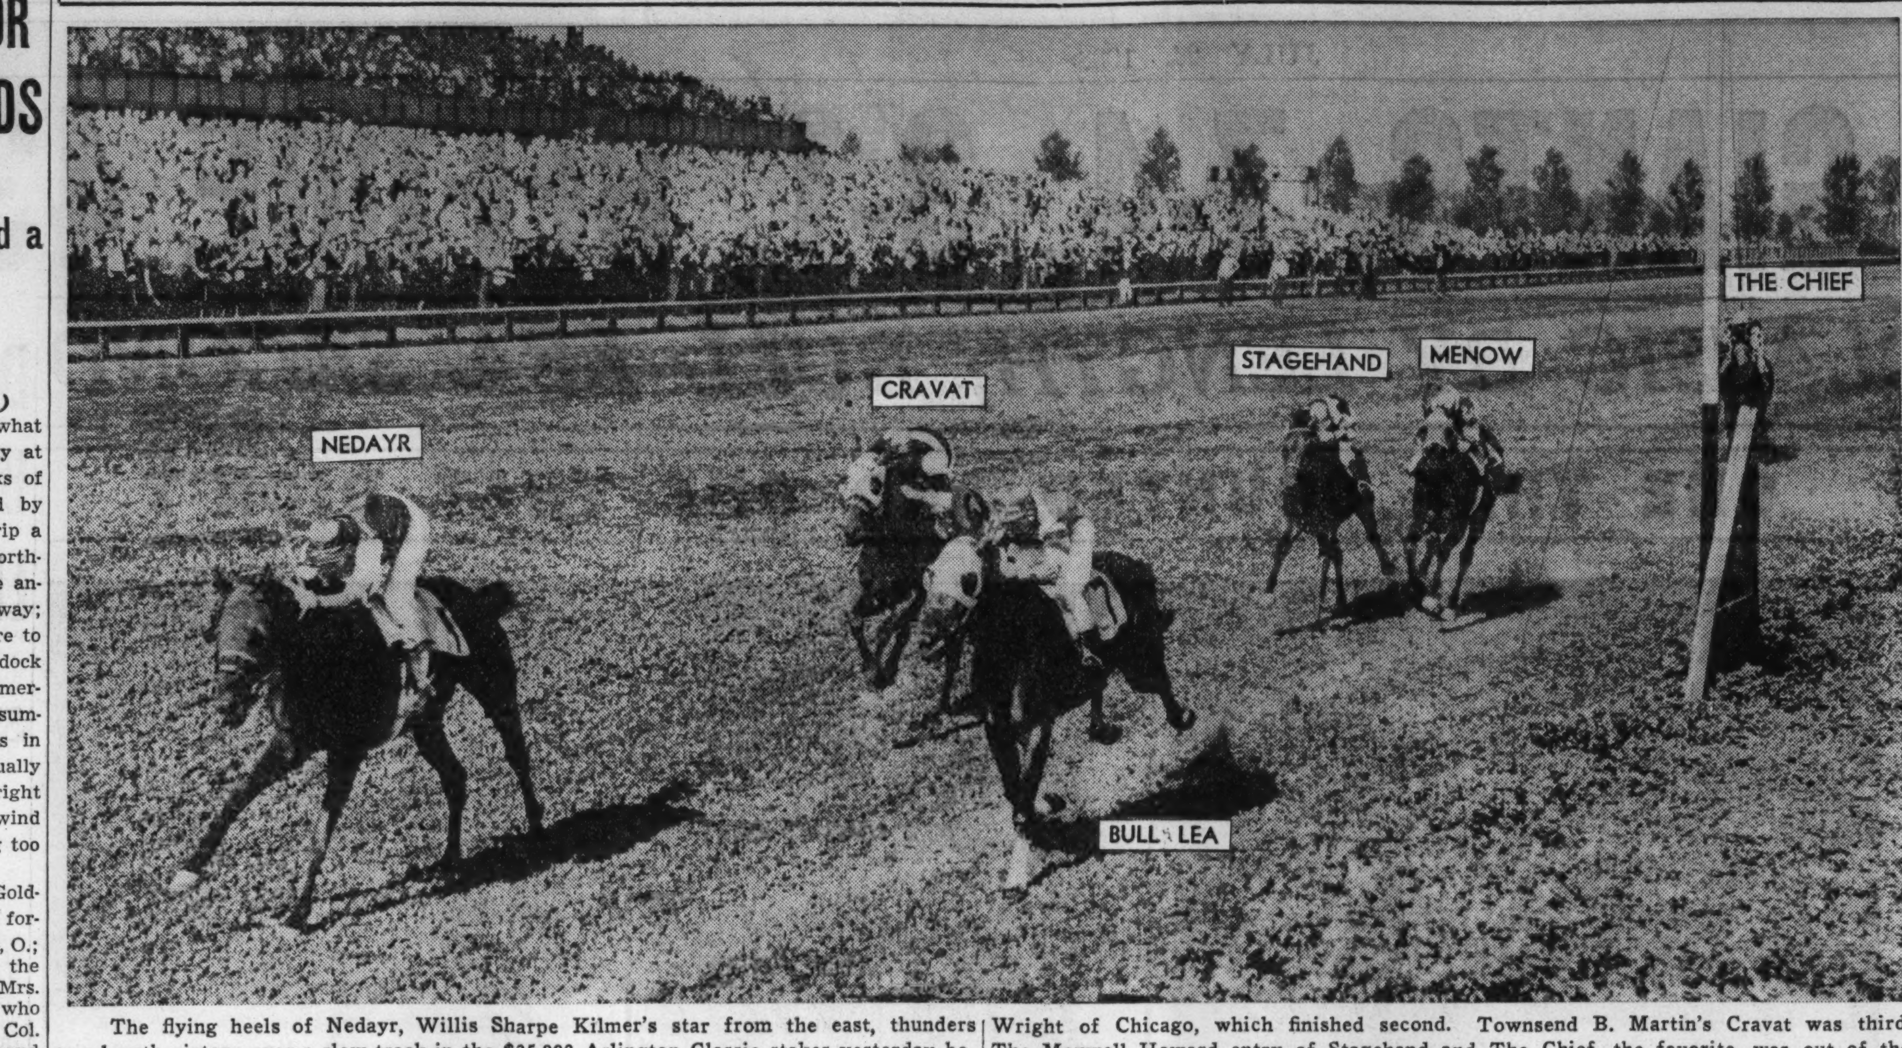
Charlie Grimm, former manager of the Cubs, returned yesterday for a conference with officials of station WBBM, for whom he will go to work as a sports announcer describing the final game of the Cubs-Giants series this afternoon.

Grimm was greeted at the station by a handful of trainmen. He looked rested, and stated that he was glad to get back to work in Wrigley field —even if only on the sidelines.

Grimm said he would get "lots of things off my chest" in a special coast-to-coast CBS broadcast at 9:15 o'clock tonight on WBBM.

IT TAKES MORE THAN A SLOW TRACK TO HOLD NEDAYR



The flying heels of Nedayr, Willis Sharpe Kilmer's star from the east, thunders to a length victory over a slow track in the $35,000 Arlington Classic stakes yesterday before a crowd of 30,000. Nedayr was put to strong pressure by Bull Lea, owned by Warren Wright of Chicago, which finished second. Townsend B. Martin's Cravat was third. The Maxwell Howard entry of Stagehand and The Chief, the favorite, was out of the money with Stagehand fourth and The Chief sixth. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

CLOUDY WEATHER, cleverly ridden and having speed from the start, quickly recovered after being eased back to go to the outside after getting into close quarters leaving the backstretch, was forced wide on the stretch turn, stood a drive with good courage after straightening out and got up in the closing strides. JOHN FRANCIS also had speed from the start, appeared to place the winner in close quarters soon after reaching the turn, bore out on the stretch turn and also went with determination in the drive but was not good enough. MY ELSIE improved her position gradually, was on the inside in the stretch and closed in resolute fashion.

SECOND RACE—Mile. Hertz course. Out of chute. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Bellew Jr. Went to post at 2:56. Off at once. Start good from permanent stall. Won driving, place same.

GAY MAY moved up while still under a good hold approaching the final half mile, followed CHUBBINS under light reserve rounding the turn, responded well to take command with a rush but tired badly and was ridden out. LINA MAC bettered her position gradually, went to the inside in the stretch and held on well. INSCOMIRA was under urging after about three-eighths and passed only distressed horse in the final eighth.

TRANSMUTABLE, well up from start and rated under a stout hold for a half mile, raced into command gradually and, much the best, drew out fast through the final eighth. SQUAW LADY, unable to get through when racing on the inside leaving the backstretch, slipped through while coming with good belated speed in the stretch and shook off BLACK RIVER in the last fifty yards. BLACK RIVER, under good urging from start, held on fairly well.

Winner trained by B. A. Jones. Went to post at 4:07½. At post ½ minute. Start good from Bahr gate. Won easily; place driving.

TECHNICIAN, away fast and having good speed, appeared to bear over slightly from outside soon after reaching the turn, raced around DOUBT NOT with a rush after reaching the last three-eighths and continuing strongly, held sway thereafter. ON LOCATION, under good urging early, but taken back when apparently lacking room soon after reaching the turn, moved up on the outside on the stretch turn and held on well through last three-sixteenths. ALLTIME HIGH, away very slowly, was under hustling tactics from the start and showed a good effort.

R. Miller. Went to post at 4:38. At post ½ minute. Start good from permanent stalls. Won easily; place driving.

GREY GOLD, on the inside throughout, moved up slightly under urging when nearing the turn, was eased a trifle when the leaders threatened to block him on the stretch turn but, getting through, took command with a rush and won with little left. MUCHO GUSTO had good speed from the start, held on well when challenged after reaching the last three-eighths but could not withstand the winner and continued with determination to shake off MAIN MAN in the last eighth. Latter, moved up between horses, made a courageous bid entering the stretch but weakened in the last eighth.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and one-quarter. Classic stakes. Three year olds. Purse $30,000 added. Net value to winner, $27,500; second, $4,000; third, $2,000; fourth, $1,000.

NEDAYR, steadied when outrun, began to improve his position after reaching the final half mile, was placed to strong pressure in the last quarter and, holding on with determination, wore down BULL LEA in the last sixteenth. The latter forced the pace under snug restraint for about seven-eighths, drew into command gradually and went on with good courage, but was not good enough. CRAVAT, badly outrun early and raced wide, was slow to respond to urging but rallied strongly in the final five sixteenths and finished boldly.

Won ridden out, place driving.

RHINIZ, rated under a strong hold to the final half mile, raced to CARDIBRE gradually under a light hand ride, took command soon after entering the stretch and was ridden out. STEPINANNA, raced wide, was under a good hold for a mile and one-quarter, did not rally when called upon, yet held on well and overtook CARDIBRE in the closing strides. The latter made the pace under restraint to the final three-eighths and held on well in the last three-sixteenths before faltering badly.

EIGHTH RACE—Mile and one-quarter. Claiming. Four year olds and up. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Winner trained by E. Haughton. Went to post 6:17½. At post 2 minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won easily, place driving.

BUTTER BEANS forced the pace under strong restraint, responded to urging on the second turn and, taking command, drew out and won easily. RARE BEN made the pace under good rating, readily gave way to the winner but held on well in the drive. GOOD POLITIAN, never far back and in hand for three quarters while saving ground, held on well in the drive.

Grand Circuit, Rained Out 5 Days, Goes to Agawam

Old Orchard Beach, Me., July 23.—(AP)—Grand circuit horsemen, harassed by rains which washed out five days' scheduled light harness racing here this week, left tonight for Agawam Park, Springfield, Mass., next stop of the "roaring grand" caravan. Many of the fastest pacers and trotters in the sport were en route to the Bay state track, which launches nine days of racing next Wednesday. That left only enough half mile campaigners here to fill out races scheduled for the meeting's windup Monday and Tuesday.

Work a Lure Slowly if You Want Muskie

BY BOB BECKER.

When the weed beds in muskie lakes have attained their full summer growth many a fisherman digs into his tackle box for a surface lure that will ride over most of the vegetation and thus come through without much trouble. Although spoon lures and underwater plug lures may be worked in some waters during July and August, we find that around the large weed beds which grow up to the top of the lake or stream it often is necessary to reach a muskie by tossing surface lures over the vegetation and then retrieving them slowly.

Result: A Muskie.

We are a firm believer in the idea of working a surface lure slowly. We can recall one big log jam which we cast for muskies. We were willing to bet 10 to 1 that a good sized 'lunge was sulking under the logs. So we smacked a surface lure [one of those with two spinners on it] into the old timbers and then did everything we could to that lure to make it jump, nose dive, and dance around. We brought it in so slowly that it took about ten tugs on the line to make it travel a couple of feet. The idea was to make the fish so annoyed with this water splasher above his head that he couldn't resist taking a sock at it.

We doubt very much if this 20 pounder would have rushed out of his lair if we had cast the plug above him and then reeled it out at a mile a minute clip. In fact, this particular 'lunge didn't offer at our lure the first time. But he couldn't stand the sight of that kicking object when it came back several times and threw water in his face. The result of this program of working the surface lure very slowly was a nice muskie.

Lures in Tribune Book.

The muskie is not a fast fish. If he had the speed of a bonefish, a mackerel, or a salmon he'd be a tough one to handle. And he's apt to be even slower and more sluggish than usual on a hot July or August day. Such being the case a slow, tantalizing surface lure which annoys a muskie sometimes will bring a savage strike around a weed bed when other lures fail to turn the trick.

Fishermen will find a number of muskie lures illustrated in the TRIBUNE's new fishing book, "Which Lures and Where." This 84 page fishing guide discusses not only lures but also muskie fishing tactics.

Galento Sinks as Illness Reaches Critical Stage

Orange, N. J., July 23.—[Special.]—Tony Galento was losing his fight for life in the Orange Memorial hospital late tonight. Joe Jacobs, his manager, said the heavyweight challenger's condition was "very critical." He added in a broken whisper "his life it as stake and will be for the next 36 hours. Dr. Higi says we'll know then—one way or the other."

Jacobs, visibly deeply moved, said "Please don't ask me any questions. I don't want to talk to any one." His voice broke, momentarily, then he added, "Tony is very bad. That's all I can say."

Late this afternoon they told Tony for the first time that he had pneumonia. Looking up from his oxygen tent, he answered, "I'll lick that bum just like I've licked those other bums in the ring." Early tonight Galento's condition took the first change for the worse since he was brought to the hospital at 7 p. m. yesterday.

Galento was told he had bronchitis the first few times he asked what was wrong. Then he became suspicious of the whispered conferences between Dr. Joseph Higi and Jacobs, of the tent and of innoculations he was given during the afternoon.

Finally Jacobs said: "Tony, you've got a slight case of pneumonia and you'll have to fight it just as hard as you ever fought in the ring."

Tony promised and added: "Thanks, Joe, I feel better now that I know what I'm fighting."

Galento's wife, Mary, visited him today when he awoke for the first time at 9 a. m., but Tony soon fell asleep again. He awoke again at noon and asked his wife about their baby son, Tony Jr. Assured he was well, Tony wanted to know when he was going to get out.

"Not for a few days," his wife answered.

CHURCH TEAMS CATCH UP WITH DOUBLE-HEADERS

In an effort to play off postponed games rained out on previous Saturdays, four of the teams of the Church A. A. of Chicago participated in double-headers yesterday, with the following results:

Trinity Evangelical Lutheran, 10–11; Irving Park Baptist, 8–2.
Lamon Avenue Methodist, 11–10; First Christian Reformed, 3–4.
Central Avenue Baptist, 7; St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran, 2.

Busy K. Wins Yonkers Stake by 1½ Lengths

New York, July 23.—(AP)—D. A. Wood's Busy K., a son of Busy American, found his kind of track at Empire City today and scored an easy triumph in the mud in the twenty-ninth Yonkers handicap, mile and a sixteenth feature that headed the final program of the meeting.

Perfectly handled by the veteran George Seabo, the 4 year old won by a length and a half in 1:48 1-5. Ogden Phipps' Teufel finished second by another length and a half. In a photo finish for third Mrs. Louisve Viau's Rex Flax, 13 to 5 favorite, came from far back to nose out R. A. Moore's Piccolo.

Victory Worth $7,875.

Busy K. was the second choice, at 16 to 5, to score his first victory in seven starts this year. The victory was worth $7,875 to Busy K's owner.

Capulet also scored an easy victory in the $2,500 Wakefield handicap for 2 year olds. The Carlaris colt from the River Edge farm, an 11 to 5 choice, scored by three lengths. Snow White stable's Sassy Lady earned the place by two lengths from J. P. Smith's Gridine as Elwood Sachsenmaier's Charlotte Girl, the filly that won seven straight early in the season, finished fourth after being outrun all the way.

CHALLEPHEN'S DRIVE WINS.

Salem, N. H., July 23.—(AP)—W. L. Brann's Challephen charged up the stretch with a powerful drive to win the sixth running of the $4,000 added Granite State handicap at Rockingham Park today before a rain drenched crowd of 12,000.

An outsider in the field of six starters, Challephen scored by a length and a half, with W. V. McGrath's Peligroso II. getting a photo decision over A. C. Compton's Gerald. In fourth place was Mrs. J. V. Stewart's First Alarm. F. W. Webb's White Hot, the favorite, was fifth.

Arlington Fans Bet $643,386 on Classic Day

The handle in Arlington Park's betting totalizator was $32,841 more yesterday than it was on Classic day a year ago. The total wagering amounted to $643,386. Last year it was $611.545. Betting on the Classic itself was $108,714 yesterday. The previous Classic figure was $105,773.

Jocky Wayne Wright, who had the riding assignment on Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Nedayr in the Classic, was forced to do some sprinting to reach the track in time for the big race. While he was flying from his home in Rexburg, Idaho, he encountered plane trouble and was delayed for several hours in Omaha. A special plane was chartered to fly him from the Chicago Municipal airport to the Jocky Club airport at Arlington Park.

W. R. Dahlstrom, a member of Racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan's staf at Arlington, will take his first job as a full-fledged racing official during the Narragansett meeting, which begins after Arlington closes. He will be clerk of scales.

Nick Wall, who rode Menow in the Classic, will leave tomorrow to fill engagements on eastern tracks.

Charles Strub, managing director of the Santa Anita track, watched the Classic, together with Mrs. Strub. E. C. Rompf, president of the Miami Jocky club, was there with Mrs. Rompf.

SNEAD FIRES 64 FOR 4 SHOT LEAD IN CHICAGO OPEN

more than enough to hold the field still until Samuel came home. Ky's 68, a very handsome page of golf bookkeeping in itself, had outdistanced a threesome of 70 shooters who proved to be one of the hottest scoring trios as such in the history of Chicago golf.

A Threesome Averages 70.

That threesome was composed of Gene Sarazen, Wilford Wehrle, and Ray Mangrum. Squire Sarazen is the old farmer who last year harvested the winner's share of the inaugural open at Medinah with a 72 hole score of 290. After going out over No. 1 in 37, two over par, to match Mangrum at the same point, he flashed back in 33. Wehrle, 1937 western amateur boss, sprinted through the first nine in 33, three under par, and then rassled a 37, including a penalty shot for a six on the eighteenth, for his 70.

Tying Wehrle for the amateur lead on No. 4 were Harry Todd of Dallas, Tex., last year's Texas open champion, and Jack Hoerner, former Stanford university star from North Shore, each of them with 70s. Low amateurs on No. 1 were Gus Moreland of Peoria, former Walker cup player and western amateur champion; Art Doering of Stanford university, and Alex Welsh of Rockford, state runner up.

Montressor Low on No. 4.

Head man on No. 4 course was Bert Montressor of Decatur, who shot a 70, the only par of the day for Olympia's championship course. He was followed by Dave Tosh, Sunset Ridge veteran, and Leonard Dodson, the voluble Springfield, Mo., swinger on No. 1.

Snead's card:

Par—Out	443	543	445—36
Snead—Out	443	443	444—34
Par—In	543	434	445—36—72
Snead—In	432	433	344—30—64

Snead was right about his possibilities of a 60, even though he did run around the lot in 34 and then whip over the last nine in a parsimonious 30. He blew chances for birdies within eight feet of the first, second, third, and fifth holes, not to mention a 20 foot chance for an eagle at the 548 yard fourth. That latter was the first real hit he made. He was on the 493 yard ninth in two for another bird with two putts.

Winds Up With Birdie.

A tree annoyed him with great good fortune, after his ball, bound for the woods ricocheted off it and out into the fairway. He ran it up from there to a birdie. He added a chip to a yard at the 11th, and then hammered home a 30 footer at the 200 yard 12th. Two more pars followed and then a ten footer fell at the 15th and another from 15 feet at the next green. He was behind a tree at the 17th, himself on his recovery, and then got down a ten foot putt for his par four. He was on the eighteenth in two, 50 feet from the cup, and then got in the cup in two for his eighth birdie.

Snead gave no indication in yesterday's ultimately unofficial first round that he would come out screaming with a 64. He had a 72, which was canceled with all other scores because of a heavy electrical storm. That 72 was welded on the par 70 No. 4 course. Meanwhile the unluckiest man who started—E. J. Harrison of Oak Park, who tied Hagen's course record —settled for a 73 on the No. 4 lot. The Chicago District Golf association soothed Mr. Harrison's hurts by awarding him a handsome suit for his futile effort Friday.

84 in Finals Today.

Friday's downpour shut off the first eighteen holes of the originally scheduled 72 holes of the tournament. So it became a 54 hole event, with the 24 professionals and 12 amateurs, and ties on each course, qualifying for today's 36 holes.

Thus, twenty-four pros who shot 77 or better and sixteen amateurs who posted 78s or below on course No. 1 qualified for the finals and were joined by thirty professionals who shot 74s and fourteen amateurs with 76s on course No. 4—bringing together a field of eighty-four for today's final double round.

Jamie Thomson, the brawny hitter from Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., took all of the money in the special driving contest held after all had finished. James had an average of 261 yards, based on three balls of 258½, 247, and 277, the last swing earning him another prize for the longest ball. Lawson Little, former British and American amateur title holder, was next with an average of 254½ and a long ball of 263 yards. Snead hit his first and best drive 270 yards, but shoved his second out of bounds and therefore did not qualify for the average prize.

Detroit Rayls to Meet Down Drafts Tonight

The Detroit Rayls, runners-up last year for the world softball title, will play the Chicago Down Drafts Girls a fast pitching game tonight at Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets. The opening game starts at 7:30 o'clock. Kay Stefani will pitch for the Rayls tonight, opposing Ann Plaetz of the Down Drafts.

FINAL TRIALS IN TRIBUNE SWIM LISTED TODAY

WhealanPool Entries Lead Section Meets.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The final preliminary trials in the ninth annual Chicagoland 100 yard free style swimming races will be held this afternoon in Whealan pool, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, and in California park pool, 3901 North California avenue. More than eight hundred boys and girls are eligible to compete for the gold medals and qualifying positions in the championship races which will be held next Sunday afternoon at the Diversey beach lagoon, Lincoln park.

Half of the championship field in the ten age divisions—eighty contestants—were awarded gold qualifying medals in yesterday's preliminaries in Cermak pool and in Sherman park pool. All contestants who complete their 100 yard tests receive souvénir buttons.

Champions Get Gold Medal.

The champions in the finals next week each will receive a gold medal. Runners-up in each of the age divisions will receive silver medals, and third place finishers will receive bronze medals. There will be two team trophies, one for the boys' squad scoring the most points in the championship races and the other for the girls' team. After today's qualifying races, it will be possible to sift the chances of the squads fairly well. The Lake Shore Athletic club, for the first time in the history of the races, last year won both cups.

The races in Whealan pool today attracted the largest number of entries in the four sectionals. Largest group competing at Whealan is class C for boys 15 and 16 years of age.

Ninety-two Reach Finals.

Ninety-two swimmers yesterday reached the finals in the tests which were held in Cermak pool, Lyons, Ill., and in Sherman park pool. More than 500 boys and girls competed, and the qualifying positions were almost evenly divided between Chicago and the out of town teams.

Out of town centers in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana vied with the Chicago teams for the positions in the ten championship races. Joliet, Ill., Y. M. C. A.; Naperville, Ill.; Bloomington, Ill., Country club, and the Peoria, Ill., Country club, as well as Oshkosh, Wis., and Michigan City, Ind., will be represented in the finals.

Remarkably Fast Times.

James Waddell of Joliet and Joe Durkin of Peoria had surprisingly fast times in the Class A races for boys 12 years of age and under. Young Durkin, only 9 years old, negotiated the 100 yards in 1:16.4.

Allen Lang of Chicago, in class E, had the best time in the Cermak meet, swimming the distance in 1 minute. Phoebe Strehlow of Peoria and Frankie Rose of Bloomington, Ill., had almost identical times in their heats in the Class A girls' races. Phoebe swam 100 yards in 1:21 and thus becomes a favorite in the finals next week.

James Cloyd of Indianapolis, Ind., who holds the Nationl A. A. U. junior 220 yard championship, won her trial heat in the girls' class B competition in Cermak pool with the exceptionally fast time of 1:10.24. The winner of the second qualifying race was Darlene Strong of Downers Grove, who was timed in 1:14.6.

Bloomington Girl Wins.

June Paxton of Bloomington was the best of the girls in class D, 17 and 18 years of age.

Charles Murphy of Michigan City, Ind., competing in the Sherman park races in class B, not only won his qualifying race but he established the best time of the south side trials, a 100 yard mark of 1:11.4.

Chicago's lake front and 137 park areas afford a year 'round vacationland for thousands daily. Name almost any sport and you will find it along the Lake Michigan 25 mile front. These photos offer a glimpse of sports conducted under supervision of the Chicago park district. This group enjoys lawn bowling in Jackson park. Left to right: Dr. L. C. Bidwell, J. R. Wallace, John Angus, W. G. Duncan, and M. J. Hughes.

Archery is encouraged on 31 standard ranges in the park system where multi-colored targets receive thousands of arrows each day. This is Renette Yanke, city champion, who led women in the first round of the annual tournament at Jackson park yesterday.

Softball has become America's fastest growing sport. The park district reports a total of 2,407,683 played this game in 1937. Dick Kopf has the ball ready to tag out Ray Bodecker who slides into base on the Jackson park diamond.

Choose Your Favorite Sport! Chicago's Park System Has It

BY PAT PATTEN.

Step right up, ladies and gentlemen, and name your sport!

Unless your preference runs to tossing the caber or mountain climbing, the chances are better than even that somewhere along the 25 mile Lido which is Chicago's front yard or in the 137 park areas which make up its vast year-'round vacationland, you will find means of enjoying your favorite mode of recreation.

Archery? On thirty-one standard ranges, the multi-colored targets await the impact of the speeding arrow. Lawn bowling, or skittles, as they say in London? Hundreds, the figures run to 10,000 over a season, gather each evening in Jackson park to engage in the ancient pastime which led to Rip Winkle's downfall.

Model yacht racing? A special pool, at 51st street and the Outer drive, receives daily scores of replicas of the giant schooners and sloops which ply the great lakes. Here in miniature, are repeated, with all the nautical skill of the skippers now engaged in the long pull to Mackinac, daily regattas which are halted only by darkness.

It Runs into Big Figures.

And so the list runs—on through the calendar of activities—so impressive in its scope that the annual attendance at and participation in the various events, as recorded by the Chicago park district, mounts to figures comparable only to the national debt or statistics on unemployment.

Participation in softball, called America's fastest growing sport, alone was 2,407,683 in 1937. Grant park, noontime and twilight playground for thousands of loop workers, provides thirty-nine diamonds, compared to the six in use three years ago, and the demand for space has grown with such rapidity that six new diamonds now are being laid out within the walls of Soldiers' field itself.

Standard baseball, too, has an important place in the park district's scheme of active competition for all. Under the direct supervision of Jack Shehan, old time Brooklyn Dodger third baseman, throngs of boys and youths learn the rudiments of the national game. Twenty-one of them have found places in the minor leagues, and even the stars of the majors themselves are not above spending a few hours now and then with Jack in an effort to improve their fielding style or stance at the plate.

You Know These Boys.

Among the big leaguers who studied their baseball primers under Shehan's helpful eye are Oscar Mellilo of the Red Sox, Billy Rogell of the Tigers, Phil Cavarretta of the Cubs, and Bob Weiland of the Cardinals. To revert to cold figures, the total enrollment for 1937 was 1,215,346, and the diamonds are in such demand during the daylight hours that a time schedule, figured in seconds, not minutes, is necessary to give each team its chance to play.

Under the matter of fact heading, "Beaches," V. K. Brown, director of recreation for the park district, lists, believe it or not, an attendance for 1937 of 16,511,000. This total, of course, represents daily attendance, as do all figures in the report, but the fact remains that hundreds of thousands swarm the sandy scimitars daily and keep coming as long as the season will permit.

You Should Stop, Motorist.

This item is worth a story in itself. The Chicagoan whose knowledge of the lake front is confined to the glimpses he gets of it from his car speeding down the outer drive might find food for thought in a more careful study. Paddling pools for the toddlers are maintained under supervision of park district attendants; permits are issued for nightly weiner roasts on the beaches; trim little frostbite dinghies, built by the boy skippers themselves, skim the waters of Burnham park lagoon, and the whole vast enterprise must become in the director's report simply "beaches."

Mr. Brown, whose headquarters are at 57th street and Cottage Grove avenue in Washington park, never is too busy to give ear to the problems of the neighborhood youngster who wishes to try his hand at baseball, model yacht building, or archery, and he has schooled his veteran staf of assistants in the same technique.

Yachtsmen Lend a Hand.

Director Brown, who, except for his service in the world war, has been associated with the recreational department of the park system since 1907, has a kind word for every one interested in his many constructive projects, but the senior yachtsmen of the city receive a special bow. These men, realizing that new skippers and new craft must be produced if Chicago is to maintain its place in the van of the yachting parade, have given the park department $4,000 worth of boat building materials and countless hours of their time in instructing the neophytes.

From the time he launches his first shingle on his local park lagoon the youngster with nautical tendencies practically is a ward of the department. He is graduated, first to model yachts, then, if his interest persists, to the construction of frostbite dinghies, whose multicolored sails provide the name for the Burnham park squadron—the Rainbow fleet.

Skipper Must Swim, Too.

Swimming instruction is, of course, compulsory for the future commodore. No lad may take his ship from the lagoon wharf until he has passed the rigid tests of the Red Cross life saving service. The result—not a fatality in the long history of the movement.

Golf, long the rich man's game, truly is the pastime of the masses on the five courses maintained by the park district, and here, too, a split second time schedule is necessary. Figures again tell the story: In 1937 292,452 rounds were played, an increase of approximately 100 per cent over the total recorded before the inception of THE TRIBUNE's annual golf schools, which are arranged with the coöperation of the park district.

Ho, for the Cricket Pitch.

Chicagoans of English birth or extraction find expression for their enthusiasm for their national sport on three pitches—in Washington, Jackson and Lincoln parks. Here league nines compete with all the gentlemanly fervor of the race and visiting teams from the homeland, Canada and Australia find competition worthy of their best efforts.

Horseshoes? Uncle Lem, who never has forgotten the pleasures of his farm days, still may enjoy them by hopping a street car for the nearest park. Two hundred eighty-two courts, lighted at night, some of which have been the scene of national title competition, are his for the using.

Tennis Is a Major Activity.

Tennis? Many a ranking star has gone from the park courts, scores of of which have been surfaced with concrete to allow all season competition. The figures again: Applications for use of the park courts last year numbered 591,770 and plans already are under way for construction of new courts to accommodate the ever increasing demand.

Football in season takes its place high up on the list with a 1937 enrollment of 534,152, and soccer, the strenuous pastime the Scots have claimed for their own, contributes 81,086.

Track and field competition, fostered with the idea of giving every able bodied boy and girl a chance to participate, rather than to encourage nerve racking exertion, is enjoyed by thousands, 687 reaching the city-wide finals this year in the junior boys' division alone.

RED SOX WILL LEAVE FOR WEST WITHOUT GROVE

Boston, Mass., July 23.—(AP)—Red Sox Manager Joe Cronin decided tonight to leave Bob [Lefty] Grove behind when the Boston club departs tomorrow or Monday night on its third western trip of the season.

"Grove will be better off continuing heat treatments on his arm," said Cronin, "and if the arm responds the way we hope, he will join us in the west."

The pulse in Grove's arm, which went "dead" in a game against Detroit last week, was becoming stronger, Cronin said, but still was not rapid enough for the ace southpaw to attempt flinging before another "few days."

RIVER FOREST WINS IN TENNIS OVER FULLERTON

The River Forest B tennis team defeated Fullerton, 5 matches to 4, yesterday on the Fullerton courts. Summaries:

George Steidl, River Forest, defeated Bob De Blois, Fullerton, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3. Jack Ready, Fullerton, defeated Hugh Fulton, River Forest, 3-6, 9-7, 6-3. Frank Preucil, River Forest, defeated Charles Carney, Fullerton, 6-0, 6-2. Fred Wettleder, River Forest, defeated Harold Berglund, Fullerton, 10-8, 6-3. Gordon Finlay, River Forest, defeated Leon Erenburg, Fullerton, 6-2, 8-6. I. L. Kovitz, Fullerton, defeated Fred Slaughter, 7-5, 7-5. Ready and Grossman, Fullerton, defeated Fulton and Wettleder, River Forest, 5-7, 6-1, 10-8. Finlay and Preucil, River Forest, defeated Kovitz and Carney, 7-5, 6-3. De Blois and Berglund, Fullerton, defeated Slaughter and Steidl, River Forest, 6-2, 6-0.

Archambault, Renette Yanke Lead Archers

Bert Archambault of Lincoln Park, led the men, Defending Champion Renette Yanke of the Chicago club set the pace for the women, and Bob Thompson was foremost among the juniors in the opening of the Chicago city archery tournament at Jackson park yesterday. The tournament will conclude with rounds this morning and afternoon.

In the women's clout, a special event of thirty-six arrows at 120 yards, Miss Yanke scored 290, which is believed to be a record. She beat her mother in the national round by shooting 411. Mrs. Yanke had 338, one more than Minerva Lanzer of Columbus park.

Archambault shot 555 in the York round with Art Schampel second with 538. Thompson scored 490 in the Junior American round, six more than Walter Laws of Palmer park. Jimmy Anderson of Jackson park won the junior clout with 232. Thompson, 212, was runner-up. Summaries:

MEN—YORK ROUND—Won by Bert Archambault, Lincoln park, 555; Art Schampel, Ridge park, 538, second; Bob Simmons, Chicago club, 531, third; Jack McMonies, Lincoln park, 493, fourth.

WOMEN—NATIONAL ROUND—Won by Renette Yanke, Chicago club, 411; Olga Yange, Chicago club, 338, second; Minerva Lanzer, Columbus park, 337, third; Jean Archambault, Lincoln park, 316, fourth.

WOMEN—CLOUT—Won by Renette Yanke, Chicago club, 290; Minerva Lanzer, Columbus park, 262, second.

JUNIOR—CLOUT—James Anderson, Jackson park, 232; Bob Thompson, Palmer park, 212, second.

Riggs Reaches Semi-Finals in Longwood Meet

Brookline, Mass., July 26.—(AP)—Bobby Riggs of Chicago today outplayed the brilliant but erratic Sydney Wood of San Francisco to gain the semi-final round of the Longwood Bowl tennis tournament with a 6-1, 4-6, 6-3 indoor victory.

Elwood Cooke of Porland, Ore., will be Riggs' opponent in the semi-finals. Cooke eliminated fourth seeded Hal Surface, Kansas City, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, while Frank Kovacs, Oakland, Cal., seventh seeded, completed his rout of Chicago's Murphy twins by defeating Chester, 6-3, 6-2.

Charles Hare, former British Davis cup player, gained the remaining semi-finals bracket by defeating John Shostrum, Chicago, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.

The semi-finals will be played indoors here tomorrow, as will the women's final between Helen Bernhard, New York, and Virginia Wolfenden, San Francisco. Those east-west finalists advanced today at the Badminton and Tennis club in Boston, Miss Bernhard defeating Virginia Hollinger, Dayton, O., 6-2, 6-4, and Miss Wolfenden eliminating Dorothy Workman, Los Angeles, 6-4, 7-5.

PRINCETON AND CORNELL TRACK TEAM TRIUMPHS

LONDON, July 23.—(AP)—The combined track forces of Princeton and Cornell drew even in their rivalry with Oxford and Cambridge by winning today's meet, nine events to three, in White City stadium.

Jim Pender and Ham Hucker of Cornell were the heroes of the American victory. Pender came home first in the 100 yard and 220 yard sprints,

62 Pilots Will Drive Today at Hammond

Sixty-two pilots, the largest array of banked track drivers to appear in a series of auto races in the central states, will compete in a seven race standard auto program on the Hammond speedway, route U. S. 41, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Nine state champions, as well as several track record holders, will attempt to qualify for the twenty-five mile feature. The feature will attract the fourteen cars turning in the fastest qualifying trials. Time trials have been moved up to 10:30 a. m., an hour earlier than usual because of the enormous entry list.

Officials announced that rain checks from last week would be honored this afternoon or at any future Hammond race.

Leading drivers in today's races:

TWO CHAMPIONS RETAIN TITLES IN A. A. U. SWIM

Mrs. Thompson Triumphs Again.

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 23.—(AP)—Two championships were defended and two passed into new hands today in the second day of the National Amateur Athletic union outdoor aquatic meet for women.

Topping the title brigade was Katherine Rawls Thompson of Miami Beach, Fla., who successfully defended her title in the 440 yard free style.

Iris Cummings, of Los Angeles, retained her 220 yard breast stroke title, but the women's swimming association team of New York took charge of the 880 yard relay, ending a three year reign of the Washington Athletic club of Seattle, and Jeanne Laupheimer of Brooklyn, N. Y., captured the 220 yard breast stroke, dethroning Erna Kompa of New York.

Mrs. Thompson, who tomorrow will defend her fourth championship, the 880 yard free style, swam the 440 in 5 minutes, 34.5 seconds. Twenty yards back came 14 year old Ann Hardin of Louisville, Ky. Third and fourth went to Portland, Ore., girls, Nancy Merki and Brenda Helser. Summaries:

220 YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Iris Cummings, Los Angeles [defending champion]; Helen Rains, New York, second; Edith Pemberton, San Mateo, Cal., third; Dorothy Schiller, Chicago, fourth. Time—3:18.7.

880 YARD RELAY—Won by the Woman's Swimming association, New York [Helene Rains, Gloria Callen, Marvis Freeman, and Elizabeth Ryan]; Los Angeles A. C., second; Washington A. C., Seattle, third. Time—10:55.5.

220 YARD BACK STROKE—Won by Jeanne Laupheimer, Brooklyn; Elizabeth Kompa Wright, New York, second; Ann Cooney, Portland, Ore., third; Erna Kompa, New York, fourth. Time—3:00.2

440 YARD SWIM—Won by Katherine Rawls Thompson, Miami Beach, Fla.; Ann Hardin, Louisville, Ky., second; Nancy Merki, Portland, third; Brenda Helser, Portland, Ore., fourth.

FIVE GAMES ON CRICKET LEAGUE SCHEDULE TODAY

The regular five game schedule in the Illinois Cricket league will be played this afternoon. All games start at 1:30 p. m. The defeat of Lake Forest last week-end by Washington park has tightened the race and now only one game separates Lake Forest, which is leading, from Washington park, Winnetka, and Chicago all bunched for second place. Today's schedules:

Hyde Park vs. Washington park at 48th street and Outer drive.

Milbourne vs. Lake Shore in Washington park.

Chicago vs. Winnetka at Wilson avenue and Outer drive.

Lake Forest vs. Oak Park in Lake Forest.

River Forest vs. Milwaukee in River Forest.

● In the Help Wanted columns of each day's Tribune, women are offered a variety of opportunities in interesting fields at good pay. But it takes more than personality, a general education and a desire to work to land these jobs. To qualify for any of the offers reprinted at the right from a single issue of the Tribune requires—training.

You can get the training which will fit you for a better job by enrolling in one of the schools which describe their courses in the Tribune want ad section.

For announcements of schools offering regular and short courses in specialized fields under competent instructors and at reasonable rates, see the offers of interest to ambitious women of all ages in the Instruction, Trade Schools, Dressmaking and Millinery, Musical and Dramatic, and Dancing Schools columns in the Tribune want ad section.

HOW IS ALL-STAR POLL CONDUCTED? WELL, HERE'S HOW

150 Newspapers, Radio Stations Co-operate.

How is it possible to run up a vote aggregating millions in the All-Star player and coaches poll? THE TRIBUNE this morning gives you the answer. More than 150 newspapers and radio stations covering every section of the United States coöperate in selecting a team of College All-Americans to oppose the Washington Redskins, champions of the National Professional league, in Chicago's big charity game Aug. 31.

Hundreds of thousands of votes are mailed or brought directly to THE TRIBUNE, where they are verified by the contest department before publication. Votes cast through other newspapers are tabulated by those institutions and the totals wired to Chicago. Newspapers are required to hold their ballots until after the poll has closed, so, if any one questions the honesty of the count, they have opportunity to check.

Publishers, managing editors, and sport editors almost everywhere agree there never has been a sports popularity contest to match the All-Star polls. The response of the fans has astonished the most enthusiastic football followers.

Here's the Answer.

We would like to publish a detailed report from every center, but obviously space limitations prevent. The following telegrams have been picked at random and are representative of the national interest. The figures represent only one day's returns.

Green Bay Press Gazette: The campaign in upper Wisconsin and the Michigan peninsula breaks all records. We still have thousands of uncounted votes. Credit Schreyer, Purdue, 34,367; Miketinac, St. Norbert, 34,377; Schoemann, Marquette, 28,972; Isbell, Purdue, 28,809; Barnhart, Greeley State, 34,212; Benz, Wisconsin, 5,425.

Cincinnati Post: Add 26,772 for Fred Nebel, Xavier center. We will swamp you with our final day's totals. This campaign is the hottest thing that has hit Cincinnati. Fans are determined to land Nebel on squad.

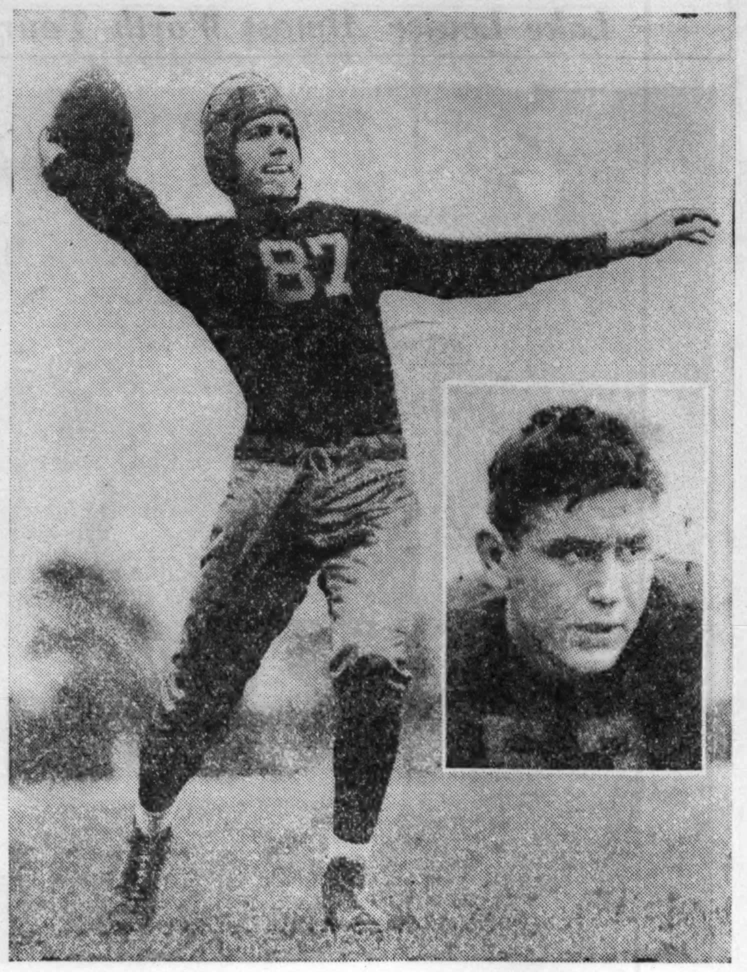
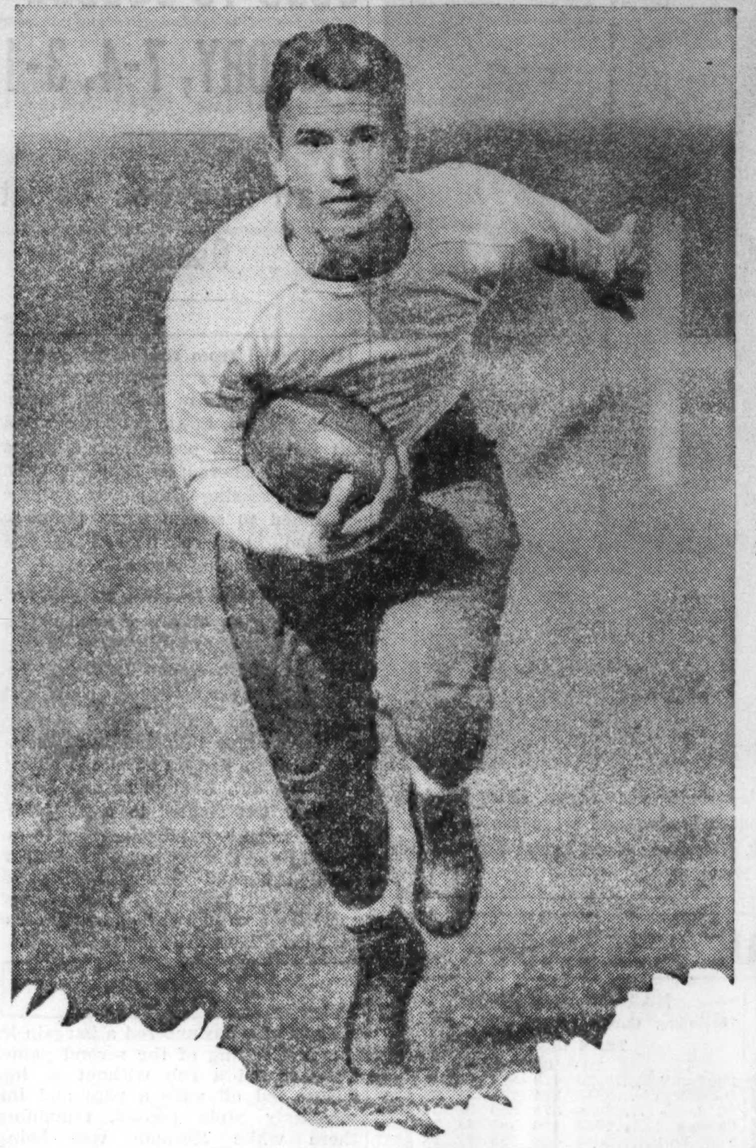
THEY'RE LEADING ALL-STAR VOTE AS NATION-WIDE POLL NEARS END



The nation-wide poll being conducted by The Tribune and associated newspapers to determine the starting lineup of the College All-Americans against the Washington Redskins in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 31 closes at midnight. With the deadline near, today's vote shows these players leading for starting positions. Cecil Isbell of Purdue tops the half backs and Vic Markov of Washington has an edge at tackle. Final results of the poll will be announced Wednesday morning.



Frank Patrick, Pittsburgh's great full back, has the call today at that position. He is closely pressed by Corby Davis of Indiana.

Andy Uram, Minnesota's star ball carrier, is right on Isbell's heels for the high vote honor among the half backs.

Gus Zarnas, guard. [Ohio State.] Pat McCarty, center. [Notre Dame.] Perry Schwartz, end. [California.] Joe Routt, guard. [Texas A. and M.]

Tabulations today find these stars high up for other starting positions.

Frank Filchock, Indiana quarter back from Braznell, Pa., has a slight edge over Andy Puplis of Notre Dame.

Elward Places 4 Purdue Men on All-Star Team

Mal Elward, Purdue football coach, has named four Purdue players to the college All-American team he thinks most capable of beating the Washington Redskins in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 31. Elward served as assistant to Noble Kizer when Kizer coached the first All-Star team in 1934. The Purdue players Elward selected are Jim Zachary, end; Marty Schreyer and Clem Woltman, tackles; and Cecil Isbell, half back. His team follows:

ENDS—Sweeney, Notre Dame, and Zachary, Purdue.
TACKLES—Schreyer, Purdue, and Woltman, Purdue.
GUARDS—Zarnas, Ohio State, and Kuharich, Notre Dame.
CENTER—Wojciechowicz, Fordham.
QUARTER BACK—Filchock, Indiana.
HALF BACKS—Uram, Minnesota, and Isbell, Purdue.

COCHRANE PICKS TEAM.

Two members of Alabama's Rose Bowl team, Tackle Jim Ryba and Guard Leroy Monsky, were picked by Edward W. Cochrane on his college All-American team. Cochrane is sports editor of the Chicago Evening American and an official in the National Football league. His team:

ENDS—King, Minnesota, and Schwartz, California.
TACKLES—Ryba, Alabama, and Markov, Washington.
GUARDS — Monsky, Alabama, and Routt, Texas Aggies.
CENTER—Gallagher, Yale.
QUARTER BACK—Vanzo, Northwestern.
HALF BACKS—Frank, Yale, and Isbell, Purdue.
FULL BACK—Davis, Indiana.

GERMANS CLINCH CUP MATCHES; LEAD FRENCH, 3-0

BERLIN, July 23.—(AP)—Germany today earned the right to meet Jugo-Slavia in the final round of European zone Davis cup competition as Henner Henkel and George von Metaxa whipped the French doubles team of Yvon Petra and Jean Lesueur, 4-6, 6-4, 2-6, 10-8, 6-4. The victory gave Germany a 3-0 lead with only two singles matches left to play.

JUGO-SLAVIA WINS.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 23.—(AP)—The Jugo-Slavian Davis cup team, already having clinched a place in the European zone finals by winning the first two singles matches and the doubles, today won the last two singles for a clean sweep in its semi-final round meeting with Belgium. Josef Pallada whipped H. Van Den Eynde, 6-3, 6-3, 6-1, and Ferenc Puncec defeated the Belgian No. 1, Andre Lacroix, 6-4, 6-1, 6-1.

SARATOGA OPENS TOMORROW WITH ROSY PROSPECTS

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., July 23.—(AP)—Fashionable Saratoga, one of America's oldest race tracks, opens Monday with the prospects of one of the outstanding meetings in history.

Many of the turf's leading horses, headed by War Admiral, already are quartered here and others are expected after the closing of Arlington Park next Saturday. Seabiscuit is headed here from the west coast.

Climaxing many stake races for juveniles will be the rich hopeful on the final day, Aug. 27. Three year olds also get a chance at important purses, with the biggest opportunity coming in the Travers on Aug. 13.

A's and Tigers Rained Out; Play 2 Tomorrow

Philadelphia, Pa., July 23.—(AP)—The Athletics and the Detroit Tigers will play a double-header here on Monday to replace the two games rained out today. Monday was originally an open date. The pontponement today kept the A's idle for the fifth consecutive day.

All-Star Vote Ends Tonight at Midnight

heaviest total in the history of the promotion. It was made possible by the undivided support he received in his home state. Harry Kipke of Michigan, Charles Bachman of Michigan State, and other coaches spoke over state-wide radio hookups in his behalf. His assistants were Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern, Jimmy Phelan of Washington, and Bernie Moore of Louisiana State.

Heading the player poll is Chuck Sweeney of Notre Dame, who is popular choice for end in almost every city in the country. He already has received 854,352 votes. Trailing him by nearly 275,000 is Perry Schwartz of California, star of the Rose Bowl game last New Year's day.

The Pacific coast and middle west also are in front at the tackles, where Vic Markov of Washington and Marty Schreyer of Purdue hold the lead. Joe Routt of the Texas Aggies tops the guards. His closest rival is Gus Zarnas of Ohio State. Pat McCarty of Notre Dame, whose work against Minnesota won for him national recognition, leads the centers, but he hasn't much to spare over Ralph Wolf of Ohio State.

Quarter Back Race Close.

Frank Filchock of Indiana, Andy Puplis of Notre Dame, Jack Robbins of Arkansas, Vic Spadaccini of Minnesta, and Fred Vanzo of Northwestern are putting up a great race for the quarter back job. It is almost impossible to forecast the winner. The full back position has developed into a two way fight between Frank Patrick of Pittsburgh and Corby Davis of Indiana, winner of THE TRIBUNE's Most Valuable player award. Cecil Isbell of Purdue and Andy Uram of Minnesota, who was incapacitated early in the season, are leading the nation's half backs. Announcement that Clint Frank of Yale was out of the United States and would not return before Oct. 1 has reduced his vote sharply. The same applies to Sam Chapman, California full back, who has gained a regular job with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Required to Hold Ballots.

The hundreds of thousands of votes which have been turned in directly to THE TRIBUNE are counted by the contest department before they are included in the standings. Votes cast through other newspapers are counted by those institutions, and the totals wired to Chicago. All qualifying centers are required to hold the actual ballots until released by THE TRIBUNE.

A few days ago the Indianapolis News reported more than 200,000 votes for Jim Birr, Indiana end. Before accepting a figure of that proportion THE TRIBUNE ordered the votes expressed to Chicago. They arrived the following day. Similar procedure was followed with returns from Green Bay, St. Louis, and other centers where the voting was particularly heavy.

The squad, which again will number more than sixty players, will report at Northwestern university Aug. 12 for first practice.

80,000 Watch Chicago's 4 Big Sports Events

More than 80,000 saw Chicago's four ranking sports events yesterday while countless thousands more filled the parks and took part in sports of their own choosing.

The day's sports crowds were topped by 43,233 at Wrigley field, who saw Bill Lee and Dizzy Dean master the New York Giants as the Cubs won two games, 7 to 4 and 3 to 1. Many thousands were turned away from the Cubs' park.

The Classic stakes brought 30,000 to Arlington park for one of the Chicago season's best days of racing. They saw Nedayr, a 14 to 1 shot, whip Bull Lea, while Stagehand and Menow were finishing out of the money.

An estimated 6,000 trooped around the No. 1 and No. 4 courses at Olympia Fields to see the nation's outstanding golfers play the first eighteen holes of the Chicago open tournament. They were rewarded when Sam Snead posted an eight under par 64 to take the lead in the event.

Another thousand watched forty-seven yachts start from Belmont harbor on the 31st annual Mackinac Island race.

MILLS WILL MEET BROOKLYN TODAY IN DOUBLEHEADER

The Chicago Mills will play a double-header this afternoon at 4700 W. Lake street with the Brooklyn Royal Giants. Between games Joe Engel's "wild elephant hunt" will be presented. The first game will start at 1:30 p. m.

The Spencer Coals, meanwhile, will play at 4200 North Central avenue, where the opponents will be the Ethiopian Clowns from Miami, Fla. The Clowns also offer sideshow amusement before the ball games.

The Brooklyn Royal Giants are the oldest Negro traveling club in the country. They are led by John Beckwith, home run hitter. Otis Stark, a left hander, and Buck Buchanan will pitch for the visitors.

REDS OUTSLUG PHILLIES FOR 10-9 VICTORY

Cincinnati Rallies with 5 Runs in Sixth.

Cincinnati, O., July 23.—(AP)—The Phillies took advantage of four Red errors for five runs in the fifth inning today, but failed to withstand a hitting attack in the sixth and the Reds won, 10 to 9.

The Phils used four hurlers to halt Cincinnati's sixth inning rally, when five runs were scored on four hits. Frey hit a homer with two men aboard. Hallahan pitched four balls to Goodman, was sent to the showers, and charged with the loss.

Ival Goodman celebrated his 29th birthday by hitting his 26th homer in the third inning with one on base. Score:

BEES, 4; PIRATES, 2.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 23.—(AP)—Danny MacFayden's pitching arm and the timely hitting of Elbie Fletcher and Rabbit Warstler gave the Boston bees a 4 to 2 victory over the Pirates today, ending Pittsburgh's three game winning streak.

Deacon Danny, making the second start since coming from his month's stay on the hospital list, yielded nine of the Pirates' ten hits, but was tight with runners on the base paths. He weakened in the ninth and Dick Errickson finished up.

Russ Bauers started for the Pirates, but lasted only until the fifth, when the Bees rallied for two runs. He gave up three of the Boston runs, Fletcher tagging him for a homer in the third, and Warstler's single bringing the two fifth inning runs across.

East and West Colored Stars to Play Aug. 21

The sixth east-west colored All-Star baseball game will be played in Comiskey park, home of the White Sox, on Sunday, Aug. 21, Harry Grabiner, vice president of the Chicago American league club, said yesterday after a conference with Negro baseball officials.

For the sixth year the personnel of the two teams will be picked by baseball fans in a poll to be conducted by the country's twenty leading colored newspapers. The fans will make their choices from the stars of the Negro American league and the Negro National league.

Clubs in the American league, which will represent the west, are the Chicago American Giants, Kansas City Monarchs, Memphis Red Sox, Atlanta Black Crackers, Indianapolis A.B.C.s, Jacksonville Red Caps, and the Birmingham Black Barons.

Eastern stars will be selected from the following teams of the Negro National league: Pittsburgh Crawfords, Homestead Grays, New York Black Yankees, Philadelphia Stars, Baltimore Elite Giants, Newark Eagles, Washington Pilots, and Buffalo Black Aces.

A Belligerent Interlude in Wrigley Field

Baseball fans got everything including a good fight in Wrigley field yesterday. Players help separate Bill Jurges and Dick Bartell who came to blows in the fourth inning and were ejected from the second game. No. 19 is Red Corriden, Cubs' coach; No. 9 is Frank Demaree; No. 17, Hal Schumacher of Giants; No. 4 (bending), Mel Ott, and No. 4 (extreme right), Billy Herman.

Rain, Rain, Go Away; Our Sox Want to Play

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 23.—Flash: The White Sox did not play baseball today. Another flash: Everybody in the White Sox party, including the avid journalists, is punchy or rapidly getting that way. Third flash: Rain this week cost the Yankees $150,000 and everybody has gone into mourning for poor Jake Ruppert.

The washout of today's double-header made it three double washouts and three single washouts since the Sox last played a game, in Washington last Sunday. The players would be all right if all they had to do was relax. But they can't relax from trying to compute how many double-headers have been stacked up.

Dykes Off On His Count, Too.

Some of the lads who aren't so smart at figures other than their own batting averages just add a couple of future double-headers to an earlier total every time it rains, thus counting in the ones that have been rained out.

Under this system of mathematics a few boys reckon they will have to play a double-header every day the rest of the season. Even Manager Jimmy Dykes is five double-headers off on his count. Those who virtually are correct are near swoons from anticipated fatigue.

The revised schedule of double-headers hasn't been supplied by league headquarters, but unless we are fuzzy, the Sox now face seventeen double-headers in their 65 remaining playing days. This provided they do not play on two scheduled off days or on any of the travel dates.

Played 71 Games.

If the Sox had played every day of their schedule to date they would have played their 88th game this afternoon. Actually they have played seventy-one games, including several double-headers. They are farther behind their schedule than any team in either league.

Even if the White Sox play the double-header scheduled for Yankee stadium tomorrow, which seems doubtful, they will be just able to play their full schedule here. Their only remaining 1938 visit to New York will be on Aug. 23 and 24. They will have to play double-headers here those two days, then move immediately to Boston, where they will play double-headers the three days they are there.

Transfers May Be Necessary.

If the four game series here is rained out, as was the four game series in Boston, eastern contests will have to be transferred. As a result of this one week's rains alone, if there is no play at Yankee stadium tomorrow, three games will have to be played off in Chicago, where the schedule is well gummed up on its own.

If the games can be played here tomorrow, it will be Thornton Lee and Monty Stratton against Lefty Gomez and Red Ruffing.

French to Face Giants in Final of Series Today

Larry French, who thus far this season has been embarrassed several times by his weakness for throwing the home run ball to Mel Ott, will try his skill on the Giants again today in the final of the series. Bill Lohrman will work for the Giants.

Eddie Brannick, secretary of the Giants and president of the Brannick Marching club, celebrated a birthday anniversary Friday night, but he refused to give his guests the correct count.

Charles Drake, the Cubs' press agent, who admits he always is 85 per cent correct, estimated that 15,000 people with the price of admission in hand were turned away for lack of room yesterday.

Hank Leiber was guilty of a fielding error and a boner on the same play in the fourth inning of the first game. He dropped Collins' fly and then, seeing Collins had taken a big lead off first, threw the ball to Leslie. Collins dashed to second and was there before the throw reached Leslie.

43,233 CHEER CUBS TO DOUBLE VICTORY, 7-4, 3-1

Dean and Lee Defeat Giants.

on another pair in the third. Kampouris singled, Leslie popped out and Ott walked. A popup also disposed of Leiber, whereupon Ripple singled to right, scoring Kampouris. Ripple continued to second when Demaree fumbled. Lee rid himself of this threat by fanning Seeds.

Poor Base Running Helps.

A double by Galan, a fluke single by Demaree and Collins' fly presented the Cubs with a run in the sixth. This incident seemed to arouse the Giants. They ripped into Lee with four successive hits, but hurt themselves with a bad bit of base running. With one out, Kampouris and Leslie singled. Ott singled to right, Kampouris scoring, but Leslie tried to go to third and was out by yards. Leiber doubled beyond Galan's reach and Ott dashed home. Herman threw out Ripple to close the inning. Lee kept his affairs in order thereafter.

SECOND GAME

The Cubs encountered a bargain in the first inning of the second game. They scored a run without a hit. Jurges led off with a pass and immediately stole second, remaining there while Herman was being thrown out. Hack flied to left and Jurges started for third after the catch. Seeds' throw went into the Cubs' dugout instead of to Ott, so Jurges continued home. The Giants balanced this run with one of their own in the second on a pass to Ott, McCarthy's single, and Seeds' fly to Galan.

The fourth, climaxed by the Jurges-Bartell unpleasantness, opened with Seeds smashing against the left field wall in a vain effort to capture Reynolds' double. Reynolds went to third on Demaree's infield out and Hartnee fetched him home on a fly to Leiber. Collins and Dean then singled, the former going to third. Jurges lined a double over first, Collins scoring and Dean stopping at third.

Jurges failed to observe the whereabouts of Diz and was almost to third when he discovered his mistake. By that time McCarthy had the throw in. Jurges started back toward second and McCarthy threw to Bartell, who dove into Jurges and tagged him just as the latter started to slide. That's when the fight started.

A single by Bartell in the third was the second hit off Diz, but he ran into a pair of them in the seventh. Ott and Leiber singled with one out. The remainder of the inning was easy for the Great Man, however. McCarthy popped to Herman and Seeds' gentle bounder to Hack forced Ott at third. The only other hit off Diz was a single by Ott with two out in the ninth, after which Leiber closed the party with a tap to Dean.

Lake Louise Almost Worth Touring Hardships

The Tribune road car has just completed a trip through the northern Rockies and into Canada's Banff and Yoho national parks. Lake Louise gives the motorist a scenic memory almost worth the driving troubles on Canadian roads, much in need of improvement.

TOURIST GATHERS MENTAL PICTURES OF NORTHWEST

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Spokane, Wash., July 21. — [By Mail.] — The Tribune road car has just completed a tour of the northern Rockies, climbing among snow capped peaks, where great rivers are born to flow to the Pacific ocean and to the Gulf of Mexico. The trip covered Yellowstone and Glacier National parks in the United States and Banff and Yoho National parks in Canada.

The days were spent in collecting mental pictures to cherish for the remainder of life. We'll forget the aches and dirt of long distance motor travel and we'll remember the joys of new scenes.

Not to be forgotten is Yellowstone lake, with the white peaks of the Tetons in the remote background and with its blue waters reflecting the pine forests of its shore line.

Road Cuts Through Snow Banks.

We left this national park by its northeast gate over a pass with an elevation of 10,940 feet. The spiral roadway cuts through snow banks to reach vantage points for vast vistas. Streams splashed from melting snow on rocky promontories to form pools of blue. From these pools dashed bigger streams, storming down the mountain sides into turbulent rivers in the canyons.

The federal government spent $3,000,000 on about sixty miles of this road to the northeast gate of Yellowstone. It was opened three years ago and this is the second year that it has been oiled. It is blocked by snow about nine months of the year.

Glacier park has its Going-to-the-Sun highway of Alpine beauty, climbing precipitous canyons to cross the continental divide at snow altitudes. It, too, has its snow fed lakes with mirror surfaces sheltered from wind ripples.

Lake Louise Like Stage Setting.

Canada gave us a lasting memory—of Lake Louise as it was viewed at dusk, with the sun still shining on the three mountains which almost inclose it. The scene is as an artist might idealize a mountain lake had he never seen one. It's so idealistic it's hardly natural. It's more like a stage setting. The backdrop is a wall of rock draped with snow. The side wings, nicely balanced, are steep green slopes. The center and the foreground are blue water reflecting the backdrop and the side wings.

Banff and Lake Louise, familiar names in the advertising columns and society notes of American newspapers, offer all that they advertise in scenery, climate, and amusement facilities. But until the Canadian roads are improved this department of THE TRIBUNE can't recommend these resorts as motor tour objectives.

Blinded by Dust.

The Chicago Motor club had forewarned us that we would find the provincial highways a bit rough and dusty. They were worse. The dust was blinding and choking. Washboard gravel shook vertebræ and car springs. Loose gravel and loose rocks covered many miles. Postpone your plans for a western Canadian drive for a few years, until more work is done on the roads.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Several advancements in the personnel of the Dodge division of the Chrysler corporation were announced yesterday by Forest H. Akers, vice president of the Dodge division. John W. Hutchins, manager of the New York division, and Emerson J. Poag, director of merchandising and advertising, have been appointed assistant general sales managers. Donald T. Stanton, the Dodge organization's supervisor of Plymouth sales, was appointed director of sales. H. M. Rowell, manager of the Chicago region, has been appointed manager of the New York region, and George W. Malcomson, manager of the Atlanta region, has been made manager of the Chicago region.

The Firestone Tire and Rubber company's exhibit at the New York world's fair will cover three and a half acres, the company announced yesterday. It will tell the story of rubber in visual form and will include a full size tire factory in operation and displays demonstrating the part which rubber plays in everyday life. There will also be an actual life-size reproduction of an American farm, live stock, farm hands, and all.

Chevrolet has just completed a 52,319 mile experimental run with a truck, during which every state was visited and a trip was made to the top of Pike's peak. The long journey, which took six months, was recorded under American Automobile association sanction. Made in all kinds of weather and over every type of road, not a motor accident or scratched fender was experienced.

VOICE OF TRAFIC

NO SAFETY STICKER.

Chicago, July 10.—Why do we still have automobiles driving around in Chicago without vehicle or safety test stickers?

I am referring to license number 1-142-062 issued to Thomas Gaughan, 1674 Hollywood avenue, Chicago. This car does not have either vehicle tag or safety stickers. Is he exempt? I. K.

POOR BUSINESS PRACTICE.

Chicago, July 15.—Business firms who deliberately destroy a piece of property in order to advertise their wares should be suppressed.

When I went to my car this evening, I found a handbill stuffed under my windshield wiper. In order to get this under the wiper, the boy or man pulled the wiper from its vertical position into a perpendicular position, thereby weakening the wiper, although this particular wiper is of an improved type that can be lifted.

I noticed an article in THE TRIBUNE Voice of the People just a few weeks ago making a similar complaint.

It may be that you can give sufficient publicity about such destructive methods that business houses will cease this practice. M. J. GALBREATH.

LOUD BUS HORN.

Chicago, July 7.—About 12:30 this afternoon a sedan was stopped in front of the Tribune Tower for a U turn as authorized by signs. A Northland Greyhound bus with Illinois license H-3546 was stopped behind it. The bus chauffeur blew his ordinary horn repeatedly and let out a blast on his railroad type horn, trying to get the sedan to turn before the trafic lights changed to permit the movement. H. S.

PETERSON AVENUE TRAP.

Chicago, July 19.—Beware! Small town speed traps on Peterson avenue, between Ravenswood and Western avenues.

It seems to me that the Fire and Police show of yesterday has put our police department on their toes.

From 9 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. I counted four arrests being made by two upholders of law and order, who hid behind a sign on an unlit street to pounce upon an unsuspecting driver who had a clear six lane road with no speed markers.

Do something about this if it is possible, not about Blue Island, Harvey, Cicero, and Riverside.

GASOLINE CHIEF ITEM IN A LOW COST AUTO TRIP

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Spokane, Wash., July 17.—[By Mail.]—We're making a low cost tour of the west. According to the Chicago Motor club, this is the prevailing 1938 travel trend—many miles on thin pocket books.

There's a blanket roll and pup tent in the luggage compartment of the Tribune road car, with a grille, Dutch oven, and a supply of charcoal briquets. The luggage is in the tonneau with a basket of tinned groceries.

After a 5 a. m. departure from Chicago we drove until late at night to complete 716 miles for the day. We were lucky in finding a $1.25 cabin for two on an artificial lake among pine covered rocks at Long Pine, Neb. The hoot of an owl and the bass notes of bullfrogs sang us to sleep.

Antelope Graze Near By.

The second night fatigue and darkness caught us on the plateau near Hell's Half Acre, Wyo. We pitched our $3.95 tent by the light of a moon, with the western horizon, the jagged outline of the continental divide. At dawn a half dozen antelope were grazing near by.

On the third night we were back in a cabin beside splashing Soda Butte creek, near Cooke, Mont. Recent rains had left too many mosquitoes in the forests for novice campers. We were charged $2. From the windows we could view tall mountains. Into the windows came a snow-cooled breeze perfumed by the woods.

On the fourth night we staked our tent on a bluff in the Black Feet Indian reservation near Glacier National park. Our mattress was spread on redolent young sage and on wild daisies.

Get Private Bath in Canada.

In Canada, the fifth night, we paid $4 for a cottage with hot and cold running water and a private bath beside Wapta lake amid snow covered mountains.

On the sixth night we were leaving Idaho and entering Washington at dusk. We tried to get the car off the road to pitch tent on open grazing land, but found the earth too sandy to risk leaving the roadway. All of the cabins on Diamond lake, near Spokane, were rented when we arrived there. At 10 o'clock a tourist camp on the outskirts of this city had just rented its last cabin. Phone calls to four other camps found them also sold out. So we had to spend a night in a hotel.

Gasoline has been the main expense. We paid 24 cents a gallon at stations remote from cities in Wyoming and Montana. In Alberta and British Columbia it was 33 and as high as 35 cents for an imperial gallon. The English gallon contains 277.418 cubic inches as compared with the American gallon of 231 cubic inches.

AMONG THE FOLKS IN HISTORY

FARMERS GIVEN CHANCE TO TEST AAA WHEAT PLAN

Fall Crop Subject to New Program.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Beginning with the sowing of wheat this fall, American farmers will be given their first opportunity to try out all phases of the government's wheat program provided for in the latest farm law. Within the next few weeks individual farmers will be told how many acres of wheat they will be permitted to plant for harvest in 1939 and still qualify for benefits and subsidy payments under the agricultural adjustment act of 1938.

There are six principal features in the AAA wheat plan for 1939, including acreage allotments, insurance, bonuses, parity payments, marketing quotas, and loans.

National and state quotas already have been announced. The next step will be to relay the state allotments down to counties and individual farms.

Illinois Quotas Out Soon.

Illinois farmers, for example, will be given their wheat acreage allotments by the first of August, Lee Gentry, head of the state AAA office at Urbana, announced yesterday. They will be asked to do their part in the nation's drastic wheat curtailment program.

Under the secretary of agriculture's ever normal granary plan, AAA officials have set out to carry a surplus of wheat over from the bumper crop years to the lean years. With a 200 million bushel carryover of wheat and nearly a billion bushels now being harvested, the floor in the nation's granary is beginning to sag under the load. Washington planners are calling for help from wheat growers.

Urge 31 Per Cent Cut.

The AAA officials have asked farmers to cut their wheat acreage for harvest next year approximately 31 per cent. If this is done they would seed 25 million fewer acres than they planted for harvest this year. The national allotment for next year calls for a total fall and spring wheat crop of only 55 million acres, compared with about 80 million acres planted for harvest this year.

Wheat acreage will be cut in 1939 under the quota established by the department of agriculture. Shown above is the alloted acreage for 1939 compared with the area harvested this year and the average for the last ten years.

State wheat acreage allotments recently announced gave Illinois farmers 1,789,192 acres, including plantings for this fall and next spring. That means a reduction of nearly 27½ per cent under the state's ten year average.

If Illinois farmers stay within their allotments they will plant 684,808 acres less than this year's crop and 616,924 acres under the average for the last decade.

AAA Conducts Farm Campaign.

For many weeks AAA men have been working among farmers in the forty wheat growing states attempting to familiarize them with the plan of managing wheat production from Washington. Approximately $125,000,000 may be offered to growers who coöperate on the 1939 wheat program.

But before they get this money they must cut their wheat acreage. They are being told they must take out of production nearly one acre of every three. If this is done then farmers will be eligible for bonus checks, benefit payments, loans, and parity payments.

The wheat farmer is being used in the government's crop insurance experiment. Policies already are being offered.

Surprised by Insurance Terms.

Many growers are surprised that government agents are not demanding that they live up to their AAA crop restrictions to qualify for federal policies insuring them against wheat crop losses often caused by a multiplicity of hazards—drouth, flood, hail, wind, winterkill, lightning, tornado, insects, and plant diseases.

They are not even asked to stay within their wheat acreage allotment to get one of Uncle Sam's insurance policies. Some have figured it out that all the wheat growers could ignore their allotments, plant another 80 million acre crop, and still protect themselves against crop losses by taking government wheat insurance policies.

Applications for wheat insurance in Illinois must be made by farmers to the county AAA committees not later than Aug. 1.

Policy Covers Common Hazards.

The policy covers all the common hazards that cause wheat crop failures. Farmers pay their premiums and the government pays losses either in wheat or cash. The premium rate is on the acreage basis. It will vary with each farm, depending upon the average yield per acre, local weather hazards compared with other sections, and the percentage of the crop to be insured.

The growers may insure for 50 or 75 per cent of a crop. For a 75 per cent coverage in Illinois the premium is likely to average about three

Chicago Steel Output Up to 37.6 Per Cent

Chicago steel mills will increase ingot production again this week. Preliminary schedules issued yesterday indicated a production rate beginning at 37.6 per cent of theoretical capacity tomorrow. Addition of several open harth furnaces and two blast furnaces by Carnegie-Illinois Steel company Friday accounts for most of the increase over last week.

This week's increase of 2.6 points over last week's scheduled rate of 35 per cent of capacity lifts production to the highest level in this district since the week of Nov. 8, 1937. The schedule that week was for operations at 39.2 per cent. A month ago it was 26.7 per cent.

34 Per Cent Last Week.

Production in the Chicago district last week slipped a little below the scheduled rate to slightly over 34 per cent of capacity. Buying continued to show a slow improvement in miscellaneous orders.

A report by Dow, Jones & Co. yesterday said production in the Pittsburgh steel district would start tomorrow at 25 per cent of capacity, the same as last Monday. Operations were increased during the week to approximately 27 per cent.

The small drop in this week's schedules at Pittsburgh is expected to be temporary, the report said. One of the leading companies in the district will begin operations at nearly 40 per cent of capacity, and other producers are expected to increase production rates either toward the end of this week or next week.

Gain Scheduled in Buffalo.

Output in the Buffalo area was stepped up late last week to somewhat over 37 per cent of capacity, the highest rate for the district since last October. Republic Steel corporation relighted a third open harth furnace.

Scrap steel markets were mostly quiet during the week, with holders asking 50 cents a ton or more above the last sales. Bids failed to go over previous sale levels, however, and few actual sales were made in any of the principal scrap markets.

TWO COMPANIES PAY DIVIDENDS AT REDUCED RATES

The Acme Wire company, Hartford, Conn., yesterday declared a dividend of 12½ cents on its common stock, payable Aug. 15. A similar payment was made May 14 and a payment of 50 cents was made in February. Dividend disbursements totaling $4 a share were made during 1937.

The Gorham Manufacturing company directors ordered payment of 25 cents on Sept. 15. A 25 cent dividend was paid in June and $1.25 was paid in January this year. Payments during 1937 totaled $3.25 a share. The company manufactures silverware and silver plated products at Providence, R. I.

Usual Payments.

Acme Wire, 12½c	Aug 15	July 30
Gorham Mfg, 25c	Sept 15	Sept 1
Hollinger C Gold, 5c m	Aug 12	July 29
Do 5c, extra	Aug 12	July 29
RCA pfd, 87½c q	Oct 1	Sept 14
Do pfd B, $1.25 q	Oct 1	Sept 14

The letter "q" in the table indicates regular quarterly dividends; "m," regular monthly payments.

WORLD'S WHEAT CROP EXPECTED TO SET RECORD

Washington, D. C., July 23.—(AP)—A record world wheat crop of 4,200,000,000 bushels is indicated for the 1938-'39 crop year, the bureau of agricultural economics reported today.

The indicated crop, which excludes soviet Russia and China, is 375,000,000 bushels above that of last year and slightly larger than the previous record crop of 3,996,000,000 bushels in 1928.

Prospective world supplies are estimated at 4,850,000,000 bushels, or about 475,000,000 bushels above those of 1937-'38.

Wheat production in the northern hemisphere may be about 350,000,000 bushels above that in 1937, the bureau said. In the southern hemisphere, where seeding is nearing completion, indications are for a larger crop in Argentina but a somewhat smaller crop in Australia.

Chicago Paving Company Awarded WPA Contract

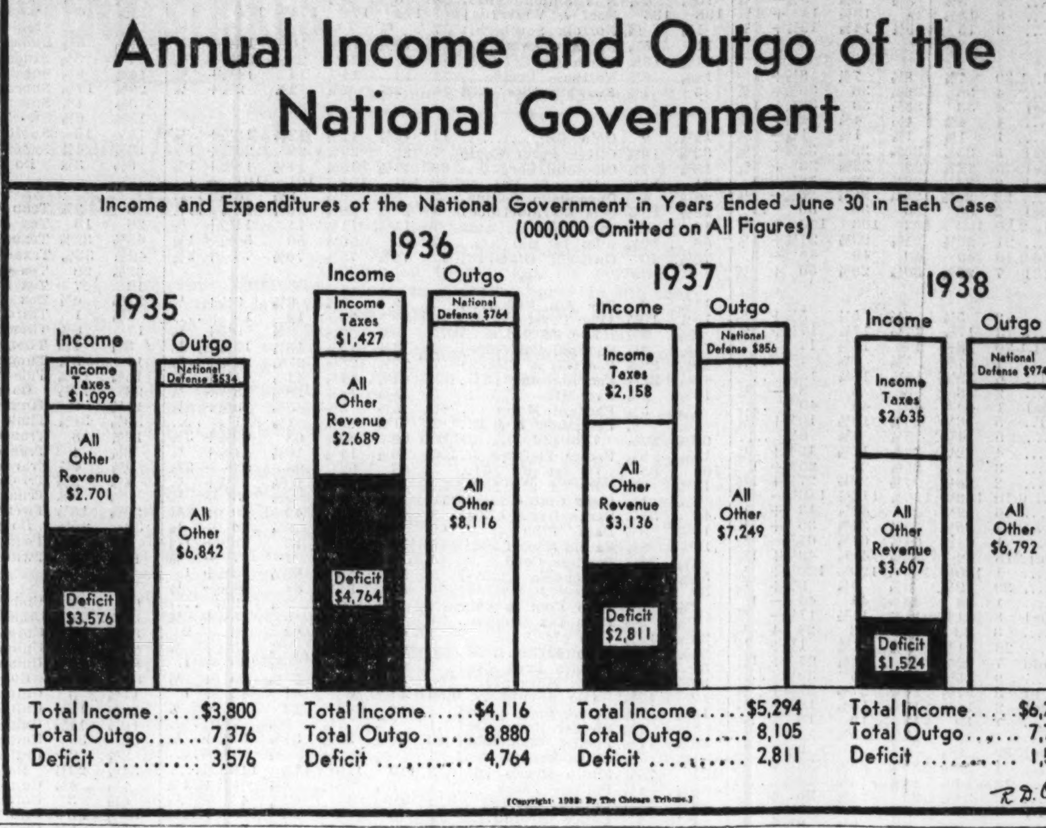
Washington, D. C., July 23.—[Special.]—The Chatham Paving company of Chicago has been awarded a contract by WPA for asphalt mixture totaling $1,323,000, labor department statistics revealed today. During the week ended Thursday, 16 government agencies reported 139 contracts valued at $6,400,919, were awarded under the Walsh-Healey act. This compares with 214 contracts valued at $14,395,039 awarded by 15 agencies the preceding week, the department reported.

Coal Commission Closes Production Cost Hearings

Washington, D. C., July 23.—[U. P.]—The national bituminous coal commission today completed hearings to determine the average cost of producing soft coal and began study of evidence before promulgating district costs. Representatives of twenty-two district producers' boards participated in the cost hearings here and at Denver, Colo.

Childs Company to Retire from Stationery Business

S. D. Childs & Co., Chicago stationers since 1837, will retire from business Aug. 1, Harry E. De Camp, president, announced yesterday. The company's five story factory building at 17 North Loomis street, with an area of 90,000 square feet, has been sold for $140,000 to John S. Swift & Co., offset printers.



Better Times Ahead; Belief of Economists

New York, July 23.—(AP)—Better business and improved economic well being seem on the way in the remaining months of 1938, in the sweeping majority opinion of more than a score of leading economists.

Of twenty-three men who answered an inquiry as to their opinion on the prospect of business recovery, all but three predicted improvement by the end of the year, some with reservations. Such near unanimity was regarded in economic circles as unusual, if not unprecedented. It was thought particularly significant, in that opinions were sought from a broad cross section of men holding varied and conflicting economic and social philosophies, from the extreme right to the far left, and scattered geographically across the continent.

Optimism Is Qualified.

But several of the optimists carefully qualified their opinions as to the nearness of arrival, degree of rise, and length of the recovery movement.

If the majority are correct, it will not be a "boom." Only one used the term "boom."

While nearly all predicted a brisk pickup in the consumer goods fields, wholesale and retail, many qualified their optimism as to heavy industries.

Some other leading economic questions of the day on which views were expressed are shown briefly in the following analyses of answers:

1. Will there be general business recovery during the remainder of 1938? Definitly yes, 11; probably yes, 9; no, 1; no opinion expressed, 2.

Differ on Near Future.

2. Opinon was fairly well divided as to the immediate future, as contrasted with the later months of the year. Answers could be classified as follows to the business outlook for the immediate future: Better, 12; about the same or irregular, 8; worse, none; no opinion, 3.

3. A majority expressing opinions thought the recovery would last through next spring or longer. As to duration of the recovery, the replies could be divided as follows: For a while, or at least until Christmas, 8; fairly long, or at least until spring, 4; long, or beyond next spring, 7; no opinion, 3; no real recovery expected for an indefinite period, 1.

4. Most gave governmental spending and fiscal policies as a recovery factor. The answers might be classified as follows: Help recovery, 16; hinder recovery, 2; no great importance, 2; no opinion expressed, 3.

Factors Favoring Recovery.

Many factors favoring the recovery were cited. Among the most commonly listed omitting government fiscal policies [already noted] were: Improvement in retail trade; rise in commodity prices, wholesale and retail; recent stock market trend; reduction in inventories; solvency of banks and extent of available credit; sentiment.

Among unfavorable factors mentioned as retarding the recovery or as potentially shortening its length were: Taxation; government "interference"; condition of capital goods industries; stagnation of building industries; price rigidity in important industries; wage cutting; resistance to wage cutting.

Louisville & Nashville Line Calls 200 Back to Work

Louisville, Ky., July 23.—(AP)—The Louisville and Nashville railroad today called 200 men back to work Monday at the South Louisville shops. The men were laid off a month ago and are the last of the 1,800 men suspended at that time. Others were called back June 25.

Chicago Builder Awarded Veterans Hospital Contract

Washington, D. C., July 23.—[U. P.]—The veterans' administration today awarded a contract for construction of a building at the Knoxville, Ia., hospital to A. Smith & Co., Chicago, on a bid of $412,633.

INCREASE IN EASTERN RAIL COACH FARES IN EFFECT AT MIDNIGHT

Washington, D. C., July 23.—(AP)—Eastern passenger coach fares will go up 25 per cent at midnight tomorrow.

The carriers have estimated that the half-cent-a-mile increase—making the new rate 2.5 cents a mile—will bring them approximately $45,000,000 more revenue during an 18 month trial period. In authorizing the increase, the interstate commerce commission remarked that "there can be no doubt that the applicants are in serious need of additional revenue."

Under the new schedule, the railroads will lose the privilege of collecting a full nickel in instances where the fare figures into odd cents. After tomorrow they must make their rates to the penny. The basic Pullman fare will remain unchanged at 3 cents a mile.

The eastern territory in which the increased coach fare applies is bounded on the west by Lake Michigan, Chicago, Peoria, and Springfield, Ill., St. Louis, and Cairo, Ill. From Cairo the southern boundary follows the Ohio river to Huntington, W. Va., then runs eastward to include the Norfolk, Va., area.

The I. C. C. issued an order today which will make one-way and round-trip coach tickets sold prior to July 25 good for passage until the regular expiration date, provided that date is prior to Feb. 25, 1939.

RAIL LIENS SEND BONDS CLIMBING IN CLOSING HOUR

New York, July 23.—(AP)—A vigorous demand for secondary railroad issues straightened the bond market out for a new drive to higher levels in the final hour of trading today.

Closing prices were at the best and ranged from minor fractions to two points or more. Fresh strength in the corporate section appeared almost simultaneously with the upturn in stocks.

Prominent carriers on the new advance were Delaware and Hudson Refunding 4s, Baltimore and Ohio Convertible 4½s, Rock Island General 4s, Bush Terminal 5s, Missouri Pacific 5s, Nickel Plate 4½s, Southern Railway 4s, Southern Pacific 4½s, and St. Paul 5s.

Some of the moving picture obligations, recently depressed by the government anti-monopoly action, made sharp recovery. Included were Radio-Keith-Orpheum 6s and Warner Bros. 6s.

United States governments held back, with closing prices ranging from an advance of 2-32 of a point to a loss of 3-32.

ILLINOIS RANKS SECOND TO TEXAS IN OIL DRILLING

Springfield, Ill., July 23.—(AP)—Latest official reports showed today that Illinois ranked second only to Texas in oil drilling operations.

M. M. Leighton, chief of the state geological survey, reported 202 new drilling ventures in progress during the week ended June 9, putting Illinois ahead of such oil states as Oklahoma, California, Kansas, and Louisiana. In Texas 339 locations were being drilled.

The 37 new Illinois wells brought in during the week developed a total production of 9,339 barrels for the first 24 hours, an average of approximately 250 barrels each. On June 10 a total of 598 wells had been drilled in Illinois since Jan. 1, as compared with only 41 in the same period last year, when the state's oil basin was in the early stages of its development.

Family Food Costs Show Slight Decline

The careful Chicago housewife could fill her family market basket for a few cents less yesterday than two weeks ago, a survey of the city's wholesale food markets disclosed yesterday. Prices on the average, however, were little changed because declines in some items were offset by advances in others. Retail prices closely follow quotations in wholesale markets.

Best bargains were found in vegetable markets, although eggs and a few kinds of meat also were cheaper. Except for a few off season items market men agreed that the quality of most fresh vegetables is much better now than in most recent seasons when less favorable growing conditions prevailed.

Some Products are Cheaper.

Apples, beets, radishes, red raspberries, and carrots were cheaper. Some grades of tomatoes, string beans, and cucumbers were a little lower.

Fine green corn could be bought yesterday for 40 to 75 cents for a sack containing four to five dozen ears. Green peppers also were abundant at prices ranging from 85 cents to $1 a bushel. These items were not so abundant two weeks ago.

Peaches and peas were about the only items that showed much advance over prices two weeks ago. Georgia peaches advanced because the season is ending, but Illinois peaches are beginning to arrive in larger quantities and are expected to be abundant next week. The present time is an off season for peas.

Meat Prices Divergent.

Lower grades of beef loin and beef round were cheaper yesterday than two weeks ago, but top grades were higher. All grades of lamb loin were higher, but lamb leg was cheaper. Pork prices were mixed.

A comparison of prices follows:

BENDIX SHOWS PROFIT EARNED IN 2D QUARTER

But Return Is Far Below Year Ago.

The Bendix Aviation corporation made a profit in the second quarter of 1938, compared with a substantial loss in the preceding three months, the company's interim statement showed yesterday. Earnings, however, were much lower than for the second quarter of 1937.

The Chicago Railway Equipment company also reported a small June quarter profit yesterday, compared with a first quarter loss. Lower earnings for the quarter just closed, compared with the March quarter and the June, 1937, quarter, were reported by the Hercules Powder company and the Seaboard Oil company.

The General Cable corporation, the Baldwin Rubber company, and the National Acme company had losses for the three months to June 30, against profits in the like 1937 period.

Middle West Units Earn More.

Three Middle West operating units had increased profits for the second quarter over the comparable 1937 three months. These were Public Service Company of Oklahoma, Southwestern Light and Power company, and Michigan Gas and Electric company.

Net profit of Bendix Aviation, which makes products for the automobile, aircraft and marine industries, was $65,606, 3 cents a capital share, in the June quarter. This compared with net loss in the preceding three months of $561,605 and a profit in the second quarter of 1937 of $825,453, or 39 cents a share.

The profit cut the company's loss for the first six months to $495,999, against net profit in the first six months of 1937 of $1,631,961, or 78 cents a share.

Chicago Railway Equipment's net profit after taxes was $8,257 in the second quarter, against loss of $65,684 in the three months to March 30 and profit of $189,138 in the June quarter, 1937.

A BARGAIN STOCK TO BUY NOW

We have selected a low-priced stock which appeals to us as being one of the most attractive speculations on the New York Stock Exchange. It is selling much below its prospective value, we believe; and those who buy this stock could make excellent profit during coming months.

The security in question is within the reach of all investors, selling as it does at a very reasonable figure. The company has greatly improved prospects. Business is expected to expand sharply. Earnings should pick up substantially. The action of the stock indicates much higher prices. In short, this is truly a bargain stock.

The name of this stock will be sent to you absolutely free. Also an interesting booklet, "MAKING MONEY IN STOCKS." No charge—no obligation. Just address:

Rails' Negotiator

H. A. Enochs, former brakeman, on whose long experience as peacemaker and ex-labor leader the carriers are depending in negotiations for wage reduction. Enochs is chairman of committee representing the managements.

Ex-Brakeman Leads Rails' Pay Cut Move

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

A former brakeman is directing the railroads' effort to get their employés to take a 15 per cent wage cut. He is H. A. [Herb] Enochs, chairman of the carriers' joint conference committee, which is negotiating in Chicago with the railroad brotherhoods over the proposal to put the cut into effect. His regular job is superintendent of personnel for the Pennsylvania railroad.

The carriers' committee has full power to reach a settlement with the men or to turn them down. On it are five railroad representatives from the east, five from the west and five from the south. The final say on the wages of the 914,765 workers rests with the committee.

Enochs, a powerfully built man with thinning reddish hair, is close to his 64th birthday. He has been working since he was 13 years old. And his job is his hobby—trying to keep the peace between men and management. He is a former labor leader.

Recalls Start in Life.

Sitting in the room of a friend in the Blackstone hotel, Enochs recalled his start in life, when he got less for a week's labor than his friend would pay for a meal at the hotel.

After a year in high school, Enochs went to work in the Philadelphia store of John Wanamaker as a stock boy at $2.50 a week. He lived in Winwood, a suburb, and his commutation ticket cost him $4.95 a month, which didn't leave much for the boy.

Soon afterward he was offered a job with John B. Ellison & Sons, wool merchants. He took it, stayed two years, and then went to work selling boys' clothing for Samuel Wanamaker. Enochs admitted he was a good salesman and was able to save quite an amount. But he had trouble with his eyes and had to stay away from the store five or six months. When he went back he wasn't in favor with his boss, so he took a job with Sharpless Brothers, a department store. His next job was selling butter, eggs, and cheese. He built up two wagon routes for his employer.

Becomes a Baggage Man.

Then, at the age of 20, he started railroading in Philadelphia. His appearance on the railroad scene was as a baggage man in uniform. Called a baggage man, he actually was a porter, hustling bundles for fussy old women and wielding a mop in various parts of the station.

On June 1, 1896, young Enochs was made a passenger brakeman at a wage of $1.65 a day. That was the time of red plush seats, oil lamps, coaches heated by stoves, and hand operated brakes, a time of long hours and hard work, when a brakie's legs were so tired from hopping on and off trains that he had to rest them on pillows after the day's work was done. Enochs' first run was on the Philadelphia division which extended 104 miles to Harrisburg. On June 1, 1906, Enochs was made a passenger conductor.

BRIGHTER HUES NOW APPEAR IN INDUSTRY'S SKY

Good News Filters Through Clouds.

A few more bright rays of good news filtered through industry's long darkened skies last week as some of the indices of business activity rose at a pace unusual for this time of year. However, others of the business gauges showed losses.

One of the sharpest upturns was in the production of electric power. Another was in the output of steel, which increased 4.1 points to 36.4 per cent of capacity, compared with 32.3 per cent in the preceding week.

The latest freight trafic report of the Association of American Railroads, covering the week ended July 16, indicated a trend upward. Loadings for that week stood at a new 1938 high mark, rising 20 per cent above the total for the preceding week.

Cotton Mills More Active.

Cotton mills reported marked increases in production, some commodities continued to advance, and the stock market touched new high levels for the year before settling down.

A few dividend increases were announced, along with some reductions and a large number of usual payments.

A decline in the amount of commercial loans by banks in the week ended Wednesday was among the indices showing an adverse trend. Chicago banks were lending 3 million dollars less than a week earlier and New York City banks loaned 13 millions less for commercial purposes.

Automobile and truck output fell to 32,070 units from 42,010 in the preceding week, partly because more factories were stopping production of 1938 models.

Building Contracts Smaller.

Private awards of heavy building contracts dropped to 9 million dollars in the week ended Tuesday from 19 million in the preceding week, and compared with 15 million a year earlier. Counting federal, state and municipal awards of engineering contracts, the volume for the respective periods was 45 million, 51 million and 30 million.

Trade Index Advances.

The Associated Press composite index of industrial activity advanced last week to 69.2, up 0.9 point from the preceding week. The index with its seasonally adjusted components, based on the 1929-'30 average as 100, compared as follows:

	Last wk.	Prev.wk.	Yr.ago.
Composite index	69.2	68.3	104.7
Automobile prod.	34.6	39.1	96.1
Steel mill acct.	48.8	42.3	110.7
Cotton mfg. acct.	87.2	84.8	128.4

Residential bldg.	59.1	59.1	64.5
Total carloadings	62.1	61.5	80.3

Announcement was made that June airline travel, for the first time this year, had fallen below that of the corresponding 1937 month. The June decline was 2.1 per cent.

Latest available reports on department store sales in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district—covering the week ended July 16—showed the volume was 11.9 per cent below that of the 1937 week.

STOCKS WAKE UP SUDDENLY, CLIMB BRISKLY

Spurt in Second Hour After Sleepy Start.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 23. — A spirited rally in the second hour of today's short session sent the stock market winging ahead from fractions to more than 2 points. Steels, coppers, amusements and glass shares played the major rôles in the advance. Closing prices were around the best of the day.

Volume picked up sharply as the list broke out of the narrow limits that had marked dull dealings in the initial sixty minutes. Transactions in the first hour totaled only 200,000 shares, against more than 500,000 in the second, when buying came into the market. The day's sales were 776,240. A week ago 627,270 shares changed hands.

There was nothing in the news to account for the sudden change. At the opening traders knew that the indications were that steel operations would show another rise next week, that car loadings had increased and that copper prices were up.

Little Interest at Start.

At the outset of trading a firm tone prevailed but there was little interest. Once the 11 o'clock mark was passed, however, trading quickened. Glass shares and amusement issues set the standard for the rest of the market. The movie group, which had been under pressure since the filing of the government's anti-trust suit early in the week, made its first recovery and the good buying soon spread to other divisions.

Loew's came back to close 2⅜ points higher at its best mark of the day. Warner Brothers and Twentieth Century-Fox added fractions. Radio-Keith-Orpheum also was in good demand.

Many industrial stocks were bid up into new high ground for the year and longer, as the pace of trading became so fast that the ticker fell behind shortly before the finish.

Rail Stocks Join Rise.

Railroad stocks took part in the improvement but not to the same degree as industrials. New York Central came to within a fraction of its best mark of the year.

In the steel section, United States Steel equaled and closed at its best price of the year, 62⅜, at which point it showed a gain of 1¼. Bethlehem spurted 1¾ points.

Some of the best gains were in the glass shares. Libby-Owens advanced 3½ points and Owens Glass 2½.

Automotive issues stood out prominently on the advance. Chrysler went through to a new high of 73¼ on a spurt of 1⅜ points and General Motors rose 1⅞ to 43½ also a new high. Truck shares like Omnibus, White, Yellow Truck and Coach, and Mack were active above or around their peak levels of the year.

WHEAT DROPS 1 CENT, NEARING SEASON'S LOW

Corn and Other Grains Driven Downward.

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the September delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Friday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$ .69⅜	$ .70⅜	$1.18¼
Corn	.58⅛	.59	.99⅞
Oats	.24⅞	.25¼	.33
Rye	.49¾	.50½	.84½
*Soy beans	.84½	.84½	1.06¼

*October delivery.

Wheat and corn futures declined 1 cent a bushel at the lowest yesterday, wheat selling within a small fraction of a cent of the lowest level of season. Closing trades were at cr near the bottom levels.

At no time did the markets show a pronounced disposition to rally. Oats futures declined ⅝ cents a bushel and went into new low ground for the season. No. 2 white oats in the sample market sold at 26 cents a bushel, the lowest price for cash grain since 1933. Rye weakened in sympathy with wheat and on hedging sales in the September delivery.

Prospects of much needed moisture being received in the dry sections in the Canadian northwest had a depressing effect on wheat futures.

Little Export Business.

While no wheat export business of consequence was reported in domestic wheat, it was intimated there had been fair sales. When the Liverpool October delivery closed yesterday it was at a premium of about 15 cents a bushel over the September contract on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Outside speculative interest in the wheat market was reported by brokers as being light, which they say partly accounts for the rapid price changes at times.

Hedging sales are not large despite the fairly liberal receipts at terminal markets. Arrivals the last week aggregated 20,633,000 bushels, compared with 32,693,000 bushels the preceding week and 24,883,000 bushels last year.

Good Weather Depresses Corn.

Brokers, who frequently act for exporters, were buyers of September corn futures early, but the market weakened later on aggressive selling attributed to professional traders.

Favorable weather and crop reports were said to have influenced the latter operations. The country sold 106,000 bushels of cash corn for deferred shipment.

CORN QUOTA LIKELY.

Washington, D. C., July 23.—(AP)—Administration farm leaders said today that the weather during the next week or so probably would determine whether there will be a referendum on invoking marketing quotas for this year's corn crop.

Continued warm weather and showers in the midwest, these leaders said, would boost prospects for the feed crop and possibly place it in a "surplus" class.

A decision on a marketing quota referendum must be made by Aug. 15.

SOME PORK CUTS CHEAP; CAREFUL BUYING URGED

Top Grades Are Selling at Highest of Year.

It will pay butcher shop owners and consumers to look around for bargains in wholesale meat markets and retail stores this week, live stock men at the stockyards said yesterday. Pork eaters will find the widest selection of price tags of the year as a result of the unsettled condition of the markets for live hogs and fresh pork in the last few days.

By avoiding such purchases as top cuts of light fresh pork loins, light shoulders and butts, all of which are bringing the highest prices of the year, a thrifty housewife can serve pork dinners at the lowest costs since last winter, it was said. Consumers are urged to buy cuts from heavy loins, all weights of cured hams, and roasts from the heaviest fresh hams if economy is sought.

Top Loins $25 a Hundred.

While top grades of light pork loins sold wholesale up to $25 per hundred pounds, the highest price of the year, and were extremely scarce at this figure, choice grades of 16 to 22 pound loins were available to butcher shop owners at $13.50 to $15, the lowest rates since last February. Packers obtained $15 to $16 for pork shoulders and sold butts at $19.50 to $21. Spare ribs wholesaled at $12 to $13.

Several factors caused the unusually wide spread in pork and hog prices late in the week. There was a scarcity of light young hogs and a surplus of big weights at a time when five packing houses that buy a big share of the heavy hogs on the market were tied up by labor difficulties. This drove top kinds higher and others lower. Heavy pork products were a burden on the market. There were not enough light cuts to fill orders.

Average for Hogs $8.45.

Packers paid an average of $8.45 for hogs last week, a decline of 35 cents from the preceding week's cost. Only one weekly average has been lower since May 21. A new 1938 peak of $10.25 was paid Thursday for lights. The latter finished steady with the close of the preceding week, while declines in medium and heavy hogs ranged from 25 to 65 cents, the sharpest losses in the heaviest of the butchers and in sows.

The range of prices in cattle and sheep was not as wide as in hogs, and bargains in beef and lamb meat this week are likely to be harder to find than in pork. Live costs of most good cattle increased rather sharply last week. The six day steer average rose to $10.55, a gain of 30 cents over the preceding week, and a new 1938 high. The top price also made a new high for the year of $13.

There was a rally in the trade for lambs after an early break last week, final quotations being highest of the week and slightly above the previous week.

CHICAGO STOCKS' CLOSING LEVEL IS HIGHEST OF YEAR

Chicago stocks made gains ranging from fractions to a full point yesterday, finishing at the highest closing level of the year. The Tribune average of twenty stocks, at 11.61, was up 0.56 for the week to the highest close since Nov. 17, 1937. Friday's close was 11.48. Nine issues made new highs for the year yesterday, making fifty-three new highs for the week.

Trading of $1,000 par value of bonds yesterday made a total of $58,000 for the week, heaviest bond trading in any week since April, 1935.

Yesterday's volume was 18,000 shares, same as the preceding Saturday. Forty-one of the eighty issues traded advanced, nineteen declined, and twenty were unchanged. The week's volume was 219,000 shares, compared with 161,000 the week before and 170,000 in the corresponding 1937 week.

Commodity Futures.

Transactions in commodity futures markets involve buying and selling of contracts for delivery of commodities in some specified month.

The chief function of futures exchanges, such as the Chicago Board of Trade, the New York Cotton exchange, and others is to provide a means for shifting risk. The risk arises from price fluctuations in commodities. It is shifted from the producer, merchant, manufacturer, or other handler of the commodity to the speculator, who makes a business of assuming the risk.

The handler of commodities in most cases does not want to speculate on price changes. He is content to make his profit from manufacturing, storage or merchandising. He does not want to risk an "inventory loss" which would result if the commodity should decline in price while he is holding it. In exchange he is willing to eliminate the possibility of an "inventory profit."

The process whereby he can reduce or eliminate speculative risk is known as "hedging." Hedging consists of making two transactions of opposite nature at the same time—that is, the hedger may buy commodities for cash for use in his business, selling at the same time an equal amount in the futures market to offset the purchase. An example of hedging will be taken up in the next article.

Tomorrow: An Example of Hedging.

PACKERS STUDY UNION PROPOSAL TO END STRIKES

Some Issues Are Settled, Others Debated.

Proposals by union representatives for settlement of the strikes at five Chicago packing plants were being studied yesterday by officials of the companies. The officials met at the office of the Miller and Hart Packing company in the morning and reconvened later in the day at the Roberts & Oake office.

The scheduled conference yesterday morning between company officials and union representatives failed to take place. It was expected, however, that the companies would call in the union agents as soon as they reached an agreement among themselves. It was reported that packers were unable to reach a general agreement on one or two points in the settlement plan that had been submitted earlier by the union.

Grant Some Union Demands.

The companies had granted earlier all the requests made by the unions on hours and wages. The remaining differences to be settled revolved around the union demand for a closed shop and checkoff system. The latter issue was believed to be dead because the companies have refused since the beginning to entertain the suggestion of collecting dues for the union by deducting from the pay checks of workers.

Hope of an early settlement, it was reported, hinged on the willingness of the packers to make some concession on the closed shop issue. This point was said to be occupying the meeting of officials yesterday. The union began by requesting that it be allowed to install its own representatives in the plants of five companies to pass on the hiring and firing of workers. This was rejected by the companies.

Asks Modified Closed Shop.

The union countered by asking a modified closed shop system. It remained uncertain late yesterday whether the new proposal would be accepted.

The slaughtering and cutting departments in the five plants have been closed since July 13. Besides the companies mentioned the plants affected are the Agar Packing and Provision company, Illinois Meat company, and the P. Brennan Packing company. They employ 2,000 of the 20,000 production workers in the Chicago stock yards. The workers are represented by the United Packinghouse Workers Industrial union, an affiliate of the C. I. O.

Chicago Bank Stocks Firm in Week of Light Trading

Trading in Chicago bank stocks was light last week. A few issues moved slightly higher, but most prices finished with no net change after minor fluctuations during the week. Northern Trust again showed the most strength, closing with a gain of $7 for the week at $532 bid, $545 asked. Merchandise National and National Builders shares each rose $5 in dealers' quotations.

EX-BRAKIE LEADS CARRIERS' FIGHT IN WAGE PARLEY

Keeping Labor Peace His Hobby.

men. His entry into the union was not pleasant, his father stormed at home and union men in those days had a hard lot with their employers.

"Father was a skilled marble artisan," Enochs explained, "and had belonged to a union. He became involved in a strike early in his married days and he came out of the trouble with a strong dislike for unions. When I told him I was going to join one, he would hardly speak to me.

"As soon as I joined the union they put me on the grievance committee. And I seem to have been on some sort of a grievance committee ever since. In those days the grievance committee was about the most hazardous union job there was. When the committee went to see a superintendent, there was no sitting down for the committee. And the members were fired on the least excuse."

Helps Win 8 Hour Day.

Enochs advanced in the union until he was made secretary of the general committee of the brotherhood of his railroad. During that time he helped in the fight to bring about the 8 hour day and other reform measures.

In 1916, he was persuaded to join the managerial side of railroad work. In his new rôle he had to settle differences between the workers and the management. Since then he has worked his way up to one of the key positions on the Pennsylvania railroad.

He is reputed among his railroad associates, however, to think "like a brakeman." He is said to have the men's point of view, while carrying on for his employer.

Tells His Policy.

"I have tried to be fair," he commented. "I have tried to see that the men got what was coming to them and that the management got its due. That's all anybody can do."

The present conferences are noteworthy for the spirit in which the men who represent the management and the brotherhoods meet each other. Each side recognizes that the other has responsibilities and they treat each other accordingly.

The carriers' committee will resume its discussions with the Railway Labor Executives' association, headed by George M. Harrison, at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the Palmer house. The meeting with the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, headed by A. F. Whitney, will be resumed at the Stevens hotel at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Goldblatt Leases Building as Vegetable Commissary

Goldblatt Bros., Inc., have leased a three story building at 155 South Water Market for use as a commissary for fresh fruits and vegetables, Bernard Brown, Goldblatt attorney, announced yesterday. The new quarters, which will be equipped with cold storage facilities, will be ready for use about Aug. 15. The lessor is the Chicago Produce District trust. Terms of the lease were not announced.

METALS, RUBBER LEAD COMMODITY UPTURN IN WEEK

Industrial Users Increase Their Demand.

Reflecting an increased demand by industrial users, prices for nonferrous metals and rubber continued to advance in cash and futures markets last week. Most other staples were steady. Moderate gains were shown by contracts for future delivery of cocoa, coffee, and hides. Wool tops were sharply higher. Sugar was practically unchanged.

Strength in the copper market abroad and an upturn in demand by domestic users brought a boost of ⅛ cent a pound to 9⅞ cents in the spot price of domestic copper. This was ⅞ cent higher than the level five weeks ago, just before securities and staples began to climb. American copper for export, which was quoted in the middle of June at 8.71 cents a pound rose yesterday to as high as 10.20 cents.

Sales Reported Heavy.

A heavy volume of sales at the new price of 9⅞ cents was reported. This together with the strength in export prices, caused some traders to predict a further markup soon in the domestic price. Copper futures were up 0.30 cent for the week and 1.5 cents above the mid-June level.

Lead contracts gained 0.10 to 0.15 cent over the preceding week. Statistics for June showed that consumption had exceeded output for the first time this year.

Tin futures advanced about ½ cent a pound, and spot tin sold yesterday at 43.50 cents, up 0.25 cent for the week. Zinc lost ground at the end of the week, but closed with net gains of 0.01 to 0.06 cent a pound.

New York futures markets were closed yesterday except for hides and cottonseed oil. Hides advanced 0.15 to 0.23 cent a pound in New York and were up 0.15 cent on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. Gains for the week were 0.10 to 0.15 cent a pound. Cottonseed oil futures irregular at 0.01 cent higher to 0.02 cent a pound lower yesterday were little changed for the week.

Rubber Up ¾ Cent.

Rubber, which has been a leader in the strengthening commodities market in the last month, climbed ¾ cent a pound in futures trading during the week. The spot price of smoked ribbed sheets was up to 15.8 cents a pound, compared with 14.96 cents a week earlier, and 12.25 cents on June 18, five weeks earlier.

With wool demand taking a spurt last week, futures contracts for wool tops moved 2 to 3 cents a pound higher. The spot price of standard wool tops advanced to 83.5 cents a pound from 81.5 cents at the end of the preceding week.

The Dow-Jones index of eleven commodity futures closed Friday at 49.89 [1924-'26 average equals 100]. This was 0.06 points lower than the close a week earlier, chiefly because of the drop in grain futures, which are heavily weighted in the compilation.

COTTON

American cotton markets showed a strong undertone yesterday. Buying was based on firmness in Liverpool, strength in securities, and a weather forecast of more unwanted rains in the more eastern sections of the cotton belt. Fears of weevil damage have increased as a result of the continued wet weather.

Closing trades on futures were at net gains of .07 to .11 cent a pound. Spot cotton closed .05 to .11 cent higher with New Orleans, 9.00 cents; New York, 8.90 cents; Galveston, 8.70 cents, and Houston at 8.65 cents a pound. Future prices follow in cents per pound:

INSURANCE MEN SEEK WAYS TO REVIVE DEMAND

Plan Broad Campaign to Inform Public.

With the season for life insurance company conventions now in full swing, agents are meeting with their bosses from home offices. They face a tough sales problem, for life insurance sales have been dropping during the recession. New business written was 22 per cent less in the first half of this year than in the same 1937 period.

But even with sales slumping, life insurance men were able to sell about six billion dollars worth [face value of policies] of insurance in the first six months. Their efforts kept the total amount of insurance in force well above the 100 billion dollar mark, touching the all time peak level.

Insurance men this year have been concentrating not only on sales themselves, but on setting up a long term public relations and sales promotion program. The gist of this program is insurance education for the public through institutional advertising.

Buyer Must Understand.

A big part of the "public relations" plan is to get policy holders to understand what they are buying. As one insurance advertising executive recently told a group of insurance men:

"When people are able to read insurance policies, understand what they have and have not in the way of protection, the major part of the public relations problem not only will disappear, but you are going to sell more insurance.

"So your advertising and publicity must work toward educating the public attitude on the need for insurance; showing that one type of insurance gives so much protection, another gives something else. You may lose some business at first but in the long run the general public support of insurance will be enormously strengthened."

Seek to Create Demand.

The aim of such a program, then, is to make people know enough about insurance to want it and to want the particular kinds best suited to their needs. It aims to guard against "high pressuring" the public into buying insurance that is not wanted or is unsuited.

The growth of life insurance has been phenomenal, particularly since the world war. From 1923 to 1930 the total of life insurance in force doubled. It amounted in the latter year to 108 billions of dollars. Although the total declined from 1931 through 1933, it was at a new high of 110 billions last Dec. 31.

Insurance Company Ownership.

A number of inquirers lately have been asking questions about insurance. Among other things, they have been wanting to know who owns the insurance companies. This is an interesting subject because it concerns so many persons in such an important way. After all, few investments are as important as an insurance policy.

There are two kinds of insurance companies, mutual and stock. Stockholders own and control the stock companies. Mutual companies are owned by the policy holders. Many of the big companies are mutuals.

In theory, the stockholders get the profits in stock companies and the policy holders get the profits in mutual companies. This is hardly the complete story, however, because there are other factors involved. For example, some mutuals have policies that do not participate in profits and some stock companies have participating policies. Some stock company rates are lower than mutual rates, although this is often offset by the dividends the mutual policy holder receives. During periods of low interest rates, mutual companies often pay smaller dividends to policy holders and stock companies pay smaller dividends to stockholders.

Despite the fact that so many millions of persons own policies in mutual life companies, the nature of the ownership rights and privileges of mutual policy holders are rarely understood and more rarely exercised. Ask the holder of a policy in a mutual company who elects the officers of his company. If he tells you the directors elect the officers, ask him who elects the directors. You'll probably have him stuck on that one.

As a matter of fact, the policy holders elect the directors of mutual companies in theory, but in practice few mutual policy holders exercise their voting privileges. As long as they feel reasonably sure of the soundness of their companies, most policy holders do not interest themselves in the management.

Mutual life companies go through the routine of holding annual meetings. Policy holders have standing invitations to attend, but few of them do. Many companies do not send out reminders of the annual meetings and many do not solicit proxies from policy holders. A few policy holders are represented at the meetings and assume the responsibility of electing directors representing all the policy holders. Usually annual meetings of policy holders are very routine affairs.

Meetings of stock company stockholders are not different from meetings of the stockholders of railroads, industrial companies, and utility companies.

FARMERS GIVEN CHANCE TO TEST AAA WHEAT PLAN

Fall Sown Crop Subject to New Program.

fourths of a bushel per acre, according to Gentry.

The government is expected to offer a special bonus to coöperating farmers who stay within their 1939 wheat acreage allotments. This would be similar to the 12 cents a bushel bonus that is to be paid on the 1938 wheat crop.

Expect Parity Payments.

Farmers expect to receive their first parity payment checks on the 1939 wheat crop. Congress appropriated 212 million dollars at the last session for making "price adjustment" payments on the five crops—wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, and rice—specifically mentioned in the agricultural adjustment act of 1938. It is from this fund that farmers hope to get their parity payment on wheat.

Marketing quotas, provided for in the farm law, may be put into effect on wheat next year if the crop is too big.

Federal loans will be offered on the 1939 wheat crop to encourage acreage allotment compliance.

The complete AAA program for wheat could not be offered on this year's crop. The fall wheat already had been sown when the farm law was passed.

A national arbitrary wheat acreage allotment of 62½ million acres was provided by congress for the purpose of using it in making bonus payments but not to influence the 1938 crop. The 12 cents a bushel bonus will be paid to all wheat growers who complied with the government's crop restriction program this year.

In addition to bonuses farmers are offered loans on this year's wheat crop. Parity payments will not be made on this year's crop. There will be no wheat marketing quota for this year.

The federal government insurance was not available to protect farmers against losses on the 1938 wheat crop.

Those who coöperated on the AAA program are now able to obtain loans on wheat this year. The loans are being made for a period of seven months where the grain is stored in elevators.

Other Loan Provisions.

Where the grain is stored on the farm the loan must be paid by May 31, 1939. The farmer can pay his loan at any time. The interest rate in both cases is 4 per cent.

Money may be borrowed on 1938 wheat up to the end of this year. The loan is made at the farm law's specified minimum rate of 52 per cent of parity. The recent parity price of $1.14 a bushel for wheat is used to compute the loan rate.

The rate varies, however, depending upon the grade of wheat and the distance from the nearest terminal market. In Illinois, for instance, growers will be loaned approximately 75 cents a bushel on No. 2 hard winter wheat. For the whole country the loan at farm rates is expected to average between 59 and 60 cents a bushel.

Loans made on wheat stored in the elevators are to be secured by warehouse receipts. Loans on farm stored wheat are to be secured by chattel mortgages.

AAA committees in counties throughout the wheat belts have information about where loans may be obtained. Loans on farm stored wheat will be made directly by the Commodity Credit corporation through Reconstruction Finance corporation loan agencies. Where loans are made on wheat stored in elevators the money will come direct from the corporation or through banks and other lending agencies.

The elevator storage cost is paid by the farmer unless the wheat must be sold at a price below the loan rate. In that case the storage cost is paid by the government.

to the lowest since early June, totaling 22 million dollars against 43 million in the preceding week and 70 millions a year earlier. However, a large volume of scheduled or proposed new financing in the near future was interpreted as a favorable sign.

Earnings reports continued to be dominated by showings of lower profits or larger losses, but three leading food companies disclosed June quarter net incomes which were larger than a year earlier. The first eighty-two corporations to report June quarter earnings had a combined profit which was 59 per cent below that of the corresponding 1937 period, according to a Dow-Jones study. The aggregate was only three-tenths of 1 per cent above the figure for the first 1938 quarter.

Parley Over Rail Wages.

Much of the week's business news dealt with developments outside the realm of indices. Stressing the critical condition of the railroads was the series of wage cut parleys launched in Chicago between the roads and labor unions.

These conferences will continue this week. Neither the carriers nor the workers have yielded any ground so far.

The filing of the government suit charging a monopoly in the film business unsettled that industry and sent movie stocks down.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, again warned bankers to lend more money, and the next day it was disclosed that his Texas bank is doing just what he has been scolding other banks for doing—increasing its cash and reducing its loans.

JOLIET'S FINEST TAKING PART IN MUSIC FESTIVAL

High School Band Has 3 U. S. Titles.

The deadline for entry of Cook county vocalists in the festival voice contest is tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock. All entrants must have their entry blanks in the festival office, room 1418 in Tribune Tower, at that time.

Reserved seats for the festival concert at 50 cents and $1 each are now on sale by mail. Make check or money order payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and send to Festival Ticket Manager, room 530 Tribune Tower.

BY WILLIAM THOMPSON.

A world première awaits those who will attend the ninth Chicagoland Music Festival in Soldiers' field on Saturday night, Aug. 20. For the nationally known Joliet Township High school band, directed by the equally famous A. R. McAllister of Joliet, will play for the first time Ferde Grofe's band arrangement of George Gershwin's immortal "Rhapsody in Blue." This will be the second of two numbers the 90 piece band will play.

A. R. McAllister.

Mr. McAllister, founder of the band and its director for the last 25 years, also is president of the National High School Band association and a member of the board of directors of the Music Educators National conference. He has asked his students to cancel summer vacation trips in order that they may attend every rehearsal for their Soldiers' field appearance.

Three National Titles.

The Joliet band is the pride of its home town. It has permanent possession of the National School Band association's grand trophy by virtue of three consecutive victories and was the toast of New York two years ago when it played for a week in Radio City. The east thrilled to Joliet's musicians as early as 1920, when, carrying the banner of Illinois' Rotarians, it attended their international meeting at Atlantic City. On that occasion the band was dressed on parade by a front rank of six foot trombonists and a strutting drum major.

Mr. McAllister's section leaders—those who occupy first chair in each of the ensemble's sections—are confident that "Rhapsody in Blue" will be presented in a manner comparable to Paul Whiteman's renditions of the work. The trombone and bass sections, headed by George Wiswell and Truman Lindemann, see an opportunity to blast forth in the climax when the familiar theme, which is Whiteman's signature on the radio, calls for double forte.

Robert Zarley, first trumpet, is perfecting the sweeter passages for brass, and Arthur Hills, clarinetist, is taking daily workouts on the cadenzas featuring his instrument. George Van Steenberg, who plays flute and piccolo as well as any high school youth in the country, is ready to give a good account of himself. Robert Moore is all set on the oboe, George Lehr on the bassoon, and Robert Clark, as head of the percussion section, will preside over the tympani.

Sells Pig—Buys Cornet.

Mr. McAllister was born on a farm near Joliet. When he was in his early teens he marketed a prize pig for enough money to buy a cornet, and practiced between chores and the pursuance of his favorite hobby—carpentering. His proficiency with a hammer, saw and plane won him a job as instructor in manual training at Joliet High school. While "Mac" taught his subject well, recess found him talking band to his pupils, and soon he found it convenient to leave his cornet at school.

In 1912, when McAllister was in his early twenties, there appeared in Joliet an all girl brass band. "Mac," in his spare time, had organized the group at the Trinity Methodist Episcopal church. In 1913, when the Joliet grade school board voted an appropriation for the purchase of 25 instruments to equip a grammar school band, McAllister was not to be outdone. Realizing that the grade school project was carefully planned by Joliet's veteran supervisor of music, J. M. Thompson, Mac decided a high school band could survive on graduates from the younger organization alone. His immediate job, therefore, was to form a nucleus and keep it alive until experienced recruits should advance from the grade schools.

Trains First Band.

The fact that Prof. Thompson picked his first school band from sixth graders, so that he could keep its members at least two years, made McAllister's outlook a gloomy one. But within a few months he had trained a small "pep" band so thor-

Out to Win Blue Ribbons

BARBARA BLANCHFLOWER.

Gone are the days when a blue ribbon meant only a hair bow to them. Today the young maids of Lincolnshire know it for a mark of distinctior and they will be out to collect as many as they can on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 7, at the second annual horse show to be held by the Lincolnshire Country club. Forty south and southwest side residents will vie for equestrian prizes in the sixteen events scheduled to take place. Miss Barbara Blanchflower daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Blanchflower, 6916 Clyde avenue, and Miss Barbara Reece, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wade W. BREAK GROUND SUNDAY FOR A $30,000 SHRINE OF ST. CHRISTOPHER'S

Climaxing a three years drive for funds to replace the original frame building of St. Christopher's shrine, which was damaged by fire in 1935, ground will be broken for a new $30,000 church next Sunday at the annual summer festival, to be held on the parish grounds, 147th street and Crawford avenue, Midlothian.

The Rev. Gratian Gehrig.

The festival will open today with the annual blessing of automobiles, and activities will be held each evening this week. A beer garden, where a five piece German band will entertain, has been built for the festival, and the outdoor dining room has been enlarged to accommodate 200 diners at a sitting. Eight dinners will be served, beginning this evening with a chicken dinner and concluding next Sunday with a baked ham supper.

Parking space has been rearranged and new driveways added, allowing room for 3,000 cars. One thousand cars an hour will be accommodated today at the blessings, which will begin at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and continue until 7 o'clock this evening.

The Rev. Gratian Gehrig, pastor of the shrine, will be in charge of the festival, assisted by Kevin McCann, general chairman; Paul F. Schwaighart, finance chairman; M. J. O'Leary, feature chairman; Urban E. Widman, amusements; Bruno Lee, grounds, and Mrs. Harry Hartman, dinners.

Furniture Warehousemen's Association Selects Officers

The following officers and directors of the Illinois Furniture Warehousemen's association were named recently for one year terms: Joseph A. Hollander, president; Joseph L. Corcoran, vice president; William S. Conklin, treasurer; M. D. Snedicor, secretary; A. W. Meyer, George A. Julin, J. J. Joyce, and Walter P. Theibault, directors. The association, in existence more than thirty years was organized to help improve warehouse methods.

OFFER PASTORS CHANCE TO HEAR THEIR OWN TALKS

Feature of Presbyterian Parley This Week.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Preachers who wish to hear their voices as congregations hear them will be afforded this opportunity at the ninth annual conference for ministers which opens tomorrow at the Presbyterian Theological seminary, 2330 North Halsted street. This was announced by Dr. Norman E. Richardson, conference director, who said that in order to make it possible for members of the conference "to hear themselves as others hear them" a recorder had been installed in the department of speech.

Dr. Norman E. Richardson.

The Rev. Dr. Charles W. Welch of Louisville, Ky., newly elected moderator of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., will be guest at the conference. Dr. Welch was formerly a member of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE staf. While he is not scheduled to deliver any course of lectures, he will address the conference in his official capacity on the subject of the Presbyterian church at large.

New York Pastor to Talk.

The Rev. John S. Bonnell, minister of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, New York City, will give six devotional addresses at the daily evening service in the chapel. These services follow immediately after the evening meal at the commons. Dr. Bonnell's topic tomorrow night will be "Watching for the Dawn," and the John Timothy Stone, president of the seminary, will preside.

On Monday and Tuesday afternoons Dr. Howard Y. McClusky, head of the school of education at the University of Michigan, will conduct conferences of special interest to ministers located in the seven counties in Michigan which are coöperating with the W. K. Kellogg Foundation. These conferences will be continued throughout the week, as the group itself directs, with leaders selected from the group.

Other lecture courses and seminars will be given in the four major divisions of theological education—the Bible, church, history, systematic theology and practical theology. There will be four lecture periods each morning with seven lectures being given each period simultaneously.

Tours in Afternoon.

The afternoons will be devoted to recreation and visits to the principal educational and scientific institutions in the city. That to the Oriental institute at the University of Chicago will be on Wednesday afternoon, July 27, in charge of Dr. Ovid Rogers Sellers, professor of Old Testament languages.

OLD SETTLERS AWAITING THEIR ANNUAL PICNIC

Oldest Will Compete for Medal Prizes.

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

Only the very old and the very young really know how to play. For the last 64 years Chicago's oldest residents have had a day set aside for them to prove this ability. It is known as the Old Settlers' picnic and will be held this year on Monday, Aug. 1, in Harms park, Western and Berteau avenues.

A Chicago that is recognized generally now only by the relics in the city historical society but which is never old to the men and women who built it, will be recreated again that day in the stories that will be told and the dances that will be revived by the pioneers.

As in former years gold medals will be awarded to many settlers as permanent and valuable souvenirs by the Chicago Turn Gemeinde, sponsor of the picnic.

Qualifications for Medals.

Winners of the gold medals will be the man and woman settlers present who have continuously resided in Chicago and Cook county for the greatest number of years, the man and woman, foreign born other than German, who have continuously resided in the territory for the greatest number of years; the man and woman born in Germany who are the longest residents of the city and county; the old settler who has been longest in the employ of the same business concern in Chicago and who is still employed there at the present time, and the old settler, man or woman, who has continuously resided in the same residence for the longest period of time.

Others will be the married couple of old settlers whose combined ages give the greatest number of years, the head of a family with the largest number of children and grandchildren living, and if possible at the park, and the oldest pensioned em-

Mr. and Mrs. Meyers have lived at their present address since 1905. Mr. and Mrs. Kebschull, both of whom were born in Germany, came to Chicago during the Columbian Exposition in 1893 and have lived in their present home since 1899.

ELMER CSEREP, 10450 Vincenes avenue, is only 11 years old, but he is already known throughout the state as a crack trapshooter. He won a gold watch when he was 8 and another gold watch a year later. Recently he was high in his division of the Wild Life Conservation shoot at the Lincoln Park Gun club. He also is holder of the Illinois junior state championship, won about two weeks ago at Staunton, Ill., and thinks he has had a bad day if he breaks only 90 out of 100 targets.

NEW PLAY FIELD SCHEDULED FOR BURNHAM AREA

Plan Amphitheater at Jackson.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

Numerous improvements for three large south side parks are to be made available to users before the end of summer, it was promised last week as expansion projects in Burnham and Jackson parks got under way and plans were rushed for similar work in Calumet park. The combined programs will cost more than $3,500,000, most of which will be provided by the Works Progress administration.

Both Ralph H. Burke, chief engineer for the Chicago Park district which is sponsor for the projects, and H. K. Seltzer, Chicago WPA director, said that the new or improved facilities to be added under the present program are to be placed in service as rapidly as they are completed. Some of these facilities in Burnham and Jackson parks are already nearing completion, they said.

Labor Budget Highest.

Most of the cost of the three projects will go for labor. Present plans call for the employment of 4,248 certified WPA laborers, and it is considered probable that more will be added later. The work will be spread over the next twelve months.

The projects in Jackson and Burnham parks, which will be well under way this week, call for a total of $1,544,001 in federal funds. Of this, Burnham park will get $954,497 and Jackson park $589,504.

Some of the projects in these two parks were started previously, but most of them are completely new undertakings, those in charge said.

Burnham park's improvements under the newly approved program will benefit the area between 39th and 55th streets, and will give jobs to 1,100 men.

One of the more impressive features is a proposed recreational field 550 feet wide and 1,000 feet long, extending from 48th to 49th street. This will contain a cricket field, a football gridiron and softball diamonds, as well as 3,600 square yards of sodded tennis courts.

Playfield for Children.

Only a short distance north of this large playfield will be a children's playground at 45th street. This area, oval in shape, will be 300 by 500 feet, and will contain a wading pool, sandboxes, play apparatus, and other features dear to children's hearts.

To make these areas more easily available there will be 23,000 square yards of new parking space in the vicinity of 47th street, and there will be improvements in the service of the street car and bus lines, for the benefit of those who do not own automobiles. There is to be a pedestrian pass at 47th street.

Much grading and filling must be done in Burnham park before the present program can progress to any great extent, it was pointed out.

Plan 35,000 Shrubs.

There will be 90,000 cubic yards of excavation, back fill and rough grading, and 60,000 cubic yards of new fill. Some 300,000 square yards of the area will be finish graded and rolled, and 150,000 cubic yards of black earth will be spread before workmen begin the task of seeding 225,000 square yards to lawn, and setting out 2,571 trees and 35,296 shrubs. Necessary sidewalks and drain sewers are also included in the program.

Jackson park's improvements will include rehabilitation of the old baseball diamond at 63d street, building of six softball diamonds along Stony Island between 60th and 63d streets, and alteration of the old nine hole golf course near the lake.

A large amphitheater is to be constructed near 60th street and Stony Island avenue. There will be a perennial garden about 300 feet in diameter nearby.

New Overpass at 67th.

To improve access to this area the 59th street bridge is being rehabilitated, a passerelle is being built at 67th street and the Outer drive, and sidewalks and bicycle paths are being improved. Recently completed features include the concert platform near the new parking circle, a quarter mile running track, and sixteen tennis courts.

Grading, excavating and landscaping is now in progress. There will be 200,000 square yards of rough grading, 34,479 cubic yards of excavation and fill, and 435,000 square yards of fine grading and fertilizing.

The Jackson park program also calls for the removal of 400 dying and otherwise dangerous trees, the placing of 500 healthy ones, the laying of 6,500 square yards of sod, and the planting of some 50,000 shrubs. New sidewalks and parking space are being added.

New work in Calumet park, which was announced in these columns last week, is to be pushed as rapidly as possible, park district officials said. Some of these improvements were started some months ago under an older project, and require only a few more days of work.

Talks on Spain.

Attorney George Quilici, president of the Chicago chapter of the National Lawyers' guild and a member of the executive board of the Chicago Civil Liberty league, will speak at the Tuesday luncheon of the Hyde Park Lions club on "Spain, the Land of Conflict."

OLD SETTLERS AWAITING THEIR ANNUAL PICNIC

It's Day of Reminiscence for County Pioneers.

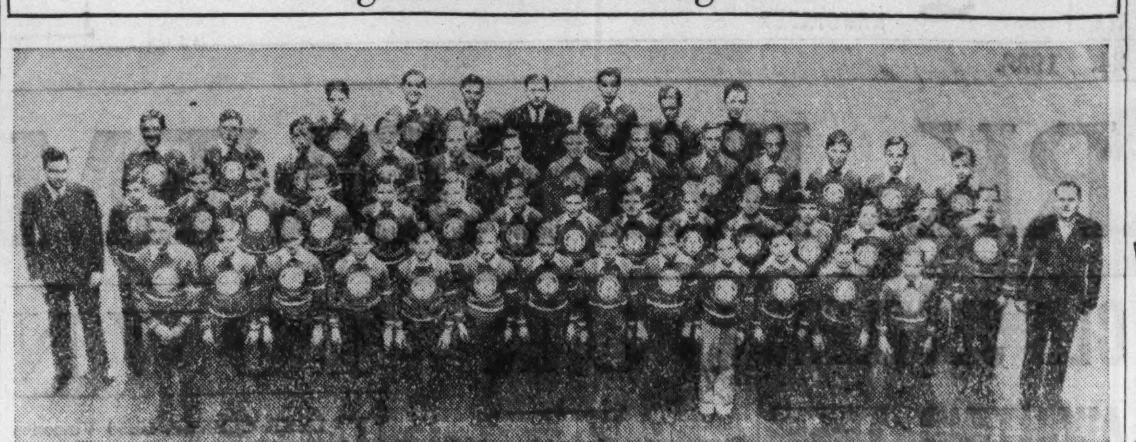
Argonne Forest Songsters



A program of folk songs and semi-classical numbers will be sung at 4 o'clock this afternoon by seventy members of the Division Street Y. M. C. A. Gleemen in Argonne forest preserve, 95th street and 104th avenue. The third of a series of nine choral concerts in forest preserves, the program is sponsored by The Chicago Tribune in co-operation with the Cook county board of commissioners.

S. WEST SIDERS HEAR 2 VESPER CONCERTS TODAY

Palos Hills and Ryan Woods the Sites.

Songs and the open road are part of the summer. Southwest siders who follow the highways on a Sunday afternoon will find the ideal spot for an outing today at two choral concerts in forest preserves.

Seventy young men who make music their fun, the Division Street Y. M. C. A. Gleemen, will sing on the bank of Maple lake in Argonne Forest [Palos Hills], 95th street and 104th avenue, and 24 Negro choristers, known as the Armour Jubilee Singers, will chant spirituals in Dan Ryan woods, 87th street and Western avenue. The concerts will be held from 4 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Both groups will sing under the sponsorship of The Tribune in cooperation with the board of commissioners of Cook county. This will be the fourth of a series of nine weekly choral concerts.

Three Other Concerts.

Three other choral twilight hours will be conducted in forest preserves at the same hour this afternoon. In Harms woods, Golf road [Simpson street] and Harms road, the Century Male chorus will present the program, and in Thatcher's woods, Chicago and Thatcher avenues, the Æolian Choral association will sing. At Whealan pool in Caldwell woods, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, the concert will be sung by St. Sebastian's choir.

The Division Street Y. M. C. A. Gleemen are directed by Phil R. Blonsky, assistant boys' secretary. Their program will include "Over the Sea" by Warren and Dubin; "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes," by Johnson and Riegger; "Short'n in Bread," by Wood and Wolfe; "Stout Hearted Men," by Sigmund Romberg; "Gwine to Run All Night," by Stephen Foster; "Can't Yo' Heah Me Callin', Caroline," by Caro Roma, and "Gold Mine in the Sky," by Kenny.

Soloists will be George Witorski, vocalist; Walter Mrozek, accordionist, and Irving Heider, vocalist. Albert Gottstein will accompany on the piano.

Organized Two Years.

The chorus has been organized for two years and was an outgrowth of summer camp singing. Last year the boys sang at all the Wieboldt stores during the Christmas holidays, gave programs for the "Y," sang in competition with other "Y" glee clubs in the city, winning several victories; presented a concert for the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall last May, and staged their own concert for a packed house this spring.

Tenors in the chorus include Edward Olszewski, Eddie Wolwark, Eugene Wierzbicki, Eugene Kwilinski, George Wolwark, John Kwilinski, Ed Rydel, George Jarecki, Steve Formella, Martin Korczak, Albert Molo, Joe Slobodecki, Nick Palaichuk, Walter Molo, Ed Kowaleski, Leonard Klinkey, Stanley Tofel, Robert Schultb, Walter Mrozek, Kenneth Jones, Joe Summerfelt, John Yesnik, Ted Swachta, Henry Stocko, Billy Wiecaorek, Chester Wierzbicki, George Enda, Robert Palumbo, Richard Miller, Raymond Madura, George Pakucko, Norby Kaitchuk, Stanley Pasdzioch, Ray Wons, Elmer Gwelke, Henry Magnowski, John Summerfelt, and Paul Gerhardt.

The basses are Henry Wienklowski, John Holda, Ray Skladzien, Melvin and Emil Kasper, Bob Westerlund, Bennie Wojdat, Edwin Sarnowski, George Witorski, John Winiecki, Stanley Jendruczek, Buddy Fitch, Cas Banasik, Phil Schultz, George Lisitza, Mitchell Trojanowicz, George Rodeski, Stanley Lazarowicz, Chester Gryzik, Stanley Dydo, Frank Blas, Kenneth Berg, Chester Skhypczak, Bobbie Biskupski, Ed Nycz, Bruno Opela, George Choske, Art Zieja, Cas Pels, Henry Gorick, Joe Sen, John Pakucko, and Bennie Blas.

Organized in 1919.

The Armour Jubilee Singers were organized in 1919. Their charter members were seven employés of the packing house who sang as they worked and developed their choral ability by holding meetings in their homes at night. Officials of the company heard their first public performance at the Wabash Avenue Y. M. C. A. and decided to assist them by paying for a director and accompanist.

Since then the chorus has grown to 20 voices and has sung in many of the largest churches, hotels, clubs, and convention halls in Chicago and nearby cities.

Cornelius W. Pierce is the director and coach of the Jubilee Singers. He is a graduate of the Austin [Texas] High school, the Art institute of Chicago, a student of voice under the late E. F. Morris and Pedro T. Tinsley, and a violin student of Fraulein Von Mossow and Maud Ross at the Kenwood institute.

Songs on Program.

The program he will conduct this afternoon in Dan Ryan woods will include "Deep River," by Burleigh; "Certainly, Certainly Lord," "Kentucky Babe," by Geiebel, and "Go Down Moses." Other numbers will be sung by soloists and the ensemble. They are "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny," led by James Browder; "Po' Ol' Lazurus," led by Napoleon Reed and Walter Weeb; "Goin' to Shout All over God's Heaven," led by George Adams; "O, Southland," led by Mr. Reed; "Joshua Fit De Battle of Jericho," led by Mr. Webb; "Home on the Range," led by Mr. Adams, and "Old Man River," led by Mr. Reed.

The tenors of the chorus are Lonnie Vaughn, Mr. Reed, John Nettles, J. H. Lee, Litholian Johnson, Albert Johnson, Roscoe P. Burton, James Browder, John Brown, Dan Edwards, Burford Gordon Jr., L. H. McLamore, and Charles Nates. Among the baritones are George Adams, John Campbell, Frank Moore, Henry Watson, and J. A. Vinyard. The basses number Eugene ane, James Miller, George W. Randles, D. R. Roberts, James Verner, and Mr. Webb.

Honors for Ivanhoe Police

The Ivanhoe Civic club recently paid tribute to the efficiency of the Riverdale police department with the presentation of medals to Frank Stiemahn (center) and Lester Brookfelt, who last month rescued a local woman from a Negro attacker. The awards were given by Frank Kromer, president of the Ivanhoe Civic club (left).

This Week in the Garden

Monday, July 25.

Attention again is called to the value of summer mulching of all beds out of doors. It consists of spreading two or three inches of well decayed organic manures over the beds, between the plants; peat or similar material is excellent and may be more easily obtained by city gardeners. Mulching tends to keep the soil cool, prevents too rapid evaporation, and conserves the moisture. Watering should be done through the material.

Tuesday, July 26.

Most perennials are benefited by applications of liquid manure or commercial foods. Iris may be divided now. Use good divisions for strong plants. Keep phlox well watered. Spray with Bordeaux to combat rust.

Wednesday, July 27.

Dust phlox frequently with dusting sulphur to control mildew. After the phlox has flowered cut back and feed to obtain a second blooming period. Roses will be benefited if fed with a complete plant food at this time, but later feeding may encourage soft fall growths which may winter kill. Spray roses for black spot and mildew.

Thursday, July 28.

Cultivation and watering, keeping every bed or border in the highest state of culture, is of prime importance during this season. Watch for insects, and spray as soon as any are seen. Use stomach poisons for eating insects and contact sprays for sucking insects. Borers attack maple trees, oaks, locusts, and some conifers. No insecticide has yet been invented that will enter the channels, seek out the borers and kill them. Inserting slender wires in the holes and working them up and into the channels will destroy some of the borers.

Friday, July 29.

Keep the geranium plants that were propagated in June for winter flowering pinched back, and shift when necessary. Watch the house plants that are plunged in the garden and keep well watered and fed. The amaryllis will stand applications of plant food to increase the vigor of the bulbs. If any plants are burning from the too dense rays of the sun remove to partial shade. Remove the suckers from the base of the dahlia plants. Sow short season annuals for fall bloom.

Saturday, July 30.

Spray potatoes with arsenate of lead to kill the bugs. Spray tomatoes, potatoes, and cucumbers for blight, using Bordeaux mixture. Divide Japanese iris this month. Keep withered blooms removed from the annuals to obtain a long season of bloom. Order the Dutch bulbs for fall planting.

COLONIAL HOME HAS SIMPLE PLAN FOR EXPANSION

Walled Up Doorways May Be Used in Future.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

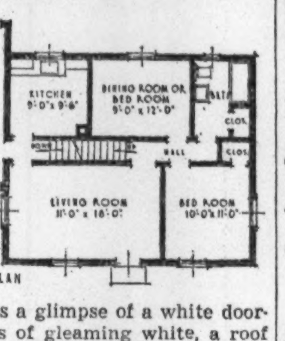
We build a home intending to live in it for a good many years to come. But we often find that conditions change, new needs arise, and if our house does not possess a certain degree of adaptability we have some real problems on our hands.

An insurance against possible future need for change, today's four room colonial cottage home, with its attached garage and basement recreation area, has been given a floor layout which is unusually flexible.

The owner of this new home at 1030 Sherman avenue, Joliet, is Edward N. Riley. He wanted a little four room cottage in the $5,000 class which could later be expanded into a six room home with two baths at minimum cost.

Floor Plan Flexible.

The novel flexibility of the first floor plan as it now stands will contribute considerably to the ease of future change. So, too, will the upstairs space, which can be easily completed to include two bedrooms and an extra bath.



FLOOR PLAN

One sees a glimpse of a white doorway, walls of gleaming white, a roof of heavy asphalt shingles, and shutters painted a rich green shade. It is as serene and unpretentious a cottage as you can find on Cape Cod.

It is built of lightweight concrete masionary units with a concrete first floor and precast concrete joists. Its overall is 25 by 30 feet, and to save money the exterior walls were left exposed except for a buff colored cement sprayed finish.

Interior Walls Unpainted.

Again, to cut costs, the interior walls have not been painted. Instead, a cream color was added to the plaster, which is sand finished.

As it stands the present floor plan consists of a living room at the front, 11 by 18 feet; a front bedroom, 10 by 11 feet; a second bedroom at the back, 9 by 12 feet, and next to it is the kitchen, 9 feet by 9 feet 6 inches.

There is also a bathroom which is larger than the average and includes a linen closet, recessed tub, and a shower and a floor of asphalt tile. At the left of the house is the attached garage, entered from the kitchen, and in the basement a large recreation room with walls of exposed concrete.

As the floor plan suggests, the bedroom at the back, adjacent to the kitchen, is in reality a dining room. An arch which corresponds to the one in the living room is now sealed and plastered, and so is a doorway in the wall next the kitchen which will one day open into the kitchen in conventional fashion. All that is needed when this room is to be converted into a dining room is to remove plaster, finish arch and doorways, and redecorate.

Wood trim has been used in the doorways and window sills, and hardwood floor has been laid on the concrete in all rooms excepting the bath and kitchen, where asphalt tile has been used. The windows are of steel casement, and in the basement concrete window wells afford ample daylight.

A breakfast set of tables and chairs has been included in the kitchen, and built-in cabinets extend from floor almost to ceiling on either side of the sink.

For summer coolness and all year comfort, added insulation of four inches of fibrous material has been provided in the attic. When the final landscaping is completed there will be a stone and concrete terrace in the small corner between house and garage.

This house cost the owner $5,300 to build. It is obviously a house for a small family:

Home from Honeymoon

Miss Marie O'Brien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. O'Brien, 7611 Sangamon street, recently became the bride of Charles M. Morris, son of Mrs. Mary Morris, 6345 Whipple street, in St. Leo's church, 77th street and Emerald avenue. After a honeymoon in the east the young couple are now at home at 7803 Bishop street.

THIRD DISTRICT PREPARING FOR MUSIC FESTIVAL

Tables Are Taken for Aug. 19 Luncheon.

The 3d district of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs will take an active part this season in the ninth Chicagoland Music Festival to be held Aug. 20 in Soldiers' field. Mrs. Thomas Gifford, president, and Mrs. Paul Grundman, district music chairman, will assist Mrs. Adolph G. Hoffman, state music chairman, in the arangements for the festival luncheon on Friday, Aug. 19, in the Stevens hotel. A block of tables has been reserved for clubwomen by Mrs. Hoffman and 3d district members may make their reservations through either Mrs. Gifford or Mrs. Grundman.

Englewood Junior Women.

The sixth dessert and bridge party conducted by the club this summer will have a garden setting tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Millington E. Stair, 1704 West 100th place. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Paul H. Jeffries, Mrs. O. Irvin Fox, Mrs. William A. Watson, Mrs. Floyd A. Swenson, and Mrs. George C. Vance.

Englewood Woman's Club.

Having completed the club calendar for the coming year, Mrs. Joseph Jaeger, program chairman, has announced the speakers to be presented on programs. They are Margery Mayer, contralto; Barclay Acheson, associate editor of the Readers' Digest; Lillian T. Mowrer, author of "Journalist's Wife"; Dr. John A. Lapp and Phil Hanna who will debate on the Democratic and Republican parties, respectively; Frank Speaight, English actor; Dr. Clark Kuebler of Northwestern university; Beverly Howe and Frederic Snyder, news commentators; Capt. Irving Johnson and Sidney R. Montague, lecturers.

Mrs. E. W. Grover, chairman of the painters' class in the club, has an exhibition of 27 pictures at the Chicago Woman's club this month and the first of August. She is also exhibition chairman of the South Side Art association.

Morgan Park Juniors.

Deadline for material to be printed in the club year book has been set at Aug. 1 by Mrs. L. O. Green, chairman. A garden party will be given at the home of Miss Jane Korten, 11301 Lothair avenue, Friday evening, Aug. 26.

Juniors' Party Has Garden Setting

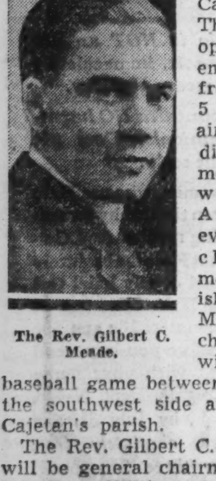
ST. CAJETAN'S CHURCH OFFERS ITS ANNUAL FESTIVAL ON SUNDAY

St. Cajetan's church will conduct its annual midsummer festival next Sunday on the parish grounds, 112th street and Campbell avenue. The program will open with chicken dinners served from noon until 5 o'clock in the air-conditioned dining room by members of the women's club. Athletic field events will be in charge of the men of the parish with John McCormick as chairman. There will be an indoor baseball game between the priests of the southwest side and men of St. Cajetan's parish.



The Rev. Gilbert C. Meade.

The Rev. Gilbert C. Meade, pastor, will be general chairman assisted by the Rev. William Cooney, co-chairman; Edmond Moroney, Lewis Manahan, George Wahl, Joseph McLillop, Edward Oliver, Henry Smith, Dick Walsh, Joseph Walsh, Wayne Huddleston, and members of the Holy Name society.

Manion, Mrs. Charles Zitnik, Mrs. Othmar Janson, Mrs. Irene Joranson, Mrs. Richard Walsh, Mrs. E. J. Tobin, Mrs. William Moroney, Mrs. Joseph Blosky, Mrs. John Tobin, Mrs. James McCormick, Mrs. Eleanor Hall, and Miss Margaret Spencer.

oughly that the high school board provided uniforms and the group made regular appearances at football and basketball games. With a large, personable bass drummer, who is the present head of the Joliet school board, Elmer Geissler, the first band was quick to catch the public fancy. During the war the Joliet organization became an R. O. T. C. band, donning the khaki for most assignments and keeping the trim navy blue uniforms for concert and dress appearances.

In 1924 Joliet started its imposing string of contest firsts by winning the Illinois state title. By 1929 the band had become supreme in interscholastic music circles and, having clinched permanent possession of the National School Band association trophy, was invited to the contest in Denver as special guest.

Thousands of Joliet band fans are planning to accompany the players to Chicago. There has been some talk of special trains being run for the occasion. From all indications it is going to be "Joliet night" at THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's great music fiesta in Soldiers' field.

Club Chairman

Mrs. Joseph Jaeger, program chairman of the Englewood Woman's club, recently completed the club schedule for the coming season. She is serving her second year in office.

COURTESY WEEK DRIVE STRESSES TRAFIC SAFETY

Church Services Today Open Campaign.

"Courtesy Week," intended to make Chicago safer for both driver and pedestrian, opens today. The city-wide movement is sponsored by the Keep-Chicago-Safe committee and the New Century committee, both of which are headed by Mayor Kelly.

Today is "Church Day," and clergymen of all denominations have been asked to urge their congregations to coöperate in the courtesy campaign.

Cite Fewer Deaths.

"With close to 100 fewer trafic fatalities since the first of the year, compared with the same period for 1937, it is believed that Chicago is ready to try courtesy as a further means of reducing the toll," George W. Fleming, general secretary of the Keep Chicago-Safe committee, said yesterday.

Other special days announced by the committees are Monday, "Industrial day"; Tuesday, "Private Car Owners' day"; Wednesday, "Civic day"; Thursday, "Pedestrians' day"; Friday, "Children's day," and Saturday, "No Accident day."

A mass meeting will be held Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Lincoln park bandshell. Speakers will include Fred Degnhart, Lincoln park recreation supervisor, and representatives from the two committees.

On General Committee.

Members of the general committee include the following residents of the southwest side:

Edward Redd, Sherif John Toman, Frank J. Walsh, the Rev. Herbert Kohn, Mrs. Edward Joyce, Mrs. C. M. Balch, George W. Young, William V. Daily, Fred L. Johnson, Otto K. Jelinek, John Dooley, Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, and Mrs. Mabel A. Murray.

WEST END CIVIC LEAGUE ELECTS FIRST OFFICERS

Officers of the newly formed West End Community league are Joseph W. Tolar, president; Mrs. Peter Henke, first vice president; Mrs. Charles Schrock, second vice president; Dr. Harry Greenstein, treasurer; Joseph Aimoli, sergeant-at-arms; Dr. Richard Kaminski, Gustav I. Anderson, F. Chiradia, and Alex De Anglis, trustees.

The league will interest itself in civic problems concerning the district bounded by Cicero avenue, Harlem avenue, 51st street, and 59th street. Its present objectives are [1] a community center, [2] improved transportation and street lighting, [3] adequate police and fire protection, and, [4] improved health and sanitation facilities.

S. WEST COUNCIL, P.-T. A., SELECTS SEASON'S THEME

Each Local Is Ready to Use Same Idea.

"We, the parents and teachers, promote the general welfare through safeguarding children and youth," will be the theme of the southwest council, Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, for the coming season. Each location in the council will use the idea in the formation of their individual mottoes.

The theme and an aim, "To coordinate all efforts on behalf of the child, the inspiration of today, the hope of tomorrow, the binding tie of parents, and the goal of teaching," were adopted recently by the council at a tea in the home of Mrs. Holland Flagler, 9762 Vanderpoel avenue, state program chairman.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. E. W. Buxton, council program chairman, assisted by Mrs. Andrew C. Graham, council president. Mrs. J. J. Sharpe, director of district 25, is the originator of the new council theme.

"Building with Youth" will be the theme of the Lindblom High School P.-T. A. next year. Although the complete program has not been arranged, announcement has been made that the October meeting will be held in the Morrill school, that the annual turkey dinner and parents' night will be given in November and that a symposium on the home, school, and community will be conducted in December.

Members of the program committee are Mrs. James Alexander, president; Mrs. Walter Jaeger, past program chairman; Mrs. Joseph Goldstein, Mrs. Willard Congreve, Mrs. William H. Mulhall, Mrs. Leslie Summers, and Mrs. Adolph Huff.

In accordance with its new slogan, "Interpretation of the P.-T. A. to the Community," the Morgan Park High School P.-T. A. will divide its membership committee into sections representing neighborhoods in Beverly. Each subcommittee will keep in contact with parents of students and will draw attention to the importance of attending the monthly meetings held every third Thursday.

Mrs. Eugene Schobinger will head the membership committee. She will be assisted by Mrs. Gordon Crowder representing 91st to 95th streets; Mrs. W. D. Hooper, 95th to 99th streets; Mrs. M. W. Gillogly, 99th to 103d streets; Mrs. Ralph L. Thiele, 103d to 107th streets; Mrs. D. D. Else, 107th to 111th streets; Mrs. Richard Coburn, 111th to 119th streets; Mrs. Russell Dunbar, Mount Greenwood; Mrs. Marie C. Cook, Washington Heights, and Mrs. Herman Hart, Brainerd.

Mrs. J. D. Salato, president, will conduct a school of instruction for newly elected officers and chairmen of the Raster P.-T. A. at 1 o'clock on Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. S. W. Kipnis, 6749 Marshfield avenue, recreation and leisure time chairman. Recently elected officers are Mrs. Jacob Polisky, first vice president; Mrs. Louis J. Deal, second vice president; Mrs. Mildred M. Duggan, principal and third vice president; Mrs. John J. Leonard, recording secretary, and Mrs. Fred P. Ording, treasurer.

Chairmen of standing committees appointed by Mrs. Salato are Mrs. Deal, membership; Mrs. Polisky, finance and budget; Mrs. Ording, program; Mrs. L. L. Hangar, by-laws and revisions; Mrs. R. E. McKinney, auditing, citizenship, and legislation; Mrs. Anna Doran, teacher representative; Mrs. Edgar L. Morris, father representative; Mrs. Victor R. Rehnberg, health; Mrs. Gunnard Lundquist, hospitality; Mrs. Henry Schober, publicity; Mrs. William S. Reed, student-aid and juvenile protection.

Mrs. Kipnis, recreation; Mrs. Edgar L. Morris, posters and exhibits; Mrs. Lawrence Klein, homemaking; Mrs. Joseph Klein, motion pictures; Mrs. H. H. Munce, library; Mrs. John V. Goyke, humane education; Mrs. Emil Meister and Mrs. Joseph Ringhofer, social; Mrs. Hugh Dawson, exceptional child; Mrs. Robert Turner, safety, and Mrs. Leonard, music.

SUMMIT FIREMEN HOLDING ANNUAL OUTING AUG. 13

The 31st annual picnic of the Summit volunteer fire department will be held Aug. 13 at Summit Grove. Plans are being made for a parade of floats to be furnished by the local business men, and a ten piece orchestra will be hired for social dancing. The afternoon will be given over to field events and baseball games. Members of the picnic committee are W. W. Walker, general chairman; John Vukovich, vice chairman; Stanley Heinz, George Galligani, Charles Kruga, Chester McKirdy, and Chief John Marotzke, an ex-officio member.

Sorority President

Miss Jeanette Ford, 5530 South La Salle street, who recently was named president of Beta chapter of Chi Theta Chi sorority. Other officers are Miss Rita Cogan, vice president; Miss Grace Seyffert, recording secretary; Miss Jayne Hodson, corresponding secretary; Miss Alice Ludwig, social chairman, and Miss Marguerite Mascolino, publicity chairman. OLD SCHOOL SITE UNDER LEASE TO CATHOLICCHURCH

Approval was given by the board of education last week to the leasing of a former school site at 111th street and Central Park avenue to St. Christina church, to be used for parochial school purposes. The property is part of a 160 acre tract owned by the school board.

The church is to be given a 15 year lease and will pay $25 a month for the use of the Central Park frontage. This rental includes the use of the abandoned school building on the property, which is to be rehabilitated.

REMODELED POOL IN HARVEY IS A LURE TO CROWDS

The day of the "ol' swimmin' hole" is past, at least for the village of Harvey. Youngsters no longer fling off their cloths and dive from the nearest rock. Instead they now put their clothes in modern lockers and are instructed in the art of the jack-knife from a standard spring board.

After extensive remodeling, the Harvey swimming pool was opened a fortnight ago and passed a state inspection test. Last Monday private swimming instructions were begun for children from 6 to 12 years old. The classes will be held weekly from 9:30 to 10:30 o'clock on Monday mornings.

Plans are being made for an adult class to begin the second week in August on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. The pool is open from 8 to 12 o'clock in the morning, 1 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and 6 to 9 o'clock in the evening.

Sunday hours are from 1 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon. Because of the many requests for Sunday evening swimming, the committee in charge is considering having the pool available at that time.

The staf at the pool includes five senior life guards who are on duty daily—Robert Kidder, Charles Scott, Robert Newton, Charles Palaces and James Spencer. A junior life guard, Renaud Bennett, is assistant.

The village committee in charge of the operation of the pool is made up of William Howarth, Russell Hughes, Mrs. W. C. Fowler and Mrs. E. F. Delano.

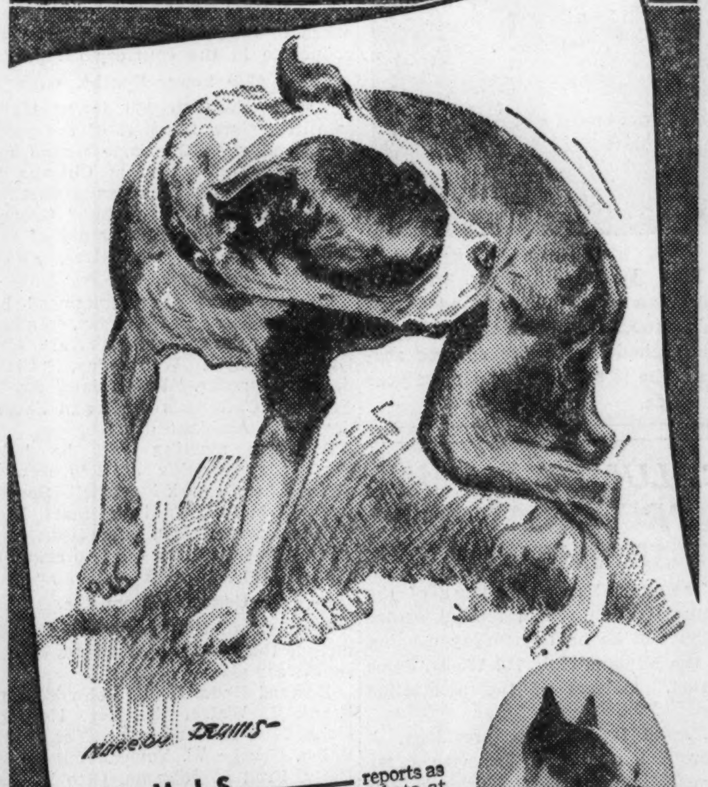
BOSTON TERRIER'S AILMENTS DISAPPEAR WHEN VETERINARIAN PRESCRIBES PARD



*Dr. M. J. S ______ reports as follows on this Boston terrier (photo at right): "Age: 4 years. Symptoms: Thin and nervous; coat dull and harsh, with abnormal shedding; skin irritated. Diagnosis: digestive upsets and malnutrition from incorrect feeding. Treatment: an exclusive diet of Pard and water—no medication. In less than 40 days all symptoms had vanished; dog's condition was splendid."

"Incorrect feeding," says Dr. M. J. S........., who treated this Boston terrier, "is the basic trouble in 9 out of 10 dog ailments. It's small wonder, then, that we veterinarians are crusading against hit-or-miss diets, and against nutritionally deficient dog rations!"

Dr. S......... is one of the many experts on canine nutrition who put complete faith in Swift & Company's Pard. Pard is the product of years of scientific laboratory work—has conclusively proved its worth in feeding tests through four successive generations of pedigreed dogs. Made of fresh beef meat food products, formulated with seven other choice ingredients, Pard supplies in correct proportions the food elements vital to your dog's health. To keep him always in top condition, put him on Pard now. Swift & Company, Chicago.

DO YOU WANT YOUR HAIR TO GLEAM AND SPARKLE?

See how startling the change can be when dulling soap film is removed this amazing new way!

Colgate's amazing new HALO Shampoo Thrills Thousands! It is not a Soap, not an Oil! A single washing removes cloudy Soap Film to reveal Breath-taking new Highlights... Yet Dry, Normal or Oily hair is wonderfully Soft and Silky after washing with HALO!

NO WONDER women everywhere are cheering Colgate's thrilling new HALO Shampoo that contains no soap! For Halo is an improved liquid shampoo discovery! And results are sensational on all types of hair! Here, at last, is one way to make dry, normal or oily hair glisten with new highlights—yet even "wildest" hair has amazing new softness after washing with Halo!

So don't suffer any longer with shampoos that irritate the scalp. Don't suffer, either, with old-style liquid or bar-soap shampoos that leave unrinsable soap film on hair to cover up its natural brilliance. Try Halo Shampoo today. And discover, as thousands have, how beautiful your hair really can be!

A single Halo shampoo will prove a revelation! For it instantly removes cloudy soap film to reveal a glamorous beauty you never knew your hair possessed! Most astonishing, remember—Halo is one shampoo that works equal wonders on dry, normal or oily hair of any color! Yes—a Halo shampoo leaves all types of hair with sparkling new highlights . . . breathtaking new silkiness and softness!

FIRST: Halo contains NO soap! Thus it cannot leave gummy soap film on hair to dull its natural lustre, as old-fashioned shampoos do. Yet Halo makes more creamy lather than soap, in hardest water. One sudsing washes away all dirt and loose dandruff. Completely removes that drab, cloudy soap film left by other shampoos. So lemon and vinegar rinses are not needed. Yet hair is absolutely free of dulling film . . . cleaner, more radiant than you ever dreamed possible!

SECOND: Halo is NOT an oil! Leaves hair silky-soft, immaculately clean. But never greasy or sticky.

THIRD: Halo contains NO harmful drying chemicals. Does not irritate or sting the scalp.

VARIED MUSICAL, DRAMATIC FARE ON JULY AIRWAYS

Broadcasters Are Active While Sponsors Vacation.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

One consequence—and a pleasant one for listeners—of the disappearance of so many of the night time sponsored programs during the torrid months is the addition of more varied sustaining [noncommercial] program fare during the evening hours. This season, even more than usually, all the networks as well as the livelier independent stations, are getting a lot of variety into their sustaining pickups. The chains are offering several features which would cost plenty if sponsored.

Among the summer musical items certainly the most varied and elaborate is the Grant park concert series featuring a dozen or more nationally famous conductors, symphonic orchestras, and distinguished vocal and instrumental soloists. All three major networks using local outlets are devoting several periods a week to these musical feasts. In addition, WIND and WCFL are making their own pickups.

The only complaint heard is that seldom is a concert available in its entirety for radio listeners even if they switch around from one station to another. Several stations may carry a portion of the concerts at the same time, but there may be a stretch of fifteen minutes to an hour when no broadcaster is in action.

Air Streamlined Operas.

The famous Robin Hood Dell concerts from Philadelphia, featuring a symphony orchestra under the direction of Alfred Wallenstein, musical director of Mutual network in New York, are carried over W-G-N and the network.

W-G-N once a month airs streamlined versions of operas on the Monday evening Pageant of Melody over the Mutual network. These are under the direction of Henry Weber and Lou Jackobson.

Among the musical offerings on CBS are the New York Philharmonic concerts from Lewisohn stadium, with guest conductors, are Edwin Franko Goldman band concerts and Victor Bay's "Essays in Music."

NBC special music features include the Cincinnati Zoo Opera orchestra, the Chautauqua Symphony orchestra, the Carnival of Popular Music, the Toronto Symphony orchestra concerts, the National High School orchestra, under Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, and the National High School band under Graham Overgard, the Port of Missing Hits, featuring music that didn't quite get over.

Special Dramatic Offerings.

Drama occupies a strong position this summer on CBS schedules. Special shows include Orson Welles' "First Person, Singular" with adaptations of famous stage successes or books, Welles himself playing the leads.

CBS also is carrying a dramatic series titled Men Against Death, based on Paul Dekruif's volumes on heroes of science. Another worthwhile feature is the Living History series, reanimating important incidents and events in our history. CBS also has the Four Corners theater, featuring rural drama.

Dramatic headliner on NBC for the summer is the Pulitzer Prize series featuring one hour adaptations of these notable plays, presented by exceedingly competent actors, drawn for the most part from the ranks of regular radio performers.

Another notable series of plays are those presented on NBC at noon Sundays under the title "Shakespeare's England," depicting the life and times of the great Elizabethan. This series is written by Zach Metz, Shakespearean authority, and Stanley Field, established radio writer. Bits from plays are included in each of these dramatizations.

Variety of Shows.

Other items of interest on NBC, are the Information Please quiz featuring Clifton Fadiman and Franklin P. Adams; Way Down Home, a dramatic serial about the life of James Whitcomb Riley, and the Roving Prof, talks by Prof. William McGovern of Northwestern university. It also is putting on a summer series of American Town Meetings of the Air, these originating in various cities. A stop is scheduled for Chicago.

CBS has a somewhat similar program in it's new Peoples Platform with Lyman Bryson president. Guest speakers attack subjects of public concern from various points of view.

Prof. John T. Frederick's discussion, review, and interview "Of Men and Books," which started out locally on WBBM, has been expanded to the CBS network for the summer and is worth a listen.

There are, of course, many other summer specialties. Among these are a host of sports and special events which in winter time would be passed up for want of available time.

Lobblies to Save Writers at the Brink of Altar

Romance on the high seas puts in an unwelcome appearance during the next session of Mr. Mergenthwirker and his Lobblies over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 9 to 9:30 p. m. tomorrow. Hawley and McGee, the hard hearted newspaper men, en route from New Orleans to New York, fall prey to a pair of husband hunting females, and at the brink of the altar are saved from fate by the kindly ingenuity of Henry and Japeth, the two Lobbly companions of Mr. Mergenthwirker, who hate women as much as they like beer.

Izler Solomon's Orchestra on W-G-N Tuesday Night

W-G-N will broadcast a portion of another of the Grant park municipal concert series from 8:15 to 8:45 p. m. Tuesday. The concert will be presented by Izler Solomon, directing a 75 piece concert orchestra. The entire half hour will be devoted to the playing of the Symphony No. 1 in G Minor by Kalinnikov.

The Three Graces

Swinging along on the beach as well as on the airlanes, the Three Graces, singing trio heard with Harold Stokes' dance orchestra on W-G-N and the Mutual network, spent a day of leisure on the sand at the Edgewater Beach hotel. The girls on the swing are (above) Annette Bretzlaff and (seated) Patricia Clayton, while alone in the ring swing is sister Kathleen Bretzlaff. [Drucker Photo.]

STOKES SALUTES BERLIN, GORDON, REVEL ON W-G-N

Three Popular Medleys on Wednesday.

Two programs, designed to display the compositions of three of the best known popular song writers of the day, will be presented this week on W-G-N and the Mutual Network, by Harold Stokes and the W-G-N dance orchestra and soloists. At 9:30 tonight on "Your Sunday Date," Stokes will present three hit tunes of the new Mack Gordon and Harry Revel musical "My Lucky Star" for the first time on the air. Wednesday at 9:30 p. m. on "Melodies from the Sky," the entire performance will be given over to music by Irving Berlin.

Edna O'Dell, Gunther Decker, the Three Graces, and the swing chorus will be heard on the program tonight. The three featured tunes from "My Lucky Star" will be "I've Got a Date with a Dream," "This May Be the Night" and "Could You Pass in Love." Comedy bits by Ruth Glasscott and her character "Minerva Dimwittie" and Charlie [Upsidedown] Wilson will round out the program.

On the Wednesday program many old favorites as well as the newest songs from Berlin's pen will be offered. There will be three medleys one from "Top Hat," one from "Follow the Fleet" and another from "On the Avenue." The newest tunes are from Berlin's score for the picture "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

"Meet Your Neighbor," the popular interview feature of the Wednesday evening programs, also will be heard.

"HAPPY ENDING" IS NEXT PLAY ON "CURTAIN TIME"

"Happy Ending," a comedy of youth, will be presented on Curtain Time, from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Friday over W-G-N and the Mutual network. Blair Walliser, W-G-N dramatic director, will direct the play. In the cast will be Louise Fitch, Sunda Love, Ethel Owen, and David Gothard.

"Happy Ending" was written by Ruth Barth, and will be presented in W-G-N's main audience studio. The concert orchestra, directed by Henry Weber, will provide the musical background.

Giants Game on W-G-N.

The final game of the series between the Cubs and New York Giants will be played this afternoon at Wrigly Field. Bob Elson will be on hand to broadcast the detailed report of the contest on WGN beginning at 2:55 p. m.

NO ONE IS ALL BAD --- WHEN ACE CHANCE GIVES HIS WORD OF HONOR HE KEEPS IT --- WHEN HE LOST HIS FIGHT WITH JACK HE ALSO LOST HIS BET --- SO AT ONCE HE WENT TO WORK AS A LOWLY GREASE-MONKEY ON JACK'S TRUCKS-PRETTY TOUGH FOR ACE WHEN HE STARTED- HE WAS SOFT- BUT HE'S GOT NERVE- AND HE'S SMART- EARNIN' HIS MONEY NOW-KEEPS HIS JAW SHUT- DOES HIS JOB- DOESN'T WATCH THE CLOCK- HE'LL BE O.K.-
FINE- GLAD TO HEAR IT-
HM-M--- NOW WHO'S THAT BIRD PROWLING AROUND? I'VE SEEN HIM SOME PLACE-
HEY, YOU! WHAT'S ON YOUR MIND?
KEEP AWAY FROM ME! --- OH--- YOU! -- JACK! I--- ER---
HAND ME THAT GUN- WHO ARE YOU? I'VE SEEN YOU SOMEWHERE-
SURE- I'M "BINDLE AL"- DON'T YOU REMEMBER ME? AT THE HOSPITAL?
OF COURSE! NOW I DO, "BINDLE"- BUT WHAT ARE YOU DOING AROUND HERE? PLAYING INDIAN SCOUT?
NAW- I WON'T KID YOU, JACK- YOU'RE REGULAR- I WAS JUST LOOKING FOR THAT BIRD, ACE CHANCE-
YEAH? AREN'T YOU SATISFIED TO BE ALIVE?
HE TRIED TO KILL ME- HE'D HAVE DONE IT IF IT HADN'T BEEN FOR YOU- HONEST, YOU'RE THE FIRST GUY WHO EVER REALLY WENT TO BAT FOR ME-
YOU SPENT THOUSANDS FOR THOSE DOCS- I CAN PAY THAT BACK SOME DAY- BUT YOU GAVE YOUR BLOOD TO SAVE MY LIFE- THAT'S SOMETHIN' THAT'S HARD TO PAY BACK-
BUT I'LL TRY, JACK- LISTEN- ANYTHING- I'LL BE YER SLAVE- I'LL DO ANYTHING YOU SAY- EVEN TO KILLIN'- SEE? WHY NOT? YOU WENT ALL THE WAY FOR ME-
YEAH? HM-M- YOU'LL DO ANYTHING I ASK, EH? FINE- THEN PROMISE ME YOU'LL LAY OFF GUNNING FOR ACE-
THAT DIRTY SO-AND-SO! IF YOU SAY SO, ALL RIGHT, JACK- BUT WHY?
LISTEN- I GAVE MY BLOOD TO KEEP YOU ALIVE --- YES --- BUT ONLY SO THAT ACE WOULDN'T BURN FOR KILLING YOU- SEE?
WHAT? YOU SAVED MY LIFE JUST TO KEEP THAT BUM FROM BURNIN'? WHAT A DIRTY TURN YOU DID ME!
ER--- BUT WAIT A MINUTE--- IF --- LEMME GET THIS STRAIGHT- WHO'S CRAZY AROUND HERE?
YOU KNOW, LATELY I'M BEGINNING TO WONDER ABOUT THAT MYSELF-

WE'RE COMIN' INTO HONGKONG HARBOR! REMEMBER, GANG-BURMA IS POSING AS MY SISTER, "BURMADINE LEE"! IF THE BRITISH POLICE RECOGNIZE HER SHE'LL BE HELD FOR PIRACY!
I HOPE THESE SPECS, COAT, AND HAIR-DO FOOL THEM! LITTLE NASTALTHIA HASN'T NOTICED MUCH IN HER ANXIETY TO SEE HER PAPPY!
THAT MUST BE THE OLD GENT ON THE DOCK!
NASTALTHIA! OH, SWEETHEART, I HAVE DIED A THOUSAND DEATHS WORRYING ABOUT YOU!
PA-PA!! THERE HAVE BEEN SO MANY ABSURD DELAYS! -BUT I CAN OVERLOOK ALL THAT - NOW THAT I'VE RETURNED!
BUT WE CAN'T OVERLOOK THE PEOPLE WHO SAVED MY LITTLE PRECIOUS! THE CAPTAIN WIRELESSED ME ABOUT THEM! WHERE ARE THEY?
OH, THOSE AWFUL AMERICANS! WHY CAN'T WE JUST FORGET THEY EXIST?
WHY, NASTALTHIA! HOW UNGRATEFUL OF YOU! YOU MUST POINT THEM OUT TO ME THIS MINUTE!!
HOLY SMOKE! NASTY'S BRINGING PAPA OVER!
AH, WELL... OVER THERE!
CAN'T SKIP NOW! THE COPS ARE TAKING OUR NAMES AS REFUGEES!
HERE THEY ARE, PA-PA! I SIMPLY CAN'T REMEMBER ALL THEIR NAMES!
DON'T BOTHER WITH NAMES JUST NOW! I WAN'T TO SAY HOW COMPLETELY IN YOUR DEBT I AM FOR THE GREAT SERVICE YOU HAVE DONE ME!!
IF YOU'LL PARDON ME, SIR, THESE PEOPLE WILL BE FREE JUST AS SOON AS I TAKE THEIR NAMES FOR THE REFUGEE LIST!
REFUGEE LIST? DON'T BE ABSURD, MAN! THEY ARE MY GUESTS! IF THERE IS RED TAPE HAVE YOUR SUPERIOR CALL MY OFFICE!...
VERY WELL, MR. SMYTHE-HEATHERSTONE!
BUT, SIR!...
AH-AH-NO PROTESTS! ANY PLACE YOU WISH TO GO LATER IS FINE-JUST NOW I AM YOUR HOST!
.... BUT, MR. SMYTHE-HEATHERSTONE, WE'RE HARDLY PRESENTABLE! WE'LL HAVE TO GET CLOTHES, AND MONEY...
NOT ANOTHER WORD! THE BEST TAILORS AND DRESSMAKERS IN HONGKONG ARE AT YOUR SERVICE...
LO SUN! - CALL A TAXI AND TAKE THESE MEN AND THEIR SERVANTS TO MY CLUB - THE YOUNG LADY WILL BE MY HOUSE GUEST! GOOD DAY, GENTLEMEN! YOU SHALL HEAR FROM ME!
STEP INTO THE CAR, MISS! SIT BESIDE NASTALTHIA AND TELL ME ALL ABOUT EVERYTHING!

"I hereby bequeath"—

Personal estates don't include such royal and priceless jewels as those possessed by the late Queen Marie of Rumania, but there are a few diamonds in almost every estate of any consequence. We are often called upon to aid in speedy liquidation or make loans to heirs. One of our clients received jewelry this way but needed immediate cash for other things. This Blue White eye-perfect American Cut brilliant diamond, mounted in yellow gold Tiffany Prong mounting [which we will be glad to change] represents a most unusual value at........$85

Corrigan Candidates

Many investors work years in silence and against great financial odds, hoping always that some day the world will pay homage to their ideas. Such an example as the dogged perseverance displayed by plucky young Corrigan always inspires others with new determination. We have helped many inventors by loaning money on jewelry and carrying them for long periods. This man who pawned a handsome yellow gold ring set with a 2 Ct. Blue White Wesselton Fine American Cut exceptionally brilliant diamond was unable to redeem same, and
We will sell it for........$275

Time and Space

This concessionaire remarked when he came in, "It takes time to get the right space—and money, too. Now I've got the space but I need more money." It developed that he had an option on a wonderful department store location and had to pay rent in advance and buy new merchandise which he couldn't get on credit. Jewelry owned by himself and his wife did the trick. She, however, did not redeem this one gorgeous solitaire—1.03 Ct. diamond, Blue White Fine American Cut, unusually brilliant, in lady's platinum ring with 2 round and 2 baguette diamonds.
It can be yours for this liquidation price of only........$105

One Strike and Out

We always thought this manufacturer was a mighty square shooter. His men seemed to like him and they got along fine together. But one day he found his place picketed. He felt that demands made on him were unreasonable and a deadlock occurred. The strike nearly put him out of business and resulted in hardships for his employees as well. They finally got together but everybody had lost. The manufacturer even lost all his personal jewelry [in addition to other things] which he had to pawn to keep his credit good and insure the jobs of his men. This lady's exquisite all platinum hand made straight line design bracelet set with 65 Blue White Perfect and Perfectly matched emerald cut diamonds weighing about 15 Cts. was one of the pieces pawned.
Yours for only........$1.475

Meat Man Needed "Stake"

A small meat packer came to us one day and explained that butchers were having difficulty paying for their meat owing to a big drop in consumption which took place at that time. He turned everything he had into cash in order to raise additional capital. Among the jewelry pawned was this Gent's platinum ring set with a 2¾ Ct. Fine Color American Cut absolutely perfect and flawless diamond.

The Jeweler Who Overstocked Himself

He bought on notes, anticipating large sales which did not develop. He had to raise cash quickly or default and ruin his credit reputation. The goods were sold at sacrifice prices, the jeweler saved his business—and you can save real money by purchasing any of these new items; diamonds, watches, wedding rings, etc.

Chicago Security Pawners,
105 N. Clark street,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

I am very happy to advise you that I am more than pleased with the large diamond I purchased from you. I took advantage of your suggestion to have it appraised and it was actually valued by my jeweler at more than twice the amount I paid for it.

Needless to say, I will be more than glad to take advantage of the marvelous bargains you have in out-of-pawn diamonds when I am again in the market for anything in your line.

I will be always glad to recommend my friends to your firm.

Very truly yours,
Harry A. ....

Salesmen.

A Business of Your Own

In Illinois and Indiana I have placed over 300 men in a business of their own, and am now ready to interview men for the South Side of Chicago and suburbs, where we have thousands of customers.

All office rent, girl hire, phone service, and even merchandise stock is financed by our company. You do not invest one cent.

Naturally, in a business as successful as ours, where many of the above men earned last week $25, $50, and as much as $75 in a single day in percentage alone there are certain requirements. You must be between the ages of 25 and 50, absolutely honest and reliable, a hard worker, and teachable.

I will grant you a personal interview at 1:30 p. m., Monday, after which I will tell you whether or not we will finance a business for you on our electrical devices. George Buckley, 4th floor, 841 E. 63d-st.

. . . THE NORMAN CONQUEST . . . The sheer loveliness of this new Normandy home will capture your fancy. And it's a style that's popular because it so easily adapts itself to modern things. With its slate roof, antique stone and brick it resembles a French chateau with large grounds. Inside, too, you'll find hospitable room for royal entertainment. Examples are the 17x24 living room and 13x13 knotty pine den. Porches have modern sun deck; heating is by forced flow hot water. There are 4 bedrooms, lots of closets, a tile kitchen, copper gutters, and all the little things that make ownership a pleasant thing instead of a disappointment. By apptmt. only. Phone owner. Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Take Quail for Ride.

July 23, 1938.

A FAMILY of newly hatched Bob White quail must have wondered what was happening the other day on the Tribune's Du Page county farm when they were put into a cardboard box and transported more than a mile by automobile. These quail were hatched by a brown and black bantam hen in a coop near the sheep barn. As all game birds are fed and cared for in an enclosure far from the barn, this family was moved to the game bird corner to be reared with the other chicks.

The quail were only a day old when they were given their free ride. The chicks couldn't raise much fuss over the trip, but the bantam let everybody know that she didn't like the idea of being separated from her young ones.

After the bantam and her family were reunited in the game bird enclosure they soon became accustomed to their new surroundings. When we were there yesterday the proud little hen was leading her brood through the tall grass in search of insects.

Dogs Menace Fowl.

Roving dogs often are a constant menace to the turkeys, geese, and other fowl on the farm. Farmers and landowners always are on the lookout for these canine trouble makers that usually belong to careless owners. In a recent farm diary we told of the two dogs that killed almost 150 turkeys near the Tribune's Du Page county farm. The farmer who suffered this loss determined who owned the dogs so we thought that he could hold the owners financially responsible under the law.

Donald R. Murray, supervisor of the township of Milton in Du Page county, informs us that it now appears that the township, rather than the dog owners, may have to pay for the damage. He writes as follows:

"As supervisor of Milton township, I was interested in your article about the turkeys. The owners of the dogs that killed the turkeys pointed out to me that there is nothing in the law which makes them responsible for the turkeys, providing the man who owns the turkeys is satisfied with what the township pays him and he files his claim against the township and not the owners.

"I consulted the state's attorney and he states that this is correct. Therefore it looks like the township will have to pay the damages, even though we can prove which dogs did the damage. I think it would be a good idea if the state legislature would change the law so the township could sue the owners of the dogs. My personal opinion of this law is that it protects the farmer and the dog owners and does not protect the taxpayers."

Mr. Murray states that the county treasurer usually carries a balance of $3,000 in the dog tax fund. He also points out that the township does not have the right to destroy dogs that have damaged stock, but the farmer who catches a dog doing damage can shoot him on his ground.

Bellflowers Beautiful.

In the east woods of the Tribune's Du Page county farm, where the spring beauties formed a wildflower carpet at the beginning of the season, a new flower is springing up. It is the tall bellflower, a relative of the bluebell. The light blue flowers, growing on stems from two to six feet high, add beauty to the woods at this time of the year when so many of the summer flowers have disappeared. Fruits and berries are appearing on many vines and shrubs to take their places.

The bellflower, like the wild sunflower, is a symbol of late summer on the farm. It will produce flowers until September, and the first of the cardinal flowers undoubtedly will blossom in the winding creek bed before the last of the bellflowers have died.

REFINANCING OR CONSTRUCTION.
GENERAL MORTGAGE INVESTMENTS, INC.
33 N. LA SALLE-ST. RANDOLPH 3477.

MRS. R.'S $17,000 MORTGAGE WAS IN default on a 12 flat bldg. The bondholders threatened to foreclose. She came to us and we offered her $9,500 for 15 yrs. After 7 weeks' work we settled with the bondholders—$9,500 for their $17,000. Of course, Mrs. R is very happy now.
We lend 80% FHA of the value on homes and apt.—brick, stucco, frame—up to 25 yrs. old. However, even where an 80% loan is not enough we see the mortgage or bondholders to get a top heavy mortgage cut; also tax penalties. Last year our clients saved many thousands and we prevented scores of foreclosures.
We lend 90% FHA for 25 years on homes to be built up to $6,000 [including lot]. All you need is 10% of the cost of home and lot. On larger apartment bldgs. we lend FHA up to $200,000. We lend FHA in and within 200 miles of Chicago; also on well kept colored property in good sections; also lend on good stores, factories, garages. Quick, honorable service.

CABLE'S BARGAIN BASEMENT. Piano buyers: Consider this important advantage when you invest in a USED piano. If at any time within one year you decide that you prefer a BRAND NEW instrument, at Cable's you have the privilege of returning the used one and being credited with all you have paid in toward a new one on any one of seven nationally known makes: Mason & Hamlin, Conover, Knabe, Cable, Fischer, Gulbransen, and Estey. We believe that nowhere else in the country can so liberal a proposition on so many famous makes be found.

Above: Travel coat in three-colored tweed mixture, cut with swing. Ideal for cruise wardrobe and as all-purpose coat anywhere. Flattering collar of fluffy light-colored fur for contrast.

Below: Newest suit silhouette, hinting of fall successes. Made of imported tweed that is soft and easy to wear, it shows the latest jacket length, longer than the usual peplum top that flares. Buttons march down the front closing, and the fur trim is flat, silky Persian lamb.

Tweeds Making Midsummer Appearance Point Way to Fall Coat and Suit Modes

By RHEA SEEGER

NOTHING shows the way the fall fashion wind will blow as do the earliest tweeds and travel clothes that can be found during the midsummer weeks. Presented for the cruise enthusiasts who pack and travel northward to escape sweltering temperatures here at home, they also are appreciatively shopped by the stay-at-homes with an eye to the future. Swanky tweeds for fall wardrobes, for college-bound baggage, and probably the finds of the year for the average shopper hunting for a "just right" extra topcoat or suit, these showings are tremendously interesting.

New fall streamlines, new jackets, new details, all are significant trends of what's to come. Effective color mixtures, different patterns, softer fabrics, a smart new cut to simple skirts, nothing has been neglected, and the result is outstanding buys for anybody's money. It's as smart to select your fall and winter and your travel tweeds and extra topcoat now as it is to make the selection of your new fur coat.

Imported tweeds are of the finest, soft and flexible, easy to tailor, and easier to keep impeccably pressed and in good condition. Exceptionally good color mixtures are available—soft rusty reds, mellow old gold, copper, dull green, and quantities of stunning blue and beige combines. Suits feature snappy jackets cut to fit revealingly, achieving a tailored swank difficult to copy in less sturdy materials. Simplicity is stressed, with flat seams, well pressed pockets, and details in collars and shoulder lines. Skirts are flared youthfully without losing any of the tailored simplicity needed to keep such tweeds simple but smart. Skirts are shorter because of the flare, and some of the jackets have a matching flare to the short peplum.

New tweed suits are definitly different; more soft dressmaker details are emphasized. They're more feminine, and yet preserve a slick casualness that such tweeds should boast. Jackets are streamlined to fit, with accentuated waistlines. Sleeves have lost their bulk, collar lines are softer, and details have a dramatizing dressmaker finish that keeps the suits more feminine. With such new models both wool and silk blouses are good tops, but the outfits are equally effective with sweaters or knitted contrasts, and also good combines with all the smart suede blouses or rib-hugging suede jacket blouses in contrasting colors.

Some of the smartest tweed outfits feature spectator sports hats with brims of the same color and design as the fabric of the coat. These are designed especially to accent the style of either suit or coat.

Five new tweed models have been sketched. All of them feature exciting new tailored details, soft, easy-to-wear fabrics, and all the most effective new colors and mixtures. All of them boast exceedingly low price marks, special prices featured at this season, and all are ready for travel or early fall wardrobes.

Patterns by Clotilde

Our pattern for a smart morning dress, No. 2053, offers a distinctive, although simple, frock that may leave the house with assurance for trips to the market, beach, or a picnic. It's a paneled model designed to emphasize a long, slenderizing line. At its neckline is a contrasting collar to match the cuffs on the puffed sleeves. Rickrack used on the collar and cuffs is repeated on the capacious pockets at either side of the center panel. The belt extends only from the sides, and twin rows of buttons emphasize its position.

All the inexpensive cottons, both plain and figured, make up beautifully in this model. The pattern is pretty enough, however, to warant the use of wash silks, if you prefer them.

The other daytime dress in the illustration today is designed along coat lines, the type of wrap-around garment which fits the figure beautifully. It may be a utilitarian dress, trimmed simply with bias binding around the rever collar, the kimono sleeves, and the side front. Or the model may be dressed up for street appearance, given a shirtwaist collar and a plentiful distribution of lace edging. All the cottons and wash silks make up excellently.

You may like to add the personal touch with your very own monogram on the pocket. We've provided an extra pattern for this, No. E-11012, available for 10 cents extra.

George Rector

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

It's a good idea during the summer months to prepare foods that do not require too much time spent in the kitchen. I have in mind particularly a smoked beef tongue. Yesterday afternoon I purchased a small tongue which weighed exactly three and a half pounds. Of course, beef tongues come heavier and the size that you desire depends upon the number in your family. Boiled beef tongue, along with spinach, and served hot is a hearty and satisfying meal in itself. The whole tongue need not be consumed at this one meal alone. The idea is to make two meals of it. Cold sliced tongue with a goodly bowl of salad is worth while sitting down to. Other cold cuts can be added, such as ham, corned beef, and cheese.

On several occasions I have purchased in food stores sliced cold tongue and each time I have been disappointed. Invariably it's tough and usually cut too thin. A beef tongue should be very tender and the trick is in the cooking. Here's a food that must be boiled very, very slowly. Simmering is the better word for it. Tongues, like hams, are lightly cured or smoked nowadays and do not require previous soaking in cold water. They can be started to cook at once in cold water to cover and when simmering point is reached one can forget for several hours that a part of a swell dinner is well on the way.

In other words it is a food that almost cooks itself as it requires no attention whatsoever from the housewife. It is a good recipe to remember if you have occasion to absent yourself from home of an afternoon.

When smoked beef tongue appeared on the menu of Rector's it was always coupled with sauce piquante and white bean puree. This is the recipe I want to give you today.

A Good Recipe for Beef Tongue, Sauce Piquante.

Cover beef tongue with cold water. Add several sprigs of parsley, one medium sized onion, one bay leaf, a large piece of lemon rind, three whole cloves, and about ten pepper corns. Bring to boiling point and let boil five minutes. Then lower heat and let simmer (a point where there is the faintest ripple in the water) until cooked—about four hours. Remove tongue to cutting board. When cool enough to handle, trim off thick skin and throat cords. Place tongue on large hot platter and pour sauce around tongue.

The foundation of sauce piquante calls for a cup of thick brown sauce. A restaurant kitchen, of course, has this sauce on hand at all times. You may have some on hand, too. If so, use it. If you have to make it then the short cut is to use glaze de viande (beef extract) or a can of beef bouillon.

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon beef extract
1 cup boiling water
½ cup tongue water [strained]
3 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
2 tablespoons vinegar pickle, finely chopped
1 teaspoon shallot, finely chopped
1 teaspoon capers, finely chopped
1 teaspoon parsley, finely chopped

Brown the butter, add browned flour and stir until blended. Add beef extract which has been dissolved in boiling hot water and stir until smooth and boiling point is reached. Now in another small saucepan put the tongue water and tarragon vinegar along with the finely chopped shallots or onions and let boil uncovered until reduced to one-half the quantity. Then stir it into the thick brown sauce along with the vinegar pickle, capers, and parsley, all finely chopped. The sauce may be held for 15 or 20 minutes at warm part of range, but do not allow to boil again. Serve half the sauce around tongue and balance in sauceboat.

A puree of white beans and fresh spinach will make this dish complete. The bean puree is made from our dry white navy beans.

The beans are covered with cold water and soaked for several hours. The water is then drained off and fresh cold water is poured over them. A medium sized onion is added and they are slowly brought to simmering point. They are to be cooked at this low heat until the skins burst and the bean feels soft enough to mash easily. It is rather difficult to give the exact time for cooking a dried vegetable as the age has a lot to do with it. However, after one hour of simmering it would be a good idea to test a few and this will tell you if they need thirty minutes longer or possibly another hour of simmering. When they are soft to the touch drain off water and while they are hot force them through a fine sieve. To every cupful of bean puree add a tablespoon of butter with salt and pepper to taste and whip together over hot fire. This is a particularly nice puree to serve with boiled tongue or ham.

You all know how to cook spinach, but if you would like a different flavor sometime add a few grains of nutmeg to it after it is cooked and finely chopped and season with salt and a piece of fresh butter.

Add Nutmeg to Spinach If You Want It Different.

In going over my files I selected several non-alcoholic beverages that you might want to serve during these hot summer days. They are known as cups and are either served from pitchers or from a large bowl. Here's one that is called Hawaiian cup.

1 cup sugar
2 cupfuls water
2 cups shredded pineapple
Juice of three lemons or limes
3 pints ginger ale
Fresh fruit garnish

Bring sugar and water to boiling point and let boil for five minutes. Remove from fire and when cool add the shredded pineapple and the lemon juice. Let stand in cool place until time for serving. Strain into large glass pitcher which has been half filled with ice cubes. Add the cold ginger ale and stir gently. Garnish with several fruits such as sliced orange, strawberries, and cherries.

Another refreshing beverage is made by using one cupful of loganberry or grape juice. Add to the loganberry juice, the juice of two lemons and one-half cup of powdered sugar. Mix thoroughly so that the sugar has dissolved. Pour into large pitcher half filled with ice cubes and then pour in three pints of cold ginger ale. Garnish with fresh fruit.

The next time you serve iced coffee, make a double amount. After the coffee is brewed and has become cool pour one-half of it in ice cube tray and let it freeze in the refrigerator. When it is frozen place two or three cubes in a large glass and then pour into the glass the liquid coffee. By doing this you are sure to have a consistently strong coffee or, in other words, it is not weakened one bit because the ice itself is coffee.

Campus Modes by a Co-ed

By Carolyn Ramey.

About this time all the lovely summer things with which I started the season seem dull and uninteresting. Frills and furbelows begin to annoy me, and I yern for something crisply tailored with which to finish the summer. The other night, with my homework safely out of the way, I designed what I consider the perfect frock to fulfil this desire, and it's a grand dress for the rest of the vacation season. I made my frock of pin-stripe cotton, multi-colored against a snowy white background. The tuxedo vestee is of shining white sharkskin [you may prefer pique] and the collar matches. I designed the sleeves very square at the shoulder line, in military fashion. The skirt has a couple of inverted plaits for extra width at the hemline, but the straight, snug line is retained.

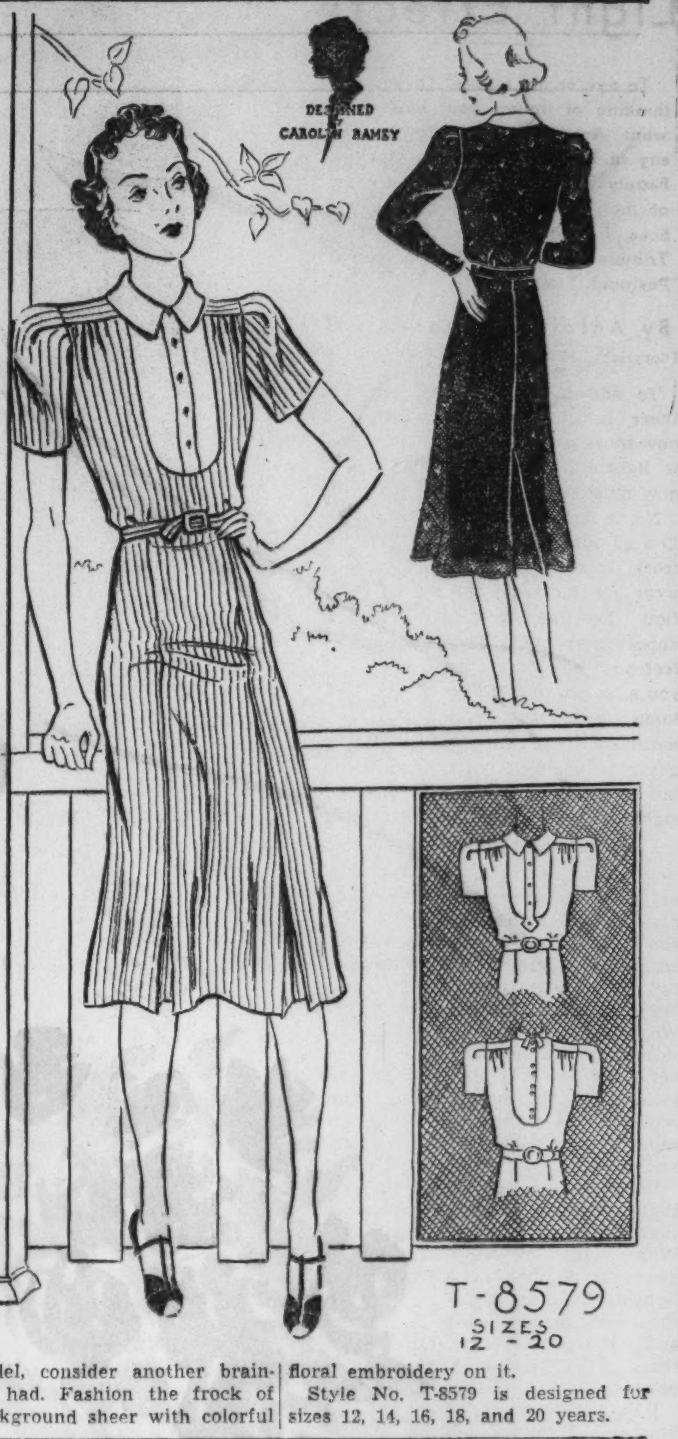
All the washable silks and cottons make up beautifully. If you like, build the neckline up high and have a bow finish instead of a collar. You may arrange the buttons in any sequence you like. Studs are particularly effective on a tuxedo front, but other groupings are pretty, too.

If you want a dressier version of this model, consider another brainstorm I had. Fashion the frock of dark background sheer with colorful floral embroidery on it.

Style No. T-8579 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years.



Going to the Beach? Keep Etiquet Rules

Who should be invited to a bridal shower? The answers to this question and many others are given in the booklet "The Bridal Shower," by Helen Bartlett, Tribune etiquet editor. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 2 cents. Postpaid, 3 cents.

By Helen Bartlett.

The only place in this world in which you could be entirely free of all social obligations to others would be an uninhabited island—uninhabited until you moved in, and moved in alone. The presence of one other individual would contribute a responsibility or two and that would upset our entire hypothetical scheme for complete and absolute freedom . . . might as well live in Chicago. To locate such an island would take a good deal of searching. And you wouldn't like it after you found it. So you, and I, and all of us might as well get used to the idea that wherever there are people there is a code of etiquet to be observed.

All of this leads me up to behavior on the bathing beach, where you can tell at a glance that demands for obedience to the code are as lenient as you ever can find them. Life in the raw, so to speak, if I may be permitted to pun a little. Consider the scanty bathing attire for a moment. If all the women had the figures of bathing beauties, then one piece, no skirt, brassiere top bathing suits would have more charm. And if all the men who wore bathing shorts had the physique of life guards then there would be no pudgy, protruding waistlines of middle age to offend.

But since the Venuses and Adonises are rare, if not extinct, those who have not been so favored by the gods would be showing better taste if they used a bit of discretion in the selection of beach and play clothes. Figure faults, you know, are not so noticeable when they are not exposed.

Then there are other little suggestions that would make the public bathing beach less distasteful and more attractive to those who are a little sensitive about the eyes and nose. These are in connection with the disposal of waste and rubbish. It doesn't take a too sensitive eye or nose to be offended at the sight and odor of the remains of the picnic lunch left to blow, rot, or walk away, or of bits of orange peel, bread crusts, and banana skins floating about on the surface of the water, having been deliberately thrown there by a some one too lazy to dispose of it in a sanitary way. And because some persons are annoyed and irritated by the swarms of flies and other insects that are attracted by such refuse does not necessarily label them as cranks.

The pleasures of having a picnic lunch on the beach should not be denied to those who enjoy it, but care should be taken that the pleasures of others are not minimized through the neglect of a few picnickers who lack thoughtfulness enough to consider the comfort of others on the beach. Just the crowds on the beach are enough to discourage many persons who might otherwise enjoy swimming and sun bathing. But crowds plus rubbish is more than most care to endure.

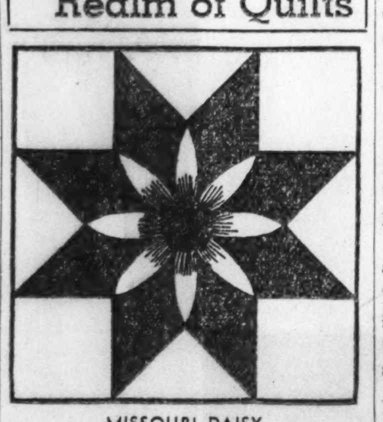
Red Cross to Offer Two Scholarships to Nurses

The American Red Cross will give two scholarships, worth $1,250 each, to two trained nurses annually for the next five years. The scholarships will be given in memory of the late Miss Clara Dutton Noyes of Washington. They provide for a year's training in the Florence Nightingale international foundation in London. One will go to an American nurse and the other to one from a foreign country.

Daisy Design Is Antique in the Realm of Quilts



MISSOURI DAISY.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

By Nancy Cabot.

"Missouri Daisy" is one of the real antiques of quiltdom, having been designed during the covered wagon days of pioneering. There are two "Missouri Daisy" patterns, one pieced and the other applique. The block illustrated today is a simpler version designed for piece work. The popular color scheme used years ago was blue printed material and white, because there was a derth of pretty yellows and printed materials. Present day selections range from deep blue to delicate lavenders, and yellows are the favorite with a light center. The blocks are set together with bands of white between them, and finished with a five inch border and a one-half inch bias binding.

For a limited period Nancy Cabot offers 10 quilt patterns of her own choice at a price of 10 cents for the group (12 cents by mail). Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

A FRIEND IN NEED

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you no longer use, please let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago. Activities of this department are sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

By Sally Joy Brown.

A number of urgent requests for beds and cribs for children has been coming into this department, and we hope that by printing the details of a few typical cases we can obtain assistance for a number of the pleas now listed in our files.

Miss P., a clinic worker, wrote in behalf of a 17 month old child now under treatment at the hospital. The baby is in dire need of a crib. He is suffering from an ear disorder which may lead to complete deafness. The doctor says it is essential that he have adequate sleep and diet if he is to overcome the illness.

The father deserted when the infant was five months old, and the mother has been forced to resort to relief for support. At present, both she and the baby occupy a studio couch in a one-room apartment. Because of necessary household activities during the day in the room, the child does not rest properly. In addition, the mother has been making great sacrifices in order to provide the baby with an adequate diet but, under her meager budget, has found this exceedingly difficult. She has priced second-hand cribs, but is utterly unable to stretch her funds to permit the purchase of one.

Since the boy is old enough to walk around and crawl out of bed, a crib with high sides would be most appreciated. The family is located on the south side, and the worker will arrange transportation.

Can some reader help Mr. C., who recently was released from the hospital? His letter reads, in part:

"I am weak and ill and am absolutely lacking everything in the way of clothing, even shoes. I have had to wear a pair two sizes too large, and they hurt me severely. I would be so grateful if you could find some one with a discarded suit and a pair of shoes which I could have. I wear size 38 or 39 coat; trousers 32 in waist, 30½ or over in length; and shoes size 7½ or 8. I am 69 years old and all alone. I receive an old age pension, but it is not sufficient even to cover the special diet the doctor has ordered me to observe at present."

This address is on the south side. Pensions are frequently inadequate for the needs of elderly persons, particularly during an illness, and I am sure this man needs and will appreciate discarded clothing.

New Furniture at Recent Show Sets Style Pace

Does your dinette appear smaller than it really is? How to select furniture, wall coverings, rugs, and cabinets in order to give greater utility and a more pleasing appearance is told in the booklet "Making the Most of the Dinette," by Edith Weigle, Tribune furniture stylist. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower. Price, 2 cents. Postpaid, 3 cents.

By Edith Weigle.

The huge furniture and home furnishings shows recently held here and in Grand Rapids indicate the style trends for the coming fall and winter season. The merchandise the buyers see for the first time at this event you will be seeing in your favorite store and in your community beginning about a month or six weeks from now and continuing through the winter.

In the furniture field 18th century English styles continue so popular that they are appearing in woods not used before. Maple, which has been used for years in the simple, peasant-like type of thing and in the familiar red-brown finish is now getting completely away from that and is appearing really distinguished in furniture of simplified Chippendale, Sheraton, and Hepplewhite lines and in a beautiful, light honey-beige color.

More expensive pieces continue in the usual dark mahogany and walnut, many of them with distressed [antique] finishes. More than one manufacturer has such respect for the originals from which his items are adapted or exactly copied that he attaches printed cards telling the history of each chair, or bed, or table, or cabinet. This information is sure to interest the woman who wants worth-while furniture for her home.

There is a decided revival of interest in French styles, but in the less ornate rather than the court periods. One firm calls its new line of French pieces "château" and this is an excellent name, for they are more formal than provincial styles but much less fragile and fussy than the gilded and painted and richly upholstered furniture of the Louis'. This new adaptation of French 18th century furniture is liveable, charming, and appealing.

The shows displayed a number of lines calling themselves Swedish modern. American modern would have been a more accurate name for them. Light finishes, graceful curves, and artistic light colored upholsteries of the homespun variety characterized this furniture. All of it will be in the medium price range.

The photograph today shows one of sixteen pieces of Swedish modern introduced at the Merchandise Mart show by an Indiana manufacturer and now available to the public. They have a lovely light beige mahogany finish, called autumn, and all the items are scaled for the average sized living room. There is an attractive dinette set with chest and table, and there are coffee tables, a writing desk, and bookcase, and a three drawer chest, one drawer of which opens to reveal a writing compartment.

All the pieces are nicely styled, simple, and well made. They appeal to the woman who wants pleasing, conservative modern furniture. The cane backing and seat in the desk chair is a high style note in adaptations of Swedish furniture.

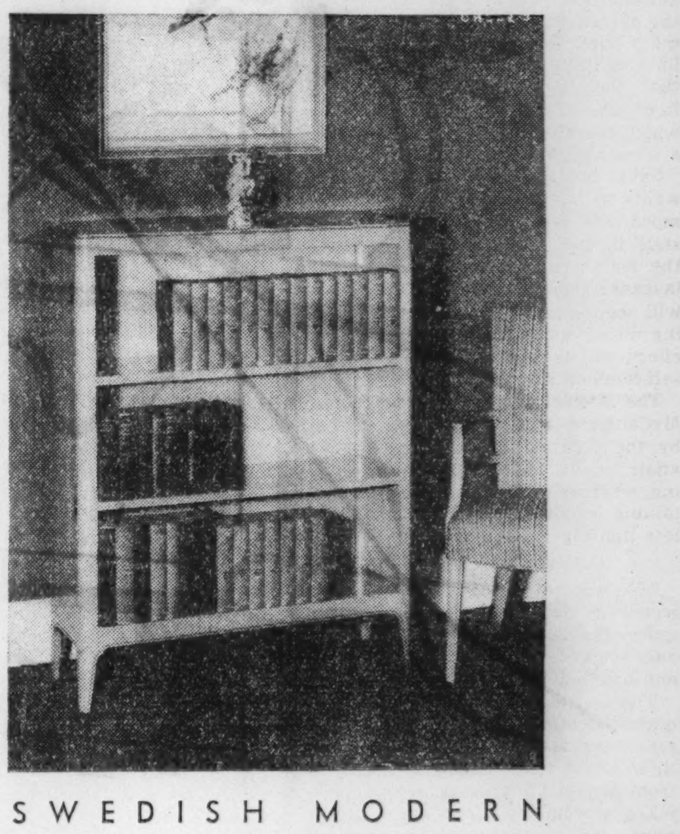
Following are other high lights of the shows:

A French slipper chair with button tufted blue satin upholstery, the frame made twice as wide as the usual chair. . . . A marble topped chest of drawers in antique walnut finish, an exact copy of a fine French antique. . . . A tall break-front mahogany cabinet, the lower sections with doors of the wood, the upper ones with glass doors. . . . New California furniture of white pine with decorations in color of native poppies and wild flowers, the chests having a Spanish flavor. . . . Studio beds with chests of drawers and open bookshelves for foot-boards. . . . A brand new studio couch that looks like a period piece and that is raised from the floor by mahogany legs. The couch opens to make a double bed. . . . A modern bedroom grouping in light wood, the tops of dressing table and chests lackered a soft, rose pink and the beds pink, to match. . . . Duncan Phyfe mahogany side chairs with seats of green lether with a raised design in quilted effect. . . . An English wing chair upholstered in heavy linen with a crewel design woven especially so that it is centered on back, wings, arms, and seat cushion.



SWEDISH MODERN

This piece of conservative modern furniture made its first appearance at the recent furniture show at the Merchandise Mart. It is made of mahogany which has been given a pleasing, light toned finish. There are sixteen items in this grouping, all of them in the medium price range.

Servants' Demands Create French Housewives' Union

New laws governing the economic rights and privileges of household servants have driven housewives in Paris, France, into a union. The government recently informed the women that all servants who have worked in a home for a year or more were not only entitled to a vacation but extra pay to cover their meals and room rent during that period. The housewives called this the French equivalent of "outrageous" and organized the "union of housewives employing servants" to protect themselves.

Decoration Queries

Query: "When the dinette adjoins the living room, opening from it through an arch-way, should it have the same floor covering—color and design?—Mrs. W. T."

Answer: Yes, this is generally the best plan.

Query: "Please tell me how to launder glazed chintz so the gloss will not disappear.—T. L."

Answer: The gloss will come out if you wash glazed chintz, unless you have bought the new permanently glazed type. Then you can launder it as you would any washable drapery fabric. If you do not have this new glazed chintz you can keep the gloss in by having it dry cleaned.

Query: "How can I remove a slight white ring from a mahogany table? It was made by setting a wet glass on it.—Mrs. B. M."

Answer: Rub it gently with a clean, fine piece of cheesecloth which has been saturated with spirits of camphor. Let the camphor evaporate first, so that the cloth is barely damp, not wet. Later, polish the spot with any good wax furniture polish.

Miss Weigle will be glad to answer questions about home furnishings and color schemes. If a personal reply is desired remember to send in a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your query.

Canadian Woman M. P. Fighting Fascist Tendencies

Miss Agnes Macphail, first woman member of the Canadian parliament, now is fighting encroachments of "Fascistic tendencies" in Canada's provincial governments. Elected a member of the Dominion of Canada parliament 17 years ago, she is second only to Lady Astor in length of service in a British parliament.

Latest Beauty Study Concerns Light Effects

To add to your beauty concerns there is another study which you now must put in your répertoire. It is lighting and lighting colors you now must take up.

No, it isn't a ridiculous idea at all. You go out and pay a fair sum for a frock, let's say, which you intend to wear for an important social function. The lighting under which you appear may ruin the glamorous effect you counted on, or it may lend you a conquering supply of that well known equation. We do not expect, naturally, that this new study is going to be mastered in a moment, but if you become lighting conscious right away, that's all we ask.

Theater people appreciate the value of the lighting when they want to play up a woman's beauty. In fact, some actresses have clauses in their contracts according to which they can walk off the stage if certain colors or angles of light are employed. We have been told of one actress so skilled in "lighting" herself that, in her home, she may stand, sit or pose in any spot in the beautiful living room and be an accented beauty because of the skilful handling of light and color.

We always have held the theory that a woman never looks lovelier than against a home background. What with the exquisite hostess gowns in fashion now, the modern lighting facilities, to say nothing of the lovely modern house decorations and the chance for individuality, there is no limit to her decorative powers.

We discussed the subject with Stanley McCandless, lighting consultant and color authority, who is of the opinion that, since women use so much makeup today, this matter of lighting takes on added importance, that the color and distribution of light are two controllable factors which can either make for or destroy a woman's glamor and appearance.

Says Mr. McCandless: "If she wants to put her guests in a merry mood, the strategic hostess will install in her hallway, entering into the main room, a peach-bloom or a lavender colored mirror. The guests will see themselves in a most flattering mirror and, because of the lovely effect, will enter the room with great self-confidence."

The intensity of a light in a room, McCandless says, is governed solely by the occasion. The large, formal affair would call for brilliant lighting, whereas the informal, cozy entertaining would better be done with less lighting visibility.

"No woman past 20 should be subjected to strong directional lighting unless for a very special effect, since only the very young will appear radiant under such light."

The indirect lighting, as we frequently see it being shed from a tall pillar which begins to spread its light about head height, we gather from Mr. McCandless, generally will make a woman's curves more dominant and unattractive than they really are. But the soft directional lighting [which runs around the room at ceiling height] achieves a plastic result, enhancing the lovely lady's charm.

The idea of women being lighting-conscious, McCandless reminds us, is not a new one. In earlier generations women looked forward to appearing under candlelight. They realized that a candle, properly placed, would cast a soft, flattering glow over features. How skilled women of other generations were in arranging the candle lighting on the table we do not know. Today, what with the study and progress made in every departure of beauty staging, there often is complaint against candle-lit tables because of the sometimes eerie, ghostly shadows cast.

McCandless' answer to this is not to dispose of the decorative candle, but to use it only as an apparent source of light. Concealed lights should be so placed as to counteract the unpleasant shadows and strange reflections of candlelight.

In both lighting in the home and in the tints applied to wall colors, our authority reports, strong blues, strong greens, and strong reds are most unflattering to a woman.

The most flattering of all colors, McCandless says, is called "surprise pink," technically a negative or minus color, actually a light lavender. "Surprise pink," it is explained, is much the same as any filter which absorbs the yellowish rays.

Light scarlet is another highly complimentary color. It is warm, neither sickly yellow nor sentimentally pink. It lies in between these two color tones.

McCandless warns us women not to fool ourselves by making up with flattering lights or mirrors in the home boudoir. While blue, green and white mirrors are not nearly so flattering as the peach bloom and lavender, the ordinary silvered white mirror is the only one that should be used for makeup. And since women today use so much makeup, we are further cautioned that a study of lighting indoors as compared with outdoor lighting becomes of paramount importance. Too, the makeup effect under artificial lighting is due for study.

Miss Donnelly's authoritative articles, counseling women in matters of beauty and charm, appear every day in the feature pages of The Chicago Tribune.

Through the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Chipped polish is a grave sin against good hand grooming. Polish must be changed the moment it shows signs of wear and tear. Some new remover pads are efficient and economical. One pad removes polish speedily from all ten fingers. A companion piece for these is a solvent for thinning polish thickened by evaporation.

Now here's a trick that takes a lot of the messiness out of the home manicure: Little felt pads saturated with a polish remover solution that can be used to erase the lacker in nothing flat.

These are particularly good friends if you are traveling. Liquid remover presents hazards in a bottle that won't cork tightly. The pads also are a find for the business girl, who often wants to change her polish quickly before going out to dinner. One pad serves all ten fingers, no matter how deep the polish shade.

The pads are the product of one of the great manicure houses noted for the quality of its polish and other nail preparations. The base of the remover is oil, which means that the nails are not damaged by the solution. The pads are of absorbent felt. When you remove polish it is absorbed instantly by the felt, and your other fingers remain unstained as you proceed with the removing job.

Ordinarily you need an orange wood stick, cotton and a bottle of remover to prepare the nails for a new coat of enamel. With these pads no other paraphernalia is needed. The pads come in a generous stack, piled up in a glass jar with a tightly fitted cover that must be kept tight to prevent evaporation of the solution.

Another smart idea of this manufacturer is a solvent for thinning polishes which have thickened from evaporation. This is a distinct economy if you use polish consistently, because evaporation can't be controled and all polishes will thicken. With the solvent you get a dropper for adding it drop by drop, and a little stick for stirring. It must, of course, be used sparingly. Its addition doesn't change the chemical composition or the color of your polish. It merely replaces the liquid lost by evaporation.

Both these are boons to the woman who "does" her own nails.

For information about these preparations telephone Eleanor Nangle, Superior 0100, or write her care of The Chicago Tribune.

Clotilde's Children's Fashions

In just a little over a month your youngsters will be starting back to school. With girls, particularly, the wardrobe situation must be considered, with one eye on the budget. We recommend this jumper dress, which may be made of sturdy cottons or inexpensive woolens, with a variety of washable blouses. Such an outfit costs relatively little and may go to school and parties, too, simply with a change of blouses.

The ensemble is delightfully easy to make, mothers will be glad to know. So simple, in fact, that if your daughter is over 10 she should be able to assist you or make the frock herself.

The straps are wide, the kind that will "stay put." The waistline is rather snug, defining the figure. The skirt molds the hips, but flares beautifully, beginning near the knees. The blouse is a simple little gem with shirred neckline and gathered wrists. If you like, have a collar at the neckline and make the sleeves short, this latter scheme being particularly effective if you intend to use the bolero which comes with the pattern.

Embroidery is very fashionable right now and affords an excellent lesson in patience and painstaking care by which your growing daughter can benefit. Put her to work embroidering the sleeves of her blouse, as illustrated, with pattern No. E-11175, available for 10 cents extra.

Style No. 2127 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires ⅞ yard of 35 inch material for the blouse. The jumper requires 1⅜ yards of 39 inch material, with ¾ yard of 39 inch fabric for the bolero.

Help Yourself to Summer Comfort with Electric Fan

There are electric fans of all types and sizes, for all sorts of rooms and purposes. Help yourself to this summer comfort—for better air circulation and ventilation in your home.

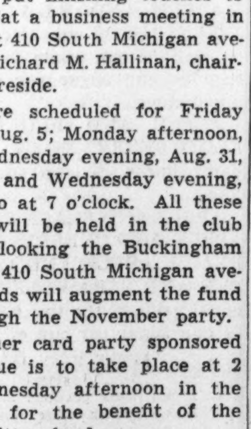
Stout wall canvas is good insurance if you have cracks which persist in appearing in your plastered walls. This canvas, which can be easily and inexpensively painted, also acts as a reinforcement for old plaster, and helps to prevent the new cracks from forming.

Often you hear the remark made: "My house cost more to build than the original estimate." To prevent this happening in your own case be sure that everything you want is included in the plans and specifications before work starts. A change made with your pencil is a lot cheaper than a change made in masonry, wood, stone, or brick.

There are times, of course, when a change after work has begun seems unavoidable, but, even so, such an alteration is bound to cost you extra money.

Club Planning in Advance for Charity Event

Four months is not too far in advance for the social committee of the Catholic Woman's league to begin preparations for the organization's annual philanthropy card party. A number of smaller parties has been planned this summer as curtain raisers to the major event taking place Nov. 19 in the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel.



Mrs. Richard M. Hallinan.

Wednesday morning the social committee will put finishing touches to these plans at a business meeting in room 1008 at 410 South Michigan avenue. Mrs. Richard M. Hallinan, chairman, will preside.

Parties are scheduled for Friday afternoon, Aug. 5; Monday afternoon, Aug. 15; Wednesday evening, Aug. 31, at 7 o'clock, and Wednesday evening, Sept. 14, also at 7 o'clock. All these gatherings will be held in the club lounge, overlooking the Buckingham fountain, at 410 South Michigan avenue. Proceeds will augment the fund raised through the November party.

Still another card party sponsored by the league is to take place at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the club lounge for the benefit of the house committee fund.

Serving on the social committee with Mrs. Hallinan are Mrs. John J. Tyne, vice chairman; Mrs. Harry L. Starkey, secretary; Mrs. Thomas Clyne, Mrs. Michael L. Igoe, Miss Nellie B. Maher, Mrs. Michael J. Hogan, Miss May E. Sloan, Mrs. M. A. Mahoney, Mrs. Edward L. McKinney, Mrs. W. C. Bryant, Mrs. John F. Powers, Miss Katherine J. Kiely, Mrs. George V. McIntyre, Mrs. Charles L. Larkin, Mrs. Edward Wolford, and Miss Frances McGrath.

Sally's Guests Are to Attend Play on Aug. 4

By Sally Joy Brown.

Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.

"Once upon a time . . ."

Do you like stories that begin that way, boys and girls?

'Most every one does, and since "Snow White" and "The Three Little Pigs" have been revived in the movies, every one is taking a great interest in all the good old fairy tales that have been taught to children for years and years and years.

"The Sleeping Beauty" always has been a great favorite. Remember the story of the little princess and the wicked fairy and the good fairy? How she went to sleep for a hundred years, and bushes and brambles grew up 'round the castle?

Well, you boys and girls will have an opportunity to see this story dramatized with children of your own ages playing the parts. We're going to pay a return visit to the Jack and Jill theater, where the players, under the direction of Marie Agnes Foley, will produce "The Sleeping Beauty" just for us on Aug. 4.

I'll tell you more about our party tomorrow, and the cunning little theater we'll visit, but I'm going to give directions on how to win an invitation so that all you boys and girls will have plenty of time to get your letters written.

You see, I want to take boys and girls who would be most interested in a party of this type. If you think you'd enjoy seeing this play, write a letter and tell me all about it. If you can convince me that you'd really have loads of run at such a party, maybe you'll see your name listed with the winners in next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

Each child must write his or her own letter, and must be sure to include the full name, address, and age. That's all there is to it. All letters must reach me by next Thursday morning, when the 50 boys and 50 girls who are to be my guests will be selected.

Some of you have been asking in your letters if you may attend only one party. The answer is no. Any child may write in for any party, regardless of previous invitations.

I'll give you more details about the party tomorrow, but I've already told you that all you need to know in order to get to work on that letter to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TIRBUNE, Chicago.

Here you are, Sox fans! The following boys and girls will receive invitations to be my guests at the White Sox-Boston game out at Comiskey park on July 28. There were many good letters and I had a hard time selecting winners. The mailman will be along with a letter from me any day now!

Paris Pattern Dinner Dress Puts Flowers to New Use

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Even French couturiers, distinctive and individualistic as they are, run more or less to trends, those valuable tendencies which fashion all over the world follows with an eager eye. It is unusual to find a frock which is "different," out of the ordinary, not seen everywhere. I had the good fortune to see just such a dress at a smart dinner club recently. The lovely French girl who wore it had an eye for distinctive treatment. With her blue piqué dinner dress, cut on simple lines, she wore a toque of red roses, and put matching blooms in both pockets on the bodice of her frock. The effect was striking and served to enhance her dark beauty.

The idea is grand, and the dress is even lovelier. It has more or less shirtwaist lines. A traditional collar finishes the neckline, and the sleeves are cut crisply squared and slightly puffed. A center panel in the skirt dips up into the waist, and slight shirring emanates from it, contributing soft fullness to the bodice.

I know you will have many uses the rest of this season for a dress of this type. It may be worn for informal dining ir the city or at the country club. And you can save it for your trip this coming winter, too. If you like, fashion it in shorter length for daytime wear.

Knitted Sweater for Fall Makes Chic Use of Stripes

By Jean Macdonald.

Hand knitted garments for winter wear have been occupying the Paris spotlight, and designers are concentrating on big and little things to knit for winter sportswear. All kinds of stitches and all sorts of stripes are being used to fashion garments distinctive and different. These same creators promise that this great old world will see more knitted garments than ever before.

The blue vicuna sweater with the dark blue stripes, illustrated today, is an advance indication of what to expect on the fall fashion foreground. The entire blouse is knitted in ribbing of K2, P2, and the old stockinette stitch. The treatment at the neckline, with the neck band of dark blue, is unusual and attractive. Gay, frivolous touches are added in the blue bows of grosgrain tacked to the matching stripes. The neck opening in the back has a small button to match the dark blue.

Vicuna, crepe or any type of yarn which knits up at the same tension as these two yarns may be used. Both of these yarns launder beautifully, and only the brightest colors with startling contrasts should be used. Keep your weather eye peeled for the della robbia colors of gray and brown for your fall hand knitted garments.

HOW TO ORDER

If you wish instructions for knitting the blue striped blouse with grosgrain bows illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Jean Macdonald, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago. Be sure to send name and address with your letter.

Now's the Best Time to Repair Heating Plant

If your heating plant needs repair, or if you need a new plant, there's no time like the good old summer time to do it.

Of course, it's hard sometimes to concentrate on winter needs when the thermometer is going higher and higher, but in this way the work is done and ready when it is needed. And there are methods of payment whereby you don't have to start paying in the summer, but can wait till the heating season comes.

If you are uncertain just how to obtain a little more light for that basement recreation room you may be able to lower the grade near some of the existing windows so their openings may be deeper. If this does not seem simple you can build a bay window with a slanting roof of ordinary window glass. Then, into this bay you can build a seat, with storage space under it and comfortable pillows on top.

Princesses Get World's Most Beautiful Dolls

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose of England had to stay home. They couldn't come to France with the king and queen of England, whose visit has turned Paris into one magnificent carnival, but the two little princesses are receiving consolation gifts from France, the two most beautiful dolls in the world, with the finest wardrobes ever made. Every stitch the dolls have has been made by the great dressmakers of Paris, and each one has twenty-eight dresses, coats, furs, and hats for every costume made by the most famous French milliners.

They have jewels, complete sets consisting of necklaces, bracelets, and clips made of coral and lapis lazuli and set with real diamonds, though small, made specially for them by Cartier, the most expensive jeweler in the world. Coral is for the dark haired doll and lapis lazuli for the blonde one.

Fur coats fit for any queen are made for these dolls by Fourrures Max and Paquin. Trailing evening capes of regal ermine, sports coats of ocelot and nutria, dressy wraps of summer ermine. Paquin made satin dresses for the day coats, brown, and beige to match the fur.

Since the dolls, whose names are Marianne and France, are made of finest porcelain, with real hair and invisible articulation, they can go in the water like any bathing beauty, and the famous dressmakers have outfitted them for the beach. Roches has made a green and pink dotted surah play suit with a beach coat for the blue eyed doll, and one in black and white surah, dotted with green and red for the dark eyed doll.

Each doll will have twelve pairs of slippers made for her by Hellstern, to go with the various costumes she will have. Evening sandals, sports shoes, beach clogs, swanky afternoon shoes, and white satin mules for the boudoir are included. Hermes, the famous sports house, is making handbags and belts to go with daytime clothes, in the finest lether.

All the milliners are busy fashioning tiny hats for these dolls: Reboux, Maria Guy, Descat, and Suzy. Suzy is making them felt hats for sports, organdie bonnets for daytime, and feather trimmed headdresses for evening. Agnes is making them fur bonnets to match their fur coats. Every kind of hat, just like the most fashionable women are wearing, is included.

These dolls have perfectly articulated fingers, like a real person, and they are going to be gloved by the best glovers of France. Perrin is giving each doll twelve pairs of gloves in suede, pigskin, white kid, crochet, and chamois, in all the colors, and they are in little lether trunks lined with white satin.

The intimate life of a doll has been thought of, in the swankiest lingerie, trimmed with real lace and made of silks and satins. They have nightgowns, dressing gowns, and all the rest; sports underwear in silk from Valisere, in lavender and blue and pink, and dressy underwear from other lingerie makers.

They will have real raincoats and umbrellas, and lether valises if they go on a trip some time. In fact, Citroen is going to make trips easy for them by giving two automobiles that really work and that have special bodies and real engines.

The dresses are the best that the Paris dressmakers know how to make, with the same kind of swank that goes into clothes for silken women. Jeanne Lanvin is making one pale blue and one pale pink organdie dress, trimmed with lace and edged with silver, and picture hats of leghorn for garden parties.

Maggy Rouff is making them other garden party frocks of pearl organdie, and afternoon dresses of ivory silk embroidered with bowknots, which have Le Monnier hats made of the same silk, trimmed with flowers.

Rochas gives them two evening gowns, one a gorgeous flower printed chiffon and the other black with panels of rainbow colors on the skirt.

I hope Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose will see that their dolls have a gay life, so they can wear all the party clothes that they have, because the Paris dressmakers have gone in heavily for dressy clothes. Madeleine Vionnet has made them gorgeous party dresses. Lucien Lelong made real evening gowns of chiffon, and party frocks of plaited organdie trimmed with pink rose buds. Jean Patou also made organdie dresses and he thought they might go yachting, so he has made two adorable yachting suits.

Lack of School Education No Bar to Wisdom

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

"My husband and I are both college graduates, but that doesn't seem to help us with our children," I find in a number of letters.

"I studied child psychology at college, but I can't do a thing with my children," I find in another group of letters from a surprisingly large number of mothers.

Then: "I haven't had a great deal of schooling—perhaps if I had I would be a better mother," is a quotation from letters written from the "other side of the fence." And "I've decided I'm a failure as a mother. If I'd had a college education I suppose I'd be able to make a success of this difficult job."

Today's article is for the purpose of encouraging the many mothers who are going through a period of deep discouragement and who, in looking for the cause of their children's trying behavior, fix upon their lack of "higher education."

There are many women whose education doesn't go beyond high school, many whose education doesn't go beyond grammar school even, who are better mothers than many women with a college education behind them. Yet many women do think that more education, more money and other advantages must make a woman a more successful mother.

As a matter of fact, a much schooled woman can fail lamentably as a mother and one who has had little schooling can be a real success. [And always bear in mind that "book-l'arnin'" is not synonymous with wisdom, or with true education.]

The reasons are various, of course, the nucleus of success lying within the character and personality of the woman, but one big reason is that often the mother who has not had every advantage of education [and perhaps culture] gives herself wholeheartedly to this high calling of motherhood. She throws herself into the job, lives in it, feels it. She wants so passionately to be a good mother, using her head as well as her heart, that she becomes a good mother.

And often the mother who should be all primed [we think] by years of studying to swing this big undertaking fails. And one reason is that she makes other things in her life of first importance.

In my mail and in my personal contacts I meet mothers who have had little education in the school sense, who are still doing a wonderful piece of work with their children.

Also, somewhat in my mail but more in my observation, I see finely educated women who are dull and uninterested mothers [no matter how they may sparkle in clubs or social gatherings, who are stupid and even unkind with their children. They do not possess the deep, strong urge to be good mothers.

It is surprising what a dynamic urge can accomplish—actually the impossible. It's a sort of faith moving mountains. I've seen it working even through letters I receive that may be misspelled or not well composed—a fine concern shines through that has more to do with making a warm, loving home life atmosphere than a dozen cold degrees.

It is stimulating, heartening, to see what young mothers, and mature parents, too, are accomplishing in the face of lack of education, lack of family coöperation and lack of the time which a comfortable income makes possible. I can't help feeling that today's children, taken as a whole, are getting a pretty fine start in life with the mothers they have—and with all the agencies that are at work to help these mothers.

Now what, definitly, do I mean by that reference to the help mothers may glean? In this country of ours those without money can obtain the best sort of reading and advice. There are state, federal, and city booklets. There are health stations, clinics, and child study organizations of various kinds. There are articles in magazines and newspapers, and books in the libraries. These are all to be had for the asking.

It is interesting to come across contrasts that illustrate the points I've been making. You undoubtedly have done so yourself. But it is still more interesting to see the differences that appear in one family, between two daughters after they marry.

I have had such an opportunity, where limited advantages and education had been equal. One daughter is bringing up her baby by an absolute devotion [if you can call it that] to the hit-or-miss system, while the other is bringing up hers with thoughtful, loving, intelligent planning.

The latter is constantly ridiculed by the old people and the I-can't-be-bothered sister, but she holds sturdily to her course: reading, thinking, observing. And the difference in the children is already fascinating to see—her work is already bearing fruit.

Contract According to Culbertson

The Takeout Double Creates Many Problems

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Continuing the discussion of takeout doubles and their responses from last Sunday's article, we find that here is a subject of great scope and complexity, with ramifications that are not thoroughly understood by the bridge public at large. The takeout double creates problems not only for the doubling side itself but for the opponents.

First, let us consider the status of the partner of the original bidder after a takeout double:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Double	?

In this sequence we are concerned only with the obligations and privileges of the South player. The intervening takeout double has in a sense greatly increased the bidding scope and, given a great variety of holdings, South now can assume a decidedly influential position. Without East's double, South [unless he held a very big hand] would be in a subordinate position, his responses merely designed to give North, the captain, as much information as possible. The takeout double changes this. Let us assume that South has one of the following hands:

1. ♠ A J 9 5 ♥ 6 3 ♦ K J 7 ♣ K 10 8 4
2. ♠ K 7 5 ♥ Q 6 3 ♦ Q 10 4 2 ♣ Q 5 3
3. ♠ 7 ♥ Q 10 6 4 2 ♦ K 6 ♣ 10 7 5 3 2
4. ♠ 6 5 2 ♥ 4 ♦ Q 10 9 8 4 2 ♣ 8 4 3
5. ♠ A K 10 6 5 2 ♥ — ♦ K 7 4 ♣ Q 6 3 2

To appreciate the change in South's status created by the takeout double, first let us note what South's response to the heart bid would have been if the takeout double had not occurred, i. e., if East had passed. With hand No. 1 South would bid a spade; with No. 2, a no trump; with No. 3, four hearts; with No. 4 he would not bid at all. With No. 5 he would bid one spade. In only one case does South's proper action remain the same after the takeout double! That is in the third case, in which he still gives the shutout raise to game. With hand No. 1 South redoubles. With hand No. 2 he passes. With No. 4 he seizes the chance to bid two diamonds, and with No. 5 he must take out to two spades.

South's best opportunity, of course, arises when holding such hands as No. 1. When he has the values for a redouble South assumes captaincy of the team. His redouble is this clear and urgent message to North: "Please let the next bid come around to me for action!" It must be carefully noted that the redouble is more a defensive than an offensive weapon. In hand No. 3 South decidedly should not redouble just because he is very fond of his partner's heart bid. A redouble would be wasted breath and wasted time. The opponents would not look with favor on a low heart contract, but simply would go about exchanging information to reach the best contract of their own. Since with No. 3 South cannot hope to buy the bid cheaply and since his defense, particularly against spades, almost is nil, his duty becomes plain: to deprive the enemy of as many information exchanging bids as possible.

To revert to hand No. 1, South's weakness in the heart suit, his partner's bid is more than compensated for by his strength in the other three suits. Even if South held a singleton heart his best bid still would be the redouble. If by any chance the opponents permit one heart redoubled to stand as the final contract, South will deliver at least three and probably four tricks, which certainly should be sufficient to make a seven trick contract. The fact that it is highly unlikely that the opponents will pass is all the more reason for South's redouble. Whatever they bid, South can double. His spade strength is sufficient to double spades even at the one level, and his minor suit strength ample for the double of the necessary two bid.

Holding hand No. 2, South should feel safe but not cocky. He has very fair support for his partner's bid, but not enough strength to take drastic action on his own account. With these "medium" hands South's best strategy is watchful waiting. If the opponents climb very high South can double with assurance. If North rebids South can raise. But it is vital to note that the double, acting as a bid, automatically has held open the bidding and given North another chance to speak. Hence it is unnecessary for South to discharge his usual function of "keeping the bidding open for partner." With hand No. 3, South's status has not changed through the double, because his objective precisely is the same as it would be without that double. That objective is to buy the contract at hearts if possible, and without going to the five or six level.

With hand No. 4 South is in at once a fortunate and unfortunate position. Of course no one likes to hold a queen high hand, particularly with a singleton in partner's suit, but since fate sent it to South it is just as well that the takeout double occurred. Because South can now make a bid in comparative safety that would have been extremely dangerous in the absence of the double. I refer, of course, to the weakness takeout of two diamonds. This is one of the rare cases in bridge where a rescue bid may be made in safety, because partner can so clearly understand that a rescue is intended. With greater strength South could afford to pass and reënter the auction at a later stage, or he could redouble, or he could give a forcing takeout. The fact that he has not made any of these strong bids is evidence of one thing—that he was afraid to pass to one heart. With hand No. 4 South should feel that one heart doubled, if left in all around, will be a disastrous contract, since South's hand itself probably will not take one trick. At diamonds, weak as he is, South very well may take three or four tricks.

With hand No. 5 an entirely new problem is created by the takeout double. Despite South's general strength and his excellent spade suit, North, if left in one heart, may be cut to pieces in the trump suit alone. North must be warned that South is extremely averse to any heart contract. But it is vital that he be warned in such a fashion that he can realize that South is not merely rescuing. A one spade bid by South at this point would convey the picture of a weak hand, with the inability to stand hearts and with a spade suit something like ♠ K Q x x x and perhaps nothing on the side. To get North out of his heart contract and at the same time to insure that he himself be given another chance to bid, South makes the strength showing jump takeout, which is forcing for one round.

When an opponent makes a takeout double of partner's opening one no trump bid, the responder's procedure is based upon his knowledge that his partner's hand has four honor tricks and at least three cards in every suit.

Responder should redouble if he holds any two honor tricks; this requirement should be lowered to one and one-half honor tricks if the responder has a guarded honor in each of at least three suits. A redouble tells the opener that a profitable penalty double can probably be made when the defenders bid. Holding about one-plus honor trick, responder simply should pass the double. With only one honor trick or less, and with a five card or longer suit, the responder should take out in the suit. No matter how weak the suit, he may bid it. Responder should never "rescue" the doubled one no trump in a four card suit, no matter how weak is his hand. He simply passes.

Now that we have covered the problems of the partner of the opening bidder, let us take up the sometimes sad case of fourth hand in such a bidding sequence as:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Double	Redouble	?

We now have come to one of the most controversial questions in bridge. Even today many excellent players do not know what East should do if holding a poor hand. If East tries to avoid responsibility and simply passes when holding one of those terrible hands which offer so much difficulty in responding, he merely has put a terrific burden on his own partner and made matters very easy for the enemy. North, in the knowledge that East would make this kind of a pass, could make all sorts of psychic redoubles with impunity. The fact that a pass by East after a redouble would be meaningless, one time indicating an eager acceptance of the one heart redoubled contract and the next time indicating nothing but the inability to make a decent takeout, would give North glorious opportunities to redouble "on cheese." To explain this further, if South bid a spade, West doubled, and North was scared to death, his best strategy might be to redouble, figuring that either East or West would have to "run." But, if East can, by passing to the redouble, send a clear message to his partner that he believes the one contract can be defeated, North cannot make use of psychic tactics. Thus we arrive at the following principle when a takeout double has been redoubled:

With any but a strong hand, the doubler's partner must not pass.

The bidding [both sides vulnerable]:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the five of diamonds. Dummy ducked and declarer captured East's jack with the queen. Declarer led a low heart to the nine. East won and returned a diamond, West knocking out dummy's ace. Declarer now tried to break the spade suit so as to win four spades, two hearts, two diamonds and one club, but when this failed had no other play for contract. Where did the declarer go wrong?

Answer: Declarer should have permitted the diamond jack to hold the first trick! No defense then could have defeated the contract. East would return a diamond and now declarer's ten either would force the king and establish the queen or would hold the trick. In either case two club finesses toward the closed hand could be taken in safety. West could get in once with the club king and could clear the diamond suit, but never could get in again to cash the long diamonds.

Cooking Editor Gives Tips on Jelly Making

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Jelly making is a pleasant and easy venture if the jelly maker knows what she's about. With a supply of tart fruit and sugar, a jelly bag, a preserving kettle, a row of jelly glasses with covers and a box of paraffin, she's off to a fair start. But in case she isn't an old hand at making jelly, she should be warned about a few possible difficulties.

Troubles with jelly may take any of six forms, and the reasons for these troubles are those I'm suggesting in this list.

JELLY MAKING TROUBLES.

TOUGH JELLY: This may be caused by overcooking, by using too little sugar for the quantity of juice, by cooking the jelly in too large batches, or by using a poor quality of juice. Slow cooking also will give a tough jelly. Overcooking is the most common difficulty. Jelly should be removed from the heat immediately upon giving the jelly test.

SIRUPY JELLY. Lack of enough pectin or acid in the juice will prevent congealing. Undercooking, overcooking, long, slow cooking, or too much sugar may cause thin jelly.

CRYSTALS IN JELLY: Crystals often form in grape jelly due to the tartaric acid in the grapes. They may be prevented if the juice is allowed to stand for several days before jelly is made from it. Crystals then will form in the juice and settle to the bottom, and the juice may be drained from them. Use of too much sugar is a common cause of crystals in other jellies.

CLOUDY JELLY: Cloudy jelly will result if the jelly bag is squeezed. The juice should be allowed to drip naturally. If the fruit is cooked too long before straining, cloudiness may appear in the jelly. If the sirup is cooked beyond the finishing point, or isn't well skimmed, it is likely to be cloudy. The starch in unripe fruit, particularly apples and crabapples, may produce some cloudiness which usually appears after the finished jelly has stood for some time.

WEEPY JELLY: Insufficient cooking, too much sugar, a poor seal or storing the jelly in a warm, damp or sunny place will produce weepy jelly.

DARKENED COLOR: This is the result of overcooking, of cooking in large quantities, or of cooking slowly.

RULES FOR GOOD JELLY.

1. Measure accurately, and use the right proportion of sugar for the particular kind of juice.
2. Boil the sirup as rapidly as possible.
3. Test for the jelly point during the entire boiling period, so that there is no danger of overcooking.

THE JELLY TEST.

Dip a spoon into the boiling sirup and lift it out. When two drops run together at the edge of the spoon and "sheet off", the jelly is done, and should be taken from the heat at once. Pure fruit juices, without addition of commercial pectin, should jell at 220 to 222 degrees at sea level altitudes if the juices contain the right proportion of pectin, acid and sugar. But the temperature test for jellies is only fairly accurate. The sheeting test generally is much safer.

APPLE JELLY.

Select firm, tart apples and wash them. Without peeling or coring, cut into small pieces and place in a pan with just enough water to cover. Cook covered until pulpy. Turn into a jelly bag to drain. Measure the juice and boil it rapidly for 5 minutes to concentrate it. Add ¾ cup sugar per cup of juice and continue to boil rapidly until the sirup sheets from the edge of a spoon. Remove immediately from heat and pour into clean glasses. Paraffin while hot.

Second and third extractions of juice may be made from most apples. The jelly from these later extractions will not be as clear as jelly from a first extraction, but it will be good, nevertheless. To re-extract juice, remove the apple pulp from the jelly bag, add water to cover and simmer for 30 minutes. Return to jelly bag to drain.

APPLE JELLY COMBINATIONS.

Combine the juices in the proportions suggested and prepare according to the recipe just given.

APPLE AND BLACKBERRY JELLY: Use ¼ cup blackberry juice to each ¾ cup apple juice, and use only ⅔ cup sugar per cup of combined juices.

APPLE AND BLUEBERRY OR ELDERBERRY JELLY: Use equal parts juices, ¾ cup sugar per cup juice.

APPLE AND BLACK RASPBERRY, APPLE AND CHERRY, APPLE AND PEACH, APPLE AND QUINCE, APPLE AND STRAWBERRY: Combine equal parts of the two juices, and use ⅔ cup sugar per cup of juice.

APPLE MINT JELLY.
[1 glass]

1 cup finely chopped mint leaves
1 cup boiling water
1 cup apple juice
¾ cup sugar
Green coloring

Pour boiling water over clean mint leaves, cover, and let steep for an hour. Strain the liquid from the leaves and add 2 tablespoons to the apple juice and sugar. Boil rapidly until two drops of the sirup will run together and sheet from the edge of a spoon. Add a drop or two of green coloring, pour, and seal with paraffin. Quantities may be increased to make more jelly, but 4 cups of juice are as much as should be handled at once, for best results.

On the House

By Louise Bargelt

A welcome newcomer to the field of inexpensive wall surfacings for that "early American kitchen," or game room, library, sun room or den is the panel of knotty western cedar, ⅛ inch thick, with all the gnarled charm of cedar's colorful knots and cedar's warmth of tone.

When you want to play hookey from housework these warm days, there's a new solution for your clothes drying problems. It is a neat affair you can fasten to a basement, attic, or utility room ceiling. It only takes a screw driver to install, and there's no danger a rope will catch you under the chin, for the line is strung on evenly spaced pins, and a turn of the lever takes out the slack. Once hung, you can go where you like, with your wash safe from sudden showers or other catastrophes.

Simple outdoor shower units can be hooked onto a garden hose. If you wish tempered water for your family members you can connect the hose to the double faucet on a laundry tub or sink.

A new and intriguing type of window glass is patterned in parallel lines to resemble the strips of our always popular Venetian blinds. This glass also may be used for walls in sun room or bath, living room or den. One very novel asset is that of ventilation. It may be set in sections to provide air circulation.

You can make your basement floor as gay and attractive as you like with a new type of cork flooring. This cork can be placed directly over your existing cement floor, even though that floor is in direct contact with the ground. And needless to say, the cork comes in a number of lively colors.

Since we are courting the favor of the sunlight in more ways than one these days, there's waterproof and shrinkproof canvas for those flat roofs and sun decks, which are at last very definitly in the domestic picture.

The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning values. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

This Swiss cover from Julius Valentin of Chicago is franked with a strip of the new purple and yellow stamps issued in connection with the national fetes. The design consists of a view of Lake Lucerne and the mountains with Tell's chapel in the foreground. The stamps are on sale until Nov. 15, and the extra charge of 10 cents is given for the assistance of Swiss nationals living abroad.

The August stamp program which was announced recently by the postoffice department includes four values of the new regular issue and the Iowa Centennial stamp. The 7 cent value showing the portrait of Andrew Jackson will be placed on sale on Aug. 4. One week later, on Aug. 11, the 8 cent value bearing a likeness of Martin Van Buren will make its appearance, and after an interval of another week the 9 cent stamp, with the portrait of William Henry Harrison, will be offered on Aug. 18.

At this point the 3 cent Iowa commemorative will break into the regular succession as it is the intention to have this stamp go on sale with the opening of the Iowa state fair at Des Moines on Aug. 24. If the issuance of this stamp establishes any sort of a precedent, collectors may look for commemoratives on the centenary of every territory, and then later other stamps to mark the centennial of the same region when it finally became a state.

The final stamp of the August group will be the 1 dollar value of the regular series with the portrait of Woodrow Wilson which is to be released on Aug. 29. This value, as well as the three first mentioned, will have first day sales at Washington, D. C. The interpolation of this value so far ahead of its regular position in the series has been explained by the department as a favor to collectors who might find it difficult to order all of the dollar values in a single month.

Until July 11, newspapers and philatelic magazines were unable to find anything to criticize about the new regular series. This appears strange to one who has followed contemporary comment on new issues. The 4½ cent value, showing the south front of the White House, which was issued at Washington on July 11, is an intruder in an otherwise harmonious group of stamps. While admitting that is is a difficult problem to adapt a horizontal picture to a vertical stamp, there seems to be no very good reason for facing the design to the left while the other values face right, and no excuse at all for framing this vignette when the other values found instant favor in their chaste simplicity. The fact is that it was necessary to fence in the White House to keep it from running off the stamp. A little sharper perspective in the photograph copied would have permitted the use of the standard background of ruled lines and would have preserved unity in the series.

The hundredth anniversary of the inauguration of the temperance movement in Ireland is the occasion for a new stamp which was announced for July 1, by the department of posts and telegraphs of Ireland. The portrait of Father Mathew who instituted the movement appears on the stamp. Rev. Theobald Mathew, the "Apostle of Temperance" was born in Tipperary in 1790 and died in 1856. As a result of his efforts, it is stated that no less than 150,000 spirt drinkers took the pledge in Cork alone, and similar success followed in his visits at Dublin, and the principal cities of England and Scotland. A proof of his disregard for temporal interests is afforded by the fact that his crusades against alcohol resulted in the closing of a large distillery operated by his brother from which came almost his entire income.

The design for this new stamp is shown through the courtesy of Daniel McGrath, consul for Ireland.

News travels rather slowly in Washington. Under date of June 30, subsequently amended and corrected on July 6, the second assistant postmaster general notified postmasters that under the terms of an act of congress approved Jan. 27 publications containing illustrations of United States or foreign stamps which comply with certain regulations are admissable to the United States mails.

A new Cuban semipostal stamp is provided in a law passed on May 11. This provides for an annual issue of tuberculosis stamps of 1 cent denomination which are to be on sale from Dec. 1, of each year until Jan. 31, of the following year. The use of this stamp in addition to the required postage will be obligatory on every piece of mail carried, except that carried under postal frank, and except also publications registered as second class matter. The same stamp will be required on every telegram, cablegram, radiogram, and on every receipt for long distance telephone call. The design of the new stamp will express the beneficent purpose to which the revenue is devoted, and a new design will be provided each year. All stamps remaining on hand on Jan. 31 are to be destroyed together with the plate from which they were printed.

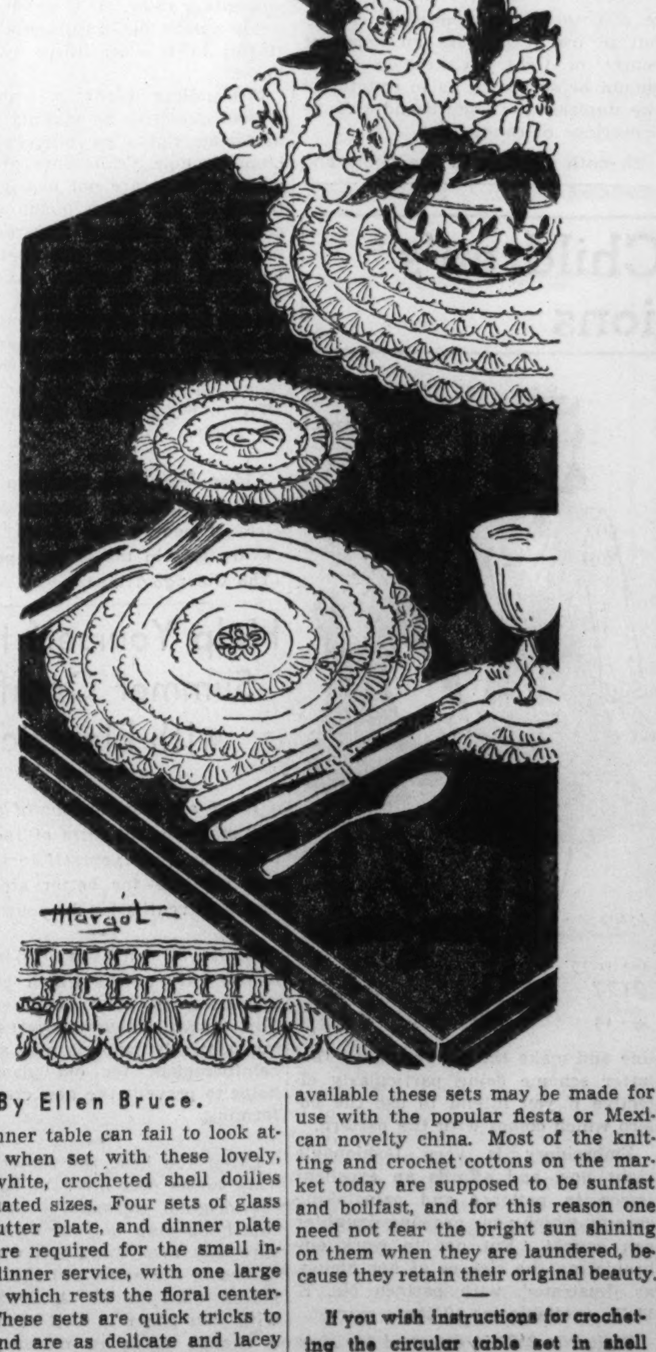
Crocheted Doilies Done in Shell Pattern Are Pretty



By Ellen Bruce.

No dinner table can fail to look attractive when set with these lovely, snowy white, crocheted shell doilies in graduated sizes. Four sets of glass mats, butter plate, and dinner plate doilies are required for the small informal dinner service, with one large doily on which rests the floral centerpiece. These sets are quick tricks to make, and are as delicate and lacey as the sea shell from which the pattern was adapted. Crocheting these sets is a pleasant and gainful occupation, regardless of the time or place. Fine white mercerized crochet cotton No. 30 or 40 is an ideal selection. With the wide range of colors available these sets may be made for use with the popular fiesta or Mexican novelty china. Most of the knitting and crochet cottons on the market today are supposed to be sunfast and boilfast, and for this reason one need not fear the bright sun shining on them when they are laundered, because they retain their original beauty.

If you wish instructions for crocheting the circular table set in shell pattern, illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Ellen Bruce, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

Anna Silver Meets a Rude Young Man Who Appears to Be Afraid to Tell His Troubles to the Police

THE STORY TO DATE

● Anna Silver, returning to her lodgings in a London suburb for a letter she forgot to post, finds the house deserted and a man lying on the stairway unconscious. When she brings back a doctor and the police the man is gone. Mrs. Weldegger, the landlady; Lot, her son, and Philly, the half-witted maid, even the new lodger, Ben Saul, Mrs. Weldegger's brother, insist they were there all the time and never saw the man. Bewildered, Anna goes off to work, forgetting about a photo she found beside the man.

INSTALMENT II.

(Copyright: 1938: By Douglas Newton.)

"SHE will not find out about Hartigan." Mr. Saul beamed softly. "Miss Silver can do nothing till this evening. By that time such evidence as there is — and Hartigan — will have vanished completely. Unless you've bungled more than you've told me, Lot."

"No," the lout answered sulkily. "It would have been all right anyhow if his foot hadn't jumped into the banisters just as she came back, an' Philly's panicking——"

"Liar!" the maid shrilled like a wild animal. "It was you 'oo went all ga-ga when you 'eard 'er key in the door. If you 'adn't dropped 'im an' run——"

"That'll do," Mr. Saul said sharply. "Nothing will be gained by squabbling. But you at least should have kept your head, Lot."

"It wouldn't have helped," Mrs. Weldegger said in defense of her son. "I stayed trying to get Hartigan's leg free as long as I dared, but it was too tightly jammed to move him."

"But why didn't you carry him down the service stairs?" Mr. Saul demanded. "The girl would never have set eyes on him then."

"They were too narrow, with three of us carrying him, and then who could have expected Miss Silver to come back like that?" the landlady argued.

"Thing she would do!" Philly spat. "'Er an' 'er stuck-up ways. It's my belief she 'eard something larst night."

"Rubbish!" Mrs. Weldegger rapped. "You forget that Hartigan was already—er—asleep when she came in from the theater." She looked nervously at Mr. Saul. "Could he have roused after what you gave him?"

"He hasn't roused yet," Mr. Saul said. "It is a most reliable drug. . . . No, she heard nothing and knows nothing. That, in fact, is plain from her manner. Her stumbling on Hartigan was just an unlucky accident—and I think we've eliminated the danger of that."

"I'll say so. We 'ad the doctor an' that copper Heney fair eating out of our 'ands." Philly wriggled gleefully.

"Yes, yes, you all did splendidly," Mr. Saul beamed. "In fact, our little bit of play-acting was a stroke of genius; its very everydayness, so to speak, created an atmosphere that automatically forced them to believe us against her before we even opened our mouths to deny her story. Yes, I'm not without a dramatic instinct, after all, and a knowledge of the theater can be useful in real life."

Mrs. Weldegger stirred at his words, asked huskily, "What about Hartigan?"

"He's safe enough," Lot thrust in. "I did all you told, Uncle Ben. . . . Carried him straight to where the car's hidden on the heath. Nobody saw me. Then me and Hayman put him inside. He's still so dopey he didn't even stir."

"What I really mean is, what are you going to do with him now, Ben?" Mrs. Weldegger muttered.

"My dear Emma, we settled that yesterday afternoon when you agreed to help me out of this hole." Mr. Saul blinked in surprise. "I take him down to Dodmans and hide him there until we can leave the country."

"You swear that's all, Ben?" she faltered.

MR. SAUL had merely taken off his spectacles and was polishing them in a meditative manner, but without the thick lenses his eyes became small, bulging, and strangely hard as they stared at her, so that she faltered as she went on: "A hundred thousand pounds is a terrible lot of money, Ben. Men have done awful things——"

"Murder, eh?" Mr. Saul's glasses were on and he was his old, apologetically beaming self. "For a sister you are shockingly ignorant of my character, Emma. My idea of a good time on that £100,000 doesn't include being chased all over the world for the sake of a poor corpse."

"But this girl—she adds to the risk. I don't like it."

"You liked it all right when you agreed to help me," he said persuasively. "You'll like it all right when you're safe in Nice or Monte Carlo enjoying your share of the money. It's because you've just been through a bad moment, my dear; but actually there's nothing to fear. Hartigan will be perfectly safe at Dodmans, and already I've begun making arrangements to leave directly the cinema deal is through."

"But that'll take weeks, you say," she wailed. "Couldn't you accept what they offer now? We could leave at once then."

"And chuck away £30,000 in easy money!" Mr. Saul's eyes had a brittle gleam. "Don't talk rubbish. Besides, the other arrangements—transferring money abroad, and so forth—will have to take time." She made as though to interrupt, and he went on more persuasively:

"Do get it into your head we're perfectly safe. There's no real danger from Philip Hartigan. I told you he had to bolt from this country twenty years ago for a crime—robbery with violence. That means he daren't go near the police, because he knows he will be arrested under the old warant. And he had no friends in the country for the same reason—except me, and I know there are no relatives. The whole situation is entire' in our favor."

"But he did come back in spite of his fear of that warant," the woman protested.

"Yes, blast him!" Mr. Saul abruptly scowled. "That's because word of the success of 'The Black Mark' reached even his out-of-the-world hiding hole, and the thought of its cash returns conquered even his fear. But make no mistake, the fear's still there.

"He sneaked back to the country secretly; even his making himself known to me at the theater was furtive. Thus even there he made it safe for us by covering up his own trail. If he disappears now—who'll know? And when we escape to the continent and let him loose he can do nothing."

"But—but mightn't all this trouble be saved by—well, coming to terms with him? Sharing with him? After all, he did write 'The Black Mark.'"

"Share!" Mr. Saul's face was abruptly wolfish. "What share do you think I'd get? No more than an agent's beggarly ten per cent, or a paltry lump sum at the most—when the whole £100,000 is mine and in my name already.

"No, I've got my hands onto the one big killing I'm ever likely to have, and nothing is going to take it from me. Nothing! Make no mistake about that, Emma."

• • •

THE hard anger in his voice made the woman wince, yet she muttered: "I don't like it, Ben. This girl's changed things. Something may go wrong——"

"Rubbish!" Mr. Saul shrugged, his mild manner returning. "She alters nothing — and I can handle her."

"How can you, after what her eyes have seen? She's no fool."

"Anything but—a charming, intelligent, honest wench—but the honest are the easiest to handle, and you have only to be honest with them, as I shall be with her."

"Honest!" all three gasped, and Lot quavered, "That'll mean jail for the lot of us."

"Honest within natural limits," Mr. Saul chuckled. "I shall tell her that Hartigan is what he is—a criminal wanted by the police, who had sneaked into the country to extract money from me just because I'm a successful playwright."

"But will she believe you?" Mrs. Weldegger asked.

"Certainly. Hartigan's criminality is in our favor. Also my experience teaches me that there is something in me that appeals to the mothering instinct of the nicest kind of women—and Anna Silver is that. In fact, she's so attractive that I feel I can put a real personal touch into winning her."

"If she hasn't already taken steps against us," Mrs. Weldegger put in. "You ought to have sent Hayman after her to make sure."

"I wonder?" Mr. Saul mused. "But some one had to watch Hartigan and the car. . . . Anyhow I think she'll be too bewildered today to act. Tomorrow—perhaps. Now we can do nothing until this evening —except to see Hartigan safely to Dodmans."

With a few more instructions Mr. Saul left the house by the back, passing out onto a little lane bordering the heath. Some fifty yards above the Weldeggers' back gate a dense clump of high brambles and gorse came to the edge of the lane.

Pushing aside some branches, Mr. Saul found a broad path that led to the heart of the clump. Here there was a small grassy patch on which stood a powerful saloon car. Mr. Saul whistled and a tall, lank man with big red ears and large, knuckly hands sprang nervously from behind the car.

"All right, Hayman," Mr. Saul smiled. "Nothing to be scared about. Nothing happened here?"

"Might be a cemetery after closing hours," the lank man grunted. "An' that didn't make waiting more cheerful."

"That's all over now. Hartigan still safe and dopey, eh? Well, it's time to be off."

Mr. Saul retraced his steps to the lane and by whistle signals directed Hayman to back the car safely out, entering the car himself as Hayman drove it away from the heath. As Saul leant across to pull down the blinds the brown-faced, bearded man who lay bound on the floor of the car opened his eyes.

They were steady, curiously gentle blue eyes, and they added an unexpected studiousness and serenity to the thin, weather-beaten face. They stared for a moment, then the man said in an even, cultured voice:

"Ben Saul—my best friend! You drugged me, now you kidnap me. What are you going to do with me?"

"That," Mr. Saul said grimly, "will rather depend on you, Philip Hartigan."

Mr. Saul's reading of Anna Silver was uncannily correct — she spent her day in perplexed indecision. She knew that she had been so cleverly tricked that it would be almost impossible to go to the police again, yet that would not have silenced a girl of her fiber had it not been for Mr. Saul.

Even though he had plainly sided with the Weldeggers, he was so obviously well intentioned and kindly that there must be an explanation of the affair other than an ugly one.

Also Mr. Saul's own words implied as much. He had asked her, almost pleaded with her, to wait until she saw him again tonight, when things would look different; and the queer, appealing quality about him as well as her own helplessness made it almost a relief to put off any decision until she had his explanation.

So she went through the day with suspended judgment—until she saw the young man of the photo.

She had completely forgotten about the photo she had picked up from beside the bearded stranger. Nevertheless she recognized the young man directly he got into her train at South Kensington.

As he had to strap-hang most of the way she had full opportunity for studying him, even comparing him with the photo. He was undoubtedly the man. There was something steady and direct in his eyes that banished all doubt, though the rest of him was still unimpressive.

Also he was manifestly a stranger on that line. He studied the chart of stations in the carriage anxiously after every stoppage, and when they came to Pannets Town, where one took the loop to Tanners Heath, he asked to make sure this was the right place to change.

ANNA SILVER let him go ahead when they reached their destination, to see what he would do. He went into the booking hall, staring about him as though expecting some one to meet him, and Anna was sure it was the bearded man.

Then he took up his stand by the clock, studying all who went in and out of the station, but Anna noted that he was only interested in men, and middle-aged men at that.

Sure of him by now, sure he was there to meet the bearded man, Anna grew a little excited. Here was a chance of proving to the police she was not a hysterical fool. She was, in fact, so carried away by that that she forgot all about her resolve to do nothing until she had seen Mr. Saul.

The young man looked very dour and grim as she approached him. His glance swept over her and then completely ignored her with that blank indifference that even the plainest girl finds hard to bear.

It made her both resentful and cautious as she demanded, "You're waiting for some one?"

"I am," he said, curtly putting her in her place. "A man."

"I know," she snapped, stung by his rude dismissal. "If you'll describe his——"

"Have you been sent to meet me?" he asked warily.

"No, but I think I could tell you something about him if you'll tell me what he's like."

He stared stonily, said with an unfriendliness that made her blood boil:

"Who are you, anyhow?"

Anna Silver had never met a man so rude. She was so angry with him that it was not enough to walk away from him; she had to teach him a lesson. She snatched the photo from her bag, thrust it into his hand.

"Yours, I think," she said icily.

"Why, yes." He was thoroughly taken aback. "How——"

"Good day," she said and walked out of the station.

She was half-way across the grassy park in front of the station when he overtook her.

"Look here," he panted, "you can't leave it like that."

"I have," she said, and quickened her step. She meant it.

He took a stride in front of her, barred her way, but the determination in his face had a touch of anxiety.

"I apologize," he said. "If I was rude I had reason. And—and I must insist on your explaining."

"I think not," she answered, treating him to his own medicine. "Who are you, anyhow?"

"I'm Ronny—Ronald Eltham, student at the School of Science. I come from Africa, too."

"Africa?" It was her turn to be nonplused, and her ignorance recalled his suspicion.

"Who sent you? A man, you say. His name, please?"

"I won't be treated like this!" she burst out, and tried to push by him, but to her astonishment he caught her arm, said fiercely: "No, you don't. I'm going to get to the bottom of this. What game are you trying to play?"

"There's a policeman across the green," Anna said. "Do you want me to call him?"

He dropped her arm as though it stung him—he was that much afraid of the police, it seemed. His manner changed. He said as placatingly as his stiff spirit would allow:

"I'm sorry. My anxiety got the better of me. If only you wouldn't make a mystery of this."

"I'm not making the mystery. I went out of my way to approach you in spite of your rudeness."

"You're right." Abruptly he smiled with a frankness that made him almost boyish and likable. "I'm not really cut out for this sort of thing —it was Philip Hartigan who sent you, of course."

As he had been candid, Anna had to tell him she did not know the bearded man's name, but she described him, told who she herself was and how she had come to find the man on the stairs. As he listened his candor turned to perplexity, and when she had finished he was frowning.

"Yes, it's Philip Hartigan all right, but what an amazing story! I can't make head or tail of it."

"If you, his friend, can't, how can I?"

"That's it. I'm his friend — his only friend in England, as I happen to know. Where do those Weldeggers come in? What's he doing out in this heaven-forsaken suburb at all?"

"He must have told you, surely, since you're here to meet him?"

"No, he didn't," he said rather lamely. "He merely sent a telegram telling me to meet him here."

He produced the message. It had been sent from Shaftesbury avenue and bore the words: "Meet me Tanners Heath station tomorrow 6 p. m. Be circumspect. P. H."

Her mind was caught by the odd words, "be circumspect"; it seemed to connect so naturally with this Ronny Eltham's fear of policemen. She asked sharply what it meant.

"O — er — nothing. Just — er — a little joke between us," he mumbled, but she knew he was lying, especially when, to change the subject, he said hurriedly: "It doesn't matter; what does is what these Weldeggers are up to. Is this Saul a confidence man? I mean, this seems just the place to lure people to to rob them."

Anna almost scoffed at the picture of the fumbling and kindly Mr. Saul acting as a thug.

"That's absurd. You only have to see him to see that. And the Weldeggers are honest; I've lodged with them for more than a year and know that at least. Besides, is your Mr. Hartigan worth robbing? He didn't look it."

SHE had suddenly recalled details of the bearded man she had subconsciously taken in. His hands had been toil-worn and his clothes old and of distinctly cheap texture.

"Well, maybe not; he's only a fruit farmer in a small way," he admitted reluctantly. "But to these people any new-landed colonial is fair game."

"I tell you that idea's absurd," she declared. "They're not crooks. There must be some other reason. Why is he in England?"

"Well, he's an Englishman, if he has been in Africa twenty years," he began curtly; then his anxiety made him boyish again and he blurted impulsively: "But I don't know why; I didn't even know he was coming to England. That's why it's all so puzzling. I mean, even his letter by last mail contained no hint of it—and then this sudden telegram, and your story—it makes the whole business look darn ugly."

"There may be a very natural and ordinary explanation," Anna said, falling back on Mr. Saul's suggestion.

"What honest explanation can there be with crooks who took all that trouble to trick you and the police?" he snapped. "The thing's ugly. We've got to take immediate steps to save Hartigan."

"You mean go to the police?" She spoke deliberately, watching him carefully. Besides resenting his manner, she had a growing suspicion that there was something questionable behind his story that he was anxious to hide. And at the word "police" her suspicions were clinched. The fierceness left his face; he became uneasy, furtive even, she thought, and muttered sullenly:

"No—not the police. I mean, not yet. . . . I'll tackle this myself. You'll help——"

Yes, he was afraid of the police; and, certain of that, the air was suddenly cleared for her. It suggested crookedness on Hartigan's side, and that put the Weldeggers and Mr. Saul in a better light. It would be better to hear what they had to say before she made up her mind.

"No," she said firmly, "I don't want to be mixed up in it."

"All right," he said, glaring at her. "If that's your line, I'll see it through alone. But I must ask you not to tell your precious friends about me. I want your word on that, please."

She did not answer him; she was too angry. She walked past him across the green and up the road leading to the heath. And it did not lessen her anger with him to find that he followed her home. As she paused on the porch of Heath House to get her key from her bag she saw him strolling calmly by on his way to the heath.

Mr. Saul was waiting for Anna as she entered Heath House. More vague, more nervous than ever, he showed an almost pathetic relief as he stammered: "Ah, Miss Silver—so glad. I mean, we've been waiting. Will you—that is, do you mind coming into this room?"

Mr. Saul's appealing manner put her at ease as she followed him into Mrs. Weldegger's sitting room.

The landlady was there, and Lot, but in them, too, anxiety had replaced hostility. The absence of the unpredictable Philly also simplified things, and so did Mr. Saul.

Shuffling with embarrassment, he tried several openings, until at last he gave up all diplomacy and blurted:

"I say—this isn't going to be so easy for us, Miss Silver. I mean, I'm such a poor hand at this sort of thing . . . especially as—well—we've nothing to say . . . only to throw ourselves entirely on your mercy."

"So there was a man on the stairs," she said, trying to be cold, yet elated at her justification.

"O, of course—we weren't so absurd as to think we'd fooled you about him," he said frankly. "We were thinking more of such blockheads as Heney and the doctor at the time. Not that we did much thinking. We were in such a horrible hole that really we lost our heads."

"I didn't see much evidence of that," she said, her common sense stiffening her.

"You mean the bit of acting?" He gave her a wan smile. "That, I suppose, came naturally to me. I write plays, you know. But it shouldn't have happened. You should never have seen that fellow."

"Why was he there at all—and unconscious?"

"I alone am to blame, please," Mr. Saul said quickly. "I dragged these poor souls into it — my sister, you know, and my nephew. When this fellow turned up out of the blue to threaten me I simply did not know where else to turn."

"Threaten you—how?" Anna demanded.

MR. SAUL blinked like a shame-faced child caught out in naughtiness.

"Dear me!" he sighed. "I meant to lead gently up to it. Just like me to begin at the end. But this is how it happened. I write plays, under another name, Martin Davaray, and recently——"

"Martin Davaray!" Anna sat up, startled. "You mean you're the author of 'The Black Mark'?"

"O, do you know it?" He blinked with an innocent gratification that was really endearing. For "The Black Mark" happened to be the greatest theatrical success of its day.

It was one of those unique plays that take the world by storm—"Journey's End" was another. Its success was colossal. It was still playing to packed houses after more than a year's run; it had had the same triumph in America, in several countries on the continent, and with numberless touring companies.

It was being discussed everywhere, and its earnings were said to be fantastic. Anna had seen the figures given as not less than £150,000, and only the other day she had read that the cinema rights were being negotiated for a record sum. All this she mentioned now.

"Yes, it has been lucky," he agreed. "And there's the tragedy. Its success has made others greedy. This man—he's like that. He's demanding money from me."

He saw the puzzlement in Anna's eyes and said with a hopelessness that touched her deeply:

"He knows something I had hoped was dead and forgotten—about my past. He is making use of that, Miss Silver."

"But — that's blackmail!" she cried in horror.

Her disgust and anger were very real, because she saw in a flash that it was the one thing that could explain Mr. Saul's strange behavior—yes, and this Ronny Eltham's reluctance to go to the police. Ronny Eltham, knowing Hartigan, suspected this.

"It's a horrible word to use," Mr. Saul said with pain in his face, "especially of a man who used to be my best friend. But I'm afraid it's true. It is because he was my friend that he knows about this. It happened when we were both young and reckless. We were desperately hard up, embittered, when he—we planned this crime."

"Please," Anna cried in pity for his obvious shame. "There is no need to tell me."

"Thank you, Miss Silver," he said quietly. "It's hard, but I am ready to be absolutely honest with you. Not that the details matter; what does it that by a queer freak of luck, though Philip Hartigan's—that's his name—his part in the crime was discovered, the police never even suspected me. I went free, while he had to flee the country to escape arrest."

"With your help, Ben," Mrs. Weldegger put in.

"My dear, he was my friend, and I was to blame, too. . . . Well, as I say, Miss Silver, this happened over twenty years ago. Hartigan disappeared, in Africa, as it transpires, and I did my best to live that slip down. I had learnt my lesson. During all my years of struggle and failure I never gave way to another temptation.

"And then, after I had almost despaired of success, 'The Black Mark' at last triumphed. And with that all those years of striving and sometimes starving seemed repaid —until Hartigan came. He showed me that my success gave him his opportunity to bleed me by threatening to give the police the evidence they lacked against me for that old crime."

"But surely that will mean his own arrest, too?"

"No, he sees that to protect myself I must also protect him. He has little to lose and everything to gain."

"That's true, she nodded. "But how did he know you wrote the play? How did he know you were Martin Davaray?"

"O, I'm a newspaper man, and the secret is generally known among my colleagues—and Hartigan is or was a journalist, too. Anyhow, he knows.

"He turned up suddenly at the theater during yesterday's matinée, and his arrival and threats so—so staggered me that I had barely wits enough to put him off until the evening.

"Then I dashed down by car to my sister here, her head being so much more practical than mine, and between us we decided that it would be best to get the fellow down here for the night and try to talk him into a more reasonable frame of mind."

"He's still so dopey he didn't even stir."

On what day were you born? Whatever day it was, there are specific astrological influences about which you should know—influences which pertain to your birth date and to no other day in the year. Wynn has compiled, especially for readers of THE TRIBUNE, detailed analyses of the future to Dec. 31, 1938, giving counsel for all activities. Learn of your own astrological pattern for 1938 by filling out the blank below immediately.

AS ABOVE SO BELOW

Look for your birthday or the group in which it appears throughout the following notes—it may be mentioned more than once. Mark it with a pencil wherever you see it, and then heed the counsel given.

This Week's Opportunities for All of Us

For SELLING: None.

For ROMANCE: Tuesday and Friday.

For OCCUPATION: Tuesday and Wednesday.

For LEGAL MATTERS: Thursday and Friday.

For HEALTH: None.

DAY BY DAY

TODAY and TOMORROW: Devote time to interests that need privacy and seclusion for best results. Build up physical, mental, and spiritual vitality.

MONDAY, JULY 25: Don't neglect practical issues, and steer clear of a gloomy outlook. Best for those born June 24-July 10, Oct. 26-Nov. 10, and Feb. 22-March 9.

TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, and THURSDAY: Moderate personal assertion looks encouraging if you understand your position and your rights and act accordingly.

TUESDAY, JULY 26: An excitable day—be sure to focus your energy on constructive matters. Best for those born July 10-25, Nov. 10-25, and March 9-24.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 27: Not the time for revolutionary ideas—the familiar groove looks good. Best for those born July 25-Aug. 11, Nov. 25-Dec. 10, and March 24-April 8.

THURSDAY, JULY 28: Give facts and figures proper consideration. Steer clear of overoptimism. Best for those born Aug. 11-26, Dec. 10-25, and April 8-23.

FRIDAY and SATURDAY: Days for getting things under control in money situations that depend on your personal skill and endeavors. Plan your expenditures.

An Open Letter to Johnny Vander Meer

JOHNNY VANDER MEER

Dear Johnny: Your setup of the planets shows a good deal that will be of service to you when dramatic talent is asked of you. You have a natural actor's equipment so don't hesitate when the opportunity comes, which will probably be not later than next year. Friction with those in authority is part of your makeup; hold it back or it will hold you back. Take orders till in position to give them — and then be easy on those weaker than you are. Also look out for self-indulgence temptings; they will prove to be one of your worst enemies in the climb to security. With best wishes, WYNN.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

WYNN, CHICAGO TRIBUNE:
Send me the analysis of my astrological influences.

City, State ....

Price: At the Tribune Public Service Offices (1 South Dearborn or Tribune Tower), 5 cents. Horoscopes ordered by mail must be paid for with 7 cents in STAMPS.

FRIDAY, JULY 29: Stimulated for interests requiring originality and sympathetic understanding. Best for those born Aug. 26-Sept. 11, Dec. 25-Jan. 8, and April 23-May 9.

SATURDAY, JULY 30: Get in some serious thought on plans for progress in the future. Best for those born Sept. 11-25, Jan. 8-22, and May 9-23.

SUNDAY, JULY 31: Be considerate with those older. Try to avoid bringing up past issues. Best for those born Sept. 25-Oct. 9, Jan. 22-Feb. 5, and May 23-June 7.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

JULY 24, 1938.

Left: Joan Fontaine is the heart's desire of two strong, dark men, Richard Dix and Chester Morris, in "Sky Giant." (Palace.)

Below: Ethel Shutta, singing comedienne, is one of the three headliners in the new floor show at the Chez Paree.

Above: That's little Marjorie Weaver cuddling up so contentedly to Warner Baxter. And if Warner's in any way peeved all we have to say is that he's putting up a big, brave front. These two likable players are currently appearing in "I'll Give a Million." It's at the Roosevelt.

Above: Blonde of hair and fresh of voice, Helen Jepson, popular operatic soprano, will be soloist in Grant park Wednesday with the Civic Opera orchestra.

Right: Kay Francis is appearing in a picture called "My Bill." We hope you like her in it—and the chances are that you will. (That's a poem.) To find "My Bill" just follow the trail to the Apollo.

Left: The girl really wasn't a nice girl at all till the boy came along and believed that she was. Then—guess what happened? "The Shopworn Angel" (United Artists) tells the story. Margaret Sullavan and James Stewart, before you, play the aforementioned boy and girl.

Discovers Play Backers Are Hunting Playwrights to Back

Announcement of Five Golden Awards Is Due

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK. — [Special.] — John Golden, whose five awards of $1,000 each to promising playwrights are about to be announced, has made an interesting discovery. There are at least twenty men of his acquaintance, business men, bankers, retired showmen and such, who are willing to augment his $5,000 fund with another fund to which they are willing to subscribe $1,000 each to carry the purposes of the Golden fund just that much further.

In other words, the glamor and investment promise of the theater is still strong enough with these gentlemen to prompt them to risk a modest thousand on the possibility of uncovering another Anderson, or O'Neill, or Kaufman, Cohan, or Coward. But, and here's the rub, promising playwrights are hard to find. Golden himself admits that.

"I can find backers for plays in every block, and backers for playwrights in every corner," excitedly insisted the producer at a committee meeting last week. "But this committee is having a heck of a time finding five prospects of sufficient promise to take over my five thousand."

Following the meeting of the American Theater council a year ago Mr. Golden, being emotionally moved by Sidney Howard's plea for encouragement for the younger playwrights, the boys and girls who were just starting and meeting with nothing but caustic rebuffs, stood up in meeting and declared that he would start an encouragement fund by donating $5,000 to be awarded in sums of $1,000 each to the first five young playwrights who would prove to a committee that they really had a talent for their chosen jobs.

Shortly thereafter Mr. Howard selected his committee and word was sent forth to the young and talented that they should submit their evidence, and if it appeared that $1,000 might help them finish a play, or write a play, they would be put on the Golden pay roll until the $1,000 was paid and, it was to be hoped, a play was produced.

There were, as I recall it, about a hundred applicants. The more promising had had one or more plays produced, or at least accepted by an experienced producer. Several had written plays for their school or college dramatic classes. Some were admitted tyros, but with scripts of discernible promise. Selecting the best of these reduced the list of applicants to around twenty. The winnowing of these got the most promising down to six or eight. The last I heard the chosen five were to be selected from this list and sent home to work.

In the background there were just as many struggling novices as before. They had shown nothing that impressed either the committee or Mr. Golden with the belief that they had anything in the way of a talent that it might pay to encourage.

In addition to the Golden fund there is a Rockefeller Foundation fund that has sent out scouts in search of promising playwrights. The Rockefeller executives are ready, I'm told, to take on as many as eight youngsters and give them a chance to show what they can do for the theater—if they can also convince a committee that they and their talents are worth the gamble.

And there is also the Theresa Helburn Bureau of New Plays fund, which is subscribed by five major motion pictures companies. This fund also offers cash prizes and fellowship assistance to any number of college graduates and senior students with playwrighting gifts. So far it has been able to turn up only a few really promising student dramatists.

All of which goes to prove something or other, but I don't know just what it is. Naturally the writing of plays calls for a specialized conditioning, and from my experience most of those who attempt it are poorly equipped for the task. Also the standards of the judges are difficult to attain.

If you will draw a little closer, I'll whisper something to you about this play contest business. I have sat in with any number of committees and read any number of manuscripts, and I have discovered that there is really only one thing that sells a play either to a committee or to a producer, and that is the idea, the story, the salable asset of a produced play.

The form, the writing, the knowledge of stage technique, all these count. But they may all be perfect and still mean nothing to the judges searching for a play, unless the idea they are used to project is appealingly human, arrestingly original, or smartly presented in terms of dialog and character.

Most novices think they know a lot more about the theater than they do. Many of them have good ideas but are unable to project them in play form. Many have made a careful study of play scripts and can produce excellent copies of what they have studied, but are lacking in ideas.

I think every manuscript should be accompanied by a 300 word synopsis of the idea that the play aims to sell. If this stabs attention, the talent of the writer for putting it in play form can be determined by reading a single act of his script. If he is then discovered to be inventive in idea, gifted in character analysis, and skilled in writing he is worth a backer's chance. Prices and fellowships, in other words, should be awarded on the promise of the writer rather than solely on the merits of what he has already written.

Playwrights who have succeeded are playwrights who have persisted in the face of failure in almost every instance. Persisted until they have sold an idea to a producer, compromised with that producer's own idea of what should be done with it and finally won the approval of a series of paying audiences and thus convinced the producer that he was right in his indorsement of the novice in the first place.

Gilbert Miller's determination to keep Helen Hayes playing "Victoria Regina" another year sounds at first a little cruel. Of course, Miss Hayes is long past being a pawn in the theater, but she still seems an artless little somebody who needs to be protected from the greedy commercialists of the business. As a matter of fact, the third year probably is the actress' own idea. Certainly she is that independent she would not have to accept the terms of any contract that did not please her. She is a partner in the enterprise. She shares in the profit. Playing Victoria is her present business. It is very profitable and she can see no good reason for breaking it up.

Hard? Of course, it is hard. And yet think of those old-timers who did not have more than a half dozen changes of rôle in a lifetime of playing. Nobody knows how many times Denman Thompson played "The Old Homestead." Or James A. Herne "Shore Acres." Or Joseph Jefferson "Rip Van Winkle." Or Charles Warner "The Drunkard." Or James O'Neill "The Count of Monte Cristo." Four or five year runs of plays are comparatively recent. Frank Bacon's five years of "Lightnin'," and Laurette Taylor's five years of "Peg-o'-My-Heart." Next season will be Miss Hayes' third with "Victoria Regina." And she has had a bit of fun on the side playing Portia. [Incidentally she is to revive "The Merchant of Venice" and play Portia for two weeks in one of the summer theaters near her home in August. Just as a good neighbor gesture.]

Acting is no hardship for an actor. Playing the same part over and over does become a bit monotonous—but think of the thousands of workers who have been pulling the same levers on the same machines for twenty years. And without any audience to cheer them, either.

MAESTRO'S MUSIC PLEASES

Eddy Duchin and his band are current attractions in Chicago ballrooms. They'll play at the north side Aragon this afternoon, tonight, and Tuesday and Wednesday nights, and at the south side Trianon Thursday night.

Co-Stars' Reunion

William Gaxton and Victor Moore, who were co-stars in "Of Thee I Sing" and "Anything Goes," will get together again in a musical show which Vinton Freedley intends to produce next season. This will be a lyrical version of a play called "Clear All Wires," which was acted in New York in 1932. The central character is said to bear a resemblance to Floyd Gibbons during his war correspondent phase.

Actors' Union

The actor union's paid up membership was 3,287 on March 31, compared with 2,994 for the previous year. This year's total membership stands at 4,595, compared with 4,863 for 1937. There were 577 new members this season, as against 600 last year. The chorus girl union's paid up membership was 552, a drop of 233 for the year.

Prize Omitted

The council of the Dramatists guild has decided to withhold this year's Roi Cooper Megrue prize of $500 for the best comedy of the season. The comic plays of the New York season were not considered up to the standard by which "Having Wonderful Time" won last year's prize.

Cabarets Use 'Names Make News' System

Going on the theory that names make news, it can be set down that such headliners as Ethel Shutta, Sheila Barrett, Eddy Duchin, Zasu Pitts, Tommy Riggs, Abe Lyman, and Paul Draper are now performing in and around Chicago. And, curiously enough, all of them went to work at the same time—day before yesterday.

Except for the two WPA projects, the legitimate theater in these parts this summer is as barren as Sahara. But the night clubs, the movie theaters, the hotels, and the ballrooms are providing the oases.

● On Friday night the Chez Paree introduced its second summer revue. Like the preceding show, it has three stars of headlining importance: Abe Lyman and his band of nineteen musicians and entertainers; Ethel Shutta, singing comedienne of many Ziegfeld shows, and Paul Draper, classical tap dancer. Supporting stars are the Cuban ballroom dancers, Paul and Eva Reye; the singing Rose Blane, and Iris Wayne, an acrobatic tap dancer. Lyman, a Chicagoan now celebrating his twentieth year as a band leader, is making his first appearance at the Chez Paree, as is Ethel Shutta.

New ensemble numbers, produced by Fred Evans, include the Cuban dance la Conga. Others are a bathing beach scene, a polka, a Franz Lehar operetta scene, and a fantasy with a medley of Irving Berlin's songs from the motion picture "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

● In the new show that opened Friday night the Bon Air Country club, on Milwaukee avenue a mile north of Wheeling, are Sheila Barrett, mimic and character impressionist fresh from London engagements, and Jimmie Grier and his band of fifteen. Grier's musicians have recently been featured on sponsored radio shows, and for the last four years have played at the Biltmore bowl in Hollywood.

Holdovers from the previous show are Rosalean and Seville, a ballroom dance team, and Julie Gibson, singer. New are Billy and Joy Severn, acrobatic dancers. A feature of these ensemble numbers is a potpourri of Irving Berlin's twenty-five years of song hits.

● Eddy Duchin and his orchestra have come back for a week's stand at the Aragon and Trianon. They'll be at the north side ballroom until Thursday night, when they are to shove off on the south side. Shep Fields and his rippling rhythms will succeed them at the Aragon.

Zasu Pitts of the movies and Tommy Riggs of radio are appearing in person at the Chicago theater. Tommy, in case you don't know, is the ventriloquist who is heard as "Betty Lou" on Rudy Vallee's programs.

● Fall fashions are to go on parade this week. Starting Tuesday, feminine foibles in the new modes will be introduced by style creators of Chicago in the course of the ice show at the Sherman hotel's College Inn. At the same time the Swiss skating stars, Helga and Inge Brandt, will put on a new routine, with Franki Masters continuing at the baton.

● Michael Loring, baritone, has left the Veloz and Yolanda supporting cast at the Empire room of the Palmer house. He was notified early last week that he was to begin rehersals for the new Max Gordon musical in New York, and he started eastward after the Wednesday night performance. Attracting almost as much attention as Veloz and Yolanda are C. Ray Smith's puppets. Most of the dinner patrons at the Empire room wait for the 10 o'clock or "little show," where they become absorbed in the gyrations and goings-on of the lifelike marionettes.

New at the Villa Moderne, north suburban café on the Skokie highway at County Line road, are the Cancinos, a dance team billed as the king and queen of the rhumba. They are dancing three times nightly. Dance music is by Carlos Molina and his Latin American orchestra, with songs by Margaret Myers. Second band is the Royal Ambassadors for continuous dancing. A Tuesday night feature is the South American fiesta night, with Latin American music, and instruction in the tango and rhumba dances by Ruth Hurley, Frank McGill, and Ray Creamer.

● "La Revue Mondaine" is the current presentation at Albert Bouche's summer garden café, the Villa Venice, on the banks of the Desplaines river at Milwaukee avenue. Star of the revue is Rosita Ortega, a Spanish dancer of the Metropolitan Opera company. Other dancers are Medesca and Michel, the sisters Les Irenes, Carlo and Curito, and Ninon and Villon. Novelty acts include Lou Hoffman, comic juggler; the Lazzeronis, roller skaters; the Three Orchids, singing girls; the Four Gypsy Singers, and Caloah, a West Indies dancer. Show and dance music is by Frankie Quartelle and his orchestra.

● Next Thursday Colosimo's will present a show headlining Joan Abbott, ballad singer, and the comedy trio of Jackson, Reeves and Stone. Others will be Dorothy Wahl, dancer; Francitta, specialty dancer; Geraldine and Joe, comedy acrobats; the dancing DeBolt Sisters; Speck and Spot, a unicycle act, and Grace Drysdale and her marionette show, a holdover. Henri Gendron and his orchestra will be on the bandstand.

● At the Club Alabam the show includes Harriet Norris, a singer and mistress of ceremonies, and Mary Stone, dancing soubrette. Others are Marie Saree, dancer; Effie Burton, ballad singer; Lee Henderson, Phyllis Brooks, Betty Tascott, and Margie King. There are three bands for continuous dancing.

● Co-stars of the show at the Hi-Hat club are Willie Shore, dancer, comedian, and master of ceremonies, and Miss Roberta Jonay, dancer. Others are Olga Dane and her operatic sextet, whose songs range from classics to the latest swing tunes, and the Winnie Haveler Girls, dancers. Music is by Sidney Lang and his orchestra.

The Limehouse has a floor show on Saturdays and Sundays and the nightly dance music of Jerry Glidden's Troubadors.

Billy Carr is the master of ceremonies at the "606" club. Presentations in the hour show include a dozen dancing and singing entertainers.

● Dance music in the Sherwood Forest at the Ivanhoe gardens is played by Earl Hoffman and his orchestra, with songs by Helen Summers. For the intermissions there are the Four Hawaiians with their guitars. Music in the Catacombs is by Helen Irwin. The summer outdoor garden is now open for dining.

● Julius Delson, violinist, has been appointed director of the ensemble at Eitel's Old Heidelberg inn. Delson took his first violin lesson, when only 6 years old, from Ephim Zanovitz, laureate of the Imperial Conservatory of Music in St. Petersburg, Russia. At 13 he entered the conservatory and pursued advanced studies. In 1919, when the revolution came, he fled Russia and toured Germany, Switzerland, Austria, and France.

● Jules Duke and his orchestra have started on their fifth week in the Walnut room of the Bismarck hotel. With them in the summer show are Consolo and Melba, dancers; Gloria Faye and Darlene O'Day, singers.

Grace Kator, accordion soloist, and James Hatton, guitarist and vocalist, are featured in the bill in the Crystal bar and Red room of the Brevoort hotel. Norma Ballard, organist, plays daily during the cocktail and dinner hours.

● "Jitterbugs" and "ickies" will sit side by side at the Grant park concert Tuesday evening, when Bob Crosby's Dixieland Swing band, current at the Blackhawk, shares the program with Izler Solomon's symphony orchestra. The Crosby program, beginning at 7:30, will feature "Martha," with vocalization by Marion Mann; "Home on the Range," and a group of original compositions by the boys in the band, including "South Rampart Street Parade," "Big Foot Stomp," "Little Rock Getaway," and "Milch Cow Blues."

● Orrin Tucker and his orchestra continue as the featured attraction on the Edgewater Beach Walk. Augmenting the show are Roger Bragg, tenor; the Beach Walk male sextet, the Four Nighthawks, the Strolling Troubadors, and Harriet Smith's Twelve Lovely Ladies, now in the third consecutive year of their engagement.

GIRL OF MANY VOICES

CHICAGO PLAYBILLS

CONTINUED:

"Federal Ballet." Program of three ballets directed by Ruth Page, Grace and Kurt Kraff; WPA production; Great Northern theater; sixth week.

"Anthony and Anna," comedy; WPA production; Blackstone theater; tenth week.

FILMS AND VARIETY.

Chicago theater: "Always Good-bye," with Barbara Stanwyck [movie], and stage show; Zasu Pitts and Tommy Riggs in person.

Palace theater: "Sky Giant," with Richard Dix [movie], and stage show, headed by the Three Stooges and the Peters sisters.

State-Lake theater: "Treasure Island," with Jackie Cooper [movie], and stage show, headed by Jolly Gillette, radio singer.

Rialto theater: Song and dance show with Valerie Parks and movie, "The Saint of New York," with Louis Hayward.

No Seconds

Producer Jed Harris has sent word to the drama editors that no "second" companies of Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer prize play, "Our Town," will be sent on tour. Only the New York cast, headed by Frank Craven, will be seen on the road. That means, of course, that no other cities will have a look at the play until it has finished its Broadway run.

The paradox of the situation lies in the fact that "Our Town" is not about New York but about every little town in America.

"And so great is the hunger for the little town," Ben Atwell writes THE TRIBUNE, "that the play continues to do a turnaway business even after a six months' run. Indications point to at least a year's stay in New York."

Mummers Plan Production of Original Plays

Director Sherman Marks of the Chicago Mummers theater lets it be known that he will produce one or more original plays next season. He advises writers of scripts that so far haven't seen the footlights to submit them to him in the Auditorium building at 431 South Wabash avenue. Mr. Marks relates that the Mummers are considering a Shakespearean play, and to that end are operating a Shakespearean laboratory this summer, with the students undergoing intensive training in "Hamlet," "Romeo and Juliet," "Macbeth," and the like.

● Chicago isn't the only city suffering from near-starvation for lack of legitimate fare. Arrival of midsummer on Broadway found the menu pared down to seven dramatic shows and two musicals. "Room Service" closed a week ago, after 496 performances, and "The Two Bouquets" followed suit. But "Tobacco Road" and "You Can't Take It With You" are still going after the long distance records.

● It is announced that the Southwestern Indiana Civic association, 242 East Twelfth street, Indianapolis, will pay $1,000 for a play, of three or more acts, written around Abraham Lincoln's life in the Hoosier state from 1816 to 1830.

● Verne Buck and the State-Lake theater yesterday celebrated their fifth anniversary under the Jones, Linick and Schaefer management. Five years in one spot is looked upon as a new record in Chicago, even eclipsing the marks made by Paul Ash and Leopold Spitalny. Ash had a total run of four years here, but that included two theaters; Spitalny was in the loop a long time, but he also moved around. Since the start of his reign on both the stage and in the orchestra pit at the State-Lake, Maestro Buck has played to more than 12,000,000 patrons.

● "Power," heralded as a living newspaper, will follow "Anthony and Anna," the Federal theater comedy at the Blackstone, and Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado" will supplant the "Federal Ballet" at the Great Northern. This was made known last week, at the same time the final weeks of Chicago's sole surviving summer attractions were announced.

"Power" is new to Chicago. It is being brought here from New York, where it created something of a stir. "The Mikado" has been familiar to theatergoers for generations, but this production of it will have at least two novelties: it will be performed by the Negro unit of the Federal Theater, and it is to be a "screamlined" version.

● Players o' the Lakes, a company composed of De Paul university drama school students, together with a few graduates who have appeared in New York productions, started a short season on Echo lake, near Mercer, Wis., Thursday evening. "Night Must Fall" was the opening bill; "Fresh Fields" and "The Late Christopher Bean" are scheduled for successive weeks. The plays are sponsored by the Mercer Women's Civic club and are given in a new $80,000 log cabin theater. The group will move to Eagle River in August.

● A summer program of talkies, cakes, and coffee was begun last Sunday at Taliesin, estate of Architect Frank Lloyd Wright. Each Sunday afternoon pictures will be shown at the playhouse, and afterward the visitors will be taken on a tour of the estate. Today's program is a screening of Gogol's "The Inspector General." Taliesen is situated just south of the Wisconsin river on highway 43. It is near the village of Spring Green, Wis., about 40 miles west of Madison.

● A plan for serving the entire midwest was announced last week by Hallie Flanagan, national director of the Federal theater. She spent the week in Chicago, going over plans with the local directors. John McGee, associate director, will head the western program, with offices in Chicago. Harry Minturn will become director of production, and Herbert Ashton Jr. will become director of operations. E. Kendell Davis is to be administrative officer. Centralized production here and extensive touring figure in the new plan, although theater units of various types will be left in present production centers.

● The second play in the Coach House theater's summer series at Oconomowoc, Wis., is "Love on the Equator." It will open Tuesday night and continue through the week. This drama of British South Africa was written by Thomas Uzzell, former magazine editor. Helen Tieken of Chicago, who was responsible for "Wings of a Century" at the World's Fair, is directing "Love on the Equator."

● An opportunity to "get into the movies" will be offered this afternoon at Riverview park, when the camera crew of Chicago's New Century committee will shoot scenes for "Your Chicago," motion picture now in production. Beginning at 2 o'clock, the camera men will tour the Midway. The picture is designed to show in news reel fashion a complete story of life in this city.

Vaudeville Bills

The Three Stooges, with Eddie Loughton, and the Peters sisters, sepia singers and dancers, are headliners in the stage show at the Palace theater this week. Other acts are Jean Carroll and Buddy Howe, comedians; Frank Paris and his marionettes, and the Fredysons, acrobats. Phil Harris and his orchestra will open at the Palace next Friday.

Jolly Gillette, diminutive and youthful singer who has been heard on the radio with Milton Berle, heads the current bill at the State-Lake theater. With her are Don Zelaya, South American philosophical pianist; Vernon Rathburn's Revels, a miniature revue; the Three Freshmen, comedians; the Banfields, novelty act, and Verne Buck's State-Lake Sweethearts.

Zasu Pitts, movie comedienne, and Tommy Riggs, the voice of "Betty Lou" on the radio, are appearing in person at the Chicago theater. Miss Pitts' straight man is Charlie Hall, a stage veteran who in recent years was the stooge for the Baron Munchausen radio series. The bill also offers Wayne van Dyne, singer; the Three Chocolateers, swing dancers, and the Crane Twins. Beginning next Friday the stage attraction at the Chicago will be Rudy Vallee and his Connecticut Yankees.

Symphonic Festival.

At the opening performance of the Berkshire Symphonic festival at Tanglewood, near Stockbridge, Mass., on Aug. 4, the Cecilia society chorus of Boston will join with Dr. Serge Koussevitzky and the Boston Symphony orchestra in Bach's cantata "Ein Feste Burg Ist Unser Gott" and in Beethoven's Ninth symphony. Two soloists have been announced, Jeannette Vreeland, soprano, and Anna Kaskas, Metropolitan opera contralto.

Fritzi's Return.

Fritzi Scheff, operetta star of a generation ago, will return to the stage soon in "I Am Different," Tallulah Bankhead's new vehicle. Her last important activity was in a revival of Victor Herbert's "Mlle. Modiste" in 1929.

Extols Unidentified Geniuses Who Gave Music to World

Critic Abhors Monuments to Wrong Persons

By Edward Barry.

Our history books are filled to bursting with relatively unimportant names, our cities cluttered up with monuments to the wrong people. Only the men and women who have done superficial things, like discovering continents and ruling kingdoms and winning wars, have been granted after death the right to muddle the memories of schoolboys or to stand in stone effigy in public squares.

This situation can be ascribed neither to the perversity nor even to the indifference of posterity. We cannot be expected to honor men and women whose names we do not even know, whose periods and places of abode not all the scholarship in the world will ever be able to discover. It can be dogmatically stated that the identity of not a single one of the really important persons of history is known today.

Who first thought of the wheel? To what brain came such an inconceivably brilliant idea as that of the stairway? Who first wondered whether apple pie and cheese would not make a nice combination? Who invented the chair, after hundreds of weary generations of lying and squatting and hanging?

Before laughing off these things as obvious remember that nothing in nature has wheels nor eats apple pie and cheese nor sits down. Remember, too, that the slight hints which nature gives of the utility of the wheel, for instance, could have kindled the fire of an idea only in a definitly first rate mind. For how many thousands of years did man watch rounded stones falling faster down the mountainside than square ones before it occurred to him that dragging his merchandise along the ground might not, after all, be the very best way of transporting it?

Now the bearing of all these reflections on the art of music is simply this: In music, as in general life, we acquire certain bits of knowledge so early in our career that we tend to think of them as innate, forgetting completely the fact that genius of the first order was required to produce most of the things which we take altogether for granted today. We reserve our adulation for exploiters and developers and devote not a single thought to the people who laid the very foundation stones on which modern music rests.

These foundation stones, it is true, lie far beneath the surface of history and the identity of those who put them in place is forever lost. Yet no person who can reel off the names of Bach and Mozart and Beethoven, who can muster up a dozen interpreters and even an instrument maker or two, should be allowed to forget that these people, great as they may be, are essentially followers rather than leaders.

Even though we think of the excitement of rhythm as an obvious thing, there had to be a discoverer even of this. Some primitive may have taken the idea of rhythm from the regular wash of breakers, then brilliantly decided that the essentials of this effect could be reproduced by pounding a stick on a tree. No one person could have two such ideas, so it was surely somebody else who found that the thousand metrical variations which the mind could imagine [and which the stick and tree device could externalize] were capable of expressing just that many different shades of feeling.

Man may have discovered by pure accident the possibility of producing tone by means of a taut string or a river reed, but we must reserve honored niches in our temple of nameless celebrities for the persons who actually hit upon the principles of string and wind instruments. Thousands of men had heard bow strings of differing lengths or thickness give forth sounds of differing pitch before a genius came along and wondered whether a series of such strings could not be devised and a means found by which several differing sounds could be produced. Just as smart as he was the man who found that the size of a vibrating air column has quite an important bearing on the resultant tone.

We will never know their names, any more than we will ever know the name of the man or woman who first became fully conscious of the fact that arrangements of sounds of differing pitches, intensities, qualities, and metrical patterns had some connection with the feeling tone of the person producing them. Who sang a melody for the first time? What pioneer wondered whether it would not be possible to combine two or more voices or instruments of the same kind? Who tried voices or instruments of different kinds together?

The composers and interpreters and instrument makers of today are blithely using in their work these and countless other bits of knowledge which they have inherited from the remote past. No entirely new musical principles [except possibly those of harmony and of the production of tone by electrical means] have entered the picture in historic times.

Perhaps it is just as well that we shall never know the identity of the men and women who were responsible for the great basic ideas on which our civilization in general or our music in particular happens to rest. No doubt they were hairy and unpresentable creatures whose effigies would disfigure the parks and boulevards of the world. And they probably had nasty names which we would find it all but impossible to pronounce. We may just as well cleave to the comfortable idea that the first rate creative brain is a phenomenon of the last few thousands of years.

WEEK'S BUSIEST SINGER

At Grant park Tuesday night, at the Wilmette amphitheater Wednesday night, and at the University of Chicago Thursday night Sonia Sharnova, contralto, will sing under the baton of Izler Solomon.

Sonia Sharnova, Helen Jepson Scheduled for Grant Park

By Cecil Smith.

Now that midsummer has come, the parade of celebrities at the free Grant park concerts moves by at an accelerated pace. Two of this week's guest soloists are operatic singers of national fame. Sonia Sharnova, contralto of the Chicago City Opera company, will sing Tuesday night with Izler Solomon and his orchestra. Helen Jepson, lyric soprano of the Metropolitan and Chicago City Opera companies, and a favored radio and screen star as well, will be the featured artist with Rudolph Ganz and the Chicago Civic Opera orchestra Wednesday evening.

Despite the fact that she makes a coast to coast concert tour each season and devotes a part of her time to the Metropolitan opera in New York, Miss Jepson has become one of Chicago's busiest and most important singers in the last three years. The beauty of her voice and of her person were unknown here until Nov. 11, 1935, when she made her deput at the Civic Opera house in Massenet's "Thaïs," with Richard Hageman conducting and John Charles Thomas and William Martin in the other leading rôles. This was an exciting evening, for the new prima donna made an immediate hit, and was called back for twelve curtain calls [if my memory serves correctly] at the close of the second act.

Up to that time Miss Jepson's operatic experience had been rather limited. While she was an advanced student at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, and shortly thereafter, she appeared with the Philadelphia Grand Opera company, without as yet establishing herself as a leading singer. Her first national celebrity came from her association with Paul Whiteman in a series of broadcasts by his orchestra.

The Metropolitan opera beat the Chicago company to the wire in engaging Miss Jepson, but at first the management was not especially generous to her with attractive rôles, and wished off on her a singularly ungratifying assignment in an exceptionally unsuccessful opera entitled "In the Pasha's Garden."

It remained for Chicago and San Francisco to provide substantial opportunities for the singer, who by 1935 had fully acquired the operatic routine necessary to a major artist. In her three seasons with the Chicago City Opera company she has awakened a crescendo of interest in her audience, and at the same time has continued to increase the maturity and assurance of her art. Last season she added two important rôles to her répertoire—Violetta in Verdi's "La Traviata" and Fiora in Montemezzi's "The Love of Three Kings"—and won great approbation in both. She is scheduled to open the 1938 opera season, Oct. 30, with another rôle that is new to her, Desdemona in Verdi's "Otello," with Giovanni Martinelli and Lawrence Tibbett as fellow artists.

Miss Sharnova's career at the Civic Opera house goes back five years farther than Miss Jepson's. Moret's little known opera "Lorenzaccio" was the vehicle of her debut. Charles Hackett, Vanni-Marcoux, and Chase Baromeo were in the cast, and Emil Cooper conducted. The opera was a failure, but that was Moret's fault and not Miss Sharnova's. She has won an enviable reputation as a Wagnerian singer, and has appeared here in "Lohengrin," "Die Meistersinger," and "Die Walküre." In addition, she has sung in "Tristan and Isolde" in St. Louis, though Chicago has not heard her Brangaene.

OrmandyCycle at Ravinia Will Open Thursday

In the penultimate week of the season at Ravinia Park the audience will witness the summer's last shift of conductors. Eugene Goossens, London born conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, completes his specified term this afternoon. Eugene Ormandy, Leopold Stokowski's fellow conductor of the celebrated Philadelphia orchestra, will begin a two week cycle of eight concerts Thursday night. At two of these programs, Saturday evening and next Sunday afternoon, Jascha Heifetz will appear as violin soloist.

The history of Mr. Ormandy's rise to fame is a phenomenal and well publicized success story. He left his native Hungary at the age of 21 to come to New York in search of a fortune. He did not find gold lying in the gutters waiting to be picked up, as somebody back home had told him he would. But he was soon lucky enough to obtain a job as a fiddler in the last stand of the Capitol theater orchestra.

At this point the gradual Ormandy crescendo began. Shortly he was appointed concert master. The conductor fell ill and the young violinist laid the audience in the ailes by conducting from memory and without advance notice Tschaikowsky's Fourth symphony.

Other opportunities soon began to fall in his lap. Arturo Toscanini could not fulfill a guest conducting engagement with the Philadelphia orchestra, and Mr. Ormandy was given his first chance to direct a major orchestra. Henri Verbrugghen suffered a paralytic stroke in Minneapolis and Mr. Ormandy was summoned to the Twin Cities to become full time conductor of their orchestra. After he had spent a few years in Minneapolis he was summoned to Philadelphia to take over the orchestra while Leopold Stokowski learned to become a movie actor. Nowadays Mr. Stokowski rarely conducts the orchestra and Mr. Ormandy may be said to have stepped into his shoes.

Mr. Ormandy's Ravinia engagement is preceded by enthusiastic press agentry. A brief quotation may suffice to suggest the atmosphere of the Philadelphia orchestra concerts in the Academy of Music:

"The chattering in the audience subsides suddenly and a portentous silence fills the auditorium. The musicians in the great symphony orchestra sit at attention, fingers poised, lips pursed, instruments in position. A quiver of anticipation runs through every heart, eyes strain ahead in electric expectancy.

"Like a fiery arrow Eugene Ormandy darts from the wings and leaps to the podium. Like a tongue of flame his baton flicks out and kindles the musicians to undreamed of glory. [According to other reports Mr. Ormandy does not use a baton. We shall see.—Ed.] Hearts soar and sing with the music as if that slim white wand in the wizard's hand had touched every one and quickened it into life."

The collaboration of the necromantic Mr. Ormandy with the cool, serene Jascha Heifetz in two week-end concerts will be a high point of the season both musically and psychologically. The Brahms concerto is scheduled for Saturday evening, and the Fourth Mozart concerto, in D major, for Sunday afternoon.

The week's programs follow:

TODAY AT 4:

Chicago Symphony orchestra, Eugene Goossens conducting.

Overture, "Fingal's Cave" .... Mendelssohn
Symphony No. 2, C minor .... Borowski
Valses Nobles et Sentimentales .... Ravel
Andante teneramente, from Symphony No. 1 ["Nordic"] .... Hanson
Bolero .... Ravel

THURSDAY AT 8:30:

Chicago Symphony orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting.

Overture to "Russian and Ludmilla" .... Glinka
Symphony No. 5, E minor .... Tschaikowsky
Pictures at an Exhibition .... Moussorgsky
[Orchestrated by Lucien Cailliet.]
[First time in Chicago.]

FRIDAY AT 8:30:

Chicago Symphony orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting.

Fantasia, "Francesca da Rimini" .... Tschaikowsky
Tone Poem, "Death and Transfiguration" .... Strauss Symphony No. 2, D major .... Brahms

SATURDAY AT 8:30:

Chicago Symphony orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting; Jascha Heifetz, violinist.

Symphony No. 6, B minor ["Pathetic"] .... Tschaikowsky
Concerto for Violin, D major .... Brahms
Jascha Heifetz.
Symphonic Poem, "Les Préludes" .... Liszt

NEXT SUNDAY AT 4:

Chicago Symphony orchestra, Eugene Ormandy conducting; Jascha Heifetz, violinist.

Symphony No. 8, B minor ["Unfinished"] .... Schubert
Concerto for Violin No. 4, D major [Köchel No. 218] .... Mozart
Jascha Heifetz.
Overture to "Die Fledermaus" .... Johann Strauss
Perpetual Motion .... Johann Strauss
Pizzicato Polka .... Johann Strauss
Waltz, "On the Beautiful Blue Danube" .... Johann Strauss

American Music.

Each broadcast of Everybody's Music, a Columbia Broadcasting system feature, includes an American composition. Howard Barlow, Columbia director, has invited American composers to submit their works for consideration. He may be addressed care of Columbia Broadcasting system, 485 Madison avenue, New York City.

Hanson Honored.

The Royal Swedish Academy of Music has honored Howard Hanson, American composer and director of the Eastman School of Music in Rochter, N. Y., by electing him a member. Dr. Hanson also received word from Sweden that his third symphony had been broadcast in that country.

Notes of Music and Musicians

Sonia Sharnova, whose career is briefly sketched elsewhere in this section, adds to her Tuesday Grant park engagement two appearances with the Illinois Symphony orchestra this week. With Izler Solomon directing, she will sing at the orchestra's free concerts at the Wilmette amphitheater Wednesday evening and in Hutchinson court at the University of Chicago Thursday evening. The program will be the same at both concerts:

Overture to "Russian and Ludmilla" .... Glinka
Adieu, forêts, from "Jeanne d'Arc" .... Tschaikowsky
Sonia Sharnova.
Suite, "Nutcracker" .... Tschaikowsky
"None but the Lonely Heart" .... Tschaikowsky
Sonia Sharnova.
Hopak .... Moussorgsky
Sonia Sharnova.
Symphonic poem, "Phaeton" .... Saint-Saëns
Spanish Caprice .... Rimsky-Korsakoff

The Chicago Musical college concludes its series of summer recitals this week with three attractive events. Tomorrow evening Rudolph Ganz, president of the college, and Mollie Margolies, his associate teacher, will present a two piano recital. On Tuesday night Wanda Paul will repeat the lecture-recital on the life and works of Karol Szymanowski, Polish composer, which she delivered with success before the Polish Arts club earlier in the summer. The final summer program, on Thursday evening, will be a sonata recital by Mr. Ganz and Leon Sametini, violinist.

De Paul university and the Chicago Conservatory of Music likewise call a halt on summer concerts this week. The final De Paul event is a joint recital Tuesday afternoon by Ralph Niehaus, tenor, and Rose Goldberg, pianist. The Chicago Conservatory string quartet will play in Kimball hall Wednesday morning. Israel Baker, violinist, will also offer solos, and O. Stuart Barker will lecture on voice training.

The Federal ballet at the Great Northern theater, having succeeded beyond its wildest anticipations, will continue through this week, closing Saturday night. There is no performance tonight. After a period of rehersal the ballet group plans to present a new program in the early fall.

The American Conservatory of Music offers free scholarships for the year 1938-'39 to graduates of Chicago high schools. One full scholarship will be awarded in each of the following fields: Piano; voice; violin; music education [general supervisors' course]; music education [instrumental supervisors' course]. Applicants will be examined between Aug. 29 and Sept. 3. Details may be obtained from Charles J. Haake, educational director of the conservatory.

Harriet Childs Atwood, mezzo-soprano, former winner of the north division competition in the Chicagoland music festival, makes her professional debut tonight at Ilgair park in "Cavalleria Rusticana." The opera will be sung by the American Opera company, and will be coupled with scenes from "Il Trovatore" and ballet divertissements.

Benny Goodman and his famous orchestra will appear at Ravinia park Aug. 3 through the courtesy of Balaban and Katz. Although the maestro and his band are to appear at the Chicago theater later in the summer, the theater management agreed to release them from an exclusive commitment in order to make their Ravinia concert possible.

The week's mail brings an exceptionally stimulating letter, apropos of the Grant park concerts, part of which is quoted here:

"During the past few years my friends and I have spent many enjoyable hours on the lake front listening to our favorite music. Naturally the programs were discussed pro and con, and many ideas were voiced regarding the various programs offered by the different conductors. I offered a suggestion which was conceded to be good, so I am sending it on to you.

"What would you think of an opera night at Grant park? By this I mean that the conductor would devote the entire evening to a complete opera and the soloist for the evening would sing favorite arias from it. I have spoken to a number of people about this and many of them thought it would prove rather popular. After all, I would not go amiss to state that 75 per cent to 85 per cent of the regular patrons of Grant park concerts are opera lovers, so why couldn't a few nights of the season be devoted to favorite operas?"

"ISABELLA MONACO."

A miniature model of a violin shop is now on display on the fourth floor of the Chicago Public library. The diorama is 36 inches wide, 24 high, and 23 deep. It is the work of James Masek of 2725 South Ridgeway avenue. The model required six months to make, and is complete to the last detail.

Eugene Goossens has not finished his summer's work when he departs from Ravinia park after this afternoon's concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra. During the month of August he will be busy on the west coast directing the Portland [Ore.] Symphony orchestra and the Los Angeles Symphony orchestra in outdoor concerts.

Caste System Rules English School Outlook

By the Rev. John Evans.

If you lived in England instead of America, what kind of an education problem would you face for your family? This largely depends upon who you are. If you are a tradesman, then the outlook for your son, John, would be one thing; if a professional man—a doctor, lawyer, clergyman, or government official—the prospect is quite different.

Now the reason for this difference is the caste system. The tradesman—unless he should strike it rich—scarcely would even consider the thought of sending John to one of the famed English universities, because in the first place John could not get in or "be listed," as they say over there. Besides, like the cockney Londoner, John's humble origin will be betrayed by his speech such as the dropping of the "h" and that is socially fatal.

Hence there are virtually two distinct school systems in England. There are the large private schools [known in England as public schools, such as Eton, Harrow, Winchester, Rugby, and Marlborough] and the government schools, known as board schools. The private schools lead to Oxford, Cambridge, to the army, navy, diplomatic, and civil services. The board schools lead to the vocations and to business.

But you happen to be a clergyman instead of a tradesman, so son John was "entered" at age 9 at Marlborough, and actually began his studies there three years after he had been entered, or at the age of 12. Of course John had his two governesses, one who taught him his Latin and arithmetic, and the other his French. English is not taught as a subject in England. John, like other English youngsters, just catches his English from his advancing knowledge of Latin, Greek, and French.

On arrival at Marlborough John was examined for "form placement." The form corresponds roughly to the grade in the American schools. Each master, or the head teacher of each subject, had to examine the lad to see where he belonged—to the modern side or the classical side. Now John was intended for Cambridge, so he went on the classical side. Should he have been interested in the army or the Indian civil service, he would go to the modern side.

When he came before the French master he was asked only one question:

"Quel age avez-vous?"
"How old are you?"
John answered:
"J'ai douze ans."
"I have twelve years."

This proved that John knew his French because in French people have years of age instead of are years of age. No other question was needed.

Besides his governesses' instructions John also had attended a preparatory school for three years prior to going down to Marlborough. Because he had three years of Greek and Latin, he placed in upper third form. By the time he went up to Cambridge six years later he had passed through the following forms:

Lower fourth, middle fourth, upper fourth, shell, remove, lower fifth two, lower fifth one, middle fifth, upper fifth, and sixth. Because of his success in his examinations, as illustrated by the French test, John was able to skip the primary grades, which were middle third, lower third, and second forms.

[Another article on English schools will appear next Sunday.]

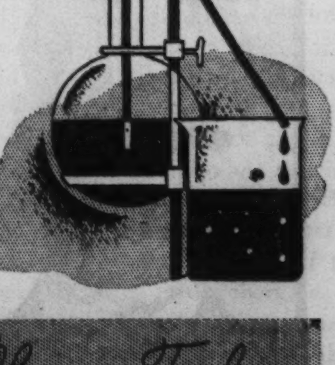
The World Needs Trained Men



• Parents would be a lot easier in mind if they knew that their children would have security. A fine provision for their future is a good education. Whatever may happen, the world will need trained men and women. Parents interested in making a wise choice of schools for their children are invited to make full use of the facilities of the Chicago Tribune School Bureau. There, on file for your assistance, is information about schools and colleges throughout America. Services of the Tribune School Bureau are free. Call in person, write or telephone.

Here's Another Remade Movie; Good One, Too

"SHOPWORN ANGEL"

Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Directed by H. C. Potter.
From a story by Dana Burnet.
At the United Artists.

THE CAST.

Daisy Heath	Margaret Sullavan
Bill Pettigrew	James Stewart
Sam Bailey	Walter Pidgeon
Martha	Hattie McDaniel
"Dice"	Nat Pendleton
"Thin Lips"	Alan Curtis
"Leer"	Sam Levine
Sally	Eleanor Lynn
McGonigle	Charles D. Brown

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

Another re-make—and a good one—enters the screen arena in "Shopworn Angel," which in 1929 featured Nancy Carroll and Gary Cooper.

Back to the days of the world war it takes you and into the lives of a café entertainer, her paramour, and an idealistic soldier boy from Texas, who meets her while in camp waiting for orders to go "over there" and sees in the tarnished lady only beauty and goodness. To him she is a dream come true. His belief causes a "lady fair" to evolve from the "rag, bone, and hank of hair" that Daisy Heath's world knows, and brings out in Sam Bailey fine qualities of devotion and sacrifice that neither he nor his love had ever realized lay dormant under a veneered exterior.

The story is worked out sympathetically and believably, with many poignant little human touches that get you where you live.

Miss Sullavan does deft, arresting work as the "angel." As in "Three Comrades" she loses herself in her rôle and the result is a sure and magnetic performance.

Walter Pidgeon I have never liked better. There's an actor—that chap. And what a handsomce one. James Stewart as the Texan is ganglingly appealing, as always. Hattie McDaniel is swell as Daisy's colored maid and supporting players were aptly chosen.

I liked direction, staging, dialog, and, in fact, the whole picture.

See you tomorrow.

Three Festivals.

Oakland, Berkeley, and Palo Alto, Cal., are the scenes this summer of elaborate festivals of chamber music. The Kolisch quartet is playing works of Bartok and of Schubert at the University of California. The Pro Arte quartet offers twelve concerts at Mills college. The Roth quartet is announced for nine concerts at Stanford.

German Music.

Large scale German music had an important place in the recent festival in Florence, Italy. Beethoven's Missa Solemnis and the Brahms Requiem were performed there as well as Wagner's music drama, "Die Walküre." The part of Siegmund in the last named work went to Eyvind Laholm, whom Chicago heard as Lohengrin last season.

MELLOW 'CELLO FELLOW

He's billed as "the genius of the cello," and his name is Ennio Bolognini. He is the star performer of the Internationale Gypsies' orchestra, now appearing at L'Aiglon restaurant.

Current Music News

First of the soloists to be announced for the 1938-'39 Chicago Symphony orchestra concerts is Yehudi Menuhin, world famous San Francisco born violinist. After completing a tour of forty-seven concerts in the United States and twenty-seven in Europe last spring, he continued to keep in the news by getting married over in London. He is honeymooning this summer and will not resume his professional career until fall.

Four organ recitals are listed for Rockefeller chapel at the University of Chicago this week. The schedule follows:

Today at 7—Fred Cronheimer, organist of St. Paul's Episcopal church.
Tuesday at 7—Robert Birch, organist of the Church of the Redeemer.
Wednesday at 7—Edward Eigenschenk, organist of the Second Presbyterian church.
Thursday at 7—Barrett Spach, organist of the Fourth Presbyterian church.

Carillon recitals by Frederick Marriott and James Bly will follow all the organ recitals.

Edwin McArthur, pianist for Kirsten Flagstad, made his Australian debut as a conductor ten days ago, directing the Sydney Symphony orchestra in an all-Wagner program with Mme. Flagstad as soloist. Next fall he will introduce himself to Chicago—and incidentally to America as well—as a conductor when he directs a Wagner performance of the Chicago City Opera company. The opera company seems to be having a difficult time making up its mind about his first assignment. Originally he was slated for "Lohengrin." Now, evidently, that is off, and "Tristan and Isolde" looks like a probable choice. At any rate Mme. Flagstad will be in his cast.

As to Maria Reining, new lyric soprano imported from Germany, the opera company and her concert managers seem to disagree over the vehicle for her American debut here in Chicago. The opera company says Meyerbeer's "L'Africana," with Beniamino Gigli in the cast, and the managers say Wagner's "Die Meistersinger."

'Lucky Suit'

On public display in a window near the Wacker drive box office of the Civic Opera house is an historic garment, the "lucky suit" worn by successive Tonios in Chicago opera performances of Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci." It is fifty years old, and having been patched up countless times, has been finally declared obsolete. Among the celebrated baritones who wore the "lucky suit" may be mentioned Antonio Scotti, Titta Ruffo, Giacomo Rimini, Cesare Formichi, Richard Bonelli, and Carlo Morelli. Just how the enormously different girths of ample Mr. Formichi and lithe Mr. Bonelli could be fitted into the same suit, the opera company does not explain.

Barrymore Gossip.

John Barrymore says that he will return to the stage next November in a play called "My Dear Children," which Brock Pemberton will produce. The present Mrs. Barrymore is included in the plan.

Park Within Park.

Riverview has opened its renovated "Kiddyland," an amusement park within the park for visitors of kindergarten age. The section contains miniature editions of the merry-go-round, airplane ride, the whip, and a streamlined ferris wheel.

Local Girl Makes Good.

Sixteen year old Martha Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grover B. Carter of Chicago, has been appearing in the ice show at the Hotel New Yorker. She left there last Wednesday for a series of engagements elsewhere in the east.

Racing at Arlington, Music at Ravinia Keep Chicagoans Busy

By Judith Cass

The last week of July brings the last week of racing at Arlington park. The season will end in a blaze of glory on Saturday, when the Arlington Futurity will be the feature.

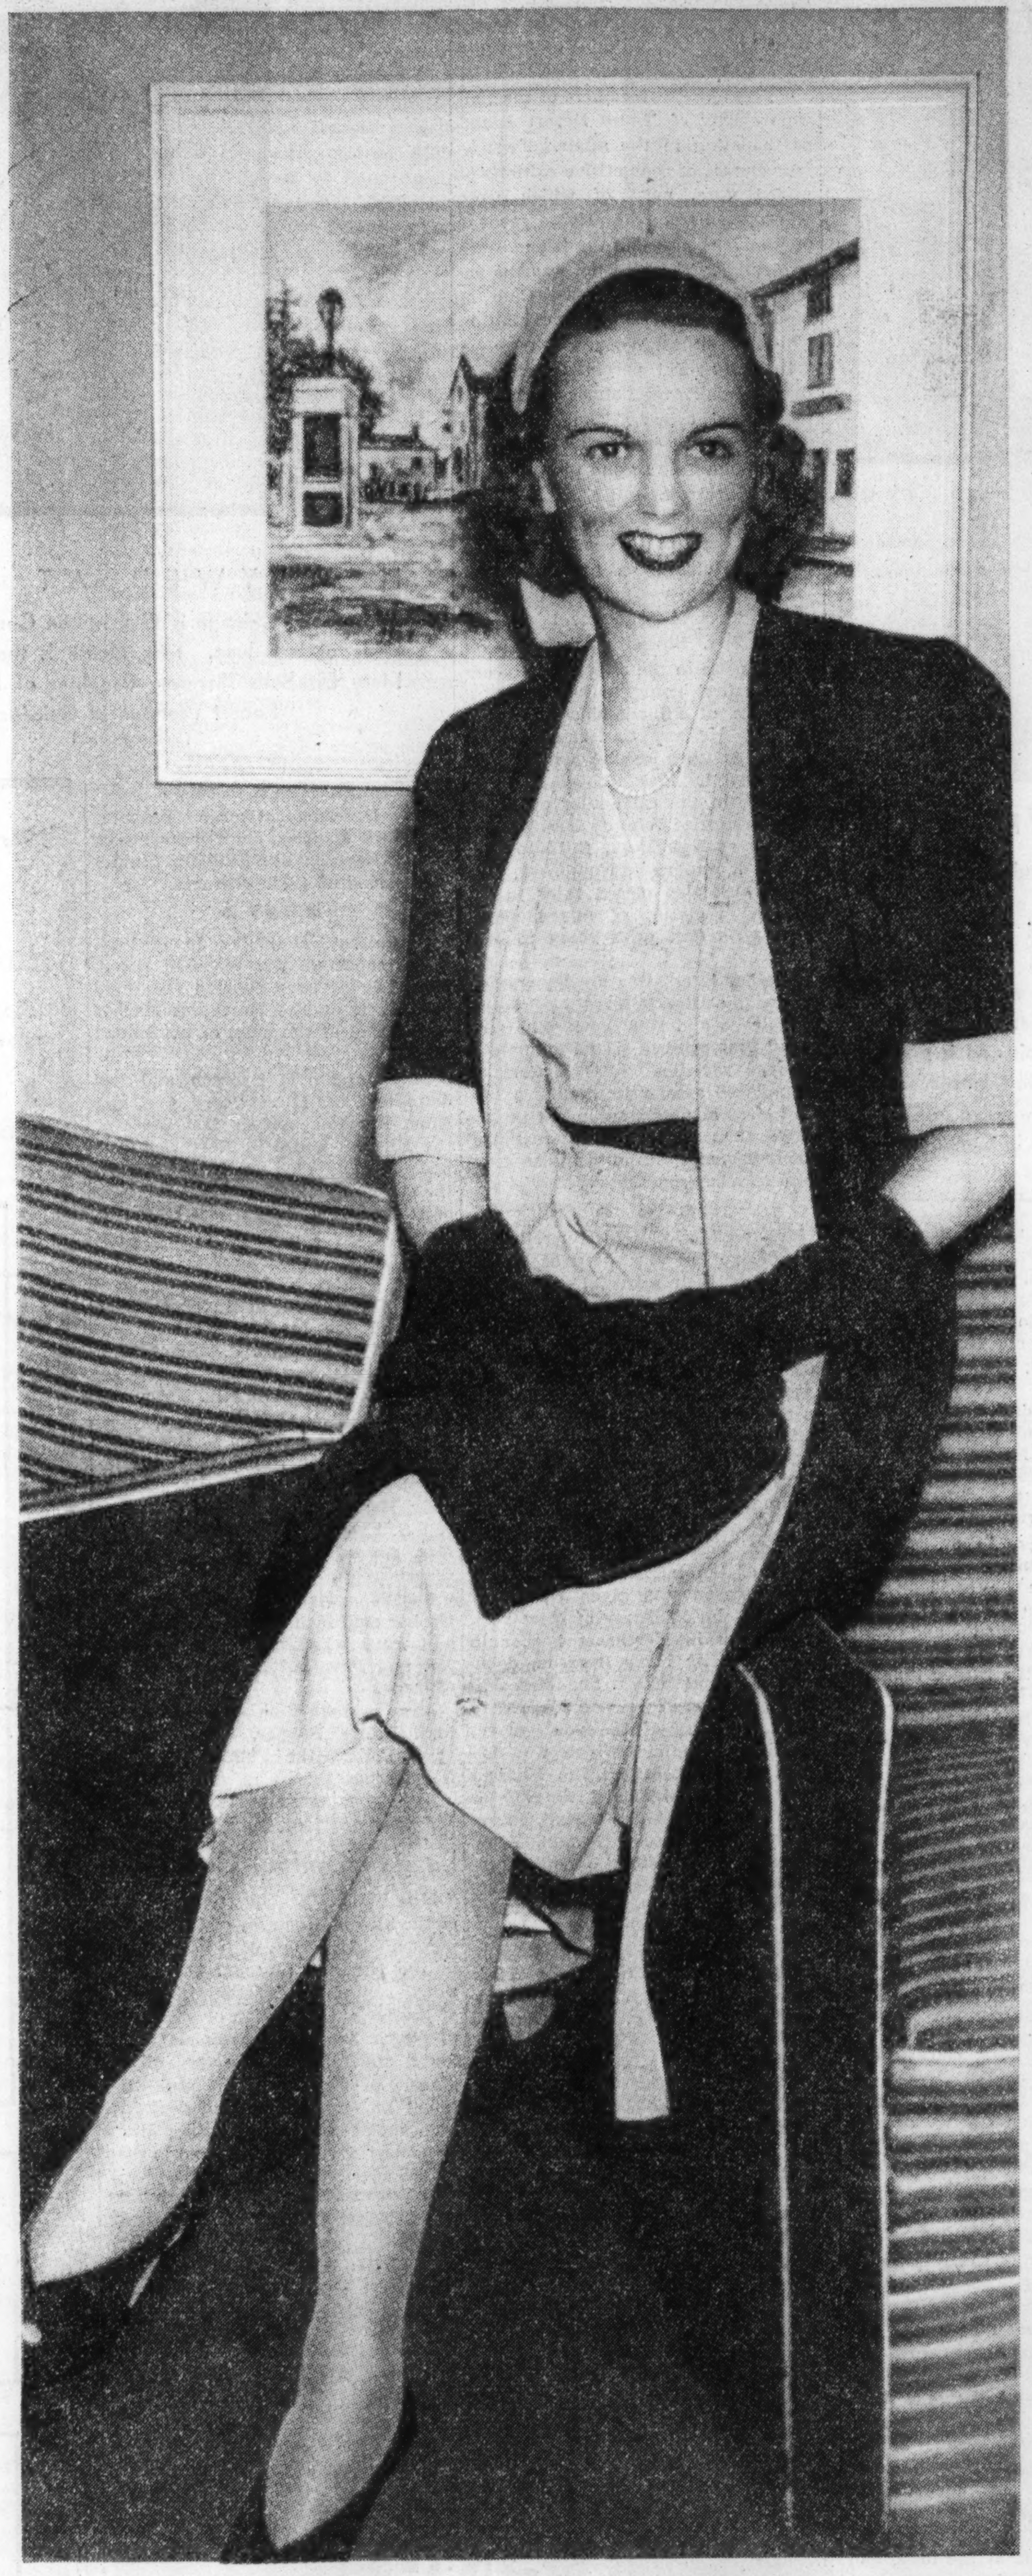
So on any afternoon this week your true racing devotee will be found at Arlington, whether in the grand stands, the Jockey club, or the Post and Paddock club.

Music lovers have two weeks more in which to enjoy the concerts at Ravinia park. The coming week-end will be remembered as one of the highlights of the season, for Jascha Heifetz, violinist, will play on Saturday night and Sunday afternoon.

A quiet rendezvous that does not diminish in popularity is the Chicago Art institute, Mecca of summer-time tourists. Although not air-conditioned, a big fan that has been put in the east wing galleries, where the summer exhibitions are opening this week, adds to the comfort and enjoyment of spectators. Reminiscent of winter receptions at the institute, but much more informal in character, is the preview of the summer exhibitions that the institute is giving Tuesday afternoon. A room of sculpture in several media by Sylvia Shaw Judson (Mrs. Clay Judson) and "Art for the Public by Chicago Artists" are the two shows opening in the east wing galleries on Thursday.

Miss Gwethalyn Jones' home on Green Bay road, Lake Forest, will be the destination of friends of the Childrens' Memorial hospital on Tuesday afternoon. The directors of the White Elephant Rummage shop, which is conducted for the benefit of the hospital, are giving a tea at Miss Jones' to raise stock for the shop. The price of admission is a gift of household furnishings or clothes to be sold at the shop. Tea and a magician are on the program of entertainment.

Mrs. John F. Gail is opening her home at 2215 Orrington avenue, Evanston, for a buffet supper and musical at 5:30 o'clock this evening for the benefit of the Chicago City opera student fund. The Chicago City Opera Luncheon club will meet for luncheon, bridge, and a concert at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Thomas A. Fitzsimmons, 1456 Ridge avenue, Evanston.



Left: Mrs. Donald Chilton Craig was one of a group of young women assisting with plans for a ball given recently to raise funds for Civilian Relief in China.

Left: Suzanne Lyon ties back her curls with a pretty bow. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earle D. Lyon of Wilmette.

When Miss Jane Hardy returns to school in the fall she will be a senior at the North Shore Country Day school. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Hardy of Hubbard Woods.

Midnight Race Brilliant Paris Society Event

By Cousin Eve

PARIS.—Paris society should be laid up in moth balls and tar paper by now, but it isn't. The season goes galloping on with one gorgeous fête after another, and (would you believe it?) the town is full of French people. To find Americans one needs a microscope. But we are here, Lafayette—we are here in our respective hotels, if not en masse.

It takes the French to invent something like the midnight races at Longchamps. And in ten thousand years there couldn't be a more brilliant spectacle—or one more diverting and beautifully planned. The races begin at 8:30, not midnight, and Elizabeth de Danne (once Elizabeth Stone of Chicago), the loveliest young blonde countess in all Paris, warned me, when I couldn't go to Longchamps with their party, not to waste the shining hours by dining beforehand. They were having sandwiches and champagne at home, then tearing out to see the first race. Elizabeth further coached me to wear full evening dress, nothing but a smart do to my hair, dancing slippers, and happiness in my heart. Then after midnight the night club, the supper, the merry-go-round!

My hostess, Mrs. Paul Healy, who had a large party, too, took this hint and canceled her reservations for the gala dinner in a huge pavilion at Longchamps and had her guests meet at the Meurice for the apéritif. All but me. I had been having tea away the other side of Fontainebleau at Courances, marvelous fourteenth century château of the Marquis de Ganay, with the marquise, who was receiving that day. So I had five minutes to dress and found myself whirling dinnerless out the Champs Elysees with ladies in the ermine coat and men in the cravate blanche, with other cars quite full of Japanese, Hindus, Turks. Caught glimpses of Mme. Wellington Koo, dashing wife of the Chinese diplomat, and the queen of Siam in glittering sari, and most of French society on wheels.

The mercury had dropped to 50, and in the bright sunset this ball attire for the races did seem a bit redundant, not to say silly, and I had heartfelt yernings for sealskin pajamas, or whatever Eskimo ladies wear for full evening dress, and also for hot soup.

The arrangements were superb. Special presidential police lined the way, and tickets for the tribunes were sold at all the entrances to the Bois de Boulogne. So upon arrival we at once swept up into the gorgeous scene. Before us lay the grassy track, a bright green frame for the immense center oval, where more than 100,000 persons stood for the races. It was dark now, and you could have walked on their heads, they were so thick. Above this sea of heads were three prize rings, where fights were going on under arc lights. In the middle tight-rope walkers balanced perilously, and dancing floors were all set for the ball that would last till sunrise. Here feature dancers were even then cavorting, and in the interims of racing one heard high French tenors singing songs of the hour, while the light-hearted crowd joined in the choruses.

stretch the smartest women in Paris dragging white chiffons, golden lamés, pink tulle ball dresses. The lovely creatures had mostly bare backs and white polished shoulders with wispy tulle coats. But there was also a great catacylsm of fur capes, white fox, silver and blue fox.

We passed the presidential tribune where sat M. Albert Lebrun and his ministers and many foreign envoys and their wives. Mme. Lebrun was arrayed in pink, with ostrich feathers in her hair, and so enormous was the display of lootings of the egret, the bird of paradise, and the osprey in the presidential box, that it looked from below more like an exotic bird house than a concourse of diplomats. The queen of Siam was seated here in shining robes.

And the generals standing in attendance wore white feathers in their tricorns, and the admirals had gold stripes on their pantaloons, admirable as they pranced down the red carpet. One or two men had white evening capes. Formidable!

The president left at one o'clock through a lane of police, preceded by motorcycles and several cars. We followed, heading for Bagatelle, a Montmartre night club, which behaved like an over-crowded private party that night. In came more beautiful women in divine clothes and fantastic feathery coifs.

The dance floor was big as a door mat and the ceiling had a large hole for fresh air. French night club waiters have a peculiar way of giving you doubts as to whether or not you will eat. The hours pass and no supper comes; inquiries are made, the waiters look vague, the head waiter is called; he wears a serious air and frowns like Napoleon. Then some little breads appear and a few casual napkins. But never is there any doubt as to when the champagne is coming. It is always there, in big bottles of very poor quality in buckets of ice.

Fortunately there was an Englishman in our party who lives in Paris and was on to everything. This gentleman kept waving away the inferior kinds and paying his respects to the management, until finally luck smiled upon us. Food came to the famished. The waiters came to life. We shook off the chill of Longchamps and fell into the spirit of Montmartre until the violet dawn of Paris.

One happens to have lunched often lately at the Ritz, which seethes at noon with fashion. Even more men than women seem to sustain themselves in the rose and white corridor and splendid salle. The maharajah of Kapurthala is there daily with a flock of his swarthy heirs and their dainty wives.

American women living in Paris arrive in numbers—women I have known before under other names and sonorous high sounding titles. One woman I knew under a thirty-third degree princely title of German origin has now receded to being a Russian countess. Another of enormous wealth who was for years an Italian countess is now a German baroness. Death and the divorce courts have decidedly shaken up the roster of who's who in Paris.

The mode of the moment is to wear all black. There's an old saying in Paris that you can't go wrong in a black dress. Be that as it may, American women do not look as demure as they imagine in black throughout. The effect is rather of ravens in convention than the aristocratic simplicity at which they aim. I went to the country the other day with some women who wore short yellow jackets over their black uniforms, but the ladies of high rank and fashion whom we visited wore pretty, normal clothes.

The loveliest party I have been to was at the Union Interalliée, a dinner arranged by Mme. Jacques Balsan in the marvelous gardens, followed by dancing. Mme. Balsan, who was formerly duchess of Marlborough, is president of the woman's board of a Paris hospital, and is a sweet creature whom everybody adores. The get-together was very amusing and gay in the library where Mme. Balsan was receiving in a far corner those of the guests she knew. Very tall and slim with blue-gray hair and a charming smile, her costume was pale blue satin, a long sweeping evening coat over a dancing dress, with enormous diamonds in a collar and chains on her long slender neck. As we came out upon the terrace, the garden full of flower decked tables with indirect lighting among the noble trees, was more like grand opera than every day life. To the right of the terrace Col. and Mme. Balsan had a table for forty princely and ducal guests, whose names mean little to Chicago. Except, perhaps, Prince Edward and Princess Olga Lobkowicz, the latter being our former Olga Lihme. And duchesse de Chaulnes, who was Miss Shonts, and Mrs. James Field, Marshall Field's second wife, and Marquis Melchior de Polignac, our visitor of a year ago. But the young duchess of Marlborough, tall and willowy in gold sequins, was delightful, and André de Fouguieres was as usual the life of the party, and later was auctioneer when a terribly ugly gold bracelet given by some philanthropist was sold for 43,000 francs to some man, whose wife probably made a few caustic remarks at home later on. Mme. Dupuy came near getting it, that very attractive owner of several Paris papers, who was long years ago Miss Brown of Chicago.

The dance floor extended from the terrace, and during the waits was awhirl with tulle skirts. It was "frais," as the French say when the weather is below zero, but, nevertheless, everybody was in full agony of ball dress and the cravate blanche, and beautiful jewels and white furs gave an air of luxury to the sedate purlieus of this exclusive International club. I sat where pink roses tumbled over the wall, and next to me was Archduke Franz Josef, formerly of Vienna, who had lost much weight since he was in Chicago last winter. With him was the lady he married, who does not, however, share his archducal title. Franz Josef was the guest of the venerable E. Berry Wall, who continues his pace as a gay boulevardier long past four score years. He wears a high collar and florid ties, like English noblemen of the late Victorian period, has a walrus mustache and dances more nimbly than most collegians. A friend of mine accompanied Mr. Wall the other day to the dog cemetery. Here he shed a tear over the graves of two chows who walked with him so many, many years up and down the streets of Paris. About one chow, Toy Toy, a book was written by the late Mrs. Wall, a sort of dog journal of bones eaten and dog fights enjoyed at various princely châteaux throughout France.

At the Balsan party on the other side of our table was Francis Burke Roche with an attractive party. On his right sat Comtesse Louis de Danne, my charming friend, Elizabeth, whose husband has just come into a large inheritance through the death of his father. Count Louis was at the time of his marriage the great parti of France; he had everything, all the gifts of the gods, good health, good looks, high rank, family and, best of all, backbone plus charm.

All in all, this dinner dance at the Union Interalliée was a shining hour, full of music, beauty, good manners, interesting people and the joy of life.

Among Chicago friends, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Doering, who came to Paris for the wedding of Nancy with Harold Hartog. The bridegroom is a young Hollander from The Hague, in active business in Paris, and unusually interesting and likable.

I lunched with the Doerings one day and met Mr. Hartog, whose family have been sending gifts to the lovely bride—a string of oriental pearls, also a magnificent tea set in silver had arrived for the apartment off the Bois de Boulogne.

Edna Cassinerio and her Italian husband have come from Florence, and Bud Doering from New Haven for the wedding. Nancy looked delightful in a slim dark blue frock with a white tulip embroidered on each lapel, symbols of Holland.

Comtesse de Gramedo had a small luncheon at the Ritz with chic women asked, including Duchess d'Albuferra, Comtesse de Rohan-Chabot, Princesse de la Tour d'Aubergne, and Lady Decies. We sat in the corridor rather than in the main dining room, the better to see all comers and goers. Which, after all, is the wherefor of lunching at the Ritz rather than for nourishment.

Here, also, one has the feeling that perhaps the waiter does not intend to bring any food so detached is he and so aloof. But M. Olivier, the maitre d'hotel passes [according to rumor one of the wealthiest men in Paris] and presto, wonderful eats descend upon us like manna out of the clouds.

Lady Decies said she would be at home that afternoon and asked me to come over. Her hotel at 52 rue des Saints Pères is on the left bank of the Seine, the other side of the Boulevard St. Germain.

Lady Decies as Mrs. Harry Lehr, with the wealth of the Drexels inherited from her father, had bought the ancient mansion and restored it. Her builders found several famous interiors of old Paris houses, using the fine old oak parquets, the panels and the carvings, and this and that and have achieved a dignified, if cold effect. Light pours in, however, through large many paned windows, and downstairs there is a small salon, a large ceremonious one, and a fine dining room. Here the hostess was receiving in a white trailing dress printed in festoons of garden flowers, and looking every inch a peeress. There were many present of the hand kissing sort, but no sign of Lord Decies, who has not been in Paris since December. A superb buffet was spread in the salle-à-manger with many servants at the urns, and most elaborate refreshments of every sort.

WILL MARRY IN URBANA

Miss Irene Oehmke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oehmke of Urbana, will be married on July 28 to James Overton Brooks, son of Dr. and Mrs. Overton Brooks of 3100 Sheridan road. Miss Oehmke is a graduate of the University of Illinois and has been studying music in Europe for the last year. Mr. Brooks is a graduate of the University of Illinois and is practicing law in Chicago. The wedding will take place in Urbana, and Mr. Brooks and his bride will live in Chicago after a wedding trip east and in Canada.

Blooms Shown at Bar Harbor by Chicagoans

BAR HARBOR, ME.

One of the most lavish and colorful flower shows of recent years was staged at the classic Building of Arts this week, with several members of the Chicago colony of Mount Desert Island participating in the affair. Twenty-four classes of competitive exhibits of varied flora, most of which were transported from the private gardens of summer estates on the island, were on display. The occasion was the annual show of the Garden Club of Mount Desert, a two day exhibition which closed last Wednesday evening.

In the hybrid perpetuals class of roses, Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago took third award. The first prize went to Mrs. Carroll S. Tyson of Philadelphia and the second to Mrs. Edsel Ford of Detroit.

Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, who is staying at "Baymeath," her beautiful estate in Hull's cove, took first and third prizes in the summer flowering bulbs. Second prize went to Mrs. Ford. Mrs. Bowen also scored for second prize in the sweet peas of one variety, first going to Mrs. John T. Dorrance of Philadelphia and third to Mrs. Herbert Satterlee of New York. Another second winner was registered by Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick in the calendulas officinalis class, first prize going to Mrs. William Procter of New York, third to Mrs. Gilbert Montague of New York. Mrs. McCormick also placed third in the assorted varieties of mixed perennials, with first prize going to Mrs. Ford.

Another interesting display was exhibited by Miss Mildred McCormick of Chicago and New York, who took grand first prize in mixed annuals of assorted varieties. Miss McCormick also placed second in the Miss Lingard class of phlox, second in the assorted class of phlox, third in mixed perennials, and second in the assorted class of mixed perennials.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burrall Pike of Chicago are ensconced at Greenway Court, their beautiful estate here, for the summer. Mr. Pike, who serves on the board of governors of the Kebo Valley Golf club, participates largely in the outdoor activity of the organization and can be seen daily on the links. The Pikes' Snark II., a white cabin cruiser, adds to the picturesque boating scene on Frenchmen's bay, and the Pikes take interesting boat trips around the island with fellow members of the colony of Mount Desert Island.

One of the largest dinner parties of the season was given this week by Mrs. John F. Ducey of New York at Skyview in Northeast harbor in honor of Miss Mary Ryerson, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson of Chicago. More than thirty members of the younger set attended the affair, which was followed with dancing at the Kimball house. Guests included the Misses Ann Ryerson, Jane Saltonstall, Nancy Wadsworth, Patricia Geyelin, Anne Brown, Marion Minot, Lorna Brennan, Hulda Bradley, Mary Eddison, Nancy Whitney, Nancy Grant, Mary King, Constance Bradley, Fernanda Wanamaker, Natalie Munson, Virginia Watkins, Priscilla Cutler, and Edith Clark. James Ducey II., Digby Baltzall, Robert Little Jr., Murray Forbes, Charles Lawrence, William Lawrence, Frederick Fraley Jr., Robert Crane Jr., Phillip Wainwright, Joseph Grant, Frederick Whitney, Harry Symington, Henry Pepper, Henry Reath, C. Bradford Fraley, Walter Pew Jr., Douglas Small, William King, Bowen Blair, John Dorrance, George Peabody, Crawford Madeira, John Wanamaker, Henry Geyelin, and William Sinkler were some of their partners.

C. Colton Daughaday Jr. of Winnetka captured first place in the A class Lawley boat division race held this week by the Northeast Harbor Yacht fleet at the helm of his Sinbad II.

Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson and her daughters, the Misses Mary, Ann, and Ellen Ryerson, arrived last week at the Kimball house in Northeast harbor. Mrs. Ryerson has leased Harlea, the summer residence of Henry Rawle of Northeast harbor, where they will stay for the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. Gilbert H. Montague of New York entertained at luncheon last week-end for Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, Mrs. James R. Angell, Mrs. James Byrne, Mrs. George Batcheller, Mrs. Morris Clothier, Mrs. Katherine Crocker, Mrs. D. Crawford Clark, Mrs. John T. Dorrance, Mrs. L. Dean Holden, Mrs. Peter Augustus Jay, Mrs. Charles W. McAlpin, Mrs. Harold Peabody, Mrs. Sheffield Phelps, Mrs. Carroll S. Tyson, Mrs. John B. Thayer, Mrs. Arnold Wood, and Miss Linda Clark Smith.

Recent registrations at the Bar Harbor club included Rose M. Palmer and Potter Palmer IV., children of Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer III. of Chicago.

Mrs. Herman Kohlsaat, mother of Mrs. Potter Palmer, is visiting at Hare Forest, the Palmer estate in Bar Harbor.

NEWLYWED AT HOME

At home in Chicago is Mrs. Milton Conrad Haase, a bride of last June. Mrs. Haase is the former Miss Mary Elizabeth Thomson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thomson of Chicago.

Woman Has Charge of a Large Mammal Collection

Miss Viola S. Schantz, mammalogist of the biological survey of the department of agriculture, with laboratories in the National museum at the national capital, is assistant in charge of the largest collection of specimens of North American mammals to be found anywhere on the face of the globe. In sections of the great National museum which the countless thousands of visitors never see, there is housed a collection of more than 200,000 specimens of mammals.

Harbor Point Guests Find Fun on Beach

HARBOR POINT, MICH.

"I'll meet you on the beach" is the most frequently repeated sentence in the resorter's lexicon, for the daily swim and sun-fest is one of the high points of every fair day's program at Harbor Point.

Whether you swim at the Beach club, at the Little Harbor club pool, at a private beach, or Wequetonsing, you are certain to find Chicagoans assembled. While the sun presents a rosy glow, an enviable golden tan or even a generous application of freckles, the knitting, impromptu bridge games, and gay conversations continue. Most of the children spend long hours charmingly engaged in building sand castles of amazing architectural designs.

However, swimming is not the only sport fancied by the members of the Chicago colony who have some ardent golfers and expert tennis players among their number. Mrs. William Waller Jr. and Mrs. Louis C. Sudler are two of the tennis enthusiasts who play almost daily on the Little Harbor club courts. Mackinac Island was a popular rendezvous Monday and Tuesday, with resorters watching the finish of the annual Port Huron to Mackinac race. Members of the Point coterie were cheering for boats sailed by two members of the colony, Frederick Sloan Ford and John B. Ford Jr., both of Grosse Pointe, Mich.

The Kenneth Smiths' beautiful yacht is at anchor in the harbor and also the palatial Tannis, owned by J. B. Berman. Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gordon dined at the Little Harbor club upon their arrival.

Mrs. James Bennett was hostess at a luncheon for five guests at the club on Tuesday. Miss Joanna Fortune was among the Chicagoans lunching at the club Wednesday.

Richard Davis is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Davis, at their Wequetonsing cottage. Their niece, Shirley Johnson, also of Chicago, is spending several weeks with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Fisher are at the Ramona Park hotel for several weeks. Mr. and Mrs. John P. Wilson Jr. and their sons, Gordon and Warren, arrived at the Chicago club at Charlevoix Tuesday and will occupy their cottage on the grounds for the remainder of the season.

Mrs. Earl D. Babst of New York, who is at her cottage, took a number of Chicago club members to the opening of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" at the Ironton Playhouse Tuesday evening. Mrs. Eugene S. Talbot also entertained a party of nine.

A number of the Belvedere club colony who attended the opening took their guests back to the Casino to dance later. Night baseball has aroused practically world series interest at the club with the teams being composed chiefly of Chicago and Cincinnati members.

"Jane Addams of Sweden" Is Chicago Guest

By Betty Browning.

"Jane Addams of Sweden," one of her fellow countrymen called Miss Kerstin Hesselgren when she visited Chicago last week-end as an official delegate to the New Sweden tercentenary celebration.

"Only a few minutes' conversation with this small, unassuming woman revealed the combination of character and circumstance that has given her an important part in making Sweden the progressive country it is today.

First woman member of parliament; delegate to the league of nations and to international labor conferences; first inspector of housing; inspector of factories, heading the women's division; president of the Swedish National Council of Women—on these responsibilities of hers white haired, rosy cheeked Miss Hesselgren commented with a mischievous twinkle in her blue eyes that contrasted with the demure black velvet band about her throat. "Almost the only thing I haven't tried is marriage."

But she became serious as she described how both city and country women in Sweden are educating themselves as citizens. Swedish women, by the way, have had the right to vote since 1921, the year Miss Hesselgren was elected to the senate. She has served continuously in parliament since, and now is in the lower chamber as a representative of all parties, an almost unprecedented distinction.

"Swedish women are eager to train themselves for citizenship because they realize that the housewife's experience is of value to the community," Miss Hesselgren explained.

"There is hardly a Swedish woman who does not belong to some kind of organization. Most of our organizations joined in a campaign this year to place more women in government posts, with encouraging results. Ot 240 members in the second chamber of parliament 11 are women."

Swedish women's organizations also are interested in lightening the home maker's burden by obtaining a holiday for housewives, Miss Hesselgren recounted. Sweden now has a holiday law providing 12 days' vacation with pay for almost every one but the home maker. There also is a concerted effort to introduce technical improvements into the home, especially in the country, where most women run their homes much as their grandmothers did.

The Swedish National Council of Women, of which Miss Hesselgren is president, serves as a clearing house for such activities on the part of organizations—civic, social, religious, and philanthropic.

Miss Hesselgren was brought up in Gästrikland—she translated it "land rich in guests"—in north Sweden. Her education was given her at home in the conservative fashion befitting a country doctor's daughter sixty years ago. But it was her father who first interested her in the less fortunate, she recalled. Her earliest ambition was to study medicine, but that was almost unheard of for a girl to do, and her delicate health presented a further barrier. So she did the next best thing, and helped her father as a nurse. Later she studied abroad several years, in Germany, Switzerland, and England.

In 1906, when she was 34 years old, came her first important task. In response to mounting public demand for slum clearance she was appointed Stockholm's first housing inspector. From her report and subsequent reports resulted the legislation that has placed Sweden among the foremost nations in respect to housing.

Three years later Miss Hesselgren was asked to inspect domestic economy schools preliminary to reorganizing them. In 1913 she was made government inspector of factories and head of the women's division, a post she held until her recent retirement.

Miss Hesselgren expressed dissatisfaction with attempts to fix minimum wages by legislation. "Too often they become maximum wages," was her comment. Sweden's women workers, like the men, have a 48 hour week, and unions in most cases have prescribed their wages, for women are almost as well organized as men, Miss Hesselgren said.

Miss Hesselgren is serving now on a parliamentary commission which has made a survey of women's wages as compared to men's. Its findings have been that women earn somewhat less, on the whole, because they fill somewhat less skilled jobs, but that the rule is "equal pay for equal work." The men's unions favor this rule because it prevents women's unions from underbidding them, Miss Hesselgren asserted.

Charlotte James to Be Bride of Leonard Buckley

The wedding of Miss Charlotte Agnes James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. James of 7036 South East End avenue, to Leonard J. Buckley of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Buckley of 3423 Walnut street, will take place on Aug. 6. The ceremony will be performed at St. Laurence church, with the Rev. Albert J. Buckley, the brother of the bridegroom, officiating.

BRIDE OF SOUTH SIDE

The marriage of Miss Niceta Sullivan to Dr. Robert Charles Ranquist took place July 16 in the Visitation church, with a reception and breakfast following at the Blackstone hotel. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Edward Joseph Sullivan of 656 Garfield boulevard. Dr. Ranquist is the son of Mrs. Charles Robert Ranquist of 816 54th place.

Women's Clubs Are Planning Many Parties and Outings

An evening on Lake Michigan amid starlight and cool breezes is in store this week for members of the Chicago Civic Business and Professional Women's club and the Pen and Pencil club. The former organization will sail on the S. S. Theodore Roosevelt at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow evening from the dock near the Michigan avenue bridge, and the Pen and Pencil club will make the same trip Wednesday.

Dr. L. Pearle Smith heads the committee arranging the trip for the business and professional women. Miss Esther Grabinger is chairman for the north side and Miss Lena Boyette, Miss Alice McLean, and Miss Elizabeth Viehs also are on the committee.

Marcia Nye, radio ballad singer, will be among the entertainers who will give a program for the Pen and Pencil club Wednesday. Jessie L. MacCain is in charge. Mrs. Glen Sheffer heads the committee on general arrangements.

Another delightful outing will be that of the Native Daughters of Illinois on Tuesday to Pine Tree State park, near Oregon, Ill. The party will travel by special bus, taking box lunches. This day will culminate a year's study of state parks and memorials by the club's study class. Miss Anna Johnson, chairman of summer activities, is arranging the trip.

A party with a purpose is to be given by the Soma Welfare, Friday, at the home of Mrs. Arthur W. Carlson on Drake road at Glenview. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock, and afterward there will be games of all sorts and fortune telling. Through proceeds of the afternoon, members hope to give added help to crippled children.

This small organization, originally a bridge club, since 1919 has had as its object the assistance of crippled children. Braces and appliances are supplied each year to little patients at the Martha Washington Home for Crippled Children and other institutions.

Mrs. John Medlock is president of Soma Welfare. Mrs. Bessie Bragg Pierson is vice president and publicity chairman; Mrs. Edward R. Sorenson, recording secretary; Mrs. Charles Zerler, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Charles H. Stresenreuter, treasurer.

Mrs. Bessie Bragg Pierson.

On the board of directors are Mrs. Mabel Calendar, Mrs. Carlson, Mrs. Clayton Cunningham, Mrs. Walter H. Jacobs, Mrs. William S. Hoyt, Mrs. B. S. Quigley, Mrs. F. J. Siebert, Mrs. Richard S. Snyder, Mrs. C. F. Stephenson, and Mrs. George A. Miller.

The Woman's City club will entertain informally at cards Tuesday afternoon in its lounge overlooking Grant park and the lake at 410 South Michigan avenue. Mrs. Edward R. Barnard will be assisted with arrangements by Mrs. Harry Martin, Mrs. O. H. McCaslin, Mrs. Cyrus R. Shipman, Mrs. B. J. Rappaport, Mrs. Ira C. Humphrey, and Miss Jewell Casselbery.

Another of the summer parties of the Independent German-American Woman's club will be given Wednesday afternoon at the Chicago Town and Tennis club, Ridge boulevard and Granville avenue. Luncheon will be served on a porch at 12:30 o'clock, with cards and other games following.

Mrs. Bruneau E. Heirich, who is in charge of the summer outings, is assisted with arrangements for this party by Mrs. Albert Baasch, Mrs. Henry C. Bauer, Mrs. William Weber, Mrs. Jacob Weil, and Mrs. Albert Storz. Mrs. Heirich and Mrs. Weber are receiving reservations until Tuesday. Mrs. Harry E. Hoff heads the club.

Door County Visitors Hear Talk on Botany

EPHRAIM, WIS.

Amateur and professional botanists as well as those who merely enjoy hiking along woodland trails gathered at the Ephraim village hall Wednesday evening to hear Prof. Norman Fassett describe and illustrate with colored slides "The Wild Flowers of Door County and Their Conservation." The lecture was sponsored by the Peninsula Arts association and the Ridges Sanctuary, Inc.

The latter organization was formed last year at the suggestion of Albert Fuller, curator of botany at the Milwaukee museum, to preserve and protect the area north of Bailey's Harbor, on the Lake Michigan side of the peninsula, in which can be found a greater variety of rare and beautiful wild flowers than is known to exist in any other part of the state. Several species of wild orchid constitute some of the most valuable plants in this section. Jens Jensen, who has championed the cause of natural beauty with ceaseless enthusiasm, is one of the directors of the new organization commissioned to save the "Ridges" from the ravages of the careless tourist.

Mr. Jensen was formerly of Chicago, but now makes his permanent home at "The Clearing" in Ellison Bay, where he is establishing a school ot landscape architecture and handcrafts in keeping with the principles he has advocated during his long and successful career in this field.

Mrs. Eric Scherstrom of Evanston, who spends each summer at her Sister Bay home, went down from Door county to attend the Stevens hotel banquet for the crown prince and princess of Sweden with Mr. Scherstrom and their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Nels Severin of Evanston. The four motored back to Sister Bay for a vacation of about a week after which Mr. Scherstrom and the Severins returned to Evanston. Mrs. Scherstrom was a member of the original committee which made the preliminary plans for entertaining the members of the Swedish royal family while they were in Chicago.

In view of the fact that many of upper Door county's early settlers were Scandinavian fishermen who remained here because they found the topography and shoreline of this peninsula so similar to their native land it is interesting to note that many prominent Scandinavians now living in other parts of the United States are drawn here for their vacations by that same resemblance. Harry T. Carlson of Chicago, who was given a medal last week-end by Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf for his excellent directing of the Swedish Choral club, will arrive Aug. 1 with his family for a month of relaxation at Sister Bay.

J. Arthur Friedlund, who as secretary of the John Erickson Republican League of Illinois, represented this organization in making plans for the Swedish tercentenary celebration, also has a home at Sister Bay. Mrs. Friedlund has had Mrs. Arthur Wirtz and her two older children of Lake Shore drive, Chicago, as her guests since early in the month.

Tuesday evening about fifty guests were invited to a buffet supper on the lawn of the Friedlund home in honor of Jack Friedlund's 10th birthday.

On Wednesday Mrs. Henry E. Nelson and her sister, Mrs. Ralph G. Bengston of Chicago, entertained at Claus Haven, the home of their mother, Mrs. Claus A. Carlson, for Mrs. Wirtz, Mrs. Friedlund, Mrs. J. P. Friedlund, Mrs. Edwin B. Frank, and Mrs. Otto W. Westphal, all of Chicago.

Dr. and Mrs. Huette Williams and their son, Bobby, of Chicago visited Mrs. Bengston and her young son and daughter last week, and while here helped to "initiate" the renovated boathouse on the Claus Haven property in its new rôle as guest house. The Bengstons have retained a strictly nautical atmosphere throughout the structure by having porthole windows, double deck beds, and other features typifying a steamship.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale W. McMillan Jr. of Fort Wayne, Ind., have already returned home after spending part of the month with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Fisher of Evanston, who have a cottage here during July. Their son, Wisner, is now visiting them.

Miss Blanche Vail, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Vail of Evanston, and her Ephraim house guest, Miss Betty Rowlet of Glencoe, a Roycemore classmate, spent a week-end at the Washington Island home of Mr. and Mrs. Veit Gentry of Highland Park before driving back to Evanston last week. From there Blanche left by train for a two weeks' vacation at the Timberline ranch in Arizona, where she was meeting Jane Ann McBride of Evanston.

Mrs. Vail and her son, Jesse, with his young friend, Bobby Carpenter of Kenilworth, are remaining here for the season. Tony Lorimer of Evanston returned home last week-end after two weeks with his friends at the Vail log home.

Mrs. William C. French and her son, Robert, of Evanston made a stopover at Eagle Inn last week on their way to their summer home at Eagle Knob.

Miss Frances Whedon and her niece, Miss Frances Jeffery of Chicago, have leased the spacious Hoffman home on Fish Creek's cottage row for the season and have planned a series of house parties for the coming weeks. Miss Jeffery's recent house guests, Mrs. Reid Chatillon of Chicago, Richard Burke of Winnetka, and Joseph Roby of Rochester, N. Y., were members of the theater party from Cottage row attending the opening production of the peninsula players last week.

Prof. Franklyn B. Schneider of Northwestern university, who is spending most of the summer at the Thorp hotel with Mrs. Schneider and their son, Bliss, made a brief trip to Evanston last week.

Mrs. Hugo C. Wagner and Mrs. R. A. Keyes of Evanston motored to Fish Creek last week-end with Mr. H. M. Pflager of St. Louis for a vacation of a week or ten days at Thorps.

Mrs. F. W. Bills and her daughter, Anita, arrived from Chicago to be with Miss Marie Gatter at her cottage, the Owl's Nest, in Peninsula State Park, for the rest of the summer.

AT HINSDALE HORSE SHOW

Fred E. Busbey Is to Address Finance Forum

"The Effect of Communism on Economics in the United States" will be the subject of a talk by Fred E. Busbey, president of a Chicago brokerage house, at a dinner meeting of the Women's Finance Forum Tuesday evening. The meeting will be held at 6 o'clock at the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street.

Mr. Busbey served with the Rainbow division in France during the world war, and for ten years has been active on the Americanism commission of the Illinois American Legion.

This dinner is to be the first of a series of early evening meetings planned for the forum during the remainder of the summer. "Steel, Man's Servant," a technicolor film, will be presented at one of these meetings. Another program will be devoted to a review of a book, "Money Without Men," by its author, Mrs. Ruth MacKay, member of the forum. The book is to be published this autumn. Mrs. Hazel R. Ferguson, new president of the forum, will conduct the meetings.

Another interesting meeting of the week will be the summer activities program of the Chicago Woman's club at 11 o'clock Wednesday at the clubhouse, 72 East 11th street. Mrs. Clare Hoblit Eldrado will speak on "The Origin of Languages and Dialects." Mrs. Eldrado, a native of Illinois who spent twenty years abroad as the wife of a Spanish opera singer, will illustrate her talk with humorous stories and readings. Luncheon and a card party will follow the program.

$82,000 Music Shed to House Berkshire Fete

PITTSFIELD, MASS.

Elaborate preparations have been made for the fifth annual Berkshire Music festival at Tanglewood, Stockbridge, Aug. 4, 6, 7, 11, 13, and 14. Six concerts will be given by the Boston Symphony orchestra, Dr. Serge Koussevitzky conducting in a new music shed just completed at a cost of $82,000 raised by subscription. There are seats for 5,000 persons, with standing room for as many more. All of the 104 boxes have been sold at $150 each.

The "shed" is shaped like a fan and is built of steel and wood. Its acoustics, tested by Massachusetts Institute of Technology experts, were found to be exceptional. Joseph Franz of Stockbridge was the architect and engineer in charge.

The festival association, of which Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith of New York is president, has a budget of $51,000, compared with $41,000 last year, when the net proceeds were $3,000 compared with $1,800 in 1936. All first class Berkshire hotels have been sold out for weeks for the festival period. Dr. and Mrs. Koussevitzky are to be at the Berkshire Hunt and Country club, Lenox.

Dr. Albert Britt, president emeritus of Knox college, and Mrs. Britt, who have been guests for ten days of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Blodgett at Great Pine farm, Great Barrington, left today for their Cape Cod summer home. Jonathan G. Latimer returned to Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Richberg to Washington. They also were in the Blodgett house party.

Early in the week Mrs. Blodgett had a luncheon party of twenty women at Weatogue, Conn., in compliment to Mrs. Britt and Mrs. Richberg. The guests included Mrs. George O. Forbes and Mrs. Wait Talcott of Rockford, Ill., and Mrs. Aubrey T. Barnes, sister-in-law of Mrs. Forbes. Also in the group was Mrs. John B. Beebe of Great Barrington, whose daughter, Mrs. John H. Hamline of Lake Forest, Ill., is arriving next week for a visit with her and Dr. Beebe. Mrs. Barnes and Mrs. Forbes were themselves luncheon hostesses for Mrs. Blodgett and her guests.

Count and Countess Giovanni Cardelli of Imola, Great Barrington, were the honored guests at a "swimming pool" luncheon given by Mrs. Albert Spalding, wife of the violinist, at Aston Magna, Great Barrington.

Mrs. Warren M. Salisbury of Lake Shore drive is having as guests at Tor court, Pittsfield, a group of relatives and friends from her old home at Rumford, Me. They are Mr. and Mrs. Wilder B. Kimball Jr., Miss Ewaline Kimball, Mrs. Nahum Moore, and Miss Barbara Moore; also Miss Betsy Baker of New York City. Joining Mrs. Salisbury next week to remain until after Labor day will be Mr. and Mrs. Kimball Salisbury and daughter Joy of 1415 Astor street, Chicago. Mr. Salisbury plays annually in the Pittsfield and Manchester, Vt., golf tournaments.

Mrs. Arthur F. Schermerhorn, who is at Schermeer, Lenox, for the summer, is on a committee of Lenox and Stockbridge society women who have arranged with the Rev. Edmund Randolph Laine of Stockbridge for a series of lectures on "Milestones in Christian History."

The Richmond Garden club, of which Mrs. W. Rockwood Gibbs is president, is to have charge of Herb week activities at the Berkshire Garden center, Stockbridge, beginning Aug. 1. Mrs. Gibbs was the special guest at a luncheon given by Mrs. Lucy Wadhams Dodge at Guestwick, Pittsfield, before the garden club meeting with Mrs. Alanson Gibbs Fox.

Mrs. John H. P. Gould, who is the former Miss Lee Higginson, is on the Stockbridge Golf club entertainment committee which was in charge of the golf tournament at the club tonight. On the club tennis committee are Mrs. Edward T. Herndon of New York, who is passing the summer with her parents; Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Holloway of Glencoe, Ill., at Tamarack, Tyringham, and her brother, George Allen Holloway. Mr. and Mrs. Holloway are back at Tamarack from Dedham, Mass., where they were visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Arthur Whitcomb.

Mrs. Edith Brock and Mrs. Alta Miller of Evanston, Ill., were at Williams Inn., Williamston, this week.

Here Are Some Forgotten Art Institute Facts

By Eleanor Jewett.

There is something almost luxurious on a hot summer's day in lolling in a hammock and testing comparisons served up by some one who knows the facts. It even may be found that there are cases when comparisons are not odious, but rather extremely stimulating. Walter J. Sherwood, the indefatigable spirit back of the Art institute news letters, lets us in on several bits of forgotten information this week.

Did you know that in 1900 the Art institute had eighty-four life members and now has 10,096, each of whom pays a fee of $100 and is exempt from further payments?

Did you know that in 1900 the Art institute had thirty salaried employés, while now there are about 300, exclusive of the teachers of the art school?

The director of the museum then, William M. R. French, also had to conduct the art school and lecture there, and Mr. French was a teacher in the University of Chicago as well; today the Art institute has two directors, one heading the department of fine arts and the other heading the department of finance and operation, and a third official is dean of the school.

In 1900, the museum was visited by 577,421 persons; in 1937, there were 1,013,561 visitors. The largest number in 1900 on any one day was [Sunday] 10,759; in 1937 there were 16,827 on one day, Saturday, Nov. 27.

The art school of the Art institute had more than 1,900 students in 1900; last year there was an attendance of 3,100 students. In the art classes in 1899 there were twenty-five teachers. Today there are ninety-nine. In 1905 there were 20,000 persons who came to the art lectures; in 1937 there were 415,236 visitors at the various lectures offered by the museum and of these 164,474 lunched or dined in the institute restaurant.

Thank you, Mr. Sherwood, for a pleasant and instructive twenty minutes. The spirit of growth which is Chicago's seems to have done well in the gentle atmosphere of the fine arts, and any comparisons which may be drawn from your facts wear an intriguingly rosy hue.

If a man inaugurated "Mother's day," then the tables were neatly turned upon him by a woman, for the fact is that "Father's day" was started by Mrs. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane, Wash., who is a graduate of the school of the Art institute.

Alice Littig Siems, a Chicago sculptor of note, has just returned from Florida. During the last three winters spent by her in Pass-a-Grille, Mrs. Siems has finished portraits of several distinguished persons, among them Gen. E. C. Ashton [chief of staf of the Canadian army], R. B. Hansen, M. P. K. C., and Sir Charles Ross.

One of the finest exhibitions near Chicago during the month of July is the memorial exhibition of the works of Alfred Juergens at the galleries in Oak Park of the Austin, Oak Park, and River Forest Art league. The paintings were seen at the Drake hotel under the auspices of the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts during June. They are very beautiful, nearly each one a collector's piece, many museum pieces, and all of them that kind of picture which finds its way most readily into the heart of the visitor, stimulating, vivid, poetic, sensitive, and magnificently handled. Mr. Juergens was one of the great technicians of his day. His reputation abroad was widely spread and on this side of the Atlantic his name was linked with the foremost American artists of his generation.

An exhibit of etchings and dry points by N. P. Steinberg is current at the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers, through July. Mr. Steinberg is a member of the Palette and Chisel Academy of the Fine Arts and his work is familiar to many of us. His prints are usually entertaining in theme and strikingly composed.

The summer school session of the American Academy of Art, Kimball building, opened June 27 with a large enrollment and will continue to Aug. 19. J. Allen St. John is teaching painting, story, and advertising illustration. Three of the academy's faculty members, Charles Wilimovsky, Antonin Sterba, and Wallace Turner, are spending their vacations painting in Mexico.

Water colors by Marjorie Nuhn and Diane Felsher have been on exhibit in the gallery of the Artists' union, 205 East Superior street, the first half of July.

The most comprehensive mural history of Chicago ever carried out will be painted in the five second floor dining rooms of the Lake Shore Athletic club by Otto Hake, Chicago artist, so the club president, H. E. Devereaux has announced.

The Saugatuck Art association is holding the second annual Arts fête Aug. 10, 11, and 12, with a gay round of pictures, masques, dancing, music, pageantry, and plays, and Ye Grande Arts ball to cap the climax the night of Aug. 12.

The Art gallery of Saugatuck has hung its first exhibition of the summer and many Chicago painters are among the artists represented in the show. Frederick F. Fursman, Thomas E. Tallmadge, Alice Mason, Cora Bliss Taylor, Edgar A. Rupprecht, Francis Chapin, and Albert H. Krehbiel are painters we all know.

The Hoosier gallery, 211 West Wacker drive, will be closed the entire month of July. It will reopen the first of August with an exhibition of small pictures by artist members. Mrs. C. B. King, director of the gallery, is spending her vacation in the east and enjoying various eastern exhibits.

ARLINGTON RACING FAN

Mrs. Grier D. Patterson is among the young women often to be found at Arlington Park on sunny afternoons during the racing season, which will end next Saturday. Mrs. Patterson lives in Wilmette, a half hour's drive from the track.

Mildred Louise Hoffman Engaged to Vernell Derr

Dr. and Mrs. Ira E. Hoffman, 2217 East 68th street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mildred Louise, to Vernell Byron Derr, son of Mrs. Elmer Cox of Sacramento, Cal. Miss Hoffman attended Dana hall, the Frances Shimer school, and the University of Chicago. Mr. Derr was educated in Sacramento. The wedding will take place early in the fall in Sacramento.

"FOUNTAIN FIGURE"

Sylvia Shaw Judson is known for the sensitive quality of her sculpture. This piece, from her show which opens July 28 at the Art institute, reveals the delicate grace that is another important factor of her work.

Sorority Will Give Portrait to University

A portrait of Frances Willard, pioneer temperance leader, will be presented to Northwestern university by Alpha Phi international woman's fraternity on Sept. 28, the ninety-ninth anniversary of Miss Willard's birth.

The presentation will coincide with the dedication of the new Willard hall now in process of erection by the university on Sherman avenue in Evanston. The structure will replace the old Willard hall as a dormitory for freshman girls.

At its convention last month in Pasadena, Cal., Alpha Phi decided on this memorial to one of its earliest and most distinguished members. It was while Miss Willard was working for her master's degree at the University of Syracuse in 1875 that she was initiated into Alpha Phi's first chapter. In 1881 she helped to organize the second chapter at Northwestern university, and seven years later she became national president.

Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, the only living witness of Miss Willard's initiation, is coming from her home in Pasadena for the ceremonies Sept. 28.

Miss Willard was a feminist and an educator, but she was most widely known for her leadership of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, which she founded.

Miss Willard was intimately connected with the early history of Northwestern university. She was graduated from Northwestern Female college in 1859, and in 1871 was made president of the college, which became a part of Northwestern university in 1873.

A committee of Evanston women is arranging for the presentation of the portrait. Mrs. Stephen V. Balderston is chairman and Mrs. Budd Clarke Corbus, Mrs. Raymond C. Wieboldt, and Mrs. Ralph M. Strader also are members.

Descendants Pay Tribute to Heroes of Magna Charta

LONDON—Descendants of King John's barons gathered in the little parish church of Egham recently to pay tribute to the five and twenty forebears who forced the king to set the Great Seal of England to the Magna Charta.

They were fierce, bearded mail-clad men who met in the flat field of Runnymede and later stood on the marshy island around their king 723 years ago and, half by force and half by economic pressure, extracted from him that guarantee of every Englishman's rights. Their descendants have given to the parish church at Runnymede replicas of their shields.

Below each shield, as it decorates the gallery balustrade, is the name of the 13th century baron and the present day donor. Four donors came from America, but these four tablets do not bear any family device because foreign arms are not accepted in English heraldry.

Of the four copies of the Magna Charta bearing the Great Seal of England, two are in the British museum, but the best one—the one executed with the most care—is in the Cathedral of Lincoln, while the fourth is in the care of the Cathedral of Salisbury.

Wakefield, Mass., Teacher Creates 50 Year Record

Miss Mary Ann Kalaher, 70, has retired from teaching school after fifty years of service in Wakefield, Mass. Never in her half century career was she tardy to classes or absent from duty.

Players North of Boston Have a Busy Season

BEVERLY, MASS.—The little theater, which for more than a score of years, has been popular on the North Shore is more in form than ever this year, with new groups delighting colonists in playhouses all the way from Nahant to Rockport. Besides the regular playhouses casinos have been transformed into theaters and probably more variety in the playhouses and presentations is offered on the North Shore than in any section of the New England coast.

Years ago groups of traveling players came to the great estates and put on their plays and even today they continue to be welcomed. The Jitney players, headed by Ethel Barrymore Colt, played to enthusiastic audiences at the Oceanside at Magnolia.

At the Moorland Casino at Bass Rocks the Bass Rocks players have also been offering some fine attractions. The Gloucester school of the theater, successful for many years, has been putting on some new plays, while the Rockport theater colony this week had large audiences to enjoy "Gold in the Hills."

Over at Marblehead the Marblehead players have been fortunate in securing the Marblehead High school auditorium in which they stage their plays, while at Ipswich the players use the Ascension Memorial church parish house. The summer attractions, diversified as they are, brought some noted stage stars from New York and Chicago, and screen stars from Hollywood and other centers for the leading rôles, while many of the younger colonists appear in the supporting cast and often win an opportunity to play in a title rôle. With so many places to dine and dance, before or after the show, little theater going is at its height of popularity this season.

There is interest of Chicago visitors in the plan to establish a new sea plane amphibian base in Manchester harbor. The harbor itself offers a splendid opportunity for such a base. It is well protected, with the town on one side and Smith's Point on the other. Because of smooth water there are possibilities for development for safe take-offs and landings and ample facilities for getting ashore at the numerous wharves which line the harbor.

Col. Charles Steadman Hanks is active in planning the program for federal coöperation for the project. Thomas Leiter of Chicago is one of the many who own amphibian planes on the north shore. Often guests come to the Leiter home, Edgewater House, at Beverly farms by plane; land opposite the house, and then taxi to the beach.

Summer days bring many Illinois visitors to the north shore. In Beverly there is an information booth in charge of Boy Scouts. One day early this week fifty-four cars with Illinois registration plates were checked. Of course, all were not bound for the north shore for Beverly is the main route to most of the New Hampshire and Maine resorts. One day cars from thirty-nine states were checked, showing the residence of car owners who travel north shore roads.

This year the annual fair of St. John's Episcopal church at Beverly farms will be held on July 28. Prominent on the committees serving for the fair are Mrs. Bradford H. Burnham, Mrs. Bayard Warren, Mrs. W. Galbraith Mitchell, Mrs. Gordon Abbott Jr., Mrs. Alvin Sortwell, and Miss Alice Thorndike, all Chicagoans.

The Manchester Yacht club, one of the best known of the north shore clubs, has a woman for its commodore, Mrs. Henry Pratt McKean Jr. of Willow Tree farm in Wenham. Its racing schedule is always long, with the sixteen footers a popular class with the women sailors. Among those handling the tillers on these small craft are Commodore McKean, Mrs. Andrew Marshall Jr., Mrs. John Zissner, the Misses Molly Bowditch, Elizabeth Loring, Marion McKean, and Margaret Goodhue. The Manchester club is one of those jolly organizations where every one has a good time.

Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. of Chicago has Miss Emily Chadbourne of New York City as her guest for a midsummer stay at Castile Hill, her lovely estate on Argilla road, Ipswich. The Crane gardens are now at their best and one of the most attractive on this stretch of the Atlantic.

Mrs. Edward Mandell House of New York, widow of Col. House, wartime adviser of President Wilson, is at the Oceanside at Magnolia for the summer. For thirty-five years the family summered on the north shore and had many Chicago friends. Mrs. House's daughter, Mrs. Randolph F. Tucker, lives at her Fairfield farm estate in Wenham, half an hour's motor trip from Magnolia.

Mrs. Edward B. Woodbury of Chicago, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woodbury at Ipswich, is at the Woodbury cottage at Great Neck in Ipswich bay for an extended north shore sojourn.

The John Clays of Chicago are at their Eastern Point home in Gloucester for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dale of Evanston and Miss Jeanie M. Adsit of Chicago are at Magnolia for a midsummer stay on the north shore.

Stewart Baird, well known in musical circles, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris of Chicago at their Eagle Head home in Manchester. Mr. Baird is to give recitals at Blue Hill and Bar Harbor, Me., later in the month.

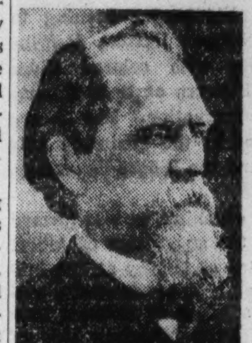
By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, Dec. 3, 1889.

Dear Julia: Gen. and Mrs. John B. Gordon have been in Chicago for the last three days and the city has outdone itself in honoring them.



John B. Gordon.

Yesterday the general, who is the popular governor of Georgia, was the guest of N. K. Fairbank, who took him to see all our public buildings and to drive in our parks and along our boulevards. The afternoon was spent at the Chicago club, where a small party of members enjoyed talking with him.

At Central Music hall he swept us off our feet with his eloquence. Such a speech it has never been my lot to hear and seldom is it given to a man to receive a warmer, more earnest and enthusiastic welcome than that which greeted Gen. Gordon. As Mayor Cregier led the ex-confederate soldier to the front of the platform a storm of applause broke out, and it was some time before he could begin.

His speech was moving. "War,' he said, "though always calamitous, is not always an evil. The war between the states and all the actors in it will yet be tried by the impartial Judge of all, and when the final verdict is rendered it will be found that no more consecrated purposes were ever recorded in history than those which animated both sides in that great conflict."

His tribute to Robert E. Lee was cheered no less enthusiastically than his words about Grant, whom he eulogized too.

And when in closing he took the United States flag from Col. Phipps, who stood near him, and unfurled it above his head, most of the audience wept as he cried:

"Long float this flag over the free republic, the proudest emblem of law, honor, and freedom in the world . . . the flag of the north and the south, the flag of the foremost and freest of human governments."

Any orator might have stirred us with an address to the flag, but no one could have affected us so deeply as did this southerner, who, having fought against it, yet, when his cause was lost, could become a faithful citizen of the republic and could recognize the ideals of those who had opposed him in battle.

All about us were men and women shaken with emotion, the old soldiers being most affected. I felt Will's body trembling and, stealing a glance at him, I saw tears coursing down his cheeks. Deep was calling unto deep, as old recollections stirred within us all.

People pressed forward to speak to Gen. Gordon after the speech, and as we stood waiting our turn we saw a young Democrat, Charles Perkins, greeting him and heard him say: "My father was in the 10th Georgia infantry and fell near Mobile. I want to shake hands with his old friend." Gen. Gordon, grasping the younger man's hand, said: "God bless you, my boy, for your dear father's sake." But he greeted Will no less cordially, though he knew from Will's army button that he had worn the blue during the war. Like all truly brave soldiers, he could honor his opponent, knowing that each had done his duty as he saw it. He has been called the Chevalier Bayard of the Confederacy.

Among the festivities for the Gordons was a reception given by several Chicago ladies for the feminine portion of the city. Mrs. Gordon was dressed in a handsome black silk, with long train, and looked very lovely. The Chicago ladies who gave the reception included such well known names as those of Mrs. Cregier [wife of the mayor], Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. A. L. Chetlain, Mrs. Heaton Owsley, Mrs. S. P. McConnell, Mrs. Myra Bradwell [our brilliant woman lawyer], and Dr. Julia Holmes Smith.

I do hope you can come out for the opening of the Auditorium. It will be a great event in the annals of our city. Lovingly,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES.

Gen. John B. Gordon [1832-1904], for almost forty years the idol of the people of Georgia, had had no military training when, at the beginning of the civil war he was elected captain of a mountaineer company. Promoted rapidly, he was at the close of the war a lieutenant general. Courtly and impressive in bearing, he was the ideal southern gentleman and soldier. His "Reminiscences of the Civil War," published in 1903, is notable for its freedom from sectional bitterness and for its fairness to friend and foe.

Has any reader a memory of the speech of Gen. Gordon at Central Music hall?

Readers will think of many pioneers whose names should be recorded in such an alphabet. The exigencies of rime and meter caused many omissions.

*P. L. Updike was an incorporator of the Chicago Gas Light and Coke company in 1849. We were pretty hard pressed for a rime and had to drag in mention of his money.

We shall be glad to receive "alphabets of pioneers" from our readers.

Nantucket Net Champion Bows to Chicago Girl

NANTUCKET, MASS.—Molly Hill of Chicago started off her tournament career in tennis at the Nantucket Yacht club last week by eliminating the club champion, Madelaine Kilvert, in a hotly contested second round match of the club's junior tournament. Island tennis enthusiasts still are talking about the way the diminutive Chicagoan battled her way through to a 7-5 victory in the decisive third set, after losing the first, 3-6, and winning the second, 6-4. Miss Kilvert, as 1937 champion, entered the match an overwhelming favorite over the newcomer from the Windy City, and the outcome was of considerable surprise to the gallery, which quickly gathered when news spread that the titleholder was being threatened.

Later in the week Miss Hill met another Chicagoan and close friend, Rose Taylor, in the quarter-finals, and after losing the first two games, she won the first and second sets, 6-2, 6-0. Donald Freeman of Chicago was eliminated by Dudley Taylor of Nantucket, 6-2, 6-3, in the boys' division of the tournament.

The Yacht club theater will present a musical tonight featuring the Radamskys. Mrs. Robert Stewart is a patroness.

Thursday the Nantucket playhouse will present Violet Heming in "Candida." Mr. and Mrs. Frederick P. Boynton among the patrons.

Glenn Frank recently visited Col. and Mrs. Robert Stewart at their home, Mooers End.

Among those enjoying the Saturday evening yacht club dinner-dance: Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus G. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Y. Freeman, and Mr. and Mrs. Hopewell Rogers.

Philanthropic Club to Have Party Meeting

Just once during the year do the Jewish Big Sisters meet for any but business purposes. Next Tuesday comes their midsummer get together luncheon, the single occasion when they put aside their responsibilities as Big Sisters to have a good time. The luncheon is to be held at the Edgewater Beach hotel at 12:30 o'clock, with cards, Mah Jongg, or a stroll along the beach walk afterward.

Miss Frances Hoffman.

Miss Frances Hoffman, 5555 Everett avenue, Plaza 1188, and Mrs. Benjamin Wolin, 433 Briar place, Buckingham 9219, are in charge of arrangements and are receiving reservations.

Mrs. Harry J. Friedman and Miss Dorothy Hoffman are planning a tour, supper, and concert at Grant park next week for the intermediate and senior groups of Little Sisters.

A delightful trip is in store today for the Chicago Philanthropic club juniors, who are sailing on the S. S. Roosevelt for St. Joseph, Mich., from the Navy pier at 9:45 o'clock. A committee, with Jere Lustig and Miss Marjorie Van Gelder as co-chairmen, has arranged for entertainment and dancing. Four hours will be spent at St. Joseph. Tickets will be on sale at the pier. Proceeds will go to the organization's philanthropies, which are associated with the Jewish Children's bureau.

Horse Shows Follow Races on West Coast

By Ruth Billheimer.

Horse is king again . . . or should one say "yet"? Yesterday Hollywood Park closed its brief summer season with a grand flourish and a festive crowd.

PASADENA, CAL.

The fans have been trooping out to the Inglewood track approximately 20,000 strong every racing day, except for a greatly boosted figure on special days.

This week's eleventh annual Coronado National Horse show, which closed last night with a supper-dance at Hotel del Coronado, has had a slightly different appeal, but as always is one of the biggest sporting events of the summer on the coast. Mrs. Luther Kennett, formerly of Chicago, who has been connected with the show since its inception, was on the committee again this year. Her daughter, Miss Mildred Kennett, was one of the debs to sell gardenias and her son David was an usher. The Clark Cavenees of Chicago and San Diego were among the box holders.

The Boys' and Girls' Aid society of San Diego was this year's beneficiary.

Upon the heels of this event comes the Santa Barbara National Horse show, which opens Wednesday and lasts through next Sunday. Many of the San Diego exhibitors will haul their steeds north to try for more ribbons. Among the Chicagoans holding boxes for the shows are the William R. Dickinsons.

Music takes its toll from radio set and movie theater, for California, like so many other states in the Union, has dusted off its outdoor benches and turned out in large numbers to hear symphonies under the stars at Hollywood bowl, the periodic concerts at the Santa Barbara County bowl sponsored by the Santa Barbara Summer Festival guild, the Redlands bowl, and similar less well known musical rendezvous.

Hollywood bowl opened auspiciously with Wagner's opera, "Die Walküre," with Richard Hageman conducting, Jeritza, Stueckgold, Althouse, Schorr, Beattie, and Von Essen in the leading rôles.

Chicago names spotted among the box holders include the F. G. Adamsons, John L. Mothersheads, Mrs. George Ellery Hale, Mrs. William L. Honnold, Miss Margaret Rowntree; Earle C. Anthony, nephew of Mrs. C. M. Anthony of Chicago, and also the Remsen D. Birds, Mrs. Edward L. Doheny, Carrie Jacobs Bond, Otto Klemperer, Andres de Segurola, Otto Kruger, Sigmund Romberg, and many film colonists.

Last night was the first of the Santa Barbara open air concerts and Mme. Jeritza was prima donna. Box holders include Henry Eichheim, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, the Clarence B. Mitchells, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Moley, Prince and Princess Zalstem-Zalessky, and many other social celebrities.

Mme. Jeritza, who in private life is Mrs. Winfield B. Sheehan, fills the rôle not only of prima donna but of a citizen of the community, for she lives on a ranch in Hidden valley. A week ago today she entertained fifty guests at a luncheon party there where they had been invited to see her famous Arabian horses. Two years ago the diva brought eight of the highly bred Lipizzanos [famous white Arabians] to Hidden valley from Austria, where they originated, the first time that any of the horses of this celebrated line had left that country. And the first one bred outside the Austrian borders was from Mme. Jeritza's California ranch and is three weeks old. Her name is Martha, for Martha Washington "and our country."

The remaining concerts in the Santa Barbara series will feature Rock Ferris, young American pianist; Lotte Lehmann, the Horton dance group, the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra, and as an innovation Benny Goodman, exponent of swing! There will be both a concert and dancing on this novel occasion.

GOING SOMEWHERE?

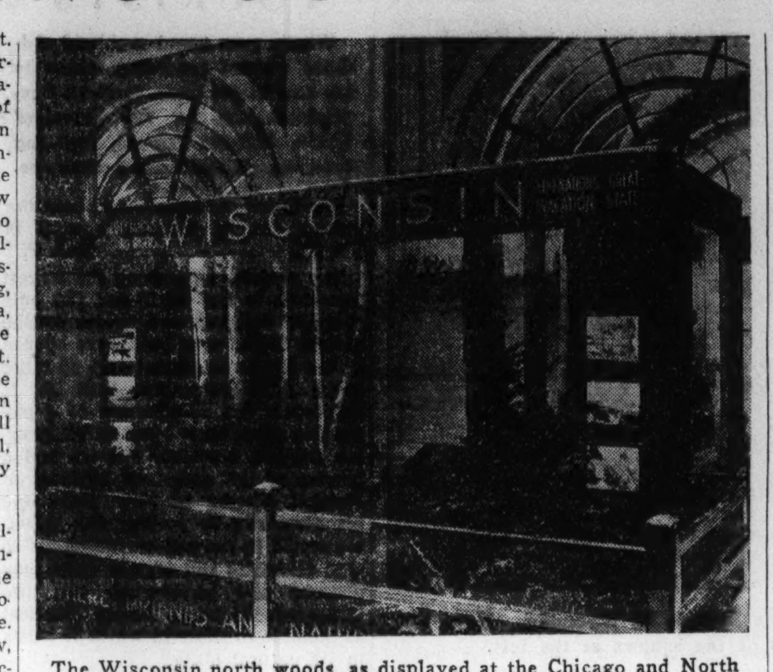
The grimly romantic isle of St. Helena, living tomb of Napoleon during his six years' exile following Waterloo, will be visited by members of the Canadian Pacific's world cruise in 1939. The revised itinerary, announced last week, showed that the Empress of Britain will sail from New York Jan. 7, crossing the Atlantic to Madeira and visiting Gibraltar, Algiers, Monaco, Naples, Athens, Palestine, Egypt, India, Ceylon, Penang, Singapore, Siam, Hongkong, Manila, Batavia, and Bali. From Bali she will go to Durban, Capetown, and St. Helena, and then cross to Rio de Janeiro and Bahia. The Caribbean ports of Trinidad and Havana will wind up the schedule of ports of call, with arrival in New York set for May 14.

In accordance with the recent ruling of the interstate commerce commission, coach passenger fares on the eastern roads will be increased tomorrow from 2 to 2½ cents a mile. Effective a week from tomorrow, charges for seat, berth, and room accommodations [except upper berths] in Pullman cars will be raised 5 per cent. The western roads decided Friday to continue their present rates.

With the annual northward trek of hay fever sufferers about to begin, the resorts of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Canada are preparing for heavy patronage until early autumn. The shores of Lake Michigan, and Lake Superior along with the smaller bodies of water throughout the northland, are dotted with towns and cities boasting that they give complete relief from the malady.

The "little season" in trans-Atlantic travel opens this week, with a 10 per cent reduction in eastbound fares. Most of the steamship lines say their ships are heavily booked by persons wishing to take advantage of the lower prices, effective both en route and in Europe.

A midsummer travelogue is to be given at the Fair store at 11 a. m. Friday in honor of Marie Kane, good will ambassadress for the British Empire exhibition in Glasgow. Miss Kane is on a 13,000 mile aerial journey over the United States. The travelogue will include a movie tour of Scotland.



The Wisconsin north woods, as displayed at the Chicago and North Western station.

Midland, Ont., 90 miles from Toronto and gateway to the 30,000 islands of Georgian bay, is one of the goals of this summer's sailings of the Georgian Bay line's North American and South American out of Chicago. The town's chief attraction is the nearby Martyrs' shrine, known as the cradle of Christianity and civilization in Ontario. The place was once the fortified headquarters of the Jesuit missionaries who worked among the Huron Indians in the seventeenth century. In the course of the seven day cruises on the two ships there are stopovers at Mackinac Island, Detroit, Cleveland, and Buffalo.

A piece of the north woods, with real birch and pine trees, has been brought from its native habitat to Chicago by the Wisconsin conservation commission. The scene is contained in a booth erected on the train floor of the North Western station. It shows a sandy beach leading to a quiet lake, overhung with trees. At one side stands a small summer cabin. There also are specimens of muskies, bass, blue gills, and perch. An illuminated map at the rear shows all the principal resort and vacation regions of Wisconsin.

Charles Kozminski of Chicago, general western passenger agent of the Red Star line, is planning to take a group of midwesterners to Europe this fall. He will sail Sept. 3 on the Westernland.

The "Lady" liners of the Canadian National steamships are carrying a record number of vacationists this season. Victor E. Eke, passenger trafic manager, says travelers from all over the United States and Canada are boarding the ships for cruises from Montreal to Jamaica, Bermuda, and the Bahamas.

Taking advantage of the new tourist interest in South America, the American Republics line is sending out one of three ships—the Southern Cross, the Pan-America, and the Western World—every two weeks on a cruise to Rio de Janeiro, Santos, Montevideo, and Buenos Aires. Each trip lasts about forty days.

Amateur golfers from the United States and Canada will gather next month for a tournament on one of the world's most spectacular courses. The Banff Springs hotel's annual golf week has been announced for Aug. 22 to 27.

This year, for the first time, the Richelieu of the Canada Steamship lines is making a series of six day house party cruises on the lower St. Lawrence and Saguenay rivers. The route takes the passengers along scenic waterways of French Canada and up to a new tourist district surrounding Lake St. John.

A one day fishing tour of Yellowstone park has been added to this summer's vacation program. Anglers may now fly overnight from Chicago, leaving here at 10:15 aboard United Air Lines sleeper planes and reaching Yellowstone Park airport at the breakfast hour. From there they are driven to Hebgen lake and Madison river. After testing their luck for a few hours they return to West Yellowstone and start the return flight. The round trip takes two nights and one day.

UNSPOILED.

St. James, Mich., July 5.—To the Travel Editor: I have read many articles in your column on the beauty of many places all over the world. But it is not necessary for us Chicagoans to travel thousands of miles to try Robinson Crusoe's adventurous existence on some island.

Right in our own Lake Michigan we have a group of islands thickly covered with virgin forests. On some of the uninhabited ones a city dweller gets a taste of freedom unknown within the bounds of civilization. The largest of those, Beaver, can be reached by a three hour boat trip from Charlevoix, Mich.

It is a land of the Spanish "manana." No one rushes here the way we do in Chicago. And the islanders are a happy go lucky people, friendly to any one who happens to come along. A small, clean, country hotel and several cottages hidden in the woods along the beaches cater to those city folks who are tired of the fast tempo of a large city.

This group of islands, scattered in the northern part of Lake Michigan, some day will become the most noted playground of the central states. But I am afraid that by that time it will have lost its virginal beauty under the regimentation of our so-called civilization.

[MISS] ANNABELLE DE GERALD.

MAIL FOR SHUT-INS.

Chicago, July 17.—To the Travel Editor: My brother is very lonesome, having lost the companionship of his brothers last year. He is 15 years old and a victime of muscular paralysis. I know it would give him the greatest pleasure to hear from persons who have traveled or who live in far away countries. His name and address: Edward Kramer Jr., Box 113, Ottoville, O.

[MISS] PERMILLA KRAMER.

Silvis, Ill., July 3.—To the Travel Editor: Kindly enter the name of Robert Gard, Silvis, Ill., on your list to receive postcards and letters. He is a young man who has been bedfast for eight years with a broken back. He would be grateful to any one who cared to write to him.

A NEIGHBOR.

Chicago, July 6.—To the Travel Editor: Irene Wanat of 4043 Nelson street, Chicago, is 30 years old, has had arthritis for twelve years, and is unable to walk. I know she would deeply appreciate any correspondence from any state or country.

DETOUR

By FREDERIC BABCOCK

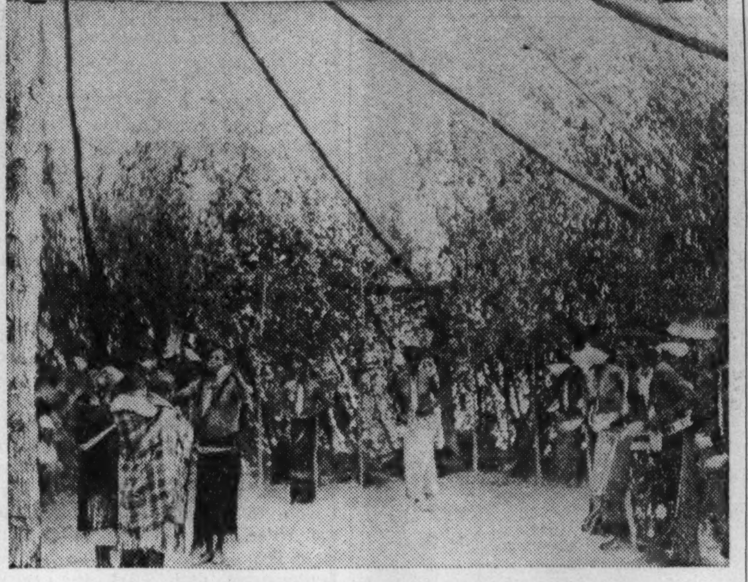
At sundown last Thursday a group of Shoshone Indians started dancing around a medicine pole, and they will keep at it until along about 10 o'clock this morning. . . . The occasion is their annual sun dance—perhaps the weirdest and most spectacular of the many religious and spiritual ceremonies held by the primitive peoples of the American northwest.

It might as well be confessed that in some parts of the country there are periodic Indian dances given more with an eye toward the tourist trade than with a feeling of spirituality. . . . But there is no such commercialism in the Shoshone ceremonies. . . . There is no admission charge, even though large numbers of palefaces always make up the audiences.

● The scene of the observance is near Fort Washakie, on the Wind River reservation north of Lander, Wyo. . . . The object is to supplicate the Great Spirit, through the sun god, to bring good health and bounteous crops to all the tribe.

It all starts when the sponsor—elected at a meeting in May—retires to the nearby mountains and selects a cottonwood tree for a medicine pole, together with long poles to form the dance enclosure. . . . These are hauled in the day before the dance begins, and the next morning there is a sham battle between the defenders of the property and those trying to steal it. . . . It always ends, of course, in victory for the defenders. . . . Then the warriors on both sides parade through the camp in native dress and full war paint.

● After that comes the job of erecting the enclosure. . . . The medicine pole which is to form the center is hoisted into the air, and presented to the four cardinal points of the compass, before being planted to the accompaniment of prayers by the sponsor. . . . The twelve poles placed around it, and acting as beams for the roof, represent the twelve tail feathers of the eagle—a bird highly esteemed by the Indians because it is strong and unafraid and flies in the uncontaminated atmosphere. . . . Willows are used for walls. . . . A buffalo head at the top represents what was once the tribesmen's main source of food. . . . The east end of the lodge is left open so as to catch the first rays of the morning sun.



The sun dance of the Shoshone Indians in Wyoming. Note the papooses on the backs of the squaws at the left.

. . . Now the stage is set for the drama.

● The performers, attired in little except breech cloth, beaded panel belt, and paint, line up in two rows and extend their arms in worship of the Great Spirit. . . . The medicine man offers a prayer for all humanity, drums begin beating, a prayer song is sung by men and women sitting in a circle, and the dancers blow softly on whistles fashioned from the leg bone of an eagle.

More prayers, and time out for repainting, before the long grind begins. . . . Blowing their whistles in steady cadence, the dancers shuffle from their stalls up to the center pole and back. . . . The orchestra is made up of men alternating between singing and drum beating, and women shaking dry willows and chanting. . . . At intervals the performers rub the pole with their hands or with eagle wings, thereby transferring that pole's medicine—or the virtues of the medicine—to their bodies.

● This continues until the dancer can dance no more. . . . Exhausted, he retires to his stall to rest and to pray, and to have visions of things to come or things that have vanished from his memory. . . . Then he starts in all over again. . . .

For three nights and two days no food or water passes his lips.

On the fourth morning everybody faces the rising sun and offers thanks and still more prayers, prior to making a break for the river, there to enjoy a well earned—and much needed—bath. . . . And the final ceremony is, of course, the tribal feast.

The sun dance may not mean quite as much to the outsiders as it does to the participants, but as an endurance test it makes the white man's marathon dance look like a sissy.

Kindly tell me something about the marine studios recently opened in Florida. B. J. F.

The project, comprising the largest aquarium in the world and the only specially designed underwater motion picture studio ever built, was opened to the public at Marineland, 18 miles south of St. Augustine, June 23. It represents the culmination of a pioneering effort on the part of W. Douglas Burden, associate curator and a trustee of the American Museum of Natural History in New York, and his associates to portray the undersea world in natural surroundings so that scientists and laymen alike may observe and photograph sea life under conditions as nearly identical as possible to those in which it exists in its natural state.

BERLITZ SCHOOL OF LANGUAGES 30 N. Michigan Ave. at Wash. Fra. 4341

Higher Learning Begins on Floor in Lapp School

By Mason Warner.

ABISKO, Lapland, Sweden.—[Special.]—The first nomad school for the Lapps was established in the seventeenth century by Skytte, who was protector of the schools during the reign of Gustavus Adolphus. Skytte had been an instructor of the young prince Gutavus Adolphus before the latter became king. The winter school at Jukkasjarvi was founded in 1758, and has been in session every winter since. That is where the Lapp children from the Abisko territory go during the long dark season.

The summer school now at Laimolahti was formerly at Palnoviken, but was moved because too many tourists disturbed class work and because there was a decrease in the number of children of school age. If tourists increase, it is possible the school will be moved again. Two children from Palnoviken attend the Laimolahti school, staying in that camp during the summer term in a hut leased by the state. The state provides food for all students.

Bills of fare are varied—more porridge, cereals, and potatoes are given the children than they get at home, where most of the parents have only reindeer meat or fish and bread.

There were six boys and five girls at the Laimolahti school, a large attendance for Lapland. The Vuoskojaure school had only six students—five boys and a girl.

On two evening each week the students are given elementary manual training. The boys are taught to carve birchwood cups, make knives, etc.; the girls receive instruction in braiding yarns for cords, belts, and shoebands, in making pompons for men's caps, and in similar tasks.

In everything they do the children are taught to strive for fineness and quality—to produce well-made and artistic things, be it a knife by a boy or a belt by a girl. The children are taught sanitation and hygiene by precept and example—how to care for the teeth; the scalp and hair receive attention; the importance of clean bodies is impressed upon them.

Teachers start the students singing whenever there are indications of restlessness or fatigue—an average of once an hour, perhaps four or five times a day. These intervals are rest for teacher as well as pupils.

The schools are in session six days a week. The summer term is from June 25 to Aug. 31; the winter term, December to April. The climate and vacation periods permit a school year of only eight months.

The students all sit on the floor. The floor is covered with birch branches, gathered in piles for comfort, to the right of the fire, all on one side. The other half of the hut is the teacher's dwelling.

During the class work the teacher sits on a wooden box, a small packing case that has served its original purpose, or sits Lapp fashion and uses the box as a reading stand to hold a book or papers. She is at the edge of her side of the hut, halfway between fire and aquarium.

The school in no way resembles a kindergarten—no Froebel nor Montesorri. The object is to teach religion, reading, writing, arithmetic, drawing, and the Swedish language.

The religious instruction conforms to the creed of the State Lutheran church, not to the Lapp sect, and consists of the catechism and reading of simplified stories from the Bible.

In the drawing lessons the teachers guard carefully against the introduction of Swedish or any technique or design that is foreign to Lapp traditions or art. Pupils are encouraged to do good work and to reproduce scenes from nature about them.

Sewing is taught twice a week in two-hour sessions at the winter schools. The schools are equipped with the hand driven sewing machines favored by the Lapps, who do not like the foot power machines. Their legs and feed do not accommodate themselves to the tread just right.

One of the teachers told me she was going to buy an electric sewing machine for use in her home in Jukkasjarvi. The hand power machine is one institution that she does not enthusiastically support.

• • •

The children are not compelled to maintain the Japanese sitting-on-heels posture during sessions. They may change positions at will, and do, frequently. When writing they sit as we sit on the floor, pull their knees up, and place a book on them to hold the paper upon which they are writing.

When addressing the teacher a pupil must assume the semi-erect, straight up from the knees, posture. It wiuld be "attention" if legs below the knees were not flat on the ground.

At any other time the children have unrestricted freedom of posture and movement. They can sit cross-legged, if they please, or lean back against any supporting pile of branches.

The winter camp at Jukkasjarvi is equipped with desks and seats like any modern Swedish school. Its enrolment of students varies from seventy to eighty; their ages range from 7 to 14 years.

Nomad children start to school at 7 or 8 years of age. They attend summer school only the first three years, but continue attendance at the winter school until they are 14. The law compels this. The school day averages five hours a day for the older children; for the young ones, four hours.

Miami to Display Its Marine Life

A municipal museum, planned as a center of display for the tropical marine life in Miami waters, has been announced as the latest of that city's resort attractions. Housed in the museum will be specimens of the more than 700 varieties of fish and other forms of marine life found near Miami. The nucleus of the exhibit is to be a private collection of more than 400 species of tropical fish, the gift of Al Pflueger, authority on tropical marine life. Among the specimens are bluestriped wrasse, queen parrot, red porgy, sickelfin grouper, tile fish, angel fish, sargassum, and turbot.

Ancient Pyramid Is Found Beneath Wisconsin Lake

Lake Mills, Wis., July 23.—A thousand year old pyramid lies under the waters of Rock lake. It is a vestige of an early Aztec civilization in the upper Mississippi valley.

For thirty years the legend of the strange prehistoric pyramid has persisted in Wisconsin—ever since the day when, with water levels at an unprecedented low, a fisherman struck with his oar on an unusual "rock" and came home with an incredible tale of an "Indian pyramid under the water."

Then Gene Nohl, Milwaukee diver, heard the tale. First he tried to locate the pile by sighting it from an airplane. Then he tried a hydroscope in a moving boat. Finally, he developed a drag that was pulled along 14 feet below the surface of the lake. With this the pyramid was found.

Afterward Nohl went down to study his find. In 36 feet of water he explored a cone rising 29 feet from the lake bottom, with indications that the cone is probably higher, its base now surrounded by bottom silt. He says the pyramid is a truncated cone, with a lake bottom diameter of 18 feet and a tip diameter of 3 feet. The construction, he relates, is of smooth stones set in mortar.

Blue Ridge Parkway Extended 500 Miles

Blowing Rock, N. C., July 23.—Work on the $20,000,000 Blue Ridge parkway, which will extend for almost 500 miles from the Great Smoky Mountains National park in western North Carolina through to the Shenandoah National park in Virginia, is progressing rapidly in North Carolina, with 114 miles either completed, under construction, or under contract.

A Strange People, These Japanese!

By KIMPEI SHEBA

Tokio.

THE HIGH PRIEST of Zojoji, one of the greatest and most imposing temples in Japan, if not in the world, received me in his private chapel. I called to ask about a religious ceremony of appeasement for having eaten fish and meat.

● This is a Buddhist mass called kuyo and is held not only for fish and animals but for all animate and inanimate objects which have been sacrificed to make it possible for mankind to live more happily. It is held for animals killed for vivisection, for mosquitoes one slaps to death, and even for needles which housewives and tailors unintentionally break, as well as for cattle and fish killed for food.

● Such masses have been increasing in recent years as the Japanese people find one object after another to appease. Whereas kuyos were formerly attended by only a few persons, nowadays it is not unusual for several hundred persons to participate in them.

● What is the reason for the sudden increase in kuyos? Of what does the ceremony consist? Can the priests bring life anew to the objects that have been killed? These were some of the questions I wanted the high priest to answer.

● I was ushered into a room that was in semi-darkness. There was a tiny altar on one side. The high priest rose to greet me. He bowed slowly and motioned me to be seated on a thick black silk cushion.

● "Buddha," the priest began, "teaches that it is sinful to take life. He particularly admonishes against killing animals. Cows are sacred in India, the birthplace of Buddha. Likewise they were sacred in Japan up to eighty-five years ago when the country was opened to the world by Commodore Perry.

● "When Japan decided to imitate the west, for better or for worse, it took no half-way measures. The younger people particularly, in violation of Buddhist precepts, started eating beef, pork, and the flesh of any and all creatures whose meat is edible.

● "On the face of it it may appear that there can be no reconciliation between Buddhism and people who disobey its tenets. That is not so. We no longer interpret Buddha's teaching in the narrow sense. Modern Buddhists believe that if it is essential for people to do things which run counter to the instructions of the great teacher they should be permitted to conduct themselves according to their desires. But we hold that such people should at the same time seek appeasement. That is the origin of kuyo."

● So the Japanese blandly go on slaughtering and eating cattle and hold kuyos in the conviction that Buddha understands and forgives. The people of the west as well as those of some countries in the east may find it difficult to reconcile themselves to such logic, but this does not worry the Japanese in the slightest degree. Above: Most Japanese are married according to the rites of Shinto, the religion of ancestor worship. Japanese women, such as the one pictured here from a famous print by Torii Gengin, however, usually are, like their menfolk, followers of Buddhism.

The $8,000,000 "Lemon" Off Century-Old Tree

By ED SULLIVAN

Hollywood, Cal.

WHEN Joseph Antoine Plateau invented the phenakistoscope, two disks mounted on a shaft, which created the illusion of motion, or when William George Horner in 1834 conceived the dædaleum, or wheel of life, which by rotating a cylinder actually showed a child jumping a rope, these worthy gentlemen would have dropped dead in their laboratories if some one had suggested that in 1938 an improved adaptation of their inventions would gross $8,000,000. Yet "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" will do approximately that much business throughout the world. Of this Walt Disney will get back some $6,000,000, as I believe the distribution deal calls for a flat 25 per cent for RKO. Animation is more than a hundred years old, but Disney cashed in on it and is cashing in on it with astounding success.

Where Disney won a fabulous success was in his ingenuity. Others had made animated cartoons, but it was the Chicagoan who added sound to them. His "Steamboat Willie," released Sept. 19, 1928, was the first animated cartoon with sound. Then, while other animators were still working in black and white, Disney turned to color. And when other animators turned to color Disney moved out far in advance by making a full-length feature film. He always has been a furlong ahead of his field, and that is one important reason for his success.

When Disney turned to color he was attacked for stupidity. Up to then Disney released his two-reel black-and-white shorts through United Artists. The financial process was quite simple. When he'd complete a "Mickey Mouse" short he'd deliver the negative to United Artists. The distributing corporation would immediately give him $50,000, or whatever was the cost of the completed negative. Then they'd distribute the two-reeler, deduct a certain percentage for distribution, and give him the balance. It was mutually satisfactory and mutually gainful.

Walt Disney

But when Disney turned to color and delivered a completed negative in color to United Artists the corporation rebelled at the extra cost. It may be assumed that Disney told them that a two-reeler in color would be more profitable than a two-reeler in black and white. It may be assumed, too, that United Artists told him that they had made a deal for black and white at a certain negative cost figure and that he could take it or leave it.

Disney, instead of taking it, left it. Much to the ultimate happiness of the financially distressed RKO, because Disney not only turned over to them his two-reelers, he gave them also "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," which was the most magnificent bonus that any creator could give a distributor. When United Artists' officials think of the grosses that "Snow White" is piling up they can be pardoned if they break out into epileptic dances. They kicked away several millions of dollars in cold cash.

Not that the industry believed at first that Disney had the most colossal attraction of cinema history. It was commonly believed that Disney had a very expensive lemon. To put $1,500,000 into an animated cartoon sounded insane. The previous high-water mark in animated budgets had been $50,000. But $1,500,000!!! Just at that moment the stock market started dropping. Business throughout the country fell off. Theater managers in Des Moines, Dubuque, Denver, and Amarillo started shutting down their theaters because of lack of business. Chains of theaters collapsed with a sickening thud.

Disney himself had grave fears of his brain child. At one moment he was convinced that it was necessary to scrap the entire first half of the film because artistically it did not mesh with the second half. RKO shuddered at this dreadful thought and talked him out of it, as you'd reason with a dear relative who had suddenly decided he wanted to walk up the face of the Chicago Tribune Tower in hobnailed boots. Then they held another preview, and when the wicked queen loaded a sulphuric Mickey Finn into the ripe apple and prepared to feed it to Snow White, children in the audience began screaming and stamping on the floor. Disney then was certain that he had a full-fledged flop on his hands, because if children refused to accept it in kindly fashion the picture was doomed to a death more horrible than that which the wicked queen proposed for Snow White.

There were mutterings in the inner sanctum of RKO that the wicked queen had fed them a poisoned apple, or a stagnant lemon. Veiled rumors came out that Disney had abandoned plans for any more feature-length cartoons. Disney himself, at the Carthay Circle première, was discouraged at the audience response. Lincoln, after delivering his Gettysburg address, was stunned by the lack of applause, not realizing that his hearers were too deeply thrilled and moved to clap their hands. Disney, at the Carthay Circle, failed to understand that the audience was too amazed at what he had done, too soaked in the beauty of the creation, to break into conventional applause. "I'll do better next time," he said to me as I passed his seat and extended congratulations.

Now the picture passed from his hands. RKO was the distributor. They sent it into Radio City's Music hall at New York for the Christmas holidays, picking that strategic moment because children would be home from school on their vacations. To their delighted amazement the theater swarmed with customers and the children had a difficult time holding their juvenile own in the rush for seats.

A picture is distributed on an elastic scale. It can be rented out for whatever the trafic will bear. RKO first offered the picture to its regular accounts, its regular theaters. However, Disney had a clause in the contract, as I understand it, that gave him final approval of all contracts. That is why the picture has had such enormous grosses, because his aids insisted on turning the picture over to whatever theater offered the most money for it. There was no preferential treatment. Disney's business managers sold to the highest bidder. It is said that hard bargains were driven. I don't doubt it, but theaters drive hard bargains, too, when the shoe is on the other foot.

Dopey, who "stole the show" in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

The only fact worth considering is that when all the receipts are in Snow White and Sneezy and Dopey and his pals will have grossed $8,000,000. Disney's $1,500,000 lemon will return him a 400 per cent profit. I don't know of any bank that pays that rate of interest. Neither does Disney. So now he's preparing two more feature-length films, and everybody in the industry is agreed that if he is not a genius both artistically and financially, he'll fill the bill until somebody else comes along.

Lifebuoy for LASTING freshness — even on hot, sultry days!

THERE'S something about a Lifebuoy bath or shower . . . ! Makes you feel keen, clean, extra-fresh. And even on the warmest, stickiest day you don't need to worry about "B.O." For Lifebuoy contains a special purifying ingredient not found in any other popular toilet soap. A daily Lifebuoy bath or shower stops "B.O." — safeguards your daintiness — makes you feel confident, sure of yourself.

Millions use Lifebuoy for the bath and the complexion. Why don't you try it? You'll enjoy its rich, mild, purifying lather!

Why Did Five Navy Bombers Crash?

By WAYNE THOMIS

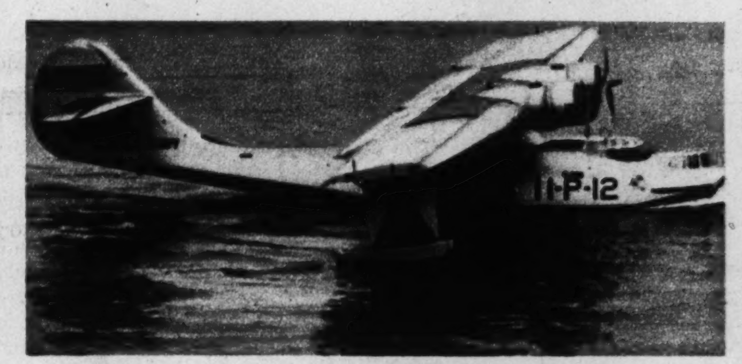
WHAT caused the navy's flying boat accidents and the deaths of thirty airmen during the war game maneuvers of the Pacific fleet earlier this year? For seven months since the first crash the navy's board of aeronautical experts has withheld final answer.

The circumstances of this series of four accidents, involving five of the fine new patrol bombers, are such that serious doubts are raised by the navy's very silence. Each of the accidents happened to airplanes of the same type — Consolidated PBY-1 monoplanes that were part of a large quantity purchase. Were these crashes and this loss of highly trained men the result of some fault in design — some oversight in engineering — or some common mistake in flight technique or in flight maintenance?

Major scandals in governmental bureaus have developed from attempts to hush or shield unsavory facts. Navy department officials have assured newspaper men at Washington that no evidence has developed to support charges of negligence or poor workmanship or engineering. But the navy has not said this officially, nor has any definite statement been given.

Since this is the case, let us review the few facts now at hand:

The first accident was revealed on Jan. 5 when naval authorities at San Diego announced that one of the big bombers with seven men aboard was missing. Subsequently Admiral Arthur J. Hepburn, commander in chief of the United States fleet, issued a statement saying that the plane was on a routine patrol flight. Radio communication was lost about



Navy bomber of the Consolidated PBY-1 type which figured in the series of crashes this year. (Acme photo.)

5 p. m., and the ship then was believed to be 100 miles at sea off Santa Barbara.

Although 300 planes and most of the available surface vessels began a search for the big flying boat that night, no trace of it ever was found. The life of another naval pilot was lost when he fell out of his airplane while making this search. The weather at sea on Jan. 5 was foggy, with drizzling rain.

The second disaster occurred on Feb. 3 when, within sight of the main battle fleet, two of the big bombers collided after flying through a rain squall. One fell in flames, bringing death to all seven men aboard. The other crashed while attempting a landing. Four of its crew perished.

The fourth bomber was wrecked on March 30 when it flew into the sea at terrific speed while on maneuvers off Waianae, on the northwest side of Oahu, the principal island in the Hawaiian group. With seven men aboard, it apparently was following the shore line at a low altitude and speeding through a hard rain. Witnesses said the big boat suddenly dropped toward the water and hit with a tremendous splash. Only two of the crew were saved.

Fifth and last in this deadly sequence is the unexplained disappearance of one of the big boats on a mission far at sea, also on March 30. No trace of this boat ever has been found. School children on the island of Kauai, another link in the Hawaiian chain, said they saw smoke rising from the water off Anahola lighthouse on the northeastern shore of the island on the afternoon of the 30th, but no wreckage ever washed ashore there and no evidence of a crash was found on the surface.

Those familiar with flying boats of the cabin type suggest that it is easily possible the pilots in each case were overcome or partially disabled in the air by gas fumes that collected inside the big machines. This also is suggested by the fate of Pan American Airways' Clipper in which Capt. Edwin Musick and his crew died on a pioneering flight to Australia.

In that instance an explosive mixture of gasoline fumes presumably collected in the cabin and exploded. The fact that no trace ever has been found of two of the navy boats recalls that only a few wooden panels from inside Pan American's boat were left on the surface. These were part of luxury equipment that would be absent in a navy vessel.

A momentary dulling of the pilots' natural alertness by fumes could easily have sent the one ship hurtling into the sea and caused the Feb. 3 collision during formation flying.

The PBY type boat has a wing spread of approximately 90 feet, two engines of 950 h.p. each, a cruising range in excess of 3,000 miles with a crew of six or seven men, and speeds ranging from 70 to 160 miles an hour. The navy has purchased more than 100 of these boats and has made a remarkable series of long-distance flights in them.

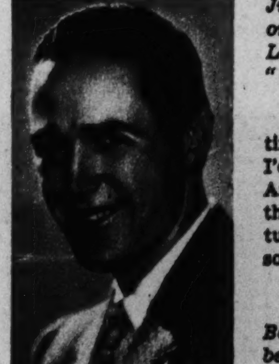
Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Tinée: Could you please print a picture of the actor who played the part of Will Scarlet in the movie "The Adventures of Robin Hood"? While Errol Flynn was marvelous as Robin, I think this actor helped make many of the scenes successful. Please state pictures in which he has previously appeared, as I have never seen him before in a movie.

Thank you.

MARY G.



PATRIC KNOWLES
Won attention as Will Scarlet in "Robin Hood."

Editor's note: Glad to oblige. Patric Knowles played the rôle of Will Scarlet in "Robin Hood." His real name is Reginald Lawrence Knowles. He was born in Horsforth, Yorkshire, England, Nov. 11, 1911. He's 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 175 pounds, and has dark brown hair and green eyes. He ran away from home at 18 and joined a repertory company. His first film was "Irish Heart," an Irish production, produced in 1934. Films in which he's appeared are "Abdul the Damned," "Royal Jubilee," "The Student's Romance," "Honors Easy," "Mister Hobo." "Charge of the Light Brigade," "Two's Company," and "Give Me Your Heart."

Dear Miss Tinée: Have seen the Valentino reissue, "Son of the Sheik." The one I'd like to see is "Monsieur Beaucaire." Are they going to show it, too? When are they going to give Gene Autry better pictures? I'd certainly like to see him in something like Zane Grey's stories.

Sincerely, M. KONDA.

Editor's note: I imagine "Monsieur Beaucaire" will be shown again. It has been reissued before, you know. Perhaps Gene's producers will see your letter and give your suggestion thought.

Dear Miss Tinée: I recently saw and read for the first time "Voice of the Movie Fan." In my opinion you must be very popular. I do not know if at any time you had your picture in your column. I would like to see you, and I think others would, too. So, if you please, try to have your picture there. Thank you. Yours very truly, EMMA NEUMANN.

Editor's note: YOU think I'm popular? You should read the column SOME Sundays! They don't leave me a feather! As for the picture—you just pretend I look as you'd like to have me look. That would be more fun (for me).

Dear Miss Tinée: Would you be so kind as to give me some information on the girl who played the meanie in "Mad About Music"? I believe it was Helen Parrish. I think she deserves a lot of credit for playing a difficult part with very convincing results. Could you possibly squeeze in a short biography of a deserving young actress?

Thanks loads.

ALICE ANDERSON.

HELEN PARRISH
Praised for work as a movie "meanie."

Editor's note: It WAS Helen Parrish—and here's how she looks and a bit about her. She was born in Columbus, Ga., March 12, 1922. Has brown hair and blue-green eyes. Her family moved to Hollywood when she was 2 years old. Hobbies are sports, dancing, and singing.

Dear Miss Tinée: Now, now, what is the matter? Why don't you like Danielle Darrieux? She is the answer to our prayer—give us this day a delightful wench to look at in the movies. Boy, O, boy, has she got it!

And what funny dialog! I laughed deep and low, and today, after reading your prejudiced account, I should have phfft, but I remembered that you had been wrong so many times before.

We will go on praying for more of la delicieuse Danielle and keep in mind that there is only one Danielle for every 999,999 Mae Tinées, which should answer your ice-cold report.

Print this, please, so that the world may know. Yours truly,

MAX MESSERSMITH.

Editor's note: And now the world knows all.

Calm Sweden—Once Europe's Mightiest

Colonization Attempt Is Recalled

By JOHN A. MENAUGH

A HANDFUL of settlers—Swedes, Finns, and one African slave—was planted in the new world near the site of the present city of Wilmington, Del., in 1638, to form the nucleus of Sweden's historic venture in American colonization.

This year in America and Sweden there is being observed the tercentenary of the founding of the colony in Delaware, which was called New Sweden. As a result people in the United States are manifesting more than usual interest in Sweden and Swedish history.

That the colony in Delaware, which actually attracted as settlers more Finns than Swedes, survived only seventeen years before it was gobbled up by the Dutch and then in turn by the English seems to detract not a whit from the interest shown in its history and in that of the nation that sponsored it.

Today in our own country there are more than a million and a half Swedish-Americans, including American-born children of Swedish parents, which also explains in part America's interest in Sweden and the Swedes. This number is more than half again as large as was the total population of Sweden, including Finland, at the time of the founding of New Sweden.

(Acme photo.)

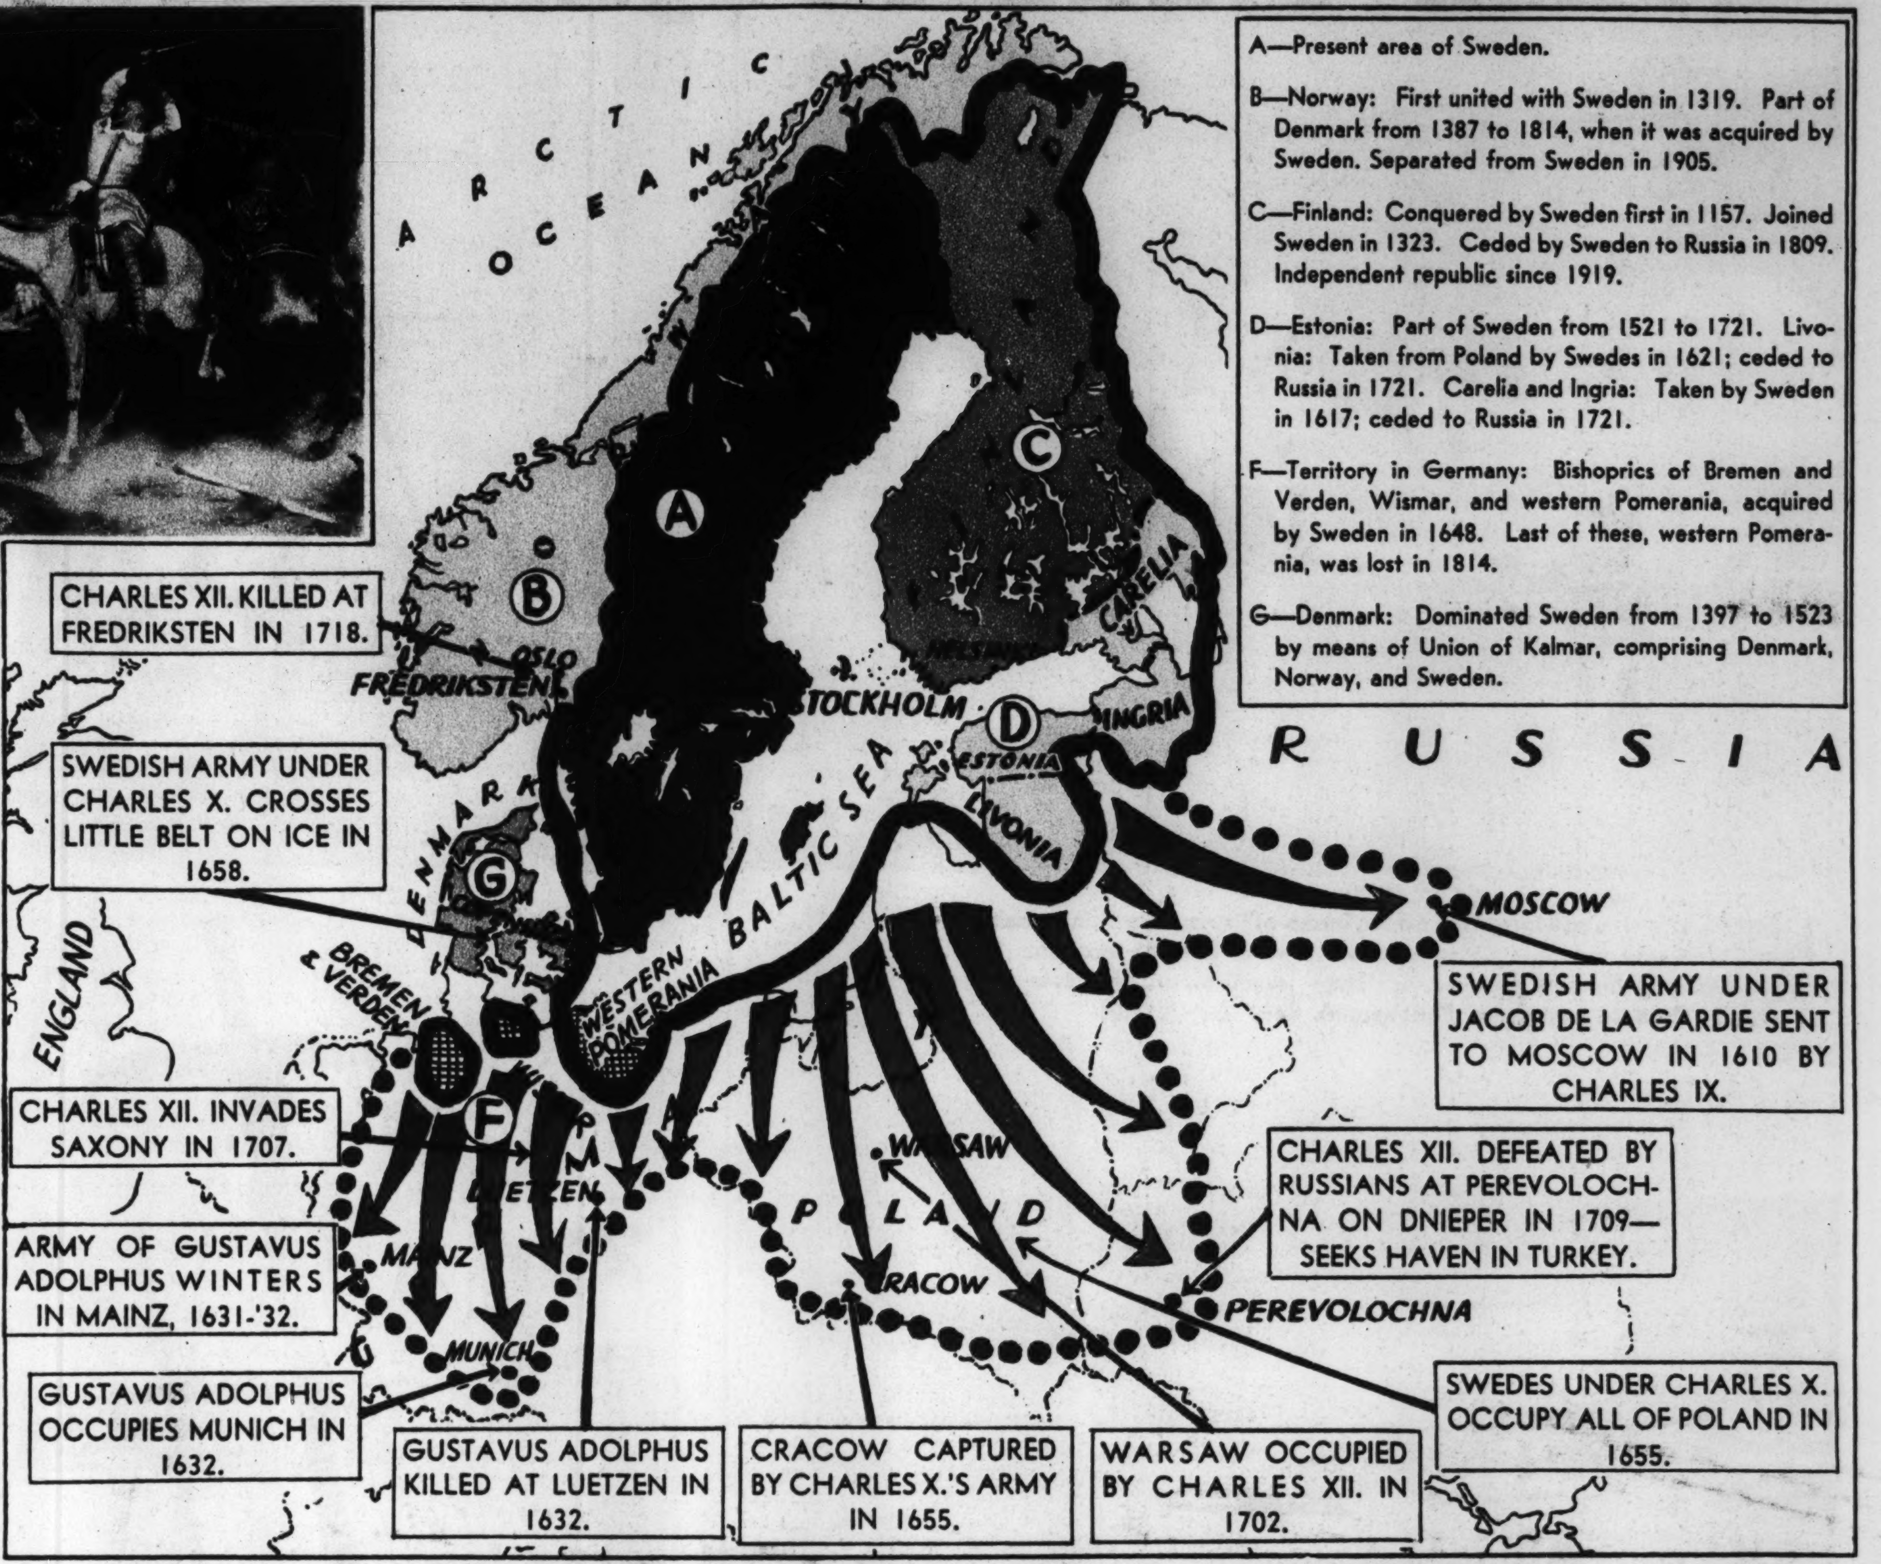
King Charles XII.

The present-day Sweden is an excellently governed kingdom, at peace with the whole world and apparently without ambitions for territorial expansion. In the past, however, and over a considerable stretch of time, as the accompanying map discloses, it ruled over vast territories, actually attained the proportions of an empire, and disgorged powerful armies to overrun a large part of Europe. It once was the first military power of the world.

It was about A. D. 700 that the foundation of the kingdom of the Swedes was laid by one Ingjold. For more than 300 years, until 1050, the ancient dynasty, seated at the historic city of Upsala, ruled the country. This included a time known as the viking period, celebrated in history for famous expeditions to the new world. Christianity was introduced into Sweden in 829, but did not gain a foothold until about 200 years later. In 1397 the royal line became extinct and the right of succession to the throne of Sweden, as well as those of Denmark and Norway, fell to Queen Margaret of Denmark. Thereafter until 1523 Sweden was dominated by Denmark through an alliance known as the Union of Kalmar.

When Gustavus Vasa in that year was proclaimed king of Sweden the union was dissolved and the Swedes began playing an increasingly important part in the affairs of Europe. Since then three royal lines have ruled over Sweden: The Vasa line, founded by Gustavus I.; the Holstein-Gottorp line, of which Adolphus Frederick was the first; and the present Bernadotte line, founded by Charles XIV., better known as Marshal Bernadotte of France. In all there were twelve sovereigns in the Vasa line, covering six generation; there were four in the Holstein-Gottorp line, covering three generations; and there have been five, of four generations, of the Bernadotte line, beginning with the French marshal, who was adopted as a successor by Charles XIII., and coming down to the present monarch, 80-year-old Gustaf V.

It was the Vasa line that produced the great warrior kings, Gustavus Adolphus and the Charleses from ninth to twelfth.



Historical map of Sweden, showing territorial acquisitions and losses up to modern times and extent of invasions of Swedish armies in Europe. Heavy black lines inclose Swedish territory as of 1700, at the time of the nation's greatest expansion. Heavy dotted line shows extreme penetration of Swedish armies under the warrior kings.

Although Finland was conquered and Norway defeated in the middle ages to make Sweden a mighty kingdom of the north, it was not until the reigns of the Vasa kings that the country became the leading military power of the continent. Through the efforts of Gustavus Adolphus and his immediate predecessor and successors, territories that now comprise large parts of the Baltic states, Germany, and Poland were added to Sweden. Swedish armies pushed far into Russia, occupied all of Poland, and marched and countermarched over Germany.

How warlike were the kings of Sweden in those old days is shown, for example, in the fact that Charles X. in his bare five years of rule engaged in no fewer than five wars with the Danes and repeatedly laid siege to Copenhagen. He would have subjugated Denmark then had not the Dutch and the English interfered with his plans. Charles X. led other wars as well as those against the Danes. Charles XI. and Charles XII. also carried on conflicts with the Danes, as well as with other peoples.

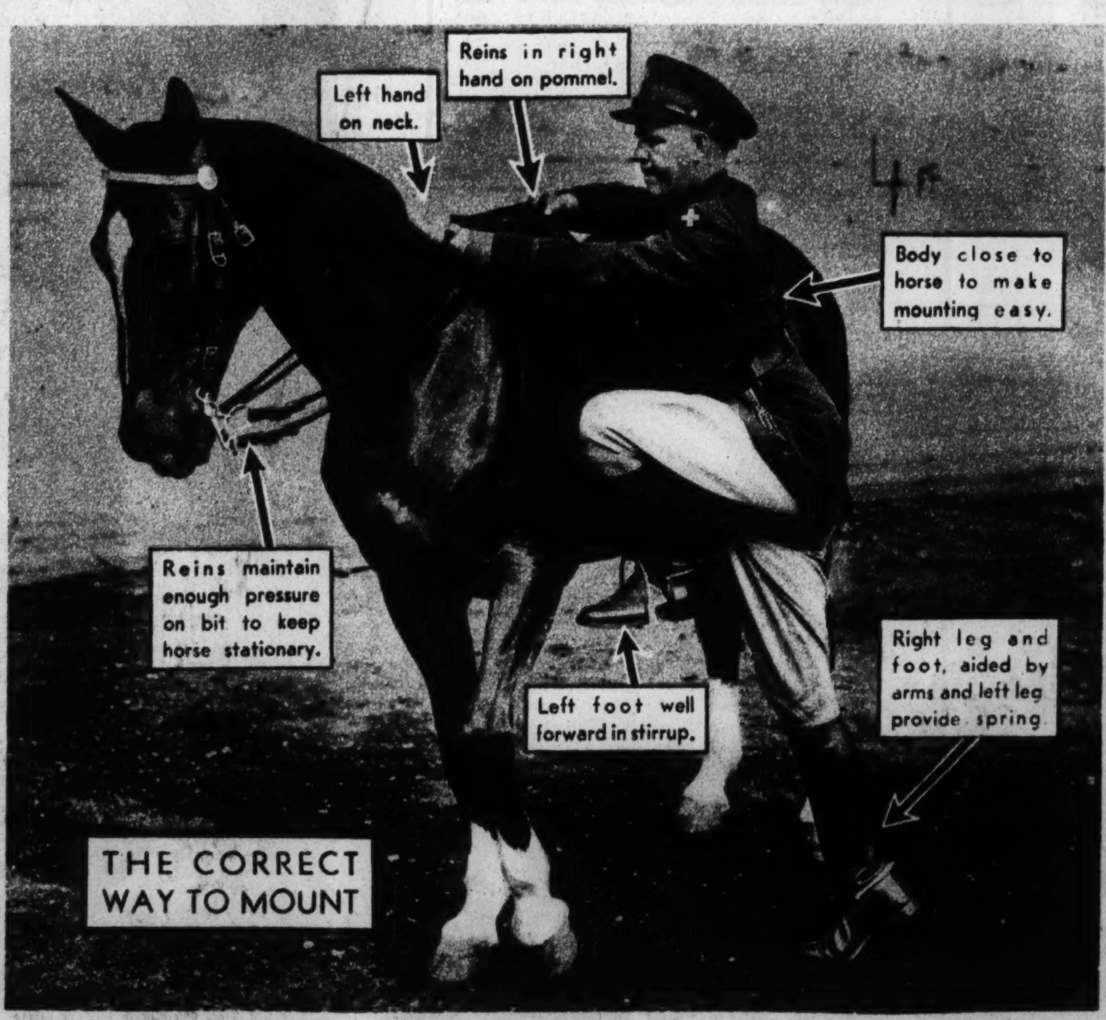
It was not until after the final defeat of Charles XII. in Russia in 1709 that Sweden as an empire began falling apart. Soon after the death of Charles XII., at the siege of Fredriksten in Norway, the Swedish territories on the eastern shore of the Baltic sea were ceded to Russia. Finland, over which the Swedes and the Russians had warred for centuries, was lost to Russia in 1809.

Norway, which was under Swedish domination briefly early in the fourteenth century and which was acquired from Denmark in 1814 at the time Swedish Pomerania and the Isle of Rugen were ceded to Denmark by Sweden, was made an independent kingdom in 1905.

How to Ride a Horse—Lesson No. 2

By CAPT. M. M. CORPENING
Formerly Riding Instructor, U. S. Military Academy at West Point.

IN MOUNTING it is proper always to approach your horse from the left, called the near, side. Both hands are used to gather and adjust the reins so when grasped by the right hand a slight feel on the horse's mouth will be effected. This pressure should be just enough to keep the animal from moving forward but not enough to make it back. Likewise the right and left reins should be equal, to prevent inclining the animal to pivot. Hold on reins should be maintained throughout the movements of mounting, no matter how quiet horse might be. Many spills have been encountered by inexperienced riders attempting to make mounting easier by turning bridle loose and catching saddle with both hands. After the reins have been properly adjusted for length and clutched in right hand with forefinger separating right and left, grasp the pommel firmly with the same hand and move body close to animal to make spring upward easier. Steady the stirrup with left hand; raise left foot and place well forward in stirrup. This will enable rider to keep his toe from kicking horse in side, which inevitably makes animal jump or move.



After left foot has been inserted in the stirrup, grasp horse on crest of neck with left hand and exert easy, gentle spring upward from ball of right foot, muscles in arms and left leg furnishing additional energy necessary to complete upward movement. The right leg should be brought close to the left in the movement and a slight pause effected when feet are together for purpose of steadying body, thereby enabling rider to cross right leg gently over cantle and settle down easily in the saddle.

All movement should be executed with utmost calm, quietness, and gentleness. Any roughness around the horse quickly makes it hard to mount, thereby greatly detracting from pleasure of ride.

Inexperienced riders should avoid trying to mount fractious or nervous horses, the one being equally bad for the other.

How to Have Glorious, Soft Brilliant Hair All Summer

New Shampoo Discovery magically removes dirt, grease and perspiration; leaves hair with shimmering beauty whether dry, normal or oily.

THIS summer, you are going to get the surprise of your life. You can see your hair more glamorous than you ever dreamed possible—soft, manageable, radiantly beautiful—even on hottest days. And you will be astonished to find how quickly and easily you can overcome that dull, matted-down appearance of past summers—this new day way.

Drene makes this startling difference because it is so different from ordinary shampoos that the process by which it is made has been patented. It is not a soap, so it cannot possibly leave a beauty-clouding film on hair to dull natural lustre. Thus, special after-rinses are totally unnecessary. It is not an oil, so it cannot deposit an oily film to catch dust and dirt. Yet hair gleams and glistens like threads of silk.

Drene magically makes 5 times more lather than soap in hardest water. Lather so gentle, yet so active, that dirt, grease, perspiration—even loose dandruff flakes—are washed away with a single sudsing and thorough rinsing in plain water. Hair is left immaculately clean this mild, safe way. Gloriously radiant. So sensational are the results which Drene performs—that, today, surveys show it is used by more women than any other shampoo. Please consider carefully what an important recommendation that is.

And, today, there are two amazing kinds of Drene Shampoo, which work seeming beauty miracles for hair during hot summer months. So, whether your hair is dry, normal or oily you can now give it a shampoo which will bring out its full beauty.

If your hair is inclined to be dull, dry-looking, and unmanageable, you should use the new Special Drene Shampoo for Dry Hair. If your hair is normal or oily, then you should use Regular Drene Shampoo.

Procter & Gamble make and guarantee both kinds of Drene Shampoo. Get either the new Special Drene for Dry Hair, or Regular Drene at drug, department or 10c stores. Or, ask for a Drene shampoo at your beauty shop. You'll be thrilled to see how easy it is to keep your hair brilliantly beautiful during the summer with Drene.

Dynamite—a Dangerous Ally

OLD HANDS at blasting claim that dynamite can move any obstacle if enough explosive is used. Recently 1,800 tons of dynamite was reported to have been fired in one blast to lay bare a vein of coal in Russia. As a rule, however, great blasts of this sort require less engineering skill than the firing of a few pounds of dynamite in the heart of a big city, where a shock might cause damage.

Blasters can employ tiny charges of dynamite to demolish disused bank vaults while business in the banks goes on as usual. Without interrupting the routine of a central business district, large openings have been blasted through thick masonry as accurately and as cleanly as if a giant chisel had been used. Great construction projects such as subways, sewers, and aqueducts built within a metropolis must depend upon charges of only a couple of pounds of dynamite to bore their way foot by foot through miles of hard rock without disturbing the maze of wires and pipes upon which a city depends.

Dynamite was developed in 1867 by the Swedish chemist and engineer, Alfred Bernard Nobel, who found that the highly explosive nitroglycerin could be handled with comparative ease if mixed with an appropriate filler. A common type of dynamite consists essentially of nitroglycerin absorbed in an inert solid material to reduce its sensitivity to shock. Kieselguhr, an infusorial earth, is frequently used.

Nobel combined nitroglycerin with another high explosive, guncotton, and obtained a transparent jellylike substance which is still more powerful an explosive than dynamite.

From his patented explosives and exploitation of the famous Baku oil fields A. B. Nobel amassed an immense fortune. On his death in 1896 this fortune was used to set up the well known Nobel prizes that are given annually for important contributions to physics, chemistry, law, medicine, and to the maintenance of peace.

(Tribune photo.)

Sixty pounds of dynamite crumbles this two-story life guard stone house at Orchard Beach, N. Y., during the construction of a new parkway.

Unquestionably dynamite and allied explosives have been and are today largely responsible for much of modern engineering developments.

According to a report of the Institute of Makers of Explosives, the current construction in New York City of the 6th avenue subway, line extending only forty-five short blocks, will involve the blasting and removal of thousands of tons of rock. As this blasting of the underpinning of one of the nation's busiest business thoroughfares proceeds, business on the street above goes on as usual.

It will take the blasters and their helpers about three years to complete this excavation. Two years more will be needed to put the line in operation. It will cost about 25 million dollars a mile when completed. Some of the line is being blasted sixty feet below street level at points where it must pass beneath intersecting subways.

The construction of this subway is complicated by the necessity of maintaining in constant operation an elevated transit line whose steel pillars rest their weight upon the very rock to be blasted away. This problem was solved by blasting wells forty-five feet deep straight down through the rock directly beneath each pillar and by filling these wells with concrete. Engineers then contrived to shift the weight of each "L" pillar from its former base to these new fabricated monoliths raised from far underground. These concrete piles must be blasted out again before the elevated line is taken down.

The undertaking is further complicated by the subsurface utilities, which are more numerous along the line of this subway than in any other section where such work has been attempted. Blasting must be advanced through a network of gas mains, water mains, steam lines, telephone, telegraph, fire alarm, and high-tension power cables, pneumatic mail tubes, and great sewers, without disrupting even temporarily any of these services so vital to the life of Manhattan.

Most of the great aqueducts which bring water to many of the country's cities have been built with the help of dynamite. Many large American cities could not have been built to such enormous size had it not been for the power of high explosives to drive tunnels beneath mountains and bore below rivers to bring adequate supplies of pure water.

The Colorado river aqueduct, about to be completed after seven years at a cost of 283 million dollars, will carry water 240 miles to Los Angeles and twelve other cities. This aqueduct will pass through a series of 16-foot tunnels aggregating 92 miles in length. It will supply more than a billion gallons of water a day. Engineers estimate that it would have required 500 years or more to complete these tunnels before the invention of dynamite.

Chicago's 14-foot intake water tunnels, extending under the city and far out into Lake Michigan, were all blasted through solid rock. These tunnels were driven at what was at that time an unprecedented rate of speed. They were advanced on an average of fourteen feet every time the blasters fired a "round" of shots.

The city of Cleveland secures its water supply from Lake Erie through a tunnel 26,000 feet long. This 9-foot tunnel extends out under the lake for a distance of four miles.

At Buffalo an intake water tunnel was blasted to a distance of 6,580 feet out under Lake Erie. St. Louis receives water through a tunnel 95 feet underground and 2,766 feet long. It was blasted through solid limestone. Four hundred million gallons of water is delivered daily to San Francisco through the Hetch Hetchy aqueduct. This aqueduct required the blasting of a tunnel 28½ miles in length, said to be the longest continuous tunnel ever made so far. Seattle and Portland get water from aqueducts which dynamite helped build.

In New York City in 1917 the echoes of the last blast of the great Catskill water system had hardly died away before engineers started looking for a greatly increased supply. To increase its supply of mountain water New York is now engaged in building three reservoirs and boring an 85-mile aqueduct, entirely in rock, to deliver water to the city limits. This will be by far the longest tunnel in existence.

New York City will spend nearly 273 million dollars in order to assure itself of 370 million more gallons of water a day by 1945, and of an additional 370 million more gallons a day before the project is completed. Later still another 160 million gallons of water a day will be required. This is the largest sum ever spent on one project by a city for a water supply system.

"Hard rock" men rest after setting a twenty-four hour record of 73 feet boring through California mountains during construction of the Colorado river aqueduct to Los Angeles. (Acme photo.)

Mostly About Dogs

Vacationing Dog Needs Luggage

HUNDREDS of thousands of dogs are going to take vacations this year. They don't have much choice about it. Families decide to go away on either short or long trips for rest and recreation, and the family pet either goes along on the trip or continues his education in a boarding kennel.

There are many little things for a dog owner to keep in mind if he takes his pet with him on a vacation. Here are some of them that we jotted down recently when we had Redlands Defiance, our champion Sealyham, with us on a short visit to the north woods fishing country:

FOOD. Many dogs are apt to show marked reactions when their regular diet is changed unless the change is made slowly. Sometimes a dog will absolutely refuse to eat a new food, or he may become slightly ill from an abrupt change in his diet. This is why we packed up for our dog the following food items: A small sack of biscuits which he eats when at home and several cans of prepared dog food to which he is accustomed. In addition to these food items the dog also was given some cooked tomatoes and other vegetables, and cooked beef and lamb from the table of the fishing camp where we stayed.

It is during one of these vacation trips that the value of training your dog to eat some kind of well made prepared dog food is realized. All of the dogs that we ever have owned were taught to eat either large, hard biscuits, a ground meal food, or small broken biscuits. And all of them also learned to like a well made canned food (not a cheap one, either). With these foods as the basis of the feeding program, to which may be added cooked meats, vegetables, or other food items, the dog on vacation is not likely to have any trouble so far as diet is concerned.

ACCESSORIES. We carried with us a brush, comb, small bottle of pine oil, a one-ounce bottle of ether and alcohol, and a can of dry cleaner. The ether and alcohol solution came in handy, as a number of woodticks were picked up by the dog and had to be removed. A dab of cotton moistened with the fifty-fifty solution of alcohol and ether, and then applied to the clinging tick, makes it possible to extract such insects from the skin very easily. But don't keep the moist cotton on the tick too long; if you do it may make an irritated spot on the dog's skin, as we learned on our trip.

Since the Sealy is an all-white (or nearly all-white) breed, we also took with us a can of dry-cleaning powder. It came in handy, too, as our dog got very dirty paddling around in the mud. When his hair was dry we combed and brushed him thoroughly, worked in some of the dry cleaner, and then brushed it out of his coat, making him look clean and neat. We also carried with us two enameled pans, one for drinking water and the other for a food dish. In addition the dog's leash and collar were taken along.

INOCULATION CERTIFICATE. The dog that went with us on this trip was inoculated with rabies serum, and the veterinarian gave us a certificate stating that the animal had been so treated and was in good health. Some states require this procedure or they won't permit dogs to enter the state.

The Question Box

My dog has fits at night. Will you tell me what to do for her? She has a good appetite. M. S.

It would be advisable to have a veterinarian examine your dog. Treatment doubtless will remove the cause of the fits.

Some time ago I saw a picture of a dog named a Stratoshire terrier. Isn't this the same as a pit bull? E. E.

You must mean tne Staffordshire terrier. We never heard of a "Stratoshire." The Staffordshire is the comparatively new recognized A. K. C. name for the breed known as the pit bull.

Do you have charts in your possession showing how to strip a Sealyham terrier? If you have one, will you please send it to me or give me information on such a chart? J. A. R.

This department has no free charts or booklets showing how to strip a dog. But we are writing you about a small book that gives directions on how to strip and groom all terriers.

As the owner of a well bred but vivacious wire-haired terrier I have some questions to ask you. Although my dog performs certain stock tricks, he insists on taking his own time when I call him to come in from the street. Can you suggest any device that will be helpful in this problem? Also my dog has what you might call "flying ears." Can something be done to correct this condition? C. B. M.

It is quite easy to explain why your dog does not come in from the street when you call. He doesn't respect your command. The only way he will respect your commands is to train him to do so. Obedience training is needed so he will learn to come when called, sit down when told, and otherwise behave like a gentleman. It is possible for owners to train their own dogs in obedience, but not many do it. One may have a trainer give a dog that training. We suggest that you have a professional terrier handler or a veterinarian examine your dog's ears to see what may be done.

Waggy and Sammy, the two well groomed wire-haired terriers in this picture, apparently have been taught all the tricks of posing for Hollywood cameramen. Their owner is Mary Carlisle, motion picture actress. The wire-hair continues to be one of America's most popular terrier breeds.

(Tribune photo.)

One of the steps in teaching a dog to sit down. The trainer takes the dog by the collar with the left hand, gives the command "sit" or "down," and then presses firmly on the flank of the animal to make it assume a sitting position. This dog is a golden retriever, a sporting breed that is becoming more popular with hunters every year.

This champion bulldog, Vindex Valdaster, faces the camera as if he knew all about his many triumphs in the show ring. He is owned by P. E. Belting.

Strange Japanese Logic

Provides Atonement for Very Practical 'Sins'

The creative, practical west and the passive spiritualism of the east clash in Japan as they do nowhere else. You hear the humming of streamlined trains and hydroelectric power stations a few blocks from the tolling of ancient temple bells.

The west maintains that it is beneficial to eat meat. Japan agrees. Buddha teaches that it is sinful to kill. Japan likewise agrees. So Japan goes on slaughtering cattle and erects altars in the slaughterhouses where prayers are said as animals are dispatched.

The question may be asked: Why do the Japanese, having decided to follow the west, still stick to the teachings of the east, which are incompatible with the practices of the west? The answer is that a time comes when all people must think of death. Buddhism promises nirvana to all who become its followers. This is a comforting thought to Japanese who grow old and commence to think of the world beyond. Buddhism offers a wonderful attraction to dying people.

Most Japanese are married according to the rites of Shinto, the religion of ancestor worship. The majority of families having children celebrate Christmas. Everybody eats meat. But 90 per cent of the Japanese people die Buddhists, or at least have Buddhist services performed at their funerals.

There are two kinds of kuyo. In the first, according to the high priest of Zojoji, only Buddhist priests participate. These services are conducted once or twice each week. The second form of kuyo is conducted less frequently, usually at the request of persons desiring to appease the souls of objects, animate and inanimate, which have been sacrificed to benefit mankind.

Two hundred fifty cooks in the restaurants of Yamaguchi prefecture in southern Japan recently inaugurated a kuyo for the fish and fowl they handle in preparing dishes. The mass consisted of the reading of Buddhist sutras (rules) by a score of priests and the burning of incense by the cooks. After this several hundred fish were released into the ocean and a few score of chickens let loose on a nearby thickly wooded hill.

A few years ago the public health department of the metropolitan police board conducted a kuyo for 100,000 dogs which the police had killed as a measure to prevent the spread of rabies.

Another strange kuyo was that held for animals victimized for medical purposes at the Institute for Research in Infectious Diseases. Some three million patient had benefited from serum obtained from these victims. A monolith with an appropriate inscription commemorates the holding of the mass within the inclosure of the institute.

Likewise a stone monolith is found in the grounds of the Zokusenji temple in Shimoda, where the first American envoy to Japan, Cyrus Townsend Harris, made his headquarters. It was erected on the spot where the first cow was killed in Japan to supply meat for the American diplomat. It is in honor of all cows sacrificed for food. A kuyo is held at the temple annually.

Another popular kuyo is that for cats. From time immemorial the skins of cats have been used to make the samisen, the three-stringed banjolike instrument used by geisha girls. A stone tablet has been erected in the Tamagawa recreation ground in Tokio, and a kuyo is performed from time to time, attended by many geisha girls and other public entertainers.

One of the strangest kuyos is that for the housefly, carrier of diseases and the enemy of man. Some years ago a chemist named Imatsu invented a particularly effective insecticide. His product was cheap and soon became a household necessity. Through its use housewives killed millions upon millions of flies each year, and Imatsu soon amassed a large fortune.

He is a Buddhist. Buddha teaches that it is a sin to kill any living creature. In olden times Imatsu undoubtedly would have had to stop killing flies or stop being a Buddhist. Today, thanks to the kuyo, he is able to sell more and better insecticide to the housewives of the country and still feel assured of passing on to nirvana when he dies.

Another ceremony along the same lines as the mass for houseflies is that staged by Kokichi Mikimoto, the culture pearl king. Mikimoto invented a process to cultivate pearls in oysters. In obtaining the pearls, however, the lives of the oysters had to be sacrificed.

Millions of bivalves have been killed to enrich the pearl king, who is now 80 years old. Mikimoto a few years ago started to think about what he had done to the poor oysters. So he summoned the priests of one of the largest temples in the country to perform a kuyo. It was a gigantic affair. The whole town of Toba, where Mikimoto keeps his pearl farm, took part in the services. Prayers were said to solace the souls of the bivalves, and the priests assured Mikimoto that the oysters understood.

This heartened the pearl king, for it meant that he could pass on to his nirvana without any hitch. He was so tickled, in fact, that he went so far as to buy a coffin and reherse his funeral.

Another strange kuyo is that performed for mosquitoes one slaps to death. Usually it is the custom for the sponsors to deliver an address praising the object for which the ceremony is held. Even in the case of the mass for houseflies it was possible to say a few good words. They brought fortune to Imatsu.

But mosquitoes! No one could think of anything good to say for these pests. Not even mosquito net makers, who were among those who attended the kuyo. These people claimed their product did not take the lives of mosquitoes, but rather saved them, so it was not so much the net makers who should be thankful as the mosquitoes.

Mr. Mikimoto delivering a tribute to oysters.

A public kuyo is held by the reading of sutras in which from one to a hundred priests take part simultaneously, and the burning of incense by those attending the ceremony. Each person walks up to the altar, bows humbly, picks up three pinches of incense, and scatters this over the incense bowl. After bowing again he steps back one or two steps before turning about to walk to his seat.

Laymen are unable to understand the sutras, which are read in Hindu or Chinese, but, according to the high priest of Zojoji, it is not necessary for those attending a ceremony to understand what the priests are saying. The people who go to a kuyo know why they are there. The reading of sutras is a mere formality, he explained.

Kuyos for fish and cattle are attended not so much by people who eat them as by fishermen and stockyards owners and hands. Such persons usually go to a temple in a group and ask that a mass be held. They pray for the appeasement of the souls of the creatures they have killed.

According to the high priest of Zojoji, Buddha teaches that there is life in everything, animate and inanimate. Supposing a cooked fish is brought before one at a meal. It may be dead according to the interpretation of the western mind, but according to Buddha it has life, the priest explained.

"Supposing," I asked, "I were to eat that fish. What becomes of its life then?"

"In that case," the high priest calmly answered, "the fish is inside you. It becomes a part of you by being transformed into your blood, flesh, and bones. The fish still lives, although in a different form."

"Would you then say," I asked, "that a person who eats a fish becomes the nirvana of that fish?"

"Nirvana," the high priest replied, "is the loss of all personal consciousness by absorption into the divine."

That was all the satisfaction I could get from him.

As already has been noted, kuyos are held for inanimate as well as animate objects. Some years ago Sugiyama, a well known ethnologist, thought it would be a splendid thing for girls to hold a mass in honor of dolls they had discarded. This idea was favorably received by the citizens of Tokio, and it has been the custom during the last few years to hold a doll kuyo each year.

Likewise masses of appeasement are held for hundreds of other inanimate objects. Some of these are cited by the writer Wada Eisaku. Users of brushes for caligraphy and drawing, he notes, hold a kuyo for their discarded implements as an expression of their sense of indebtedness. There are, he says, ceremonies for chopsticks, morning glories, needles, and umbrellas.

More popular nowadays than masses for caligraphy brushes are those held for wornout type by newspaper printers. At a recent kuyo one of those present rose and paid the following tribute:

"We acknowledge publicly the useful service type has rendered in the progress of culture, and we wish to cultivate the proper sense of respect for this instrument, which is invaluable for the dissemination of knowledge."

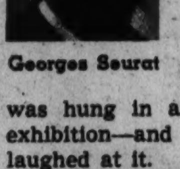
It can hardly be said that a kuyo is primarily held to seek atonement. Rather it is a ceremony of thanksgiving and is so regarded by most Japanese. Their feeling toward things which have been of service to them is much the same as that of Babe Ruth for his favorite bat or of Carey Orr for his drawing desk.

Two Great Painters—Seurat and Sully

EARLY in the 1880s a young Paris artist of the name of Georges Seurat decided to put on canvas the gayety of a holiday on La Grande Jatte, an island in the Seine. Unwittingly, with that decision he conceived a masterpiece.

In none of his work did Seurat ever strive for less than perfection. Before he began the actual painting of this picture, "Sunday Afternoon on the Island of La Grande Jatte," he spent two years in preparation, making drawings and oil sketches by dozens, planning the design of his canvas bit by bit.

No less laborious was the actual execution of the picture. Seurat was to become the chief exponent of a school of painting known as pointillism, which is to say that he applied color to his canvas tediously in countless rounded, detached dots. "La Grande Jatte" was his first major venture in the new technique.

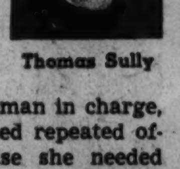


Georges Seurat

For months the artist worked with infinite painstaking, yet furiously. When at last the picture was finished it was hung in an impressionist exhibition—and academic Paris laughed at it.

Still unrenowned, Seurat died in 1891 at the age of 31. But from the hereafter he was to have the last laugh. As years went by his work gradually won recognition, not because he was a pointillist but because he was a great painter; and today he is reckoned one of the masters of his century.

In 1920 Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Clay Bartlett of Chicago chanced upon "La Grande Jatte," then hanging in a Paris shop, and determined to have it. The woman in charge, the owner, refused repeated offers, but, because she needed money for an invalid son, sold it to the Bartletts for $20,000.



Thomas Sully

In 1925 Mr. Bartlett presented the painting to the Art Institute of Chicago. Five years later a French syndicate offered $400,000 for it, but the institute refused to sell. The canvas is now considered one of the ten greatest paintings in the Art institute's collections.

Such in brief is the story of the larger of the two paintings reproduced on the front page of the picture section today.

"The Torn Hat," reproduced beneath "La Grande Jatte," was painted in the first half of the last century by Thomas Sully, one of the greatest American artists of that period. Sully's own son was the model. There is an appealing quality in the painting which makes it a timeless portrait of a typical American boy, wherefore it is a perennial favorite at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

Career Girls Must Watch Health

By ELEANOR NANGLE

WOMEN don't stand the strain of working day in and day out as men do. The records show they bog down under it. Where the average man seems to bloom when his is a responsible position, the average woman finds it enervating over a period of years.

There is, of course, no place in business for the woman whose health is below par. And, the state of the world being what it is, women must work. There's only one answer. The "Saturday's child who must work for a living" needs a health program. If she keeps up her health she'll work better, her emotional balance will be better, and she can keep her job longer.

The working girl will, if she's wise, organize her daily life. She must live according to schedule. She can't skimp on the time it takes to dress, to eat properly, to get in enough sound sleep. She must plan her day to include exercise, relaxation, leisurely good meals, fresh air—and an eight-hour day of hard work. If she does the former she can take the latter in an easy, even stride.

The women who take their jobs too seriously are most prone to make the mistake of forsaking all other interests and of neglecting physical and mental health. If a job means a great deal to you the most sensible thing is to keep fit for it. Work hard, but learn to forget business when you close your typewriter. Play out in the fresh air every chance you get. Go to bed before midnight each working day; get up early enough to take the time you need. And when you pop out of bed run right for the window for ten minutes of exercise.

Organize your life down to each half hour of your day. You can have a career—and you won't pay for it with ill health.

2 Below: Don't grab a sandwich and coffee. The working woman should eat nutritious and leisurely lun

3 Above: Efficiency, emotional balance, and perfect health are required of the girl who works for a living.

4 All work and no play make Jill an ailing neurotic, and she won't last long in the business world. The fatigue and nervous strain of a responsible job are counteracted by exercise in the fresh air, provided the exercise is taken sanely, with plenty of relaxation.

(Tribune Studio photos.)

5 The health program of the woman who must work for a living demands that each day be on a schedule that includes good food, exercise, fresh air, and plenty of sleep. She should go to bed at a regular, reasonable hour, preferably taking a relaxing warm bath first.

"Eat Your Cake"

By MARY MEADE

VERY different are feather spice cake and raisin pound cake, though both are made by the butter cake method. The spice cake is a fluffy layer affair that tastes a little of molasses, cinnamon, and cloves. The pound cake is heavier and richer. It's a modern, accurate version of the true old-fashioned pound cake.

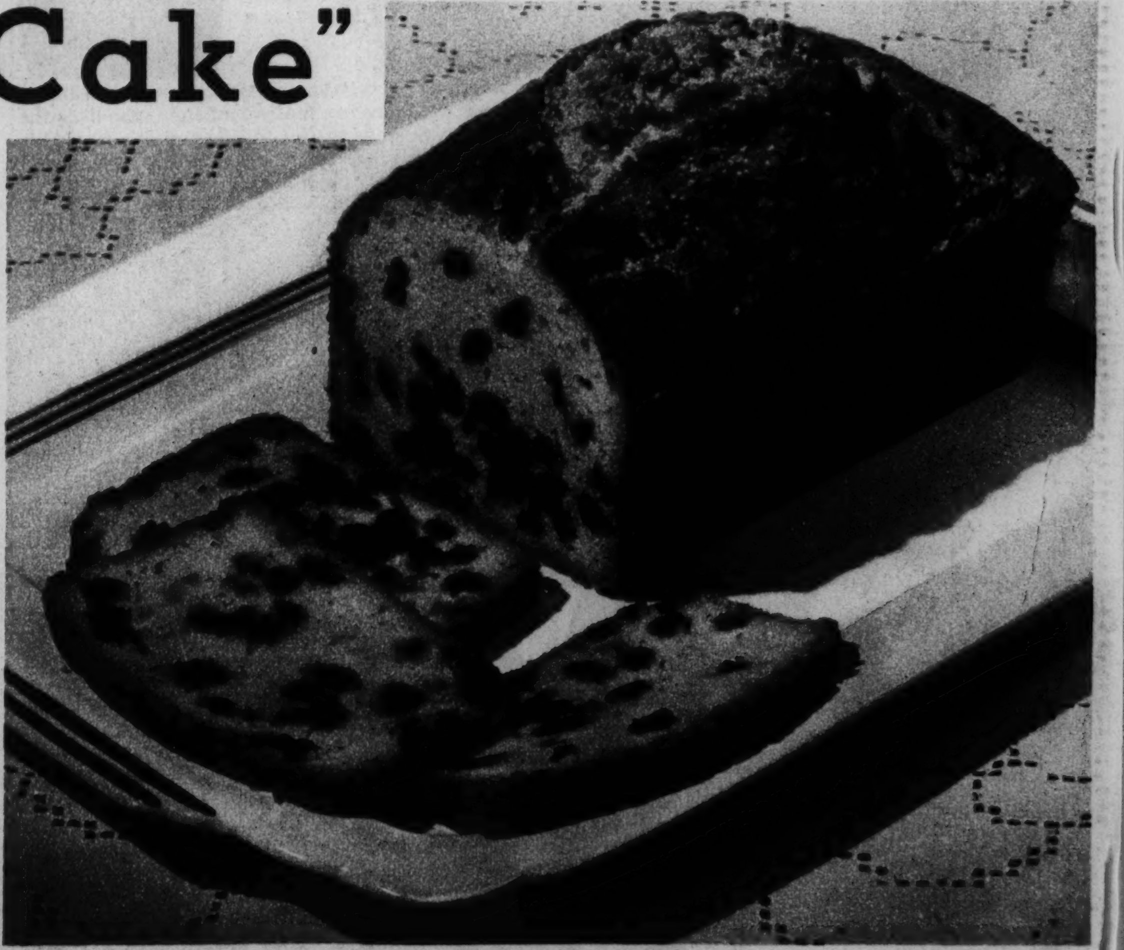
RAISIN POUND CAKE

1½ cups raisins
1 pound butter (2 cups)
1 pound sugar (2 cups)
1 teaspoon mace
9 eggs (approximately 1 pound)
1 pound all-purpose flour (4¼ cups)
1 teaspoon lemon extract
1 teaspoon vanilla

Rinse raisins in hot water, drain, and dry on a towel. Cream butter until fluffy, add sugar and mace, and beat until thoroughly blended. Add egg yolks, which have been beaten until thick and lemon colored. Mix well. Add half the flour and mix. Add raisins, flavorings, and rest of flour and mix until smooth. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour batter into a paper-lined loaf pan about 10x5x3 inches in size. Bake in a rather slow oven, 325 degrees, for two hours and fifteen minutes, or longer, and test.

The spice cake is less expensive, since it requires only ½ cup butter and 2 eggs for two layers. I've printed several other spice cake recipes recently, so won't include this one here. It's available in mimeographed form, however, for any reader who wants a copy. A recipe for fluffy mocha frosting is included with the cake recipe. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune, if you'd like it. If you'd rather have a whole booklet of splendid cake recipes and methods, along with instructions for mixing cakes with the electric mixer, my booklet, "Baking the Perfect Cake," is available at 23 cents the copy. Please send stamps instead of coin.

Feather spice cake is best when filled and spread with a fluffy mocha frosting. Chopped nuts may be pressed into the soft icing to make the cake unusually delectable.



This raisin pound cake was made from a modernized version of an old-fashioned recipe. A pound of butter, a pound of sugar, and a pound of flour go into it.

Yes, very wise—because her laxative has "exercising action"

"WHAT a wonderful change in Connie," all her friends are saying. "She's the picture of health these days."

Yet, not so long ago, Connie hardly ever felt really well. There seemed to be no way to solve her constipation problem. She suffered from "nerves"... felt sluggish and tired.

Then a friend begged her to try Saráka*—the laxative with "exercising action". Connie bought a tin from her druggist. What a pleasant surprise to find how agreeable Saráka was to take.

The Saráka tin is filled with tiny brown granules. You measure out a teaspoonful—then swallow a few granules at a time while drinking a glass of water.

After passing through the stomach, the Saráka granules absorb water. Gradually they e-x-p-a-n-d. And turn into soft, smooth Bulk.

And that bulk helps explain Saráka's "exercising action". You know how outdoor sports build up your body ... Saráka tones up your intestinal muscles by giving them gentle internal exercise.

But Saráka gives you more than bulk—you get Bulk Plus Motility.* For Saráka contains a specially treated cortex frangula which stimulates intestinal muscles to get busy and do their work more thoroughly.

Results of this perfectly balanced action are not violent... or embarrassingly urgent. Most users recall their healthy youth when constipation was a thing never thought of.
